AT LAKE PROVIDENCE

Gov. Earl Long Receives Mixed Reaction In Area

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Gov Earl K. Long received cheers and boos from an estimated crowd of 4,000 persons at the Miss Louisiana beauty pageant held here last night.

Scheduled to arrive at 8 P. M. Long pulled up an hour late in a sleek sedan driven by J. M. "Pete" Menefee of Monroe.

'They had me dead, crazy, nutty," said Long. "I wanted you to see me for yourself.

Long was handed the mike during intermission and quickly said that he would appear later to make a political address. While the pageant continued the sick governor sat by Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, Ponchatula, and State Rep. W. Spencer Myrick, Oak Grove.

FOUR SPEECHES

He came here after making four July 4th speeches, kicking off his bid for a fourth term in office - - - addressing crowds at Ville Platte, Eunice, Cameron and Lake Arthur. Long embarked on his campaign against the advice of his six doctors who said that he needed rest.

Long flew from southwest Louisiana and landed in Monroe where he was met by Menefee and A. K. Kilpatrick, two of his staunch Monroe supporters.

Menefee, who quit the chairmanship of the racing commission and the wildlife directorship during Long's physical breakdown said the governor was "calm and all right."

Menefee added "He's awfully tired, exhausted."

In addition to Menefee and Kilpatrick Long was accompanied by Dr. Paul Pratt, his New Orleans psychiatrist, and Dick Davis, a colleague.

Long said, "I'm happy to be in Lake Providence to attend this pageant where there are the prettiest girls in any pageant that I have ever attended.

Demos Rate Gas Tax Hike Chances Even

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's motorists now stand about a 50-50 chance of being hit with an increase in the federal tax on gasoline this summer, key congressional Democrats said Saturday.

The revenue would be used to help finance the interstate highway program which faces a dificit.

Prospects for a tax increase seemed remote only a few weeks ago. But chances for its enactment have been growing as a result of the new strong-arm tactics President Eisenhower is using to prod Congress into action. The President is opposed to financing highways with treasury general funds as some lawmakers have proposed.

TALK OF HIKE

Democratic leaders agreed there still is no chance that Congress will grant in full the President's request for an increase of 1½ cents a gallon in the existing three cents a gallon federal tax.

However, a number of influential House Democrats believe the chances now are even-stephen that Congress will wind up approving some increase, probably no more than ½ cent a gallon, but possibly as much as ¾ cents.

Some of Speaker Sam Rayburn's top legislative lieutenants are now advising him to launch a congressional drive for enactment of such compromise legislation despite the strong opposition voiced by organized motorists, truckers and many state governments.

Rayburn does not relish the idea but the argument for it being advanced by some of his advisers may persuade him to change his mind.

These Democrats contend that

MARY MILLS HAWKINS

STATE TITLE

Beauty Laurels To Miss Hawkins

By RECA JONES
State Editor

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Miss Baton Rouge, Mary Mills Hawkins, was crowned Miss Louisiana of 1959 by Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, before a crowd of approximately 4,000 including Gov. Earl K. Long at Lake Providence last night.

First runner up was Queen Dixie Gem IX, Patricia Ann Kavanaugh of Ruston, while second runner up was Miss Louisiana Tech, Anita Sue Thomasson of Bossier City.

Miss Hawkins was also selected as "Miss Congeniality" while "Miss Cenla," Marilyn Louise Clark, was named "Most Talented."

SPONSORS

The Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the 10th Annual Pageant.

The statuesque winner is 22 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Hawkins of Lake Village, Ark. She graduated from LSU this year.

She played a piano selection from Chopin as her talent.

Miss Louisiana stands 5 foot 6 inches tall, weighs 117 and has an hour-glass figure of 36-23-36.

She was in the "Homecoming Court" at LSU during 1957 and was a member of the Delta Debutante Club, National Honor Society, and was among the top 5 graduating from LSU.

Miss Hawkins was the crowd's favorite.

The five finalists include: Miss

Blast Levels Union's Hall In Kentucky

ISOM, Ky. (AP) — A United Mine Workers Union hall was blown to splinters near here Saturday and moments later a bomb was tossed in the front yard of a union leaders's home.

None was hurt in either explosion, or in others which echoed throughout the predawn from the surrounding eastern Kentucky hills.

The blast which leveled the union hall at Red Star was believed the first which has destroyed UMW property among the numerous explosions which have marked the union's 17-week-old strike.

The one-room hall was the meeting place of UMW Local 9862.

BOMB TOSSED

Police said a bomb was tossed from a car in front of the home of the local's secretary, Sam Fields. It did little damage, police said. The blasts happened about 1 a.m.

Fields, 65, was the local's first president and accepted the first UMW charter in Letcher County in 1947.

He has been a leader in UMW efforts to sign about 700 truck mines to a 1959 union contract calling for a $2 a day pay rise to $24.25 and a clause prohibiting operators from handling nonunion coal.

Before a federal court order May 4 banned the UMW from picketing, Fields walked the picket line daily. He gave this reason: "I spent 47 years in the mines. I don't plan to throw it all away now. The only way we have to go without a contract is down. I'll

Chief Claims Delay Hikes Fire Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fire Chief Joseph H. Clements of Arlington County, Va., said Saturday his men could have confined the fire which damaged part of the Pentagon and wrecked computing equipment valued at six million dollars if they had been called earlier.

DELAY COSTLY

Clements said 34 minutes elapsed between the time an internal alarm was sounded at the Pentagon Thursday morning and the time fire officials of Arlington County were notified.

In the meantime, the Pentagon's own fire-fighting forces and other government equipment stationed a short distance away had been put into operation.

Clements said that if he had been notified more promptly, he would have "sent four companies in there and it would have been a minor fire." As it was, 71 pieces of equipment from Virginia, Maryland and Washington were called out before the stubborn blaze was subdued.

The Pentagon, headquarters of the Defense Department, is located in Arlington County, just across the river from Washington.

The major damage from the fire was to three electronic data processing machines which the Air Force rented from the International Business Machines Corp., for about $2,400,000 a year. Their cost was estimated at between

Enroute To Fight Duel

Argentine Vice President Issac Rojas turns to talk with a friend while seated in car in Buenos Aires Saturday. Rojas was enroute to secret dueling grounds 25 miles from the Argentine capital where he and Parliament deputy Roberto Galeano exchanged shots. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Buenos Aires)

EXCHANGE SHOTS TWICE

Officials Stage Argentina Duel

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Former Vice President Issac Rojas and a deputy in the Argentine Parliament, Roberto Galeano, exchanged shots twice in a duel Saturday, but neither was hit.

The duelists fired their pistols off target to save honor. They staged an elaborate evasion of pursuing police who tried to prevent the illegal duel.

Rojas, a retired admiral known as the "Black Ant" in Argentine politics, had been accused by Galeano of being a "lackey" of former dictator Juan D. Peron and Peron's late wife, Eva. He challenged Galeano, a former member of the Argentine Olympic pistol team, to a duel.

PERON OFFICER

Galeano is an ardent member of President Arturo Frondizi's Radical party. Rojas was a high naval officer under Peron, but later joined those who overthrew the dictator. Rojas then became vice president.

Recently Rojas joined military officers seeking the overthrow of the Frondizi government. Rojas declared Frondizi should resign.

The former admiral, dressed in a black overcoat, and Galeono, wearing a black suit with a white handkerchief in the breast pocket, faced each other at 20 paces at an isolated country estate 25 miles outside Buenos Aires.

They fired one round harmlessly. Eleven minutes later the duel

Road Travel Is Heaviest In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll ran slightly below safety officials' estimates Saturday night, in the first 26 hours of the 52-hour July Fourth weekend. This was despite highway traffic which a National Safety Council spokesman said probably was the heaviest in the nation's history.

"The trend is encouraging," the spokesman said, "and is running under the toll at the comparable time on Memorial Day."

HOLIDAY DEATHS

Drownings	92

The council has estimated that 350 persons may be killed in motor vehicle accidents in the period that began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Sunday. Deaths numbered 310 on the recent Memorial Day weekend—a two-day observance.

A number of multiple death traffic accidents boosted the Independence Day toll.

A car and truck collided near Decatur, Ill. late Saturday killing four persons.

Two automobiles collided near Petersburg, Va., killing three persons.

A head-on crash of two cars near Lunenburg, Vt., cost three lives. Another collision, on a country road near Big Sandy, Mont., killed three youths.

A freight train killed three men on a railroad track near Danville, Va.

One of the worst accidents occurred on the water. A cabin cruiser collided with a car ferry and sank in Lake Michigan near Muskegon, Mich. Three persons

Charles Bruce, Winnsboro, Rt. 2, was wading in the creek when he stepped into a hole and disappeared.

His bride of a year had remained on the bank. She summoned her father, John McMurray, who was fishing around the bend of the creek.

The Franklin parish sheriff's department was notified, and deputies Homer Hodges, I. J. Wiggins and Pete Waller rushed to the scene.

They arrived as Clayton Winter was bringing Bruce's body to shore. He had been under water for 30 minutes.

Artificial respiration was given but Dr. Sam Carrier pronounced him dead and listed the cause as accidental drowning.

Minutes before he drowned, Bruce mentioned that he hadn't been swimming for two years.

In addition to his widow, his survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bruce Sr., Route 2, Winnsboro and two brothers, J. E. Bruce Jr. Ferriday and Leo Bruce, Winnsboro, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Az Bruce, Winnsboro; maternal grandmoth-

Salesman Held For Abduction

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Douglas Dedeaux, a husky auto salesman who allegedly abducted his former wife from her home early Thursday, was arrested Saturday after she got away from him and notified police.

Hinds County deputies said Dedeaux had held Mrs. Marian Dedeaux at the vacated home of a friend he knew was out of town for a two-week vacation. Mrs. Dedeaux said she slipped out of the house just north of here when Dedeaux fell asleep.

Help Offers Flood Father Of Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—Nath B. Miller Saturday considered an offer of a new life for his family. The only stipulation was that he keep his week-old triplet girls who the money-poor hired hand said he might offer for adoption.

Mrs. Miller and the girls, Glenda, Brenda and Linda, seemed oblivious to the furor caused since the 55-year-old Miller announced Thursday he might offer the babies for adoption, to gain for them a better life than he could offer on his $25-a-week pay.

At the Southport hospital where mother and babies were reported doing fine, officials said they were besieged by telegrams and phone calls from over the United States offering financial help to the Millers or to adopt the babies.

One official said there was a steady flow of people wanting to see the girls. "We just don't have the staff to keep a nurse on duty to show the triplets," he said.

The Millers have three other children, Peggy, 17; Frances, 15, and Jimmy, 12. In addition to his $25 weekly salary, the gaunt, deeply tanned Miller receives $15 monthly as a disability payment

Hospital Room For Long Here

Campaigning Gov. Earl K. Long was due in at the St. Francis hospital here early this morning, to "spend the night."

He flew here from Crowley aboard an Air Force C-47 at 8:10 p.m.

A. K. Kilpatrick and J. M. "Pete" Menefee welcomed him.

Kilpatrick then called St. Francis hospital from Selman Field and made arrangements to reserve "the biggest and the best" room at St. Francis hospital for the ailing governor. He also requested flowers.

"We want plenty of room," commented Kilpatrick.

Five minutes later, Long climbed into a large sedan, accompanied by Kilpatrick, Menefee and his doctor, Dr. Paul Pratt, New Orleans psychiatrist.

Two state police cars escorted his auto away from the airport, and he was given a continuous state police escort from here to Lake Providence.

His route went through Epps and Delhi.

Freakish Bolt Strikes Beach, Three Injured

INDIAN ROCK BEACH, Fla. UPI—A freak lightning bolt struck a holiday beach Saturday, scattering bathers and sending three teen-age boys to hospitals.

Treated for electrical shock were Robert Borcuki, 13, of nearby St. Petersburg; Clyde Kelly, 18, Indian Rock Beach; and Thomas Baughan III, 14, of Largo, All were reported in satisfactory condition.

Witnesses said the bolt ripped down from an overcast sky shortly before noon. Most bathers had left the waters earlier when a light rain began to fall and were sitting under beach umbrellas.

Electricity in the immediate area was knocked out by the lightning.

An elderly man in a raincoat sitting near the boys who were hospitalized said it was lucky all were not killed.

"The raincoat must have saved me," he said. "I didn't know what hit us."

Thundershowers Loom For Area

Monroe area residents may look for partly cloudy skies today through tonight and tomorrow with scattered, mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Yesterday's high was 93, low was 71, compared with Friday's temperature readings of 88 and 71. Today's temperatures may be expected to rise slightly over the past few days.

Arkansas readers may look for partly cloudy skies through tomorrow with no important temperature changes. Today's high should be in the 88-92 range.

Gov. Long's Car In Crash, 3 Are Hurt

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — Gov Earl Long's limousine smashed into a skidding pickup truck near Jennings Saturday night. The governor was not in the car at the time, but attorney Joe Arthur Sims received a broken arm and commerce and industry department director Curt Siegelin an injured leg.

Long left Lake Arthur in a state police car with the limousine trailing him on the way to the Jennings airport to catch a Louisiana Air National Guard plane for Lake Providence. The governor was expected to make an appearance at the finals of the Miss Louisiana contest at Lake Providence.

State troopers said David Bell, the governor's cousin, and Joe Anselmo, the limousine's driver, were the other passengers in the limousine.

The driver of the pickup truck, identified as Ellrey Janice, about 40, from Welsh, La., was treated at the American Legion hospital in Jennings. Doctors said they did not believe his condition critical.

Long apparently was unaware of the accident. The state police car in which he was riding had passed the pickup truck only seconds before the crash.

New Chief Says Gambling To End

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana's new state superintendent of police, Col. E. P. Roy, has declared war on gambling.

Col. Roy, who succeeded fired Supt. John Nick Brown, announced Saturday gambling will be closed down tight throughout the state and that there will be no exceptions.

Business Places Demolished By $500,000 Fire

BEDFORD, Va. (AP)—A rampaging fire raced through a portion of the downtown business district of this south-central Virginia town Saturday, demolishing three stores and damaging a fourth.

Firemen from about 10 communities within a 60-mile radius of this town of 5,000 fought the blaze in 90-degree heat for about an hour and a half before bringing it under control. For a time the blaze threatened to spread to other buildings.

There were no injuries but six firemen were overcome by the heat and smoke. Three required the services of a rescue squad.

B. H. Milton, Bedford fire chief, estimated damages at $500,000. The amount covered by insurance was not determined. Early reports had said an entire block was involved in the fire.

The fire apparently began in a partition separating a clothing store and a feed store. From there it spread to a third adjoining firm, a farmers supply store which collapsed. It jumped one street and seared the roof and broke windows in a fourth store.

Dog Pack Kills Second Child, 2

NOVINGER, Mo. (UPI) — A group of vicious dogs, believed pets of an elderly neighbor woman, chewed a youngster to death Saturday, the state's second child killing by dog packs within six weeks.

Killed was Kevin Shockey, 2, attacked by the dogs in a brush-grown alleyway in this partly-deserted mining town.

On May 23, a pack of wild dogs killed Mark D. Draper, also 2, in an area only 75 yards behind his home in suburbn St. Louis.

Kevin died in a Kirksville, Mo., hospital. Adair County Sheriff Olin E. Johnson said there were no witnesses to the attack but it was "evident he was badly torn by dogs."

Johnson said one of Kevin's legs was "badly chewed" and the youngster had been "bitten all over his body."

EXHIBITED OVER CENTURY

Museum Discovers Masterpiece Fake

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A painting that was supposed to be a Spanish masterpiece has been removed from the Vatican's famed museum as a fake. It had hung in the museum for more than 100 years.

The picture, "The Mystic Marriage of St. Catherine," was attributed by art experts over the years to the 17th century Spanish painter, Bartolome Esteban Murillo. It is listed in most books on 17th century art.

Prof. Deoclecio Redig de Campos, the Vatican's leading art expert, said Saturday the painting had been removed because "beyond any doubt it was a counterfeit."

The picture was presented to Pope Pus IX by Queen Christine of Spain in 1850. Until its removal last week it had hung almost continuously in a special section of the museum reserved for 17th century masterpieces. It left the Vatican only on a few occasions to be displayed in other parts of Italy and Europe.

The painting depicts the Virgin Mary holding the infant Jesus who is handing a gold ring to St. Catherine.

A similar but unfinished painting by Murillo is kept in the Capuchin church of Cadiz, Spain. Murillo fell from a scaffolding while painting it in Seville and suffered injuries from which he died two years later in 1682.

Prof. de Campos said he discovered that the painting in the Vatican was a fake while undertaking some restoration work. He

ON ENTERING CONTEST

Beauty To Ignore Church Objections

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—New Mexico's red-haired entry in the Miss Universe contest put in a quiet day at work Saturday as the storm over her decision to enter the contest continued.

She decided to enter the contest over the objections of her church. The New Mexico archdiocese of the Catholic Church said it would deny her the sacraments of confession and Communion if she entered the contest.

Miss Sue Ingersoll, 20-year-old beauty, worked along at her job as a beauty parlor operator at a downtown Albuquerque hotel.

"I decided several weeks ago to work today," she said. "there's no other reason why I worked today."

"But I wish the phone calls would stop. I'm not home today and the phone callers keep bothering my mother. She has no opinion either way and I wish they'd leave her along," she said.

"My family will not be affected since I am going into the contest against their wishes," she said. "I will be denied the sacraments of confession and Communion."

Her mother, Mrs. H. O. Ingersoll is a Catholic; her father is not.

"Most of the people who came in the shop today agreed with my decision to enter the contest. And I've had a few calls and most of them agreed with my decision," she said.

referee ordered a second round. Rojas' pistol failed to go off. Galeano hesitated and did not fire.

The referee substituted pistols and again ordered a second round. This time both men shot, but neither was hit.

As the duelists were standing ready for a third round with pistols cocked, the referee suspended the duel. He said he had received word that police were approaching.

Under Argentina's dueling tradition, when a pistol fails to fire it is considered a round. The men were scheduled to fire four rounds. The duel therefore ended one short.

The friends of both men said, however, the duel was considered to have been completed with the honor of both saved. However, there was no reconciliation between them.

Before the duel actually was fought, false reports had circulated that Rojas and Galeano had been wounded. A naval source then denied this report and said the men were going to neighboring Uruguay to avoid police interference with their duel.

found another picture, showing a landscape, underneath.

"Through chemical tests," said De Campos, "we found that the Landscape had been painted near the end of the 17th century. But we could tell that the colors in the landscape used were exposed to the air for at least a hundred years. Therefore the painting attributed to Murillo could not have been made before the end of the 18th century. That was about a hundred years after his death."

De Campos said it was impossible to determine who the artist was. "But he must have been a very skilled painter. He did it so well no one noticed it was false until we decided to restore it."

De Campos did not say what had been done with the picture.

Birthdays

Birthdays at the Louisiana Baptist Childrens' Home are quite numerous this month. Here they are:

July 3 Dennis Tramel; James Hughes, July 6; Jerelene Hall, July 6; Darlene Tramel; July 9; Ivan Onellion, July 8; July 10, Stoney Williams; July 13, Harold Midyett; July 17 John Haddick and Martha Dyson; Joe Anne Awtry, July 18; July 21, Lawanna Dove, July 25, Linda Hall, July 21, Ronald Platt; July 26, Carolyn Sheppard; Sylvia Morse; July 29, Martha Shannon.

Respite

Northeast State college students and teaching staff are enjoying a three-day weekend, because of Independence day. They will have Sunday and Monday as well as last Saturday a short breathing spell from their lessons, according to President George T. Walker.

Recognition

Northeast Louisiana State College have special recognition to Walter Jordan, employee who retired on July 1 after serving nine years as night watchman.

Known affectionately by students and fellow employees as "Pop," Jordan, who had reached retirement age, was honored at an informal party given in the Student Center on the campus.

As a token of esteem in which they have held him, faculty and staff friends planned a surprise feature, a gift which was presented by Hurvie Moak, superintendent of buildings. The package contained a handsome bill fold which revealed another surprise in the form of several crisp bills to purchase " something that he had been wanting for a long time."

Moak paid generous tribute to Jordon for his splendid service and constant interest in the welfare of the college. Several years ago he was the only person on duty at night but "I never encountered serious trouble during my affiliation with Northeast," "Pop" said.

Both Moak and President George T. Walker commended Jordan for his conscientious attitude in carrying out his duty on the campus.

But "Pop" plans to be occupied even after retirement. "I'll take it easy for a while," he said, "then I'll get busy on some kind of job."

Jordan and his wife have a married daughter, Mrs. Louise Clark of Plain Dealing, a son, James Claude Jordan Jr. of Monroe, and eleven grandchildren.

At Home

Friends of Mrs. W. N. Clark will be glad to hear that she is home at 1600 N. 3rd St. after undergoing an operation. She welcomes visitors.

To Star

A former Northeast State graduate, Betty Hodge, has been selected by the Orleans Parish School board to star in a special TV series next September.

The special series will feature her in a 30-minute historical series. The series will be shown over channel eight in New Orleans and will be shown to junior high schools as a special feature.

Singing

The regular first Sunday Booster Singing will be held this afternoon beginning at 1:30 in the Booster Hall located in the 400 block of Ouachita Ave. in Monroe. A capacity attendance is anticipated and a number of leading Gospel singers will attend. There will be several well known quartets present and also a number of the leading song directors. Both the new class and convention books will be used in this singing. A number of parishes will be represented as well as South Arkansas.

She is 5 foot 7 inches tall, weighs 125 and measures 35-23-35. Entering the pagenat as "Queen Dixie Gem "IX", she has hazel eyes, dark brown hair and medium complexion.

Each of the 26 contestants participated in a parade through Lake Providence Saturday. Miss American, Mary Ann Mobley and Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, led the cavalcade.

During the afternoon, 100 boats and 40 waterskiers put on a water regatta on the lake.

In addition to the title "Miss Louisiana" and the opportunity to compete in the Miss America contest, the pageant winner received a $1,000 scholarship, an elaborate wardrobe to be worn at the Miss America contest and a wrist watch.

She was presented with a certificate for a course in charm and modeling, a trophy from the Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce, tickets to Atlantic City, New Jersey and the Miss America contest for herself and a chaperone sent by the Lake Providence Jaycees, and a gift package.

Scholarships and trophies were awarded to the contest winners: First runner up, $500 scholarship; second runner up $400; most talented. $350; Miss Congeniality, selected by the contestants, $250 scholarship.

Each contestant was presented with the key to the city and a special "Miss Louisiana charm bracelet which included a "Miss Louisiana figurine."

Judges for the event were Bruce Bennett, Arkansas attorney general from Little Rock; Sidney Gray, president of the Louisiana Municipal Association and mayor of Lake Charles; Jess Odom, president of a Little Rock insurance company; Bob Carter, Baton Rouge, state president of the Jaycees; Mrs. Paul Hewitt of Monroe; Miss Peg O'Neill, official chaperone to go to the Miss America pageant with the winner; and Mrs. Lou Fleeman of Lake Providence.

Thursday night when the pageant got underway, attendance was 1200. It rose to 2500 Friday night.

stump tour in 98-degree heat. He opened a re-election campaign that doctors fear he may never complete.

It was an amazing exhibition of stamina by a stubborn 63-year-old man who just four days ago was flat on his back as a heart case, a man who left a mental hospital just eight days ago.

From here, Long flew diagonal ly across the state 240 miles to attend a Miss Louisiana beauty pagent at Lake Providence.

"I'm not as dead as they said I was," Long boasted to his audiences in four lively speeches in southwestern Louisiana. "If I'm nuts, then I've been nuts all my life.

"There's alot of good left in this old man. I'm 63, going on 64. I want you to pray for me and I'm your governor for the next four years."

Doctors had warned Long that the rigors of this Fourth of July campaign opening might prove too much for his ailing heart, hit only last Wednesday by what was described as a slight failure.

July 4 is the traditional opening date of Louisiana's gubernatorial campaign. The Democratic primary—tantamount to re-election—is Dec. 5.

Long was unwilling to waste as much as the first single day of this five-months campaign. He was intent on perpetuating a family political dynasty — perhaps unique in American history. He seemed equally determined to vindicate himself against those who tried to label him insane.

So he came to Ville Platte, tottering up the stairs of the speaking platform on the arms of state troopers, mopping the perspiration from his brow, ready to face five opponents who also opened their campaigns in opposition to Long in the same small village.

As Long looked over the crowd of about 2,000, he knew he was among friends. This was the swamp and bayou country of fishermen, trappers and farmers—Cajun descendants of exiled Acadian French. These people understand Earl Long. Earl Long understands them, and they form a hard core of voter support that has made him Louisiana's most successful politician since his brother Huey ruled the state in the 1930s.

"When you're looking at me, you're looking at a friend," Long reminded them. His breathing seemed labored, and his chest seemed to heave beneath his white open-collared shirt and blue suspenders.

At one point, Long's false teeth popped out. But he shoved them back in place and plunged on in the typical rasping Long voice, the chords roller-coasting from low to high volume.

"I've forgot more about government than they'll ever know," he snorted.

In return, Long heard himself described as an "idiot," and a man who wrecked his health in the service of his state.

"The people can help him a lot by letting him retire," pleaded one of Long's opponents.

Insurance agency operator Gale Berry of Lake Charles, without mentioning the governor by name, said the state could not progress "as long as we elect this type of idiot to direct the state." State Comptroller William Dodd, Long's lieutenant governor in 1948, offered the belief that Long should retire.

Other gubernatorial candidtaes who spoke at the rally included New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans; state Sen. William Rainach, the state's segregation chief; and state Rep. J. Marshall Brown of New Orleans.

But Long was in his element. There are those among his friends who avow that if he must die, he insists on dying on a speaking platform. There was no stopping him Saturday. He interrupted other speakers ostensibly to bid the crowd give them respectful ear—then in the next breath lambasted one of them as "the biggest jelly bean that ever lived."

From Ville Platte, Long was driven 15 miles southwest to Eunice. There his aides got him to lie down briefly in a motel to conserve his strength. But soon Long was on his feet, his frizzled white hair glistening in the broiling sun, confiding to a new audience that had he been confined longer in a mental hospital "I would have gone crazy and died."

The governor rambled on philosophically about his estranged wife, Blanche. He blames her for his commitment that began May 30 and ended on June 26. He has sued her for separation and she has filed a countersuit.

"She's lily white and pure," Long told his audience, "but in some cases she's too good and in other cases she's too bad. Sometimes wives do strange things."

Then it was on by plane some 90 miles to Cameron, the little Gulf of Mexico hamlet so grievously devastated in a 1957 hurricane.

Operators insist the contract would bankrupt them.

Other sources said a bulldozer belonging to nonunion coal contractor Tommy Mounds was destroyed by dynamite about two hours before the union hall blast.

Police did not know of the dynamiting, and Mounds could not be reached.

Police said other explosions Saturday blew out the windows in a nearby residence and shattered the windshield of a pickup truck. They did not know the owners of either.

drowned and three were missing. All had been aboard the 24-foot cruiser.

But no fireworks deaths were reported.

Firework once caused heavy slaughter. But there have been few such deaths since World War II. The largest number in recent years was five in 1947. There were four in 1954, and one or two each year thereafter.

The big killer is the motor vehicle.

The Associated Press made a survey of accidental deaths on a weekend of the same span as the Independence Day weekend. The test period began at 6 p.m. Friday June 19 and ended at midnight June 21. Deaths numbered 240 in traffic, 70 drownings and 47 in the miscellaneous class for a total of 357.

Traffic deaths numbered 310, drownings 101 and 47 died in a variety of other accidents for an over-all toll of 458 during this year's Memorial Day weekend.

The record high traffic total for a two-day July 4th holiday is 262, set in 1953.

Demos Rate Gas Tax Hike Chances Even

President Eisenhower has made it amply clear in recent pronouncements that should Congress fail to provide additional gasoline tax revenue, he will order a slowdown in the construction of the 41,000-mile highway network — and blame the Democratic Congress for it.

"What worries me," one of Rayburn's closer advisers confides, "is that I'm sure that's what the President would do and I think he would click with the people in blaming Congress. I don't think the people would pay much attention to the arguments on the other side."

The pay-as-you-go highway program faces a financial crisis because a deficit is in prospect for the "trust fund" which finances it from highway-user taxes. Unless new legislation is enacted, the government will be unable this summer to apportion new allotments of federal grants to the states.

Some Democrats have been arguing that Congress — instead of raising taxes — should pass legislation directing that the new apportionment be made and that existing treasury revenues be used to offset the deficit when the bills begin falling due a year hence.

But Eisenhower, adopting an unusual get - tough policy with Congress, has recently indicated he would veto any such legislation.

Help Offers Flood Father Of Triplets

from the government for peacetime injuries he suffered in the Army.

The offer which attracted him the most came from Paul Jones, who has a large egg-supplying firm in Charlotte. Jones offered to send a truck for the family to bring them to Charlotte. Jones said his offer only is good if the Millers keep the triplets.

"I would be happy to give the Miller family work and a house," Jones said. "They needn't be experienced. Even if they can only pick up eggs they will be of service.

"It is terrible to think they may have to split up for want of help."

Miller said, "The offer sounds wonderful. My wife and I are delighted, but we can't make any definite decision right away."

Miller said he has a contract with Cornelius Thomas, owner of the Clarendon plantation near here where Miller works as a hired hand.

However, Thomas remarked, "I would be happy to release him from his contract. I want him to have all the help he can."

Miller said previously he and his wife would decide Monday on the future of the babies.

five and six million dollars. An IBM spokesman said all the machines were fully insured.

The Air Force said Saturday that special requirements and the constantly changing design of the machines is the reason for renting instead of owning such computer equipment.

Col. Marshall R. Gray, head of the Air Force's statistical services, said a number of other government agencies, including other military services and the Treasury, also lease data processing equipment.

In response to questions, Gray said purchase of such equipment would be advantageous if the type of work used on the machines was repetitive, doing the same kind of data processing without change. But constant new problems in Air Force design, operations and administration create changing requirements.

Gray also said computer equipment is changing so swiftly that outright government ownership would mean that obsolescent equipment would be used.

The rental cost also covers maintenance of the equipment, he said. This would be a substantial cost factor if the machines were owned by the Air Force.

The $2,400,000 rental figure covers the leasing of the three computer systems and their maintenance Friday, officials said rental costs for all IBM equipment in the statistical center is about 3½ million dollars. However, this includes equipment in addition to the computers.

Pentagon officials expect that by Monday work of the statistical center will be getting back toward normal.

Beauty To Ignore Church Objections

participating in beauty contests where contestants must appear publicly in swimming suits.

In the Miss Universe contest, entrants are required to publicly parade in bathing suits. Officials of the Pageant at Long Beach, Calif., said they would not change the rules for any Catholic entry subject to the Church's stand.

The chancery office at Santa Fe refused Saturday to say any more on the situation.

The Rev. M. J. Rodriguez, Chancellor of the archdiocese said: "You can say that the chancery office in Santa Fe absolutely declines to comment any further on the situation. What is to be gained by restating our position?"

Father Rodriguez refused to answer a list of questions one by one saying he would have no more comment. The questions concerned how long the ban had been in effect, where it was in effect and if anyone other than Miss Ingersoll had been denied the sacraments for disobeying the mandate of the church.

Beaches For Public

Tourism is one of the big businesses in many states, including Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Florida, which border on the Gulf of Mexico. One of the dangers threatening this tourist trade is that private owners or private interests will grab such a large proportion of the beaches that not enough room will be left for the public.

Under federal law, private ownership of navigable streams is prohibited and all such streams are open to public use. This law does not apply to the shores of these streams, including the oceans, gulfs and bays, with the result that a large portion of land bordering on smaller streams is privately owned and a good portion of the beaches along the shores of the oceans, gulfs and bays is under private ownership or private lease. Control of the shores rests with the states and not with the federal government, except where that government may find it necessary to expropriate land for flood protection work or some other such purpose.

It has been customary in some state to give 99-year leases on property along the gulf or ocean beaches. Such a practice is questionable for the reason that if enough such grants were made the beaches and the water which they border would eventually be closed to public use. No one has a right to keep the public from such bodies of water, any more than one nation has the right to deny other nations the right to use the oceans.

In Texas, the house conservation and reclamation committee, apparently bowing to mounting opposition by private interests, has sent the open beach bill to the attorney general for an opinion as to its constitutionality.

This is the same bill which the House passed during the first called session of the Texas legislature but which died in the Senate.

All of a sudden, some property owners facing on the open gulf have become exercised over what is described as a need for control of beaches and safeguards for beach users. These private interests say they do not want to exclude the public from the beaches but their attitude indicates that they want to control the personnel and actions of the users.

Gov. Daniel has stated that a recent court decision in the Laguna Madre case does not apply to the beaches along the gulf but asserted that the legislature should make very clear the public's right of access to the beaches.

The governor stated that the people of Texas want done whatever needs to be done to assure the public the rights they have enjoyed for more than a century.

As the Houston Chronicle noted in an editorial, when the people of Texas voted a constitutional amendment permitting use of state funds to advertise Texas they did not contemplate that "tourists thus drawn to Texas would be denied the one big tourist attraction the state has to offer."

It is high time that other gulf coast states give like consideration to this vital matter.

As time goes on, the beaches will become more and more crowded. As our population increases, people are turning more and more to the recreational facilities offered them by the beaches and the big stretches of open water. Eventually, we are certain to need all of the desirable beach locations for our own people, for tourists and vacationers.

Either the states should enact legislation making it clear that a certain distance of frontage along the entire coast of any ocean, ocean gulf or ocean bay is public property and open to the public at all times or should adopt laws to place all this property in state ownership as soon as it is feasible. The states should allow private ownership adjoining the beaches but never of the beaches themselves in such a way as to exclude the public.

This is a matter to be looked into by the conservation and reclamation departments of the various states, particularly on the gulf coast, if the principal tourist attraction of these states is to be maintained. It is vital if our recreational facilities are to be kept open.

Lukewarmers Lose

Lukewarmness on the part of many Republican candidates was the principal cause of G. O. P. defeats in the 1958 elections, in the opinion of Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), one of the most dynamic of the conservatives in Congress.

Senator Goldwater said that too many candidates feel that they have to embrace at least a part of the New Deal philosophy in order to be elected. He pointed out, however, that Republican candidates who campaigned as outright conservatives fared better than did those who tried to appease both sides.

This is not at all surprising. Those Republicans who feel that they must espouse a part of the New Deal ideology are merely mimicking the Democratic New Dealers in a small way. Voters don't like the idea of casting their ballots for a mimic. They want a candidate who has views of his own and who stands strongly for the principles in which he believes, regardless of whether they are "liberal" or conservative. Lukewarm Republicans gained few conservative votes and practically none from the more radical elements.

Since the Democratic party generally has followed along socialistic lines, although some solid members have held it to a more middle course in enacting legislation, voters want a clear-cut choice when they go to the polls. They don't want to have to choose between a New Deal Democrat and a Republican imitator of a New Deal Democrat. They want a chance to vote for a man who is conservative, who believes in the fundamentals of individual freedom set up in the constitution and who is not afraid to make his position known.

Some significant remarks were made by Senator Goldwater in a speech and in interviews recently when he appeared for a Republican dinner in Houston.

The senator, who won re-election easily last year when most Republicans were going down to defeat, stressed one theme. He said that if the people don't like the high taxes they are having to pay as a result of excessive spending in Washington, they and they only can bring about the change. He said:

"Send men to Washington who are pledged to cut spending and eliminate deficit spending."

He pointed out that one factor in the Republican debacle last year was the fact that the administration deviated from the conservative G.O.P. platform of 1952. He stated many Americans were disgusted with the party.

Senator Goldwater expressed the belief that Vice - President Richard Nixon will be the Republican nominee for president next year, that he will campaign as a conservative and that he will be elected.

Millions of American voters in recent years have felt that they were choosing between two evils when casting their ballots.

The big question is whether the candidate of either party will have the courage to take such a stand as that taken by Senator Goldwater.

News Different Now

Usual May Be Even More Important Than Startling Events, Nations' Pace Slower

I was talking to an editor the other day about the news. What is news? Well, when we were young we were told that it is news when a man bites a dog. In a word, news is the exceptional, the startling, the surprising, the unusual. It used to be taught in the schools of journalism that news was when, where, why, who, what, in whatever order they could be arranged.

But news, like everything else, has really become something very different. The usual may be even more important than the startling. The pace of nations has grown slower because all peoples are in a process of marking time before an impending great change. In an historical transitional period such as the present one, words may count for as much as deeds. Many years ago, an editor complained to me that I mentioned Russia too often, that I had become repetitious on the subject, but today it is Russia to which we respond as a sensory nerve does to a stimulus. The President rushes to New York unexpectedly to open a Russian fair.

We are in a period similar to that which gripped the world from 44 B.C. to 325 A.D. during which the Roman Empire changed its character. Christianity appeared and paved the way for the world we live in today. We are in a period somewhat like the aftermath of the Congress of Vienna (1815) in some of its aspects.

Great empires have disappeared; new states have proliferated until there are perhaps as many as 100 of them; 82 are members of the United Nations. Russia and Red China, both of which were backward only a few decades ago, have emerged to primary status. Germany which was defeated in two major wars and which is even now divided into two is, in one aspect, West Germany, the most progressive nation on the continent of Europe, and the prime minister of Israel, David Ben-Gurion, threatens to resign if his nation is not permitted to sell West Germany munitions of war.

If all this sounds topsy-turvy, there is more that is even more confusing. For instance, the United States, which acted as caretaker for the Western world for a period of 15 years, providing billions of dollars of credit and goods to nations, finds itself in danger of losing its gold reserve and the primary position for its currency. London is again the money market of the world, with Zurich, Amsterdam, and Montevideo (mark that one) not far behind. Whereas gold is still rigidly controlled by the government of the United States, it is in a free market in most of Europe. Besides, Europe has organized into three economic unions—the Common Market, the Free Market, and the Soviet bloc —which together absorb the entire continent, some of Asia, and most of Africa, and make it increasingly difficult for the United States to engage in exports. Many American companies adjust to this change by exporting capital and manufacturing within those blocs that permit them to. But what becomes of American labor?

What is news today?

News has more to do with underlying forces than with events. Long ago, some of us called attention to the proletarian movements in Latin American countries. Those movements were then mostly words. They were the various conspiracies of Vicente Lombardo Toledano, operating out of Mexico City. These words sounded unimportant. In the regular news columns they were rarely reported. But now, these proletarian forces have begun to attempt to take over Latin American countries. In Cuba, they succeeded. In the Dominican Republic, they did not succeed. However, one would be foolhardy indeed who did not realize that American interests in Latin America, particularly in the strip closest to us, called Central America, are imperiled and that we dare not move to protect ourselves lest we bring on World War III.

What is news?

It consists of movements hidden in conspiratorial groups. It is words that move youth to hysteria. It is the breakdown of social institutions that have been fairly stable for 1,000 years or more. It is a new concept of social relations within the family. It is a revival of religion in many new forms which appear in many parts of the world.

This is the news of our era—and it is difficult to report, unless one has the reportorial genius of St. Mark.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Senate Sanctums

High-Ranking Upper Congressmen Provided With Hide-Aways

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower escapes to his Gettysburg farm, Mary Martin has a hideaway in Brazil, but high-ranking senators can get away from it all without leaving Capitol Hill.

With enough seniority and a little dickering, a senator can have assigned to him a room near the Senate chamber itself when he escapes the rigors of debate, the bustle of buttonholers, and even the throng of tourists.

Most visitors to the Capitol Building don't realize it, but tucked away out of sight of the tourist route is a honeycomb of rooms. A number of them on the Senate side of the building are used as private sanctums for the legislators.

Louisiana's two senators are among those with enough prestige to merit cubicles of their own in the Capitol. The exact location of each room is as well-guarded a secret as the Central Intelligence Agency's payroll.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender acquired his hideaway only recently, and last week it was jammed with the charts and diagrams of the foreign aid program, which the Senator was doing his best to trim down.

At other times, the room is strewn with maps and plans of dams, drainage ditches and other public works projects which Ellender, as chairman of the Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee, generally augments.

Unlike most of the high-ranking senators, Ellender keeps a hotplate installed in his room and often prepares dinner for his colleagues during late sessions.

Sen. Russell B. Long has a room not far away.

All the senatorial hideaways are technically known only to a few selected staff members and some of the other senators. If this small group grows too bothersome, however, there is an even more remote sanctuary— the Senate gymnasium. Not even staff members are allowed there.

FURTHER AWAY FROM IT ALL—With Washington parboiled by the weather, and Louisiana erupting from political brainstorms, Sen. Long has headed for the wide-open, cool spaces. He and his family are spending the Independence Day week-end in Wyoming, back at the ranch.

Morrison is second man on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. The Chairman, Tom Murray of Tennessee had introduced a bill giving Federal employees a third day off whenever a holiday falls on Saturday. When the bill finally reached the floor, however, Murray learned that the White House disapproved of the bill and he, too, came out against it.

Morrison was unswayed. "I was always impressed that the chairman of out great committee was enthusiastically for this bill since it bears his name," he told the House.

The bill passed overwhelmingly.

YEA OR NAY — Overton Brooks and Harold McSween have scored the best attendance records at roll call votes in the House so far this year. Each has voted on 95 per cent of the official votes taken since Congress convened.

Otto Passman follows close behind, with a 93 per cent voting record. Other scores, according to Congressional Quarterly, are: Hale Boggs, 88 per cent; F. Edward Hebert, 86 per cent; James H. Morrison, 40 per cent; T. A. Thompson, 58 per cent and Edwin Willis, 72 per cent.

U.S. Experts Doubt China Gain Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. experts are convinced that Communist China's "great forward leap" —if it hasn't fallen on its face altogether—can be measured in much smaller strides than Peiping claims. They say it includes some steps backward.

They regard as incredible Red boasts about the massive economic program which got under way last year. They suspect Peiping propagandists will play up China's flood losses as a face saver for shortcomings in the state-planned scheme.

How the Communist master plan does pan out is important to U.S. strategists. The uncommitted peoples of Asia, including neighboring India, are watching the outcome of the Chinese experiment.

The new surge of nationalism in underdeveloped countries carries a great impatience for economic advance. The Communist way, featuring promise of vast gains starting from scratch, beckons alluringly to Asians over the slower democratic method.

Some major flaws in the Red program are showing up in accounts put out by the Peiping regime.

Peiping's statisticians figured on doubling Red China's food production. Yet at the start of 1959, Peiping disclosed a serious food shortage, requiring rationing, that already squared with the claim of zooming food production.

Steel outuput was supposed to have climbed. But Red propaganda suddenly fell silent about what was supposed to have spearheaded the surge—pig iron furnaces in the backyards of the millions of Chinamen.

The backyard product, it turned out, carried so many impurities that it had to be refined again. Peiping had to keep on importing high grade steel from Europe. Peasants spent so much time on the furances that they neglected crops.

Free world observers can confirm that heavy rains swept the China mainland this year.

Bigness In Banks

Wave Of Mergers, Particularly Among Giants, Sweeps Nation

Until 1954 my bank in New York was the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Co., 20th largest bank in the nation.

Since 1954 my bank has been the Chemical Corn Exchange, for a while the seventh biggest and recently the fifth biggest bank in the United States.

As of this coming Wednesday, assuming the authorities in Washington and New York State don't flip their lids when the stockholders of my bank and another Manhattan giant agree to merge, my bank will become the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co., fourth biggest in the land.

The trend toward bigness in banks is quickening again, and a new wave of mergers, particularly among the banking giants, is sweeping across the land.

All over the country bankers are on the prowl for likely candidates for consolidation. As I an writing this dozens of top-secret meeting are being held for at least informal merger talks.

Some of the proudest names of banking are fading out. When J. P. Morgan and the Guaranty Trust Co. merged a couple of months ago to form the $4 billion Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, the famous initials "J.P." disappeared into history. The latest merger of my bank will eliminate the century-old name "Corn Exchange."

And nowhere in the land is the merger trend more dramatic than in New York City. Nowhere are bankers playing their game of musical chairs for more fabulous multi - billion dollar stakes than in our hometown.

For, while New York City is still the undisputed financial power of the nation, it's fighting for survival as this undisputed power—and the merger trend among the banking giants symbolizes the fight.

While New York is headquarters for the industrial empires of the country, it's battling to continue as the headquarters — and again, the merger trend symbolizes the battle.

What has been happening is that as industry has spread all over the United States since World War II big banks have followed the industry or sprung up in the new areas. California has the largest bank in the world, not New York. There are banking Goliaths in the southwest and west to challenge those of the old, established east.

What has been happening is that as industrial empires have become bigger and bigger they have been putting loan demands on banks which encourage the banks to get bigger and bigger too to meet the demands.

What is happening now, therefore, is that New York is fighting rivals from outside and spurring rivalries inside. Bigness is begetting bigness.

Of course, there are all sorts of reasons for mergers. Some banks merge to save on expenses, some merge to get branches in lush localities in a hurry, and to compete better; some merge because an old tired management needs new, young executives, some merge simply because they get an attractive offer; some merge because they lose a few big customers and consolidation is a good way out of a problem.

Regardless of the individual explanations, the trend toward giantism in banking is unmistakable, the challenge to our system of independent banking units is undeniable.

Just one comparison will underline the whole tale. In 1948 there were 24 banks in the elite New York Clearing House — through which more than a half-trillion dollars in checks flowed during last year alone.

In a few days there will be only half that number of banks in the Clearing House. This — in only 10 years.

More and more of the financial resources of our land are being concentrated in fewer and fewer financial powers.

And just because the reasons for mergers are so many and so diverse, there is little likelihood that the trend will stop unless the authorities act a lot more aggressively than they have so far to stop it. As New York's banking giants concentrate on their own battle to be the biggest among the big, they may provide the test for all bigness.

Red Air Routes

Russians To Step Up Campaign For United States Flights

WASHINGTON — Soviet Russia is almost certain to step up its campaign for a commercial air route to the United States.

The first hint of this came last week when the Russians flew its prop-jet TU-114 — biggest airliner in the world — 5,092 nonstop miles from Moscow to New York in just over 11 hours.

It's a well-known fact the Russians never show off a new civilian plane until they are sure it will leave a lasting impression on all who happen to see it.

Whether we like it or not the United States has nothing to compare with the TU-114 at this point. Propaganda - wise the Soviets scored heavily by using this amazing airplane to carry Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov to the United States.

The Russians clearly are out to capture a lion's share of the international air travel market and they have the equipment to do it. We inaugurated jet airline service in this country six months ago but the Russians have been flying jets for three years.

Not only does Aeroflot — as the Soviet state-owned airline is called — serve many points in Europe but is flying regularly to the Middle East and to Asia. It is now planning further extension of its jet routes to Africa and the Far East, particularly Japan.

The Russians, of course, would like nothing more than to add the United States to its far-flung operations. This has been on the discussion agenda at the State Department for some time and the Soviets likely will soon ask American officials to start talking about a bi-lateral air agreement between the two countries.

Since the United States has signed similar agreements with numerous other nations it is conceivable that one ultimately will be signed with Russia.

Last year some 5,000 American tourists visited Russia and practically everyone went by air. The Russians predict 10,000 Americans will journey to Russia this year.

By letting the United States see the TU-114 the Russians could convince even the most doubtful that here is a plane to match anything in the air today. It features elevators, a restaurant and even a movie theater. The TU-114 can carry 120 passengers on long flights and up to 220 on short hauls.

It should be pointed out, however, that the Russians have one major advantage over this country in the development of passenger aircraft. Because our airlines are privately owned the transition to larger and faster planes must be gradual. When the Soviet government wants a new civilian plane it simply orders it.

In the United States it took many years to move from two-engine to four-engine and finally to jet aircraft. Passenger volume has to be built up over many years before American airlines could start ordering $5 million jet planes.

This leads naturally to the premise that the Russians probably also will be first with supersonic airliners that can fly 1,500 to 2,000 miles an hour. If this is the case it's not difficult to see who will grab off the air travel market.

Not long ago Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev called for a six-fold increase in air transportation. Among other things he proposed an increase of almost one-third annually in the number of passengers carried and the number of ton-miles flown. Also, the addition of thousands of miles of new routes, a great portion of this expansion to come outside the Soviet Union.

At the same time Air Chief Marshal Pavel Zhigarev predicted that by 1964 the annual traffic increase would be as great as the total traffic in 1958. While this means an expansion of truly staggering proportions it must not be overlooked that the Russians are not given to idle boasting.

More and more the Soviets are anxious to show off their new passenger airliners, especially in countries which are waivering between East and West. What better symbol is there of technological progress than an airplane that outshines anything any other country is able to produce?

To the Editor:

My clipping service is a little slow and it was only recently that I received a copy of the May 22nd editorial of the Monroe Morning World.

I don't know who wrote it but I centainly think it hits the spot. What we need in this state are more editorial writers with a grasp of the economic problems reflected in your editorial.

EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

Business Booms In Many Lines

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The booming first half that roared to a finish this week was one that stumped the experts. Hardly anyone thought it would be that good.

And despite uncertainties about taxes, inflation, the Berlin crisis and the steel wage dispute, the second half just getting under way looked even better.

This week signals the start of the usual summer letdown in manufacturing. But things are booming in many other lines.

Construction outlays set new records, both for June and the first six months. If the same rate holds through the next six months (some economists say it will be higher), construction spending for all of 1959 will total more than 55 billion dollars. That would be a gain of more than 12 per cent over 1958.

Consumers spent 102½ billion dollars at retail in the first six months and merchants are betting on a total of 210 billions for the full year—a gain of five per cent.

In most parts of the country, consumers who were timid and cautious a year ago are now going into hock with abandon via the installment plan.

What's more, they're paying off their old debts faster.

"The general increase in business activity is enabling more consumers to get caught up in their overdue obligations," reports the American Collectors Assn. whose member companies specialize in collecting bad debts.

"For the first time in a year," the association states, "overbuying has displaced unemployment as the chief reason for consumers' paying problems."

Another bright spot in the developing boom is vacation travel. Resort and motel owners are primed for their busiest summer yet. Transatlantic Airlines and steamship companies say business has never been better.

Auto sales are perking along nicely. There's been a slight slowdown in the past two weeks but the motor moguls of Detroit are revising their 1959 sales forecasts upward.

Electric power companies are in clover. Consumption of electricity last week was the highest on record. Air conditioning kept electric meters humming.

Stock sales totaled 12,057,220 shares in the latest week against 14,772,430 shares for the week before and 10,426,724 in the same week last year.

Bond sales had a par value of $23,409,000 in the latest week compared to $26,432,000 for the previous week and $19,154,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

There are pockets of unemployment here and there—notably in the eastern coal fields and in some northern industrial centers. Automation has eliminated some jobs.

Some consumer prices are heading higher. Chances are you'll pay more for shoes, hats and shirts this fall.

Money is tightening up. Interest rates are climbing. This week President Eisenhower signed a bill that will permit banks to charge up to 5¼ per cent interest on government-backed GI mortgages. Under the old 4¾ per cent ceiling, GI home loans found few takers.

Briefly over the business scene: U.S. factories turned out 558,015 cars last month, making it the motor industry's biggest June since 1955. Production was up 65 per cent over June last year. . . . Farm product prices declined about one per cent between mid-May and mid-June as meat animal prices backed off from their earlier highs. . . . President Eisenhower signed a bill continuing wartme corporate and excise tax rates for another year. . . . A Senate subcommittee voted to give the navy 380 million dollars for an atom-powered aircraft carrier.

Report Shows Vandalism Off In Crossett

CROSSETT (Special)—Crossett's first month of summer vacation was marked by a clean police blotter so far as juvenile vandalism or malicious mischief cases were concerned. Police Judge, Randolph Perritt, reported that during the month of June no such cases were brought to his weekly court hearings. In contrast, last year one or more cases were brought up each week of the month.

It is felt that the greatly expanded recreation program, and a record number of summer jobs available have contributed largely to the situation.

The recreation program has expanded this year with a new Youth Center for white children, baseball fields for grown boys, as well as the Babe Ruth and Little League teams, and the most active swimming and playground period in the history of the Recreation Department. Coach Harry Denson, in charge of the summer recreation programs, reports that 435 white children turned up for daily swimming lessons given free by six teen-aged instructors at the white pool.

Forty-five colored children have used their pool daily. Average attendance for afternoon and night swimming at the pool for whites has been around 200, with a record of 628 swimming on June 17th during the entire day. Around 35 colored children in senior and junior teams play baseball, with around 100 children involved in the total daily program.

There are 67 members of the Junior Riding Club, with most of them active and riding the truck trails around Crossett daily. Last weekend the young people participated in a ten mile ride with a trail breakfast at a deer camp east of town.

Police Jury In Catahoula Told Of Boating Laws

JONESVILLE, (Special)...The Catahoula parish police jury were told at their meeting during the week that the jury did not have the authority to pass laws regulating the boating traffic in the various bayous and lakes of this parish.

District Attorney D. W. Gibson cited Act. 367 of the 1958 Legislature covering the uniform pleasure boating act. Gibson said that the act specifically spelled out the regulations of all boats and established the penalities for violations.

Gibson pointed out that the enforcement of all the laws relating thereto was delegated by the act to all law enforcement officers including the Sheriff's department, game wardens, constables and town marshals.

J. C. Gilbert had requested a ruling on the matter of the district attorney at the meeting. The request of Gilbert was prompted by complaints of fishermen that they were being 'swamped, by fast and high powered motor boats.

In as much as there is an act of the regulation of boats it is left up to the law enforcement officers to curb violations it was pointed out.

ARMS EMBARGO ON

LONDON (UPI) —A foreign office spokesman said Friday that Britain has applied a virtual embargo on arms exports to the Dominican Republic because of the tension in the Caribbean area. The spokesman said there was little chance that arms exported to a third party might be diverted to the Dominican Republic.

AT MIDNIGHT SUNDAY

Saarland Returns To Germany Rule

BONN, Germany (AP) — The rich industrial Saarland will be returned to West Germany at midnight Sunday.

The final act of the reunion of the German-speaking territory with Germany will tip the scales of European economic power even more heavily in favor of the Germans.

The million Saarlanders have been citizens of West Germany since Jan. 1, 1957, when the 1,000 square miles of territory became the 10th state of Federal Germany.

But the French-German agreement provided for a transition period of a maximum of three years for the complicated switch from the French to the German economic system.

A joint announcement Saturday set the date for the turnover six months ahead of the deadline—reflecting the cordial relations of these two former enemies.

Twice the French have occupied the disputed border region after world wars and twice it has been returned to Germany.

After World War I it was placed under the League of Nations with the French in occupation, but the Saarlanders in a plebiscite voted heavily to return to Hitler's Reich in 1935.

After World War II the area became a French protectorate with its economy orientated toward France. French francs became the legal currency and a customs barrier cut off the Saar from Germany.

Then it was decided to make the Saarland a self-governing territory within the coal-steel pool under guardianship of the West European Union, embracing Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, and West Germany. But the Saarlanders would have none of this, either, rejecting the plan in a plebiscite. The French bowed to the inevitable, and after hard negotiations agreed to the Saar's reunion with Germany.

The coal fields will add about 17 million tons annually to West Germany's coal production. This will raise German output to 61 per cent of the coal-steel pool's total production. Germany now produces 54 per cent of the pool's total.

About three million tons of pig iron and nearly four million tons of steel from Saarland furnaces will boost West Germany's proportionate production in the pool from 29 and 28 per cent to 34 and 32 per cent respectively.

Sunday midnight the French customs posts on the Saar's east frontier closed down. They will reopen on the French side of the border.

On Monday the Saarlanders begin exchanging their French francs for German marks.

Up to 40 billion francs turned in will be handed over to the Bank of France—a gift equivalent to about 93½ million dollars. This is provided for in the French-German agreement.

Workers face an adjustment to the less-generous German social security system. But Bonn claims they will be better off in the long run because of higher living standards in prosperous West Germany.

The Bonn government already has pumped 1½ billion marks—357 million dollars—in financial aid into the Saarland. Further assistance will follow.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has promised that no Saarlander would suffer any losses by returning to Germany.

Winds Drop, Help Control Forest Fire

SIERRAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Subsiding winds aided an army of nearly 1,500 men Saturday in winning 85 per cent control over a costly forest fire after it burned over more than 6,000 acres.

The blaze was started in Tahoe National Forest by a carelessly abandoned campfire.

Ranger John H. Bigley said flames should be completely contained "unless strong winds take it away from us again." They did Friday.

Five tanker airplanes sprayed a chemical mixture onto the flames, which have roared over the hill country for three days. An estimated 27 million board feet of timber was destroyed or damaged.

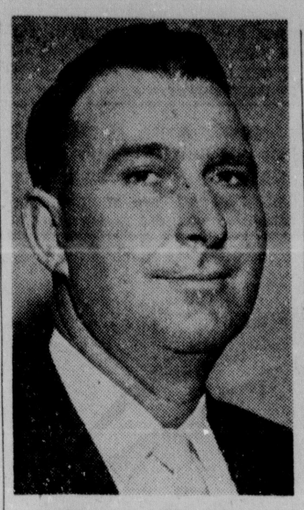
Two lead planes directed the spraying operations. A helicopter ferried men and materials to critical areas.

On the ground, rangers, volunteers and convicts used every weapon at hand, from bulldozers to wet blankets.

"It was a pretty expensive campfire," Bigley said. "We've spent $66,213 so far just trying to control it. The timber loss alone runs to about $270,000."

The fire advanced to within three miles of Loyalton. The population of 1,000 needed no alerting, Bigley said.

"The town lies in a green valley, and there is no big timber directly around it," he explained. "Wind and flying sparks are the biggest dangers."



Opens Realty

Charles B. Burpo, owner of a grading and excavating company here for many years, has announced the organization of Charles Burpo Realty Company. The firm will deal in all types of property. A lifelong resident of this area, Burpo resides with his wife, Louise, and daughter, Dianne, on Warren drive in West Monroe.

DISMISS DRUNK CHARGES

CHESTERFIELD, England (UPI) —Drunken driving charges against Joseph Hollis, 42, were dismissed here because a blood test showed that he had consumed twice the amount of alcohol needed to kill him. "According to this, my client is dead," Hollis' lawyer argued.

Counselor To Northeast Girls Named

Miss Alma L. Lufcy has been named counselor to women students at Northeast Louisiana State College, President George T. Walker announced yesterday. The appointement is effective July 6.

Miss Lufcy is replacing Mrs. Margaret Newman, who has accepted a teaching position in another state.

The new counselor has an extensive educational and professional background in guidance and personnel assignments. She comes to Northeast from C. E. Byrd High School in Shreveport.

Miss Lufcy is a graduate of Trout-Good Ping High School, Good Pine, La. She completed requirements at Northwestern State College in 1942 for a bachelor's degree in education and a Louisiana State University in 1954 for the master of education degree, with certification as a guidance counselor.

Subsequent to receiving the master's, she did summer study in 1957 in administration and supervision in the Northwestern State College Graduate School. During the following summer she attended the University of Colorado for additional work in the guidance area.

Miss Lufcy has been affiliated with Louisiana school systems as a teacher, counselor and administrator, and she has served in various capacities as a U. S. government employee.

She taught in Good Pine and Shreveport in both the Midway High School and C. E. Byrd High School, where she was later counselor to senior women and assistant principal for instruction.

As a government employee, Miss Lufcy served as a member of the Women's Army Corps with personnel assignments, psychrometrist in the Veterans Administration, New Orleans and Shreveport, and chief of the Veterans Administration Guidance Center, New Orleans and Shreveport.

Professional organizations in which she holds membership include American Personnel and Guidance Association, American School Counselor and various others. She is a member of the Methodist Church.

Posse Seeking Prison Escapee In Mississippi

TUNICA, Miss. (UPI)—A posse of officers with bloodhounds searched an area seven miles south of here Saturday for a Negro who escaped from Parchman state penitentiary and wounded two Negroes in his getaway.

Eddie Lee, 34, a half - trusty, hitched a ride with Ernest Malone near Tutwiler, which is just north of the sprawling penal farm, shortly after his escape Friday night.

Once in the car Lee pulled a .32 caliber pistol he had stolen from the home of prison employe, shot Malone and pistol - whipped another Negro man who was riding in the car. Then he took Malone's car, a 1955 Ford, and drove about 50 miles north to near Tunica where he was stopped by highway patrolmen and county officers.

Lee leaped from the car, Deputy Sheriff R. J. Henry said, and took to the woods, losing the gun as he went.

The search for him continued through the night. Shortly before noon officers said they had lost his trail but were sure he was still in the area.

Lee, as a half - trusty at Parchman, was allowed to go about the prison farm as he wished but was not authorized to carry a gun.

BY NATIONAL COUNCIL

Pharmacy School Fully Accredited

The School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College has received full accreditation by the National Council on Pharmaceutical Education, it is announced by President George T. Walker.

Full accreditation, the highest rating that can be awarded, gives the School of Pharmacy the same status as all other accredited schools of Pharmacy in the nation.

Action of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education enable Northeast graduates to meet a requirement of the Louisiana State Board of Pharmacy in qualifying for an examination to become registered pharmacists.

The School of Pharmacy was established in August 1956 by the State Board of Education and students registered in the new curriculum at the opening of the fall semester of that year.

INSTRUCTORS

Headed by Dean Ralph M. Wilson, the school began operating with a staff of four instructors. With the opening of the fall semester, the increase in the faculty will double the number of the original staff to answer the needs of a fast growing enrollment.

Registration of 67 students in 1956 increased to 228 by the fall of 1958. The rapid enrollment growth has been marked by a corresponding increase in parish representation. The current year's registration includes students from 46 parishes and four states, in addition to Louisiana.

Receiving the first degrees in pharmacy at Northeast State is this year's class of 22, including one woman.

A majority of the 1959 graduates will be employed in the retail field of pharmacy, Dean Wilson said. Some, however, may become pharmacists in hospitals and others will affiliate with pharmaceutical manufacturers as sales service representatives and in production. After continuing in advanced studies at graduate school, some will become manufacturers, research workers, or teachers, he said.

There are now 12 battleships in mothballs throughout the United States.

Autos Collide

Two autos were involved in an accident here that resulted in damage to both cars.

The two drivers, both Negros, were identified as Tom Duncan, 812 Ouachita, and Annie Mae Moore, Winnsboro. Police said both vehicles were heading west on Plum street when the Duncan auto collided with the rear of the Moore auto.

HELD FOR MURDER

Girl Confesses Fatal Shooting

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "When he said it was either me or him, I grabbed first.

"I picked up the gun and asked him how it worked. He showed me how to pull the trigger, and I fired."

That was how police said Louise May Hunsbarger, 18, confessed the fatal shooting Friday night of Ben E. Giberson, 41, a machinist with whom she had been posing as father and daughter for the last seven months.

Miss Hunsbarger, a shapely girl in shorts and wearing her hair in curlers, was bound over without bond to the Marion County grand jury on a charge of murder.

Sheriff's investigator Harold Goodman said the girl sobbed violently as she told how Giberson came home to find her with an unidentified male friend of his.

"He started slapping me around," Miss Hunsbarger said.

Then she said she told Giberson: "If you don't quit slapping me, I'll kill you."

Giberson laid a revolver on a cabinet, she related, and told her: "Either you shoot me, or I'll shoot you."

Then, Goodman said, she shot Giberson who fell halfway out a kitchen window, fatally wounded with one bullet in his chest and another in his back.

The girl ran from the apartment screaming: "Call a doctor, call a doctor—I shot Dad."

She was arrested by state police within half an hour, driving about 10 miles east of Indianapolis. She had picked up a hitchhiker, but he was not held.

Goodman said Miss Hunsbarger told him she had lived with Giberson and his wife for about two years before the couple was divorced last November, and then sh econtinued living with Giberson.

The girl said they had planned to be married next month.

The girl gave the address of her stepfather, Ernie Giberson, and Mother as Dayton, Ohio. Goodman said she told him she was on probation for juvenile offenses in Dayton.

Ernie Giberson was Ben Giberson's uncle. Police said Ernie Giberson was released from Indiana State Prison four years ago after serving a term for a bus company holdup here in 1932 in which a policeman was killed.

Roy J. Conti, 33 Fatally Stricken While At Work

Roy J. Conti, 33 - year - old plumber and father of four, was stricken with a fatal heart attack Saturday morning, July 4, while working at a home at 247 Grayling Lane.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday, at St. Joseph's church on Benton Street. The Rev. Dennis Curren will officiate at a Requiem Mass.

Burial will be in St. Matthews Cemetery under direction of Mulhearn's. A rosary service will be held at the Mulhearn chapel at 8 Sunday night.

Mr. Conti had lived in Monroe for the last 14 years, was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church and first president of the church's Holy Name society. His home was at 406 Pargoud Dr.

A native of Amite, he was a World War II veteran, and served overseas in the European theatre.

He was a member of the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, and Plumbers Local Union No. 659.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Frances Conti; four daughters, Veronica, Sara Jo, Rose Marie and Elizabeth Theresa Conti, all of Monroe; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Conti, Amite; seven brothers, Nick Copti, Pat Conti and Joe Conti, all of Monroe; Sam Conti, New Orleans, Paul Conti, Anthony Conti and Johnny Conti, all of Amite; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Conrad and Mrs. Anne Cazaboum, both of New Orleans and Mrs. Ida Trobona, Amite.

Knife-Wielding Negro Is Sought In Assault Case

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Police pressed the search Saturday for a knife-wielding Negro who beat and raped a 21-year-old white woman.

The victim, whom parish coroner Dr. Walter Murrell said had "definitely been raped," told police the attack took place Friday night after she left a nightclub near Alexandria.

She said a man got in front of her car and when she slowed down he jumped in, placed a knife at her throat and forced her to drive to an undisclosed location.

Officers said the inside of the woman's car was spattered with blood. The woman suffered from lacerations resulting from a blow on the back of her head.

Ryder quoted the woman as saying she started to pass a parked car with a Negro standing beside it. He told the woman he wanted some information.

"What kind of information," she asked and said the Negro then jumped into the car. Ryder quoted the woman as saying the Negro forced her to drive about a mile, then dragged her into the back seat and raped her.

When she recovered from the blow on the head, she said, she drove to a service station and called for help.

Boy Recovering After Shooting While Playing

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Rici Bufkin, 4 - year - old Winona boy, was reported in "satisfactory condition" in Baptist Hospital Saturday after he was shot by a playmate.

The boy, son of Mrs. Edith Bufkin, was playing with a 9-year-old cousin at Winona Friday when the older boy accidentally fired a .22 caliber rifle he was handling, officers said.

The bullet went in Rici's chest and came out near his right shoulder without striking a vital organ, doctors said.

U.S.-Soviet Trade Gains To Be Small

WASHINGTON (AP)--The State Department says prospects for increased Soviet-American trade are small despite overtures from Soviet leaders.

In large part, the department says, this is because of Soviet lack of interest in purchasing our nonstrategic goods.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made public a document setting forth the department's views in response to questions he submitted last February.

The document was described by Fulbright Saturday as "one of the most comprehensive statements of the administration's position on U.S.-U.S.S.R. trade relations available."

He commented that "the administration's attitude appears to be that, while it does not oppose an increase in trade between the two countries, it is skeptical about the possibilities for any dramatic increase."

"Moreover," he added, "the executive branch tends to believe that in general most increases would be of greater benefit to the Soviet Union than to the United States, especially if such increases were financed by long-term American credits."

Fulbright said his questions were prompted by the interest in the subject aroused by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's letter to President Eisenhower on June 2, 1958, proposing an increase in Soviet-American trade, and the visit of Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to this country last January.

"The Soviet government has made it quite clear that it does not intend to buy any substantial quantity of consumer goods," the department said.

The administration has taken limited steps toward encouraging an expansion of trade with the Soviet union in nonstrategic goods. But it said such trade has not been encouraged to the same extent as it has with free world nations.

With respect to controls by this country and other Western nations on exports of strategic goods to the Communist bloc, the department said the program is serving its objective of reducing and delaying the development of Soviet military power.

Lapland, above Sweden, Finland and Russia, has two months each summer when there is no darkness and two months each winter when there is no daylight.

PEACE PROPOSALS REJECTED

Caribbean Heads Toward Possible Armed Conflict

Editor's Note—Harold K. Milks, Associated Press chief of Bureau for the Caribbean area, assessed the tense situation in the caribbean on the doorstep of the United States.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP)—The Caribbean cold war could be heading toward a hot conflict, now that Cuba and Venezuela have rejected any interference by the Organization of of American States.

Thus far, the bitter dispute among the Caribbean neighbors has been restricted to a war of words, except for token invasions.

But there are some indications the situation, if fanned by charges and countercharges, may reach an actual state of war with Cuba and Venezuela arrayed against the Dominican Republic.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo has accused Cuba and Venezuela before the OAS of supporting and plotting attacks on his Dominican Republic, which lies off Cuba's southeast tip.

In turn, the Cuban and Venezuelan press and officials denounce Trujillo as a dictator and accuse him of suppressing human rights. Both countries say they won't permit OAS investigating teams to operate in their territory.

In his latest TV appearance, Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba accused Trujillo of trying to trick Cuba into an attack so that Fidel's bearded forces could be branded as aggressors.

Much of the tension and many of the war-like reports stem from activities of various groups of exiles—the anti-Castro exiles in Florida and elsewhere and the anti-Trujillo refugees operating from Cuba, Venezuela and Puerto Rico.

"It is a typical campaign of the outs trying to get in," one Latin-American diplomat said. "But in this case, these outs seem to have active support of some governments."

The Dominican Republic last month repulsed armed invasions which seem to have originated in Cuba, despite Castro's statements to the contrary.

President Luis Somoza's regime in Nicaragua also has repulsed invasions.

A Cuban - mounted expedition against Panama was frustrated before it could get started. Its Cuban participants were returned to Cuba.

Dominican officials charge there is a Cuban-Venezuelan axis, with Castro and President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela determined to destroy Trujillo's regime.

Trujillo has said that any further attacks on his country will be answered by counterattacks.

Against this threat, Venezuela has put its navy and air force on a coastal alert. Castro's forces have been strenghthened in eastern Cuba, the area nearest the Dominican Republic.

Veteran observers here believe neither Cuba nor the Dominican Republic has the military strength to mount a successful expedition against the other.

"At best either could make hit-run air or sea raids against the other," one said. "But the possibility of major land invasions is remote."

Trujillo, in his tightly held nation, has a well - trained and equipped army of more than 20,000 men, plus 10,000 recruits. The navy and air force are small.

Castro has an army of about 20,000 men. The army is well-trained in guerrilla operations but lacks heavy equipment. Navy, rural police and national police add 5,000 to 10,000 men.

Venezuela has the strongest navy in the Caribbean, and an air force. But many here believe Betancourt would refrain from joining in any war because of the possible difficulties at home.

With the United States and Britain banning the sale of arms to Caribbean nations because of the tension, Trujillo is expected to to seek planes and other major weapons in Europe. He makes his own small arms.

Castro's right-hand man, Maj. Ernesto Guevara, on his current tour of the Middle East, may be looking into possible deals for modern arms.

Stocks Chalk Up Huge New Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The first half of 1959 brought further huge gains to a stock market which ended 1958 at historically high levels.

Business boomed. The fear of inflation continued. Earnings and dividends rose and the prospects were for even better earnings and dividends.

The overall market as represented by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended the half year at $228.10, somewhat below the record of $230.30 set on May 29. The first two trading days of July, however, gave a thumping confirmation of the traditional summer rally brokers were talking about.

The AP 60-stock average closed this week at a new record high of $231.10. The Dow Jones industrial average stood at an all-time peak of 654.76.

An estimated $23,419,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange during the first six months of the year plus the first two trading days of July, based on stock exchange figures for the first five months and the gain in the AP average for the balance of the time. This put the total value of stocks listed on the Big Board at roughly 300 billion dollars.

Stock trading in the first half of 1959 soared to 442,703,739 shares, the third highest in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. It compared with 297,846,276 for the first half of 1958.

Record turnover for the first half was 537,846,276 in 1929. The second highest was in 1930 when volume totaled 493,257,820 shares.

The virtually straight line stock market advance began in April 1958, carrie through January and encountered a sharp technical shakeout in February. In March there was a slight decline. Then the advance continued vigorousuly. Another pause and slight loss occurred in June but the market was rallying to its new top as the month ended.

Wild moves of some space age stocks and other fast-stepping issues brought warnings from the heads of the leading exchanges. The Securuities and Exchange Commission also issued a warning about manipulation in the stock market.

FROM GUAM TO MANHATTAN

U.S. Unfurls New Flag In Pageantry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The maiden 49-star flag of the United States was unfurled with colorful pageantry Saturday to wave o're the land from Guam to Manhattan.

At precisely 12:01 a. m., the spanking new banner with the star of the 49th state, Alaska, was hoisted to the top of a flagpole on the west front of the nation's Capitol overlooking the Washington Monument.

At the same moment Stars and Stripes unfurled in the dawn's early light at Ft. McHenry, Md., birthplace of the national Athem.

Fireworks simulating "bombs bursting in air" provided a glaring backdrop to the Ft. McHenry ceremony where Francis Scott Key 145 years ago started writing the "Star Spangled Banner" which did not officially become the national anthem until 1933.

The 809th Engineer Battalion on the island of Guam claimed the honor of raising the first 49-star banner, hoisting it at 6:15 a. m. Guam time, whit it was still Friday on the mainland.

In the heart of Manhattan, the new model of Old Glory was raised in impressive ceremonies in Rockefeller Plaza.

Meanwhile, back on the Capitol roof, an eight-man building guard got in six hours and 20 minutes of flying time.

From midnight until their job was completed at 6:21 a. m., armweary policemen raised and lowered 1,072 new flags to be given away as souvenirs to congressmen's constituents who requested 49-star banners flown over the Capitol on the Fourth of July.

Four temporary flag poles were set up to complete the job. The flag raisers took about 30 seconds to clamp each flag to the halyard, haul it up and drop it bck down into its red-white-and-blue mailing box.

Lt. James A. Boyer, in charge of the detail, said that next year, when the whole thing will have to be repeated for the 50-star flag, for Hawaii, "I hope I'm on the day shift."

Colorful ceremonies preceded his historic "first" flag day for U. S. citizens, regardless of geography. Throughout the nation and overseas, wherever Americans found themselves, similar pageantry this July 4, 1959, was enacted.

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday arrested Lee Arthur Harris, 31-year-old Negro, on three charges: theft, resisting arrest, and disturbing the peace. His bond was set at $500.

Albert Vida, 39, was placed under a $437 bond on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influences of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving.

VOTE VICTORY UNLIKELY

Minority Seeking Own Swiss State

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A French-speaking Swiss minority, restless under their German-speaking neighbors since Napoleon's day, try to strike a blow for greater independence Sunday. The blow isn't expected to amount to much.

The French live in the Jura region of the Cantion of Bern on the French frontier. For years the French have been agitating for a break away. They want their own French-speaking state under the central Swiss government.

They finally have won a minor victory. The Canton votes Sunday on whether a plebiscite should be held later on the question of setting up a separate French-speaking state.

There are 260,000 eligible voters in the canton. The German-speaking voters outnumber the French electorate 7-1. It doesn't take a mathematical wizard to figure that the French minority won't get that plebiscite for a separate state.

When the empire that Napoleon carved out of the heart of Europe collapsed after Waterloo, this little corner of the Corsican's domain came under Swiss rule.

These French-speaking Swiss have nothing against Swiss rule as such. But they argue that they have been pushed around in their Jura region by the German-speaking state government.

The Jura area is largely agricultural, but it has one world famous industry—watch making.

The French-speaking Swiss say they can't get any of the important jobs in the watch-making factories, which employ abouut 10 per cent of the 120,000 persons in the Jura region.

The Jura people say their schools, roads, hospitals and other public services are not as good as those in German-speaking parts of the canton.

"Let us run our own affairs," the Jura people argue. "Let's get rid of Berne's domination."

Those against splitting the state maintain that the people of the Jura would not have the funds to run a government of their own. Each of the 25 Swiss cantons has a sovereign government with more power than American states.

"Let's keep things as they are. We've been doing fine for 150 years. Why change the setup?" the anti-separatists say.

Such arguments pull weight in a country anxious to conserve its traditions. There are some anti-separatists even among the French-speaking Swiss.

United Press International

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI(— Zurich police have adopted a novel method of convincing drivers and pedestrians that traffic fatalities are more than mere paragraphs in the newsppers.

Every time a person dies in a traffic accident on a city street, police erect at the spot a flagpole 20 feet tall from which they fly a 10-foot-long black flag. They also put up a plaque which says: "A man died here: victim of a road accident."

The scheme has been in operation since August, 1957. The grisly reminder usually is left in position for about two weeks.

Police believe every adult member of Zurich's 450,000 population has seen a least one of these mourning flags.

"We shall have to wait a few years for sufficient statistical proof of what we have accomplished," said Dr. Albert Wiesendanger, chief of the city constabulary, "but there are some good signs."

Last year, 49 persons were killed in auto accidents within the city limits. This was four less than in 1957 despite a sharp increase in the number of automobiles on the roads.

Most of the deaths involved motor vehicles, but all traffic accidents are noted, Wiesendanger said.

"We put up flags for the victims of cycling accidents as well," he explained. "Exceptions are made only in cases where a flagpole would interfere with the flow of traffic."

Police pay for the warning signs. "We don't make the traffic offenders pay, because sometimes it would involve litigation, and sometimes nobody is really to blame," a police spokesman said. "But in any case, the road hogs pay indirectly — through their fines."

While it may be too early to speak of a definite decline in road accidents, there is no doubt that the mourning flags have caught the imagination of the Swiss.

Minutes after a pole has been erected, passersby lay flowers at its base. There are rarely fewer than a dozen bunches of flowers in tin cans, grouped at the foot of each pole.

The police department has six poles. At one time last year, five were in use simultaneously. At another, almost four weeks went by without the ned for a single mourning flag.

Weisendanger and his "flag squad" hope the day eventually will come when the residents of Zurich never have to see an "epitaph to an auto smash."

DRINK WITH A KICK

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Frank Barto, concessionnaire at an amusement park, was working late and got thirsty.

He dropped a dime into the soft drink machine. Nothing happened so he banged it with his fist. A shotgun blast was the response, the pellets inflicting superficial wounds on Barto's head, shoulder and back.

John W. Stewart, the park owner, said he heard the noise and thought burglars were loating the machine.

AND AWAY WE GO

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A woman who collects door-to-door usually stops at one house to throw a stick for a big dog which loves to retrieve thing.

On one trip she accidentally dropped her purse containing the collection money and the dog grapped it and raced away. The woman was in pursuit across lawns when she though to throw a stick.

The dog dropped the wallet and chased the stick.

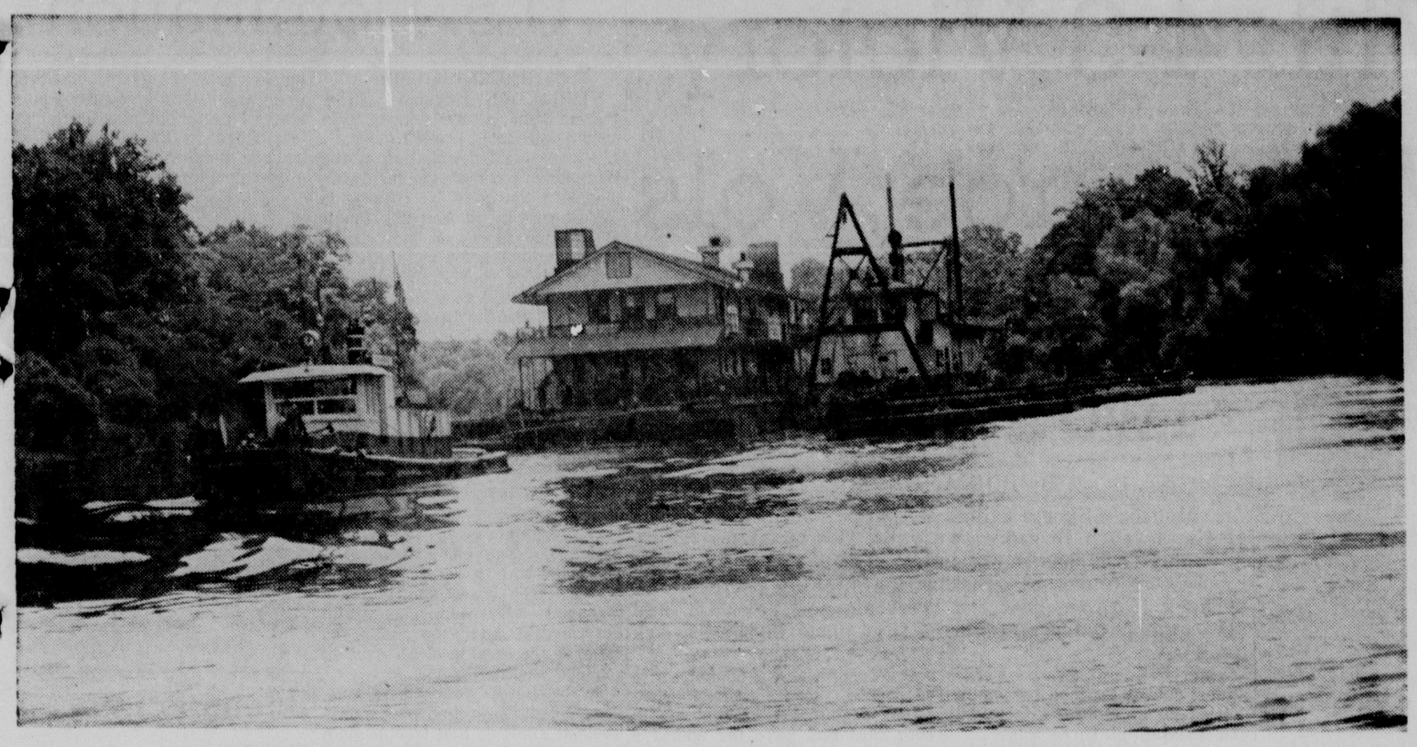
Crews Keep River Open For Commerce



Dredge-Boat Nelson Convoy Sails Down Ouachita River.

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

A steel drillshaft shatters the mirror-smooth surface of the Ouachita River, the sharp drill cuts through darkness beneath, contacts riverbottom, bores into gravel, sand and silt.

Thirty-five miles downstream from Monroe this morning, the dredge-boat Nelson, manned by a crew of 52, is midway in its first week of work this summer.

The Corps of Engineers' dredging crew maintains constant vigil over the river from July to late autumn. Their orders: keep a 6½ foot deep channel open in the Ouachita.

WATERWAY

From the swirling waters of the Mississippi to the head of navigation at Camden, Ark., the Ouachita serves as an interstate waterway for barge traffic.

The river must be kept deep enough for barges to chug through, without running aground.

The five-boat Nelson convoy, captained by dredge master Lennon A. Tatum, blue-eyed career riverman, set sail from its home port, Monroe, last Tuesday morning.

It will be in 24-hour operation from three to five months, putting in for "layup repairs" next autumn.

This "spoil", mixed up with water, is drawn through large pipes in the dredge by pressure from a vacuum pump.

DEPOSITED

Additional pipeline is hitched into the end of the dredge, and strung out to the opposite riverbank. The spoil is deposited there.

The entire dredge convoy is composed of dredge barge, large quarterboat, two dredge 'tenders' (the Buckridge and RW-8, small boats with powerful motors which haul the dredge.) a workboat and two "lines" of wide pontoons loaded with 850 feet of dredging pipe.

The quarterboat (Number 480, Vicksburg district, Corps of Engineers), resembles a small-scale Mississippi riverboat. The crew eat, sleep, store provisions and maintain power and water supplies on it.

For travel downstream, the dredge is coupled alongside the quarterboat. One line of pontoons flanks either side of the joined-boats.

Cost for one day's work by the dredge and quarterboat is $2200. Maintenance cost of the tenders runs $180 and $240 daily.

The men have one day off each week, work 56 hours, 16 of them overtime.

"They work from 12 midnight to 8 a.m., go off duty, have the next day off and go back to work at 4 p.m. on the third day," said Fred R. Schoonover, chief clerk.

All but two of the crew live in Monroe. Many are summer-help college students. They can make it home, back and have a day here the way the schedule is worked out.

DOWNSTREAM

First job this year is downstream from Monroe. Preliminary surveys indicated less work than normal will be required to maintain channel depth in the upper Ouachita during 1959.

"We dredge out approximately 7,500 cubic yards of dirt every 24 hours — you can understand exactly how much this is when you know that an ordinary truck can haul about 4 cubic yards of dirt," explained Tatum.

First step in the dredging operations is to secure the boats. Wire guide lines from the dredge are run out to each bank.

"Spuds" two huge upright steel shafts at the back of the dredge, are sunk into riverbottom.

"We dredge out about 300 feet of "spoil" each hour, and move the dredge boat and cutter shaft by shifting the wires and spuds," said chief engineer William A. Porter.

Crewmen compute the yardage dug out by the size of the hole cut in riverbottom. The dredge is moved every time 50 feet of dredging is done.

SOUND

Before any dredging starts, a survey party of six men "sound" the riverbed.

They check its depths in several places, then make a map of the riverbottom. They also measure size of the "cut" after dredging.

The two-speed steel cutter then goes to work. A 50 horse-power motor turns the drive shaft, and a 3 horse power motor works the hydraulic pump which pulls material through a suction line, sends it out through the discharge pipeline.

"Sometimes we have a dickens of a time finding a place to dump the spoil, what with farmland next to the river," commented Tatum.

"This river holds its own mighty good," he said, explaining that river bank pattern doesn't change too much.

"Back when locks and dams to maintain river level were built in the 1920's, we didn't have the type commerce we have now," mentioned John W. Anderson, Corps of Engineers' public relations man over from Vicksburg for the first day of dredge operations.

DEMAND

"Now, there is demand for a 9-foot channel, to allow large barges from the Mississippi to sail up the Ouachita," he added.

Tatum chuckled that the river isn't wide enough or deep enough now for all the barges which try to sail it.

"Every tree on the bite of each riverbend grows on a slant away from the river. . .because barges hit them trying to make the turn," he explained.

"If we go to a 9-foot channel," continued Anderson, "it will take a combination of factors."

"We'll have to rebuild the six locks on the river and raise their heights or put in additional higher locks," he noted.

"Corrective dredging and some river alignment to straighten out several sharp bends in the river would also be needed," mentioned the tall, pleasant-spoken man.

STANDARD

"Every standard barge on the Mississippi draws nine feet of water," he added.

"It's one of the easiest rivers in the world to transform into a navigable stream. There's adequate water and a stable channel without much velocity," mentioned Tatum.

"With a little channel straightening, it would be wonderful," continued the dredge master.

Tuesday, the river was flowing at almost 2 miles an hour, with a maximum depth of 25 feet. The water was warm — 86 degrees, two feet down, according to Howard Streetman of Monroe, working on a discharge field party to spot-check the river.

"What the dredge does is completely at the mercy of the river," Tatum said.

If the river continues at low level, or if it shoals (builds up sand deposits) more dredging is needed.

And if it rises for two or three weeks, dredging operations are termporarily called off.

Crewmen Tie Dredge To Quarterboat For Trip Downstream.

The Nelson has operated 283 work days without lost time from injury. It's previous record was 1100 days.

Crewmen include engineers, oilers, ship keepers, winchmen, radio operator, cleaning crew, cooks, pilots (boat operators) the bridge shift (for actual dredging operations) and ship's officers.

In 1954, the Nelson was transferred here from working the Mississippi River. All but 14 regular crew members are laid off each winter, when the ship "lays up" for repairs.

It tied up just off South Grand Street alongside the Corps of Engineers dock on the river Nov. 11, will return anytime between September and December.

Food supplies, newspapers, magazines are brought out to the quarterboat by the tenders. Barge and quarterboat carry a maximum of 60,000 gallons diesel fuel, the tenders carry up to 15,000 gallons.

Electricity, ice-cubes and filtered, chlorinated water are a few of the ncessities provided aboard ship.

"We have an emergency plant for lights, in case of breakdown of our regular unit," commented Porter.

Another Porter also serves on board in an essential capacity.

All civilian civil service employees, the crew is well paid, has interesting work.

"The 14 regular men have an average of 27 years each in service," pointed out Schoonover.

"I got into this work because it's interesting," he continued. "I've worked dams levees, all types of dredging in the southeastern United States."

"Besides that, we have the best retirement system in the world," he chuckled.

Sports Cop Undisputed Lead With 4-3 Victory Over W. Monroe Vols

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Does Monroe want improvement and expansion of its recreation facilities bad enough to ask a bond election to put it across? That's the question asked of the citizenry the past week in a mail ballot being conducted by recreation-minded individuals who hope there is enough support to warrant calling an election.

City officials have had the recreation issue before the people in the not too distant past, saw its defeat, and naturally decline to promote the venture again. But the city council will call an election if the reaction to the postcard ballot shows sufficient favorable strength.

There's no question about the need of expanding recreation facilities. The question is: Are the people willing to pay for it at an average cost of two or three dollars per year?

Postcards already stamped and addressed to the City Council were sent to the citizenry in a letter over the signatures of John B. Reitzell, Herman O. Gunn, Abe Dryer, L. B. Pettit, J. Floyd Stone Jr., and E. L. "Buddy" Harrison. They pointed out in their letter:

"We do not believe it is necessary . . . to call to your attention the fact that the Monroe Recreation Department is doing an outstanding job on a limited budget with very few facilities. This program is reaching only a small percent of our young people, while hundreds are being turned away because of the lack of facilities. . . .

"Does a recreational program have any bearing on juvenile delinquency? At the recent dedication of the Bendel Little League stadium one of the speakers called attention to the fact that of the thousands of boys who have taken part in only one program (baseball), that only three have become involved with authorities. This is most remarkable and points out very clearly the great benefits derived by those who are able to participate in the recreational program; however, the sad thing is that there are thousands more who cannot participate because of inadequate facilities.

"As interested citizens, we write you this letter, explaining how you, as a citizen, might do something about enlarging and improving the recreational facilities in the City of Monroe. The members of the Monroe Recreational Board and the city officials all recognize the desperate need for a well rounded and complete recreational program for all of our citizens. They are most anxious to assist in every way possible in securing these urgently needed improvements. However, elections are expensive and city officials are reluctant to call a bond election, not knowing whether a majority of our citizens and property owners would support such a program.

"In the past the Monroe Recreation Board and city officials have recommended a complete program which included a new swimming pool, youth centers, ball stadiums, tennis courts, and outdoor play areas which would provide playground equipment; but we citizens failed to lend them our support in getting this program into operation. Therefore, it is our desire as parents and citizens to let our city officials know that we do want a chance to vote the necessary monies for such a recreational program.

"We believe the easiest way to let our city officials know how we feel is for each family to mail a postcard addressed to the City Council, City Hall, Monroe, Louisiana, simply requesting that they . . . develop and present to the citizens of Monroe through a bond issue the facilities which we all know are needed at this time."

These letters were sent to 1,400 families with requests that each induce two other families to mail in cards. "Yes" or "No" answers on the cards are asked for these questions: 1—Are you a tax payer? 2—Are you a registered voter? 3—Would you be willing to vote a recreation bond issue? 4—Would you be willing to work for a bond issue?

PROMOTER NOW

Add a new face to the many worn by Loy Scarborough. He's a promoter now and has matched Clarence Cook, Bastrop policeman, against Tony Dupas of New Orleans for the main event on a card at B. and B. Arena here July 14. This first promotional venture by Scarborough could be the best thing that's happened to Cook since he fought Virgil Akins, provided of course he gets past Tony. Scarborugh, we understand, has a "gentlemen's agreement" with Whitey Esneault, manager of Tony and Ralph Dupas, to give Clarence a shot at the better known Ralph if he can beat Tony.

And, if Tony beats Clarence, then Scarborough has an invitation out for Indian Ortego to come here to meet Tony. "I'm only interested in 'name' fighters for main events," Scarborough said.

Scarborough has advanced through the ranks. He was amateur boxer back when the Illinois Central Booster Club and the Optimist Club were promoting the amateurs several years ago. Then for two seasons he was boxing coach on a Monroe Recreation Department program. From 1952 through '56 he was coach of the West Monroe American Legion Junior baseball club and his athletic career included semi-pro ball. For the past several years he has been in demand as a referee for boxing and wrestling. Some of his biggest officiating jobs were referee for the Fourth Army Boxing Tournament in 1956, and referee for the Golden Gloves Tournament at Greenville, Miss., the same year. He's an ex-deputy sheriff now in business for himself.

Scarborough says advanced ticket sales for the Cook-Dupas fight are good and he expects the biggest fight crowd here in at least two years.

LADIES OF GOLF

Newest addition to north Louisiana golf circles is the Lake Providence Ladies Golf Association organized recently. Officers are Mrs. Lonnie E. Townsend Jr., president; Mrs. Harvey H. Howington, vice-president; Mrs. Paul Marcus, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. King Trieschmann, reporter. They'll conduct a ladies' day tournament each month on their home course, the second Wednesday of each month. They'll elect officers annually.

Unser Scales Pikes Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A hail storm failed to slow racing and stock cars which roared up 14,110-foot Pikes Peak in record time Saturday.

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N. M., defending race car champion, maneuvered his Pontiac - powered auto over the twisting 12.4-mile mountain course in 13 minutes 36.5 seconds. That nipped his 1958 mark by 11.4 seconds.

A record time of 15 minutes 45.2 seconds was set by Nick Sanborn Jr. of Cascade, Colo., in the stock car division. He drove a Chevrolet. Sanborn won last year in the record time of 15:49.7.

Two other drivers broke last year's race car standard. Loren Robets of Denver finished in 13:13.4, and Charles Lowderman of Colorado Springs had a time of 13:45.7. Fourth place went to Bob Finney of Colorado Springs in 14:06.9.

Unser also won in 1956 in 14:27. He was third in 1957 with a time of 14:19.2.

His cousin, Louis J. Unser of Lakewood, Calif., was second in the stock car race this year, driving a Pontiac in 15:53.6.

Just That Far Away From A No-Hitter

New York Yankee right-hander Bob Turley holds up one finger to show how far away he was from a no-hitter in second game of doubleheader with the Washington Senators in Yankee Stadium today. Turley's bid was spoiled by Julio Becquer's pinch hit single in the ninth inning. Turley made a total of 105 pitches in the game. Yankees won second game, 7-0, after dropping first game 10-6. (AP Wirephoto)

YANKS, SOLONS SPLIT

Becquer's Safety Ruins No-Hit Bid

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Turley pitched a one-hitter — a wrong-field blooping single to left by pinch-hitter Julio Becquer leading off the ninth—as the New York Yankees stopped Washington 7-0 after the Senators won the opener of a doubleheader Saturday 10-6.

Becquer was batting .221 when he sliced a 1-1 pitch that dropped in front of left fielder Norm Siebern, who did not dive for the ball.

Turley, who permitted only two other base runners, quickly ended the game by getting Ken Aspromonte on a fly deep to Siebern and forcing Bob Allison to hit into a doubleplay.

It was the third one-hitter of Turley's career. He has never pitched a no-hitter.

Until the ninth, the Senators had come close to a hit only once—with two out in the eighth when another pinch-hitter, Hal Naragon, smashed a grounder between first and second.

Bill Skowron, the Yanks first baseman, made a lunging backhanded stop and tossed to Turley for the putout at first base.

Turley, last year's Cy Young Award winner as baseball's outstanding pitcher when he won 21 games and starred in the World Series, retired 18 batters in succession after he walked Billy Consolo, first up in the third.

Consolo was forced at second on an attempted sacrifice by loser Hal Griggs and Griggs got to second on a wild pitch—the only runner to get past first. The other base runner was Faye Throneberry who was hit by a pitched ball with two out in the second.

Becquer's looper landed about a stride in front of left fielder Siebern, the fielding flop of last year's World Series. Mangaer Casey Stengel earlier had pulled Mickey Mantle, suffering from a sore ankle, out of the game to strengthen the defense. He switched right fielder Tony Kubek from right to center and inserted speedy Jim Pisoni in right. But he left Siebern in left.

The one-hitter was the fourth in the AL this season. Early Wynn and Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore pitched the others, the latter against the Yanks.

Turley previously had one-hitters against Chicago April 26, 1955 and against Baltimore April 26, 1958.

Only three balls were hit to the outfield off the 28-year-old Troy, Ill., native, who now makes his home in Baltimore. None was a difficult play. Harmon Killebrew, who slammed his 27th home run in the opener to lead a 13-hit Senator attack, lined sharply to shortstop Gil McDougald in the fourth, but the ball was hit directly at him and McDougald made a routine play.

"I said to myself I'm gonna let her go and give it everything I got," Turley said later as he talked about his thoughts as he went out to pitch the ninth.

The first pitch was a ball, a low curve. The second a curve for a strike. "The third," Turley said, "was exactly where I wanted it." He said it was a fast ball that broke away from the hitter.

Turley threw 101 pitches and was very seldom behind the batters. He struck out nine as he won his seventh game against eight losses.

Kubek was the hitting leader in both games, going 8-for-10 with four hits in each game. He had a run of six straight hits, including his last two at-bats Friday night, before Chuck Stobbs stopped him in the ninth inning of the opener.

Skowron and Yogi Berra each had two RBI as the Yanks pounded Griggs and three successors for 13 hits.

Monroe Scores Two In Seventh

By BOB ANDERSON

Monroe's Sports rallied with two out in the bottom of the seventh to score two runs, the last one coming in when first baseman Kelton Bacon bobbled George Bryan's grounder, to wreck a fine pitching performance by Jack Norman, beat the West Monroe Vols, 4-3, and take undisputed possession of first place in the La-Ark League.

Center fielder Mickey Yerger almost ruined Norman personally, getting all of Monroe's three hits and driving in three runs.

Lefthander Norman, who fanned nine in going the distance for his first loss against two wins, almost had the game tucked away in the ninth as leadoff batter Ike McMullen and Francis Genusa both flied out to center. However, he walked Larry Reeves and Buddy O'Conner.

Yerger then scored Reeves from second with his third straight hit, a single, and O'Conner went to third. Bryan then topped a pitch toward Bacon, who played catcher throughout his high school career at West Monroe High, off first.

Bacon bobbled the ball, picked it up and fired off balance to Norman covering first. The throw was good but late and O'Conner sped home with the winning run.

The victory, highlighted by frequent wrangles between the managers and umpires Jim Mahoney and J. P. Kelly, was Monroe's 12th against one loss and gave them a one-game lead over West Monroe in the La-Ark race.

A near brawl livened up the evening. Monroe's Buddy O'Connor, a former high school grid star, plowed into Vol catcher Tuffy Antley in the fifth trying to score on a single by Yerger. Antley as tough as his name, held O'Connor. Both benches erupted on the field, surrounding the combatant and almost enlarging the affair into a small war.

Yerger wrecked a bit of strategy by Vol Manager Dave McKenzie in the third when the Sports tallied their other runs. McMullen was hit by a pitched ball to lead off the frame and stole second. Norman fanned Genusa and coaxed Reeves into a grounder to short.

With right hand hitting O'Conner at the plate, McKenzie ordered the catcher walked in order for Norman to pitch to left handed Yerger.

McMullen meanwhile had stolen second and moved to third on Reeves' grounder.

Norman slipped two strikes past Yerger while O'Conner swiped second. Yerger then smashed a long double to right that plated both runs and gave the Sports a 2-1 lead.

The Vols tallied in the first with the aid of two errors by pitcher Carroll George. Shelby Aulds led off the game with a single before George erred on a blow by Robert Perkins and threw wild on Bacon's grounder as Aulds scored.

George, former Northeast right-hander who blanked the Vols, 5-0, in the first meeting between the two clubs, walked in a run in the fourth. George Smitth clouted a tremendous triple to right center with one out. George walked Harold Davis, then fanned Ralph McNabb, but issued another free pass to Norman to load the bases. He gave Aulds first with four straight balls to knot the score at 2-2.

West Monroe went ahead in the fifth. Ronnie McNabb, the nights fielding star, walked with two gone and stole second. Smith, a Northwestern student, got his second consecutive hit, a single to center. Yerger bobbled the ball long enough for Smith to steam around third and score to put the Vols ahead, 3-2. Besides his throw-in the fifth, McNabb made a great diving catch of Genusa's sinker in the seventh.

The lead seemed safe with Norman, except for the trouble in the fifth, seemingly getting stronger all the time. After Bryan reached first on an error in the sixth, Norman fanned Kincaid and Eddie McGowen before second baseman Harold Davis, who made the error on Byran's blow, threw out George at first on a great play.

The trouble in the fifth started when O'Conner walked with two out. He stole second before Yerger singled to center. McNabb handled the ball cleanly and uncorked a perfect throw to the plate. O'Conner was out by eight feet but bowed up and rammed into Antley, starting the little war.

Yerger, of course, was the batting hero for Monroe with 3-4. Smith got 2-3 to lead the Volunteers.

Jerry Rouse, who came in to pitch the seventh after George was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth, was credited with the win, his third straight. Rouse retired the side in order in the top of the seventh.

Club Hurt By Suspension Of Key Players

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"It's going to hurt us, Manager Red Marion said Saturday of Chattanooga's loss of two players suspended for alleged failure to report in attempted bribe.

First baseman Jess Levan, the club's all-time home run leader with 83, Marion said, "swung a mighty big bat." Shortstop Waldo Gonzalez, Marion added, "was a sparkplug in the infield."

In the first such action in the 74-year history of the Southern Assn., President Charles Hurth suspended Levan and Gonzalez indefinitely pending final disposition of the case by George M. Trautman, minor league president.

Marion said a decision was expected from Trautman by the middle of next week. Testimony from Friday's hearing was sent to Trautman.

"If they're gulity they shouldn't be in baseball," he said. "If they're not, I hope they're back very soon."

The incident, Marion said, "came as a surprise to most of the team—especially the young kids.

"But it hasn't hurt their morale. They looked all right beating Nashville (9-3) last night, and they'll keep right on trying."

Levan and Gonzalez left for Chattanooga without talking to newsmen after being suspended.

AT WIMBLEDON

Bueno Cracks U.S. Domination

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Maria Bueno, a shy, slender teenager from Brazil, broke America's 22 - year - old domination of the Wimbledon women's singles championships Saturday by rifling the fastest service in women's tennis at Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., for a 6-4, 6-3 victory.

The center court, packed to its 15,000 capacity, rose and shouted as Brazil won its first Wimbledon singles title — after 15 consecutive U.S. victories — and made this tournament somewhat of a Latin-American festival since the men's crown fell Friday to Alex Olmedo of Peru.

Maria, who is 19, wasn't even born when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody started the long streak of American wins in 1938—one of the longest supremacys on the record books. But she changed all that Saturday with a service that included three acres and 10 unreturnables. Her admiring victim described it after the match as equal to the serving of Althea Gibson and Louise Brough.

Twenty-three - year-old Darlene, one-time waitress and now a pre-medical student, had trouble with her own service, committing five double faults—one of them giving Maria the fatal set point in the first set. On the next volley Darlene was wide on a sideline placement and it was Maria's set.

Maria's victory was the more remarkable because Darlene has beaten her every one of the six times they have met before.

The match took 43 minutes.

Perfect weather brought out a total crowd of 17,000 Saturday making the aggregate attendance for the tournament 275,000—nearly 30,000 more than last year. Wimbledon never announces the box office take but it is estimated at $490,000.

There was a possibly historic match going on before a handful of spectators on court one while the big titles were being decided on center court. Tomas Lejus, a 16½ - year - old blonde Estonian gave Russia its first Wimbledon crown by winning the boys junior championship from Brazilian Davis Cupper Ronald Barnes, 6-2, 6-4.

Darlene got some consolation for her singles defeat, however, when she helped bring the United States its only outright title of the tournament in the women's doubles and then won a share of the mixed doubles crown.

She teamed with Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., to win the outright title for the U.S., defeating the Anglo-American pair of Christine Truman and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles, Miss Hard and Rod Laver of Australia defeated Miss Bueno and Neale Fraser of Australia, 6-4, 6-3.

The Australian top - seeded team of Roy Emerson and Fraser won the men's doubles title, turning back their fellow countrymen, Laver and Bob Mark, 8-6, 6-3, 14-16, 9-7.

Bueno Points To Nationals At Forest Hills

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Maria Bueno, the new Wimbledon women's champion, said Saturday she plans to return to her home in Sao Paulo, Brazil, next week and then get ready for the U. S. Nationals at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Miss Bueno broke a 21-year U. S. monopoly on the title by beating Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., in the final 6-4, 6-3.

Maria is a school teacher who speaks four languages—English, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese—and who is coy about her romantic life.

Asked about boy friends, she said:

"I've nothing to say about that."

Maria said her match with Miss Hard was "the best I have ever played in my life."

"I started playing better four weeks ago and somehow my confidence came back to me."

AT NEW ORLEANS

Forum Slated On Hunting Seasons

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special)—A two-day open forum where sportsmen, or any citizens of Louisiana, may have the opportunity to express their views towards setting the 1959-60 hunting seasons will be conducted July 7 and 8 at the Wild Life and Fisheries Building, 400 Royal Street, in New Orleans, according to an announcement made today by Rudolph P. Easterly, director.

The morning sessions, which shall open at 10 a.m., and continue until noon each day will be concerned with small game only. These sessions will concern the rabbit, squirrel and quail seasons. The legislative framework in which these seasons may be set are November 1 through February 28 for rabbit and quail and October 1 through February 10 for squirrel.

Afternoon sessions, which will be confined to deer only, will begin each day at 2 p.m. The legislative framework within which the deer seasons may be set is October ' through January 10, Easterly said.

The sessions will be conducted by E. R. McDonald, Sr., chairman of the commission, and according to an agenda which shall be supplied all those in attendance along with a registration sheet which is to be filled out by the participant designating the specific species of game upon which the attendant wishes to express his views. Those not wishing to be heard will also signify their intentions. Time permitting, those present and signifying their intentions on the registration sheet will be allowed to express their opinions on seasons for other game at the morning sessions, Easterly said.

All sessions will be conducted in the commission's meeting chamber on the fourth floor of the Wild Life and Fisheries building.

Major League Attendance Up For Holiday

By The Associated Press

Attendance at major league baseball games on the Fourth of July showed a decided increase over 1958 as a total of 176,567 fans turned out for four doubleheaders and four single games, one of them at night.

A year ago there were seven doubleheaders with a total attendance of 139,065.

The American League, with three of the doublebills, topped the National 95,587 to 80,990. July 4, 1958, the American League's attendance for four doubleheaders was 76,645 and the National's 62,420 for three.

The twinbill between the Cleveland Indians and the Tigers at Detroit brought out the largest crowd of 35,799. The largest National League crowd of 29,446 saw Los Angeles and Chicago split.

Only playing manager in the Eastern League this season is ex-Yankee catcher Charlie Silvera with Binghamton, N. Y.

Dodgers Divide Pair With Bruins

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Drysdale pitched the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday after the Cubs captured the opening game 2-1.

It was Drysale's first victory in Wrigley Field after three straight losses here in four seasons. Drysdale scattered five hits to bag his ninth win. He fanned 11 and walked only one.

In the opener, Cub pitcher Bob Anderson yielded six hits in winning over rookie Larry Sherry who was making his first major league start. The 23 - year - old Sherry, pitching the first seven innings, surrendered four hits. He fanned seven and walked one.

Chicago's two runs in the fourth of the first game were unearned. Dale Long singled with two out then Lee Walls survived on Jim Gilliam's fumble. Catcher Sammy Taylor followed with a triple that fell between Wally Moon and Ron Fairly to score Long and Walls.

Anderson, getting his fifth win in 12 decisions, watched Duke Snider smash his 11th homer with one out in the ninth.

Disputed Play Gives Pirates Win Over Reds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A disputed play in which the umpire reversed his decision gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the run they needed Saturday to edge the Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

The play came in the fifth inning when the Pirates scored two runs to break a 2-2 tie.

Joe Nuxhall, the Cincinnati starting pitcher, walked Bill Virdon to open the inning. Dick Groat blasted a ball deep to center field, scoring Virdon. Groat tried to score himself, and was called out by plate Umpire Vic Delmore.

Groat went wild and the Pirate bench poured onto the field, claiming catcher Ed Bailey had dropped Johnny Temple's relay throw. After a conference with his fellow umpires, Delmore reversed his decision and allowed the run to score. Groat was credited with a triple and Bailey with an error.

Nuxhall, who was charged with his eighth defeat against three victories, was lifted in favor of Tom Acker after giving up a single to Smoky Burgess. Acker shut out the Pirates the rest of the way.

Groat was the hero as he got three hits in four attempts. In the first inning he tripled home Bill Virdon who had walked. The Pirates got their second run in the second inning on a double by Bill Mazeroski, a single by Don Hoak and a sacrifice fly.

Bob Friend, the 22-game winner of last year, pitched all the way for the Pirates to record his fourth win. He has lost 10. He gave up 10 hits, three of them in the third inning when the Reds got two runs.

Phillies Knock Braves Out Of First Place With 2-1 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robin Roberts scattered eight hits and helped bring across one of two Philadelphia runs Saturday night as the last-place Phils defeated Milwaukee 2-1 and knocked the National League champions out of first place.

San Francisco, whiih defeated St. Louis 10-3 this afternoon, now leads the Braves by half a game.

After the Braves scored their lone run in the second inning, Ed Bouchee evened the score with his seventh home run of the year in the fourth.

The Phils wrapped it up in the fifth when Sparky Anderson singled and went to third on another single by Carl Sawatski. Roberts then grounded into a doubleplay with Anderson scoring.

The Braves threatened to pull the game out for Lou Burdette in the eighth but some wierd base-running ended that threat.

Frank Torre got a pinch single for Budette and Casey Wise came in to run for him. Bill Bruton singled and Wise was caught between second and third base. He headed back to second as Bruton came in to the base. Gene Freese tagged both men out.

The Braves' run cmae on singles by Joe Adcock and Del Crandall and Johnny O'Brien's double.

Roberts, in evening his record at 7-7, got stronger after the second, and, aside from the eighth, was in no trouble.

The Braves' made one last gasp in the ninth when Ed Mathews opened with a single. Hank Aaron then forced Matthews and Wes Covington struck out. Adcock ended it by flying out.

Burdette now is 11-8.

SAAU Meet Set For July 10-11

The Southern AAU junior swimming and diving championships, with approximately 400 entries expected, will be held at the Highland Park Country Club July 10-11, meet director Jeff Hennessey announced yesterday.

According to Hennessey, who is a swimming and gymnastics coach at Northwestern and a native West Monroyan, this will mark the first time that a meet of this nature has been held in this area. Similar meets have been held in Shreveport, Minden and Baton Rouge.

The junior division is open to anyone except champions in the junior and senior brackets. Minden is expecting to send a strong girl's team while Shreveport will probably provide the stiffest competition among boys.

Twin Cities entrants have faired well in past AAU meets. Charles Stewart of West Monroe, who went to the national trampoline championships, is scheduled to dive in the one-meter event. Charles Prophit of Monroe was runner-up to Bosty McClanahan of Monroe in 1955 in the three-meter dive.

Teams from Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Jackson, Miss., and Hattisburg, Miss. are also expected to participate in the meet.

The preliminaries are scheduled to begin Friday afternoon and continue through Saturday afternoon with the finals slated for Friday and Saturday night.

The meet will open to the general public and no admission will be charged said Hennessey. He added, "We'll see some of the best diving in the South."

Schedule of events:

Friday at 2 p.m.—one-meter diving, 50-meter free style, 100-meter back stroke, 100-meter breast stroke, 200-meter free style (preliminaries). Finals at 6 p.m. Friday.

Saturday at 2 p.m.—three-meter diving, 100-meter free style, 100-meter butterfly, 400 - meter free style, 200-meter free style relay (preliminaries). Finals at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Ruston Tops Monroe, 5-4, For 11th Win

Ruston's unbeaten American Legion squad pushed over a pair of unearned runs in final inning after two were out to upend Monroe, 5-4, Friday night.

The victory boosted Ruston's fifth district lead to two full games over Monroe who dropped its second game in 11 outings. Ruston is 11-0.

Two glaring errors in the last inning after two were out set the stage for the Ruston rally. With Max Lewis on first with a walk, Stuart Toms was safe when shortstop muffed a routing grounder. McGinn booted a ball hit by John Bailey, allowing Lewis to score, and Bo Dick Smith's single brought in Toms with the winning run.

Neal Gunn hurled the first five innings for Monroe before giving way to Bob Saterfield in the sixth. Ronnie Marrus went the distance for Ruston.

Smith with 3-4 and Jerry Hood with 2-3 were the top hitters for Ruston. Harry Crowe has 2-3 for Monroe.

JULY 14

Garris Named To Supporting Card

DeWayne Garris, local heavyweight who scored a three-round knockout over Billy DeSoto in Shreveport Thursday night, will meet Andy Fritcher of New Orleans in a four-round semifinal bout supporting the Clarence Cook-Tony Dupas main attraction here July 14.

Matchmaker Loy Scarbrough made the announcement after conferring with Whitey Esneault in New Orleans. Esneault, who handles Fritcher as well as Tony and Ralph Dupas, labeled Fritcher as a rough, tough customer who is willing to slug toe to toe.

Garris unveiled a powerful right hand in stopping DeSoto, 23 pounds heavier, in last week's bout. A veteran of 41 fights, Garris started out four years ago as a 150-pounder and has won all but eight of his bouts.

Scarbrough also has lined up a six-round tussel featuring a pair of colored belters, Kid Henry Burton of Monroe and Columbus Marshall of Shreveport. Marshall beat Burton in a Texas match but Burton evened the score with a victory in the local ring.

Scarbrough plans to schedule at least three more four-rounders for the card but is going slow in order to find good fighters.

Esneault, who brought up such fighters as Willie Pastrano into the national spotlight, hopes to use the Cook fight as a stepping stone for Tony Dupas toward national recognition. He feels Cook, who has beaten several name fighters, should provide the answer to whether or not Dupas is ready for the big time.

Tickets for the July 14 attraction are on sale in Monroe at Fink's Men's Store and Adler's Garage and in West Monroe at Chandler's Shoe Store. In Bastrop, tickets may be obtained at C & A Club, in Oak Grove at Pippen's Cafe and in Winnsboro at Jack Carpenter's Grocery.

Scholz Beats

Scholz weighed 159¼, his opponent 158¼.

Speedway To Open Racing Season Today

The Twin City Speedway kicks off its 1959 season this afternoon at 1 o'clock with a full slate of stock car races.

The half - mile oval on the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe is expected to be in top condition, according to owner O. O. Cloyd.

"We watered and rolled out the track today (Saturday) and we expect it to be in top running condition Sunday," Cloyd said. "All the drivers are enthusiastic and we're expecting a large number of cars."

Time trials will open the program at 1 p.m. with heat races, the trophy dash and the feature event to follow.

Competition will be in two classes, one restricted to cars with no modifications and the other to "souped-up" automobiles.

BEAT JURGES' BOSOX, 11-5

Baltimore Spoils Manager's Debut

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles spoiled Billy Jurges' debut as manager of the Red Sox Saturday, clouting four home runs and 13 hits for an 11-5 victory.

Jurges, replacing Mike Higgins, used four pitchers in an attempt to halt the Oriole barrage led by Walt Dropo. The big first baseman hit two homers and a single driving in four runs.

The other Baltimore homers were hit by Jim Finigan, his first of the year, and Gus Triandos, his 19th.

Young Milt Pappas went the distance to record his eighth victory in 12 decisions. However, Pappas was in trouble frequently, yielding nine hits, three walks and tossing two wild pitches.

The loser was Boston starter Ted Wills who gave up nine hits and nine runs before he was removed in the fifth. He was succeeded by Mike Fornieles, Leo Kiely and Murray Wall.

The Orioles got off to a 2-0 lead in the second when Dropo hit his first homer after Gus Triandos had reached base when Ted Williams muffed a routine fly ball.

Both team added single runs in the third and fourth before Baltimore exploded for five in the fifth. Triandos' homer with one aboard and Chico Carrasquel's two-run double were the big hits of the rally.

The Red Sox came back with three in the sixth on Marty Keough's single, a walk to Vic Wertz, successive singles by Jackie Jensen and Williams and a wild pitch.

Although Jurges stuck primarily to the same players, there was one noticeable change in Boston's starting line-up. Williams, hitting 100 percentage points below his usual clip, was dropped from third to sixth in the batting order.

Ramos Puts On Show For Fans

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-hander Pete Ramos of the Washington Senators had a 7-0 lead over the New York Yankees when he came to bat in the third inning of Saturday's opener at Yankee Stadium.

So he gave the big holiday crowd something of a show.

He batted right-handed against the second pitch and again swung and missed.

On Bronstad's third pitch, Ramos dumped a bunt down the third base line and beat it out for a single.

All-Stars Play Tuesday With Ted, Stan On Bench

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Time marches on and the 26th All-Star Baseball Game will be played Tuesday afternoon at Pittsburgh with Stan Musial and Ted Williams sitting on the bench, waiting for pinch-hitting duty.

The two potential Hall of Fame members actually were selected by the respective managers after failing to finish 1-2 in the vote of the players who select the starters.

The American League, winner of the last two, holds a comfortable 15-10 edge over the National League in this series that dates back to 1933 at Comiskey Park in Chicago. It hasn't been played in Pittsburgh since 1944, when Billy Southworth's Nationals scored a 7-3 victory over Joe McCarthy's Americans in a wartime game at night.

This is to be the first of two All-Star Games this year with the proceeds ticketed for the generous player pension fund. The second will be played Aug. 3 at Los Angeles. In 1942, before there was such a thing as a player pension, they also played two games but only the first counted in the standings. This time they both count. So does the money.

A sellout crowd of about 35,000 will jam picturesque Forbes Field for this annual test, scheduled for noon, EST. As part of the regular All-Star-World Series 3¼-million-dollar deal, the game will be beamed across the nation on radio and television by NBC.

Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves, who have been making a practice of meeting in October and July, again will match master minds. Stengel holds a 2-1 edge over Haney, including last fall's dramatic World Series comeback. Old Case has had his troubles in the All-Star business, losing five out of six until he started to click in 1957. Now he's on a two-game winning streak.

If you had to guess on a starting pitcher, it might be sound to select Early Wynn of Chicago or Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore for the American. Take your choice between Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles for the National.

Each starting line-up is loaded with right-handed batters. That would seem to call almost automatically for a right-handed pitcher. The American has four — Wynn, Wilhelm, Jim Bunning of Detroit and relief man Ryne Duren of New York. Stengel also has three southpaws in his own Whitey Ford, Chicago's Billy Pierce and Kansas City's Bud Daley.

The National right-handers, in addition to Burdette and Drysdale, are Roy Face, the relief man from Pittsburgh, and Gene Ctley, the Phillies' giant whose comeback is not calculated to stir great joy in the heart of Haney and the Braves. The National left-handers are Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, making the team for the 11th time, Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco and Wilmer Mizell of St. Louis.

BEAT CARDS, 10-3

Giants Squeeze Into First Place

ST. LOUIS (AP)—San Francisco took over first place in the National League Saturday, trampling the St. Louis Cardinals 10-3 with a flurry of base hits including a pair of home runs by Daryl Spencer.

The victory, coupled with Milwaukee's night game loss to Philadelphia, edged the Giants ½ game and .004 percentage points in front of the defending National League champion Braves.

Spencer, who will be 30 on July 13, celebrated early by driving in half of the Giants' runs with his sixth and seventh home runs and a single.

One of Spencer's homers was a three-run affair in the Giant's big fifth inning. The Giants batted around in the fifth, scoring five runs and routing Cardinal starter Larry Jackson.

The winning pitcher was Mike McCormick. He was replaced in the eighth by Stu Miller after yielding the three runs on nine hits. The victory left McCormick with an 8-6 record.

The loser was Jackson, now 7-7.

A sudden shower delayed the game for 45 minutes in the fourth inning just after San Francisco assumed a 3-2 lead with a run on successive singles by Jackie Brandt and Hobie Landrith, who had four hits in the game, and Ed Bressoud.

Gino Cimoli doubled in two runs in the third for St. Louis, tying the score, after McCormick had retired the first seven Cardinals he faced. McCormick struck out five before departing.

Willie Mays scored a first inning run for the Giants on a single by Spencer after reaching base on a force play. Mays scored again in the third on a single by Willie Kirkland after receiving a walk and stealing second.

Each club picked up a run in the seventh.

Indians Sweep Twin Bill To Stretch League Lead

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—The Cleveland Indians swept a holiday doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers Saturday to strengthen their hold on first place in the close American League race.

Cal McLish put together a neat five-hitter to take the opener 6-1 and the Indians outlasted the Tigers 12-9 in an 11-inning nightcap punctuated by 33 base hits.

The Tigers could do little with McLish in the opener, but they made a fight of it all the way in the nightcap.

When Cleveland scored five runs in the top of the eighth inning of the finale—three on relief pitcher Mudcap Grant's first major league homer—they had a 9-4 lead but Detroit bounced back with five runs in their half of the inning to knot it again.

Charlie Maxwell, who had hit nine of his 18 homers on Sundays, came through a day early with a three-run blast in that eighth inning.

The Indians tucked things away in the 11th as Tito Francona, a former Tiger, led off with his ninth home run of the season. Jim Baxes came through with his fifth homer a few minutes later.

Gary Bell one of Cleveland's top ranked starting pitchers, made his second appearance of the season as a reliefer to pick up the victory in the nightcap. Bob Smith, the fourth Tiger pitcher, took the loss, his first decision of the season.

Cleveland's long ball hitting for the day included Rocky Colavito's 24th home run with Minnie Minoso picking up No. 13. Niel Chrisley picked up his third for the Tigers and has yet to get a single for the Tigers. He had been used only sparingly and has a double in addition to his three home runs for the season.

Chisox, Athletics Split Two Games

By FRANK CRAWFORD

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Chicago White Sox fell a step further behind in the American League pennant race as the Kansas City Athletics exploded against Billy Pierce in Fourth of July fashion to win the second game of a doubleheader 8-3.

The Sox had put on some heavy blasting of their own to win the opener, 7-4, largely on the home run hitting of John Romano, Sherm Lollar and Bubba Phillips.

The split put the Sox two games behind the Cleveland Indians who won a doubleheader from Detroit.

There were a total of 47 hits in the two games.

The Athletics walloped 13 hits in the nightcap and bombed Pierce from the mound as they scored five runs in the first five innings. Jerry Lumpe, Dick Williams and Roger Maris all hit homers.

Rip Coleman started for the Athletics and shut out the Sox until he was driven from the mound in the fifth.

Johnny Kucks took over and shut out Chicago the rest of the way on four hits to gain credit for his second triumph against four losses.

Bob Cerv, who collected three hits, singled home a run for the A's in the first. The lead became 3-0 in the second when Lumpe hit a two-run homer. The A's rapped Pierce for four hits in the third as they hiked their lead to 5-0.

Then the Athletics scored three times against Rodolfo Arias in the last of the fifth. Williams homered with Kucks aboard to send home the first two runs and Maris slammed his first homer since returning to the line-up following an appendicitis operation. It was his 11th of the season.

The Sox slammed 17 hits in the opening game. Jim Landis went 5-for-5 and Jim McAnany had two doubles and two singles in five trips.

The Athletics socked nine hits, eight of them against Dick Donovan, the White Sox starter. Donovan was driven from the mound in the fourth inning when the A's took a 4-2 lead on a two - run homer by Hal Smith. Bob Shaw replaced him and checked the Athletics on one hit the rest of the way.

Consecutive home runs in the sixth by Romano and Phillips tied the score and headed Bud Daley, the Kansas City starter, for the exit. Sherm Lollar sent home the winning runs with a two - run homer against Bob Grim in the seventh.

The Leader Blasts From Trap

Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, South Carolina, blasts from a deep trap up on to the eighth green in the third round of the Ladies PGA National championships. She shot a 5 under par 69 to lead the field of women golfers by 4 strokes after 54 holes of play. Her total for the 54 holes is 213.

Rawls Grabs Four-Stroke Lead In PGA

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., continued her brilliant play Saturday, forging a four-stroke lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship with a 5-under-par 69.

Added to Friday's 68 and Thursday's 76, it gave her a 213 total. The final 18 holes will be played Sunday over the rugged Sheraton Country Club course.

Miss Rawls broke the course record for women Friday and equaled the old mark Saturday.

Wall, Finsterwald Share Leadership In Flint Open

By DAVE DILES

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Art Wall Jr., and Dow Finsterwald, two of golf's foremost reigning champions, shared the lead Saturday after three rounds of the $52,000 Flint Open Golf Tournament. They had 54-hole totals of 210, six under par.

Wall, Masters champion and the game's leading money winner, and Finsterwald, defending PGA titlist, had four-stroke leads over Ken Venturi, winner of last week's Chicago Open, and pudgy Lionel Hebert in the race for the $9,000 first prize money.

There was a difference of only one stroke in the third - round cards of the co-leaders, Finsterwald's 1 - under - par 71 enabling him to deadlock Wall, who led him by one stroke at the halfway mark.

Both he and Wall missed opportunities to capture a solo lead. Finsterwald, despite a sizzling 34 coming home on the par 36-36—72 course, missed putts of 1½ and 4 feet and took bogies. Wall left a birdie putt 2 inches below the hole on the 18th green.

Defending champion Bill Casper, had a 75 and tied with four others at 215, five strokes behind the leaders. Tied with Casper are Julius Boros, Jay Hebert, Pete Cooper and Arnold Palmer, who tied for the day's low round with a 69 at the sprawling Warwick Hills layout in nearby Grand Blanc.

Only three others had par-equalling scores going into Sunday's final round. Jack Nicklaus, 19-year-old Walker Cupper from Columbus, Ohio, was low amateur in the event at 216 after a sparkling 70. Tied with him were Jerry Barber and Ted Kroll.

The field was trimmed to low 60 professionals and the 5 low amateurs for the final day of the 72-hole meet. For that showdown, the players must challenge Warwick Hills at its full 7,280 yards.

Tournament officials announced that in the event of a tie during regulation play, an 18-hole playoff will be staged Monday.

OAK GROVE AT MONROE

Only Two Games On La-Ark Slate

The La-Ark League offers an abbreviated slate of two games this afternoon with Oak Grove playing at Monroe and Dubach at Crossett.

The West Monroe - Bastrop contest scheduled for Bastrop has been postponed, according to Lark president Carl Livingston. Several of the Bastrop players would have been unable to play because of work. The game has not been rescheduled so far.

In Friday night games, Monroe and West Monroe picked up victories No. 11 to go into last night's makeup game as co-leaders. The Sports whipped Crossett, 5-2, while West Monroe downed Dubach, 4-2.

Bastrop pulled to within 1½ games of third - place Dubach by mauling winless Oak Grove, 26-12. The loss was Oak Grove's 11th in a row. Roddy Harper and Jerry Moore hit homers to pace the Bastrop attack with Joe Roan notching the pitching victory in relief of newcomer Tommy Rogers.

Wayne Hendricks struck out 12 batters, got two hits and drove in a run to pace West Monroe over Dubach. Charles Fuller, who allowed five hits to four given up by Hendricks, took the loss. First sacker Kelton Bacon got a double and triple for the Vols while Bob Colvin drove in one of Dubach's runs with a double.

Larry Reeves and Jerry Rouse teamed up to pitch Monroe past Crossett. Reeves hurt his arm and departed in the sixth with Rouse taking over. Together, they allowed the Millers six hits while the Sports rapped out 10. Mickey Yerger was the batting leader with two safeties, one a triple. Frank Vickers absorbed the loss, going all the way.

Left fielder John Burgwyn led the University of North Carolina batters with a .324 mark this spring.

The schedule of Solunar Periods as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

TO MEET ZYBYSKO

Wrestling Bear At B&B Monday

"Little". "The Beast" is a genuine bear, evidently brown, who goes by the name of "Brown Bomber."

This refugee from the deep woods is also billed as the "world's most talented animal,"

THE BROWN BOMBER

Lassie and Trigge nothwithstanding.

Zybysko may also be classed as talented, if not an animal, but he will be giving away a few pounds to his hairy opponent and is liable a few nasty bites unless the "Bomber" has been defanged.

This match is a special event on a three-bout card. The special exhibition will have no time limit with one fall to win. Should Zybysko beat his woodsy foe, he''ll pocket $100 guaranteed to any human wrestler who defeats the wrestling bear in addition to his regular wages.

Heading the card is a double main event. One bout will show Carlos Mendoza and Frankie Kovac in a return match. The two boys staged a nasty little brawl last week which ended with the disqualification of Mendoza Carlos was using some brass knuckles on his gringo opponent.

The other half of the double main event has newcomer Mickey Sharp of New York City going against West Monroe's crowd-pleaser Bill Barney. Promoter August Baumgartner says he doesn't know much about Sharp but believes he will give Barney enough trouble to occupy his mind while waiting for another shot at the Louisiana heavyweight championship.

The two regular bouts will have a 60-minute limit with two falls to win. Al Massey will be the referee.

Elston Replaces Mizell On NL All-Star Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Elston, Chicago Cubs' right-handed relief pitcher, will replace Vinegar Bend Mizell on the National League's All-Star Game squad in Pittsburgh Tuesday, the office of Warren Giles, league president announced Saturday.

Mizell recently has been troubled with his back, a spokesman said and requested his withdrawal from the roster. Giles contacted Fred Haney, Milwaukee Braves' manager who will direct the National League team strategy. He in turn indicated his preference for Elston, the announcement said.

Elston has a 5-1 record and has appeared in 32 games.

Former Notre Dame varsity football coach Hugh Devore coaches the Irish freshman team.

WILT'S HIGH JUMPING

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, former Kansas basketball star who recently signed with the Philadelphia Warriors, once cleared six feet, six inches in a high jump competition.

REV. W. R. DOWDEN

Peniel Baptist Church Calls Rev. Dowden

Recently called to take the post as pastor of the Peniel Baptist Church in West Monroe was Rev. William Roy Dowden.

A native of Vernon Parish, Rev. Dowden was formerly pastor of the Athens Baptist Church in Athens, Louisiana. He is the son of the late Thomas Ivy Dowden and Fannie Curtis Dowden, now of Leesville.

After serving six years in the Army during World War II, Rev. Dowden resumed studies in Agriculture at Northwestern State College. He received his degree in this same field at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

For his theological degrees, Rev. Dowden attended Stephen F. Austin College where he received his M. E. D. and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary where he received his B. D.

Rev. Dowden is married to the former Polly Polk and is the father of two daughters.

Church Group Gains Ground In Islands

MANILA (AP)—A comparatively new religious sect has gained a firm foothold in the predominantly Roman Catholic Philippines.

Founded by a Filipino in 1914, the "Iglesia ni Cristo" (literally Church of Christ) has grown from a mere handful to the most aggressive and close-knit of Philippine religious minorities.

There are no up-to-date official records but Director Leon Maria Gonzales of the Bureau of Census and Statistics says the Iglesia's claim of a million members is "close to being correct."

Other religious sects in the Philippines include Protestants, Moslems, Buddhists and Jews but 84 per cent of the 23 million Filipinos are Roman Catholics.

The top man of the Iglesia is Felix Manalo, 73-year-old former Protestant preacher who is looked upon by his followers as the source of salvation of their souls.

Manalo was a Seventh Day Adventist until he broke with the Adventist Central Office over doctrine and administrative policies. Then, it is claimed, he got a "message" from God.

It is told that after fasting for three days and nights to reassess his beliefs Manalo decided to go out among the people and tell them of his message.

Basically, the Iglesia is a faith of the poor and middle class. It has neither priests nor saints. Even Manalo is titled merely "executive minister.

Its tenets are based on Revelations 7:1-3:

"And after these things, I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds, that the winds should not blow on the earth, nor on any sea nor on any tree.

"And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God; and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea.

"Saying, hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of God in their foreheads."

The Iglesia believes that the Big Four of World War I (Woodrow Wilson, Lloyd George, Georges Clemenceau and Vittorio Oralndo) might have plunged the world into a "more disastrous war" were it not for the timely appearance of Manalo, the prophesied angel from the east.

The Iglesia holds services on Thursday and Sunday. Its rituals are simple. Service usually consists of hymns, a prayer, the sermon and more prayers. The Iglesia does not believe in communions or confessions.

Symbols of the rise of this aggressive new faith are its chapels, some 3,000 in various parts of the country. They are given to fanciful towers and flashy facades.

Members of the sects are bound not merely by the tenacity of their belief in the Biblical basis of their faith but also by the fellowship and mutual-help devices the church propagates.

Iglesia members in a neighborhood invariably are well acquainted with one another and the church maintains a social security system which helps sick and needy members from contributions.

As executive minister, Manalo holds sole authority to ordain ministers, to promote them and to fix their salaries. The question of a successor is not often discussed in Iglesia circles.

Old Churches Come To Life In New Move

Over a period of several years, as the population has shifted from rural to urban and suburban areas, several denominations have had to close many small churches and chapels in rural sections of the United States. Some of these once were thriving churches, but as members moved away, the congregations dwindled to a handful and the buildings finally were abandoned.

Within the last four or five years, however, churches in various sections of the country have reversed this trend, reports that church's Board of Missions. As suburbs creep farther out into what once was farm land and as new communities spring up in the open country, an abandoned church building may be surrounded by new homes with young families. With new people to be served, some of the abandoned churches have been re-opened.

From Tennessee and Maryland come stories of two such abandoned churches that have been reactivated and now are serving growing congregations with a lively program.

Woods Chapel Methodist Church naer Oakdale, in eastern tennessee, had only eight members left in the early 1940s. Members had gradually moved to other places, and during World War II the doors of the chuurch were opened only occasionally. A meeting was held to determine whether the church should be sold. The small congregation voted not to sell and to attend and support the church. Things began to look up, and at another meeting in May, 1955, plans were laid by the 43 members present to hold a vacation Bible school. A few weeks later, 41 children received their Bible school certificates, despite the fact that borrowed materials had to be used and the building had no plumbing facilities or water.

The coming of winter presented new problems, with no heat in the church. Somehow a furnace was located, and different families took turns as custodians. Attendance at Sunday school and church rose gradually, finally reaching 125. A Wesleyan Service Guild was organized. Then came the decision to build a new and more adequate plant. The old church was torn down and construction was started in August, 1958. Now completed, the small but neat frame building of colonial style has a sanctuary seating 200. And it is expected that the day will come when that much space will be needed. From the low point of eight members and a partially-abandoned building, Woods Chapel has grown in membership of 75.

In 1943 the Concord Methodist Church in Maryland, near Washington, D.C., was closed. It remained closed until 1955. In the intervening 12 years, the postwar growth of suburban Washington pushed the settled areas ever outward. Around the once isolated little church, new homes began to rise. There are now 5,000 new homes within the radius of one mile of Concord church, and more are going up. Concord church was reopened in 1955 and has grown from a membership of none to 159 in three years. The church school has an enrollment of 112 and an average attendance of 65. The Woman's Society of Christian Service has 29 members and the Official Board, 25.

The major need for the growing congregation now is for an addition to the original frame chapel. Additional land has been purchased, and a dwelling on the lot is being used as the church school plant. The congregation has pledged $31,710 over 150 weeks for a new building. The Board of Missions of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church is supporting the re-activated congregation in its building program and sees this once abandoned church as "one of the potentially great Methodist churches of the future."

Local Methodist Church To Hold Homecoming

Next Sunday, July 12, will mark the seventh annual homecoming of the Southside Methodist Church, according to the Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor.

Rev. Joyner has served the church since its organization. During this time the church has grown to 680 members with a property evaluation of $135,000.

In addition to its regular program, the church sponsors five missions in the Monroe area: North Grand, South Grand, Gibson Chapel, St. Andrew's Chapel, and a service each Sunday at Green Oaks Home.

Last year the church received 140 new members. It is also looking forward to erecting a new building for children and youth in the near future.

Guest speaker for the homecoming will be Rev. George S. Harbuck, superintendent of the Monroe District of the Methodist Church.

The pastor issued an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend the homecoming service at the morning worship period and the dinner on the grounds afterwards.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Recently my aged mother died, and instead of a conventional burial I had her cremated. I would have respected her wishes but she never indicated any preference. Recently someone told me that it was contrary to the teaching of the Bible, because it destroyed the body which God would raise up at the last day. Was I un-Christian in doing this thing? F. E.

ANSWER: It is true that cremation is of pagan tradition, but that does not necessarily make it a sinful act. As an alternative to burial, it has been generally accepted by many people, both Christian and non - Christian. I am confident that it has nothing whatever to do with the resurrection of the body. Many Christians have been accidentally burned, and this certainly will not limit God in the resurrection.

The Bible teaches that we will have a new body in the resurrection. The Bible says, "But God giveth it a body even as it pleased Him, and to each seed a body of its own." (I Cor. 15: 38).

It appears that the actual mode of disposing of the dead is not the crucial issue and it need cause you no remorse. If your mother had her personal faith in Christ, she then met the only condition for sharing in the glorious resurrection of the just. That is why the Christian can assuredly say that the grave is not the end.

Fears State Religion May Come Back

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — A Christian leader has expressed fear that state Shintoism is rallying for a comeback, and that if this happens civil and religious liberties in Japan will be curtailed.

The anxiety was voiced by J. Newland Pfaff, president of the Japan Bible Christian Council in the English-language edition of the nation-wide newspaper Yomiuri.

"How disappointing to see in Japan the deliberate efforts of certain ultra-reactionary religious and political leaders who seek to further advance their already well-developed efforts towards the restoration of state Shinto and emperor worship as the center of Japanese official national life," Pfaff wrote.

Shinto officials deny this is the case.

Pfaff's fears stem largely from moves by some members of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party to restore official recognition to the Ise Grand Shrine, mecca for Shintoists, in central Japan.

Ise — seat of state Shintoism which the militarists used so effectively to build the cult of emperor-worship and ultra-nationalism—enshrines the spirit of the mythical sun goddess Amaterasu. Japan's emperors were formerly said to be directly descended from Amaterasu, supreme diety of the Japanese nation.

The Ise shrine lost official backing when occupation authorities abolished state Shintoism after the war.

But Pfaff warned that an analysis of recent developments "lead us to believe a gradual but definite curtailment of civil and religious liberties will be the result, as well as a return to the old emperor system, which was outlawed by Japan's postwar constitution."

Prof. Tomonobu Yanagita of St. Paul University said "the impelling force of the Shinto-nationalists within the Liberal - Democratic party committee on religion was formed last January.

One issue raised by committee officials is whether official recognition of Ise might not clash with the postwar constitution whose article 20 says "no religious organization shall receive any privileges from the state, nor exercise any political authority."

Official figures place the number of Shinto believers at 79 million, Buddhists at 44 million and Christians at 601,000.

This exceeds Japan's 90 million population, but officials explain that almost everyone who has visited a shrine is automatically considered a Shintoist, and that it is quite in order for a Japanese to be both a Shintoist and Buddhist at the same time.

HELPFUL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Philanthropical contributions increased 5.97 per cent and assets of gift-supported institutions increased more than $2 billion in 1958, according to the American Association of Fund Raising Counsel Inc. The Association also noted that the rise in contributions exceeded the gain in personal income for the first time in recent years.

PLAY ABOUT MISS KELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Miracle Worker," a drama about the childhood of Helen Keller, is slated to open on Broadway Oct. 19.

Anne Bancroft, who made sensational debut in "Two for the Seesaw," enacts Annie Sullivan, the blind child's tutor. Patricia Neal is cast as Miss Keller's mother.

Express Concern Over Argentine Church Ruling

The Monroe congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses learned this week that Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina have been denied their rights of free assembly and worship in that country. A vote of protest was taken and plans discussed to petition the Argentine Republic to correct the restrictions laid on the Christian group's activities.

Henry C. Trull, the local congregation's presiding minister, said that in spite of many liberal advancements made by the present Argentine government which ousted the dictorial Peron regime, a few religious groups that were declared illegal by Peron have yet to be recognized by Argentina's constitutional president, Arturo Frondizi.

According to Mr. Trull, two different applications for recognition were denied by the "Ministry of Worship," a department of the government formed by Peron. Furthermore, two futile appeals have been made to the present government to rescind the order denying Jehovah's Witnesses the right to register.

Mr. Trull said the more than 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina began circulation of a petition addressed to the president of the Argentine Republic requesting recognition under the new, liberal provision of his government.

Arabs Stage Hot Campaign For Election

CAIRO (AP)—Candidates promising everything from more streetcar stops to the right to choose a husband are waging a hot campaign in the United Arab Republic's first nationwide elections Wednesday.

In both the Syrian and the Egyptian regions more than 120,000 candidates are entered in the race for 39,364 seats on local councils of the U.A.R. National Union, the only political group allowed to function. There is no question of voting for or against President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime.

But the election is producing some lively races. The candidates represent almost all levels of society.

When elected to the local councils they will choose provincial councils which in turn will elect a general Congress of the National Union from which Nasser will pick a provisional Parliament.

The candidates are battling over local issues and questions which directly affect the everyday lives of the constituents. The usual big issuse of Arab politics—Palestine, Algeria, Aden—are scarcely mentioned.

One woman candidate is promising legislation permitting women to choose their own husbands instead of having to accept the choice of their families.

Another has a plan for beds for peasants.

One platform calls for a new cemetery, while another demands more streetcar stops in workers' districts.

More than 200 women are in the race although this is only the second time Egyptian women have been allowed to run for office.

One candidate carves his name on watermelons being sold on the street. Another prints his name on matchboxes distributed free. Others employ singers.

Both the common touch and snob appeal are used. In the poorer districts politicians make much of their humble origins. In one fashionable residential section a candidate has put up his photo with the single caption "graduate of Cambridge University."

The huge number of candidates creates a problem. In one district the voters must choose 38 out of 600 candidates.

82nd Airborne Division Against Summit Meeting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The 82nd Airborne Division Assn. went on record at its convention here opposing a summit meeting for any other meetings of high U.S. governments with the Communists.

A resolution passed Friday by the 13th annual convention urged also that this country "declare itself opposed to any form of appeasement," and urged "that we defend Berlin, Quemoy or any free nation from Communist aggression."

The association, composed of veterans and active members of the 82nd Airborne, passed another resolution calling for higher pay for parachutists, declaring that "present incentive pay for enlisted men is not an inducement for these troopers to remain on indefinite parachute status."

PALACE NOT SAFE

OSLO, Norway (UPI)—Communist Russia has decided that a king's palace is not a fit place for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to live. Foreign ministry sources said Russian security officials have turned thumbs down on King Olav's offer to let Khrushchev use his summer palace when the Premier visits here next month.

Candidates Fire Blasts At Rally

VILLE PLATTE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl Long hogged the spotlight at a political rally Saturday, but other candidates for the governor's office had something to say.

Insurance agency operator Gale Berry of Lake Charles got the ball rolling. He was the first speaker on the program that included Long, State Comptroller William Dodd, state Sen. W. M. Rainach, New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and state Rep. J. Marshall Brown.

Berry took a verbal blast at Long—although he did not mention the governor by name—with the admonition that the state could not expand "as long as we continued to elect this type of idiot to direct our state."

One of the candidates in the governor's race, he said without naming him, "is even being financed and sponsored by a group of rich Texas oil people. We have agreed the state is in bad shape but we don't need help from a group of Texas racketeers."

Berry blasted Morrison as a "conceited ex-general who struts around like a proud, bald-headed peacock." And former Gov. Jimmie Davis came in for criticism with Berry contending the decisions made by Davis during his 1942-46 term came when labor leader James Hoffa "pressed the control button."

Dodd spoke before Long came to the platform and praised Long as a great governor who wrecked his health serving the people of Louisiana.

"The worst thing you can do to him is to put the burden of state government on his shoulders again," he said. "The people can help him a lot by letting him retire."

"A lot of old people and little children would not be as well off if it weren't for Earl Long," Dodd said, and he referred to the old age pension program and hot school lunches.

Brown spoke only briefly and proposed establishment of a central purchasing agency as a money-saving device.

"Don't come to the state capital with any deals when I'm elected governor," Brown said. "We've had too many deals in Louisiana already."

Rainach followed Long to the microphone. He drew praise from Long as "an honorable man," but the governor said, "We're going to reduce him to a good, ordinary, kind and intelligent citizen."

Rainach laughed and shot back at the governor:

"We are going to see who reduces who to what."

Rainach said he did not get into the governor's race to liquidate public schools. Instead, he said, he would fight for the rights of the states against Washington and the Supreme Court.

He would not allow Washington or the court, he said, to run the government in Louisiana.

"To win in the next four years," Rainach said, "we must have the executive power standby if the federal government cannot keep peace between the races. We can pass laws but the governor must enforce them. Who's going to interpose the power of Louisiana when the federal government throws its power against us?"

With the power of the governor's office, he said, "the state can be taken off the defensive and put into an offensive position."

Man, 33, Shot Fatally During Family Dispute

HOUSTON, Miss. (AP)—A 33-year-old Houston man was shot to death during a family argument Friday over the return of his estranged wife and his father-in-law was jailed on a charge of manslaughter.

Chickasaw County Sheriff Jim Alexander said Saturday preliminary hearing for J. J. Lard, a service station operator, was scheduled for Monday.

The sheriff identified the dead man as Grady Griffin, a native of Houston who had been working in Helena, Ark., about a year.

Preliminary investigation told this story:

Mrs. Griffin had left her husband about two weeks ago and returned to her father's home. Friday, Griffin drove to the Lard home to talk his wife into returning to him.

An argument ensued, growing more heated. Finally, Lard asked Griffin to leave and escorted him to his car. As they walked down the driveway, Griffin and Lard argued.

When the two men reached the car, Griffin said he had a gun and reached under the car seat. Lard pulled his own pistol and shot Griffin five times as he straightened up.

Police Stumped In Search For Missing Girl, 5

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Blonde Charlene Zahm, 5, has been missing for five days. Officers said Saturday they have absolutely no idea what happened to the Boise girl.

"We've gone over this thing a thousand times," said Acting Police Chief Gus Urresti. "Each time we end up right where we started—with nothing."

Up to 50 Boy Scouts and other volunteers have aided law enforcement authorities in a search of areas where they think the child might have strayed. They've checked sheds, outbuildings, garages.

They've hunted, foot-by-foot, in the foothill and mountain areas and in the brushy sections which border Boise River through this city of 50,000.

The father, Bernard Zahm, 38, a sergeant and small arms repairman for the Idaho National Guard, said he fears the child was picked up by someone.

Police gave Zahm, his 34-year-old wife, and three other Zahm children—all older than the missing girl—lie detector testes because, "everybody is a suspect no matter who they are."

Urresti said the tests showed "the whole family is in the clear."

The child disappeared Tuesday morning, in the 20-minute lapse between the time Mrs. Zahm left the house to take her husband to work and the time she returned.

The three older children said they heard Charlene walk downstairs but thought she had merely gone out to play. When she was not found police were notified.

PRAVDA ADVISES JAPAN

MOSCOW (UPI) —Pravda advised Japan Friday not to "risk a bad end" by renewing its defense ties with the United States. The Communist party newspaper charged that Japanese prime minister Nobusuke Kishi was "heatedly advocating further arming of the country" in a campaign to block to switch to a neutral policy.

PIERRE, S. D. (UPI)—Hughes County Republican Chairman Wilbur Orr and Hughes County Democratic Chairman Nick Jackus shared the same hospital room here.

Newlyweds Injured In Wreck Here

Tragedy lurked here Friday for a newlywed couple rushing away from marriage ceremonies.

Their car careened out of control, smashed into a roadside ditch, rolled over and caught fire, pinning the young bride beneath and rendering the husband helpless at the intersection of Standifer and Buck Jones Road South of Monroe.

Motorists passing by the scene rescued the two and quenched the auto fire, and the newlyweds ended up in the hospital with serious injuries, not later than ten minutes after their marriage.

RECUPERATING

Both were recuperating in good condition, hospital authorities said yesterday.

Hospital officals placed the couple in opposite ends of the hall.

"We're certainly off to a bad start," the bride sighed yesterday. "But maybe we'll have a happy ending, like the old saying."

And the husband's comments? He's going to buy a new vehicle —a horse and buggy. "I couldn't stand another deal like this," he said.

Spectators estimated the wreck ed automobile at a complete loss.

Motorists helping at the accident scene were praised for their quick work in rescuing the injured couple. Reports indicated they threw dirt on the flames in the burning auto before the fire reached the gas tank, then pushed it to one side and pulled the injured bride free.

MRS. JAMES PREWETT GUERRIERO

A garden wedding was held on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock at "Dalkeith, the plantation home of the bride, Miss Flora Margaret Webb, who was united in marriage with Dr. James Prewett Guerriero of Monroe and Vicksburg. Their parents are Mrs. George Washington Webb and the late Mr. Webb of Tallulah and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Michael Guerriero of Monroe.

The ceremony took place before an improvised white altar centered with a fan shaped bouquet of white stock and pompon chrysanthemums flanked by brass candelabra holding gleaming white candles. Officiating at the impressive double ring marriage service was the Right Reverand Charles Greco assisted by the Reverend W. M. Hopp.

An aisle bordered by hurricane lamps on pedestals led from the front steps to the altar in the side yard. Each pedestal entwined with sprays of ivy, was tied with a bow of white ribbon and tulle and the lamps were connected with festoons of white ribbon. Garden shrumb, day lilies and daisies and other blooms formed a beautiful background for the marriage scene.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. J. C. Sherwin rendered appropriate organ music including "O Perfect Love" and "Panis Angelicus" and during the exchange of vows, "Ave Maria" by Schubert and Gounod. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Immediately prior to the ceremony mothers of the bride and groom were escorted to their seats by the ushers. Mrs. Webb chose a cotillios blue Paris lace over taffeta dress, made on simple lines with the V shaped neckline edged in tiny pleated chiffon worn with a jewelled pin. Over the bodice was worn a fitted lace jacket with bracelet sleeves. Her headdress was of matching blue veiling entwined with an artificial rose. Pinned to her shoulder was a purple orchid.

To the strains of the wedding march the brides' attendants advanced down the aisle. They were Miss Dianne and Miss Peggy Webb, nieces of the bride, Mrs. Warren White of Mer Rouge, Mrs. William J. Emrich of Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Carl M. Bartling of Jackson, Miss., Miss Mary Jane Jackson of Vicksburg and matron of honor, Mrs. George M. Webb, sister-in-law of the bride. They wore identical intermission length dresses of starched organdy embroidered in blue flowers in intricate design, made with scoop necklines, short cap sleeves and draped cummerbunds of silk in ming blue. Their crowns of hairbraid, sprinkled with jewels were worn with short ciruclar veils of ming blue and their shoes were the same shade. They carried magnolia blooms with English ivy and streamers. The flowergirl, little Patricia Webb, niece of the bride was dressed in white organdy trimmed with val lace, with a white cummerbund, a white lace hat and carried a white basket of rose petals.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dr. George M. Webb, was lovely in her original wedding gown fashioned of delicate Chantilly lace and gossamer tulle. The basque bodice had a scalloped portrait neckline, long sleeves ending in lily points over the hands and buttoned at the wrist. Tiny buttons also trimmed the back of the bodice. The lace skirt, made over a southern belle ruffled skirt, was in panel effect, lace panels alternating with tulle panels trimmed with lace medallions and sweeping to the back in a long lace panel that formed a regal train. She wore a lace mantilla matching her dress and carried a bridal bouquet of tuberoses and lilies of the valley.

Dr. Guerriero had as his best man, his father, and the groomsmen were Julius Cahn, John Daniel, Dr. Charles Wilds and James Ussery all of Monroe, Dr. Lucien Ferris and Dr. Tom B. Dominick of Vicksburg and Dr. James Bogel of Chicago, Ill.

A reception followed at the Tallulah Country Club which was decorated throughout with myrlad white garden flowers, magnolias and Cathedral candles. Receiving in the lounge against a background of tiers of candles were the bride and groom, their parents and the feminine members of the wedding party.

At either end of the long hall was a serving table covered with an Italian cut work cloth and centered with a branched candelabram and punch bowl. Presiding at one table were Mrs. William Ferris and Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and at the other, Miss Dorothy Anne Woodyear and Mrs Harold Hagaman. Floating hostesses serving dainty sandwiches and confections were Mrs. James Garrett, Mrs. W. E. Regenold, Miss Alma Maxwell, Miss Cornelia Kell, Mrs. Edward Yerger and Mrs. R. L. Bailey. Mrs. King Trieschmann had charge of serving the handsome tiered wedding cake and Miss Judy Kell invited the guests to register in the bride's book.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High School and Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Louisiana State University where she received a Bachelor of Science degree. Her sorority is Delta Delta Delta. She served her internship in Dietetics at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kansas.

Dr. Guerriero is a graduate of St. Matthews High School in Monroe. He received his Bachelor of Science degree at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and his pre-medical training at Loyola University in New Orleans.

During World War II he served as a Lt. (j.g.) in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He then attended and received his Doctor of Medicine degree at the University of Lausanne in Lausanne, Switzerland. He did graduate work at the University of Edinburgh in Edinburgh, Scotland, Rotunda Hospital in Dublin, Ireland and Grenoble, France. He then interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans and served one year of residency at Surburban Hospital at Bethesda, Maryland and one year at Mercy Hospital-Street Memorial, Vicksburg, Miss. He is now associated with the Street Clinic in Vicksburg.

A large number of relatives and friends from north Louisiana, Mississippi and elsewhere were in attendance at the wedding.

Miss Chambless Gerald Kelly Pledge Vows

Miss Glenda Chambless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chambless and Gerald Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kelly of Newellton were married on Thursday evening June 25 at eight o'clock at the Willow Bayou Baptist church with the Rev. Jon F. Meek officiating at the double ring ceremony. Mass arrangements of palmettos, magnolia foliage and blooms, floor candelabra holding gleaming white candles, and a basket of white gladioli decorated the alter.

The nuptial music was rendered by Miss Vivian Cox and soloist Miss Jane Caldwell who sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Because". The tradition wedding marches were used.

The bridesmaids, Miss Leona Chambless, sister of the bride and Mrs. Maureen Parker, sister of the groom were attired in pink frocks with fitted bodices and full skirts. They carried bouquets of pink carnations. The matron of honor, Mrs. Ann McCarty wore blue lace over taffeta and carried blue carnations. Little Larry Cox served as ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin brocade fashioned with round neckline trimmed with seed pearls, long sleeves buttoned at the wrist, fitted bodice and full skirt ending in a train. Her pearl trimmed veil was attached to a cap and she carried a bouquet of carnations and gladioli centered with an orchid.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Chambless chose a blue cotton dress and the groom's mother, a beige linen suit. Their flowers were white carnations.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thornton which was adorned with summer flowers. The bride's table, centered with an arrangement of pink and white gladioli and greenery flanked by white candles was presided over by Mrs. Tressie Creed at the punch service and Mrs. J. F. Meek who served the wedding cake.

Location Hunt

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Director Fred Zinnemann recently made a tour of sheep stations in Australia seeking a good place to start shooting his next movie, "The Sundowners," starring Deborah Kerr, Bob Mitchum and Peter Ustinov.

To remove acid or perspiration marks on leather, wipe the leather with a cloth dipped in a mixture of one teaspoon of baking soda to a glass of water. Then scrub gently with a soft brush, enough water to moisten the brush, and a generous lather of mild soap.

MISS CHARLOTTE GAYLE ROCKETT

Plaquemine Wedding Of Interest Here

Rev. and Mrs. Dewey H. Rockett of Plaquemine announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Gayle, to Lt. Jack Donald Christian, son of Mrs. Ocie Christian of Houston, Texas. The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, August 15 at 4:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Plaquemine.

The bride-elect was graduated from Plaquemine High School where she was a member of The Cadmian Society and The Little Theater. She has also attended graduate school of L.S.U. She is now employed by the Calcasieu Parish School Board as a teacher of LaGrange Senior High School in Lake Charles.

The groom-elect was graduated from Lewis and Clark High School in Spokane, Washington and from the University of Kentucky where he was a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is presently with the United States Air Force at Chennault Air Force Base in Lake Charles.

Maternal grandparents of the bride are the late Mr. and Mrs. Jasper N. Elkins of Lillie and the late Mr. and Mrs. Floud H. Rockett of West Monroe.

New Ironing Table Shape Eases Work

The first fundamentally new shape of ironing tables in history has been introduced by an industries co. of Columbus Ind., to ease the housewife's work load.

Features of the new board are its arc shape, plastic top, combination pad and cover that will not slip when in use, and four wheels so the housewife never has to lift or carry it.

The working side of the table is straight from one end to the other. The opposite side curves out gently from the tip and then sweeps sharply back at the other end. Purpose of the arc is to allow the housewife to use a natural swinging motion of her arm when she irons instead of having to keep her elbow in an uncomfortable position up and over the iron to guide it in a straight line as is necessary on present boards.

WIDER IRONING SURFACE

This shape also provides a wider ironing surface at the center of the board where it is needed for such items as tablecloths, shirts, skirts, and linens.

The top is a foam-rubber-like plastic called polyurethene which forms a solid ironing surface but is resilient enough to allow the housewife to iron over buttons and zippers without causing damage. This is the first time a material other than wood or metal has been used for an ironing table top.

The combination pad and cover is of laminated construction with the pad made of polyurethene. When it and the table top come in contact, thousands of little 'fingers, on their surfaces 'grab, each other and prevent the pad from slipping. There is a layer of fiber glass between the pad and the silicone cover which acts as an insulator and allows the housewife to use the iron at a lower temperature than otherwise would be possible.

TWO SETS OF WHEELS

There are two sets of wheels on the rear foot of the board. One set, at the ends of the foot, allow the housewife to move the board back and forth lengthwise while ironing instead of having to shift her own position when using different parts of the board. The other set, inset into the bottom of the foot are used to roll the board to and from its storage space when folded and on end.

The board is adjustable to any height from 24 to 36 inches above the floor.

"Principal aim of the new board is to reduce the housewife's work load, officials assert. Every new feature incorporated, from the shape to the wheels, helps us achieve that goal.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

CHICAGA (UPI) — Litter tossed from moving cars and left in picnic areas mars the natural beauty of the countryside. It also increases the cost of highway maintenance, says the Chicago Motor Club.

Non-food items account for about 5.2 per cent of total sales in the average grocery.

Evening Ceremony Unites Miss Hale, Kent E. Ewing

White tapers in myriad arrangements lighted the altar of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe Saturday afternoon, June 27, for the wedding of Miss Barbara Faye Hale and Kent Edward Ewing. Bouquets of white gladioli stood out from a background of greenery which was partly sprayed with blue and silver.

This formed a lovely setting for the exchange of vows. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurmon Hale and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ewing, all of West Monroe.

Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated at the ceremony, which took place at 7:30 o'clock. Music was provided by Bob Oldenburg at the organ and he accompanied Mrs. Bob Oldenburg, soloist, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Through The Years".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sequin trimmed chantilly lace over taffeta. Her tulle veil was held in place by a pearl studded tiara. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white feather chrysanthemums and stephanotis centered with a corsage of white orchids.

Her attendants were Mrs. Billie Gaston, matron of honor, who wore a pale blue embroidered silk organza over pale blue taffeta, she wore a matching taffeta bow in her hair and matching slippers; bridesmaids, Miss Millie Hislop, Miss Polly Riser, Miss Carolyn Woodward and junior bridesmaids, Shelia Ann Hale, were all dressed identically to the matron of honor. They each carried unusual bouquets, a ring shape of white daisies accented with silver and blue leather leaves. Lorrie Roberts, the flower girl dressed all in white, identical to the bridesmaids.

RECEPTION

The Highland Park Country Club was the setting for the reception where the wedding guests assembled to greet the newly-married couple.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over blue satin. The central decor was of white killian daisies, blue tinted chrysanthemums with blue coral sprays.

Serving were Mrs. Ed Hislop, Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Mrs. Thomas Woodward, Mrs. Fred Riser and Mrs. T. C. Roberts. Tea girls were Misses Pamela Roberts, Frances Roberts, Gail Kemp and Kathy Kemp.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Northeast State College. The groom was graduated from West Monroe High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodward of Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Roberts and family of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fordham of Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kemp and family of Monteray.

Some Crust

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rolled oats crust is especially good with chiffon pie filling. Pour 1 cup rolled oats into a shallow pan and toast in 375 degree oven for 5 to 8 minutes. Mix oats well in ½ cup of brown sugar, 1-3 cup of melted butter and ½ cup of flaked or shredded coconut. Pack firmly into bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie tin. Chill until firm. Add filling and chill until it sets.

Inside-Outside Party For Mr, Mrs. L. Slade Brown Mr, Mrs. Joe M. Powell

Mr. and Mrs. Benton M. Wakefield Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Corbin J. Turpin and Dr. and Mrs. Fred C. Amman were hosts in the Island Drive home of the Ammans on Saturday evening complimenting Mr. and Mrs. L. Slade Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Powell.

It was an inside-outside party. The patio was lighted with numerous colorful Japanese lanterns where many guests were always gathered to enjoy the hot barbecue sandwiches off the pit. A trio played for dancing in the den. Pink carnations and phlox were used in the arrangements in the living room and a silver epergne held an arrangement of the same on the dining room table.

More than 100 guests were present.

Girl Scout News

Tomorrow is the big day, the opening of Pine Wood day camp. Four buses, driven by our friends of many years, will start their rounds, stopping at Mitchell and Highland Schools at 7:50, at Plum Street, and Lakeshore at 8:00 o'clock, at Sherrouse and Georgia Tucker at 8:10. Buses will travel north on Fifth and out Forsythe, picking up campers along the route. From Sherrouse School a bus will come westward on DeSiard, turn at College Avenue and go to Webster Street, thence out Sterlington Road.

Campers will be glad to learn that the cable on the flagpole now works, thanks to Jerry Huckabee, who climbed the tall pole and put the cable in place, quite a contribution to camp life, we'd say. Another contribution is a child's wagon, made possible by gifts from Troops 24 and 51, Mrs. Edmund Middleton and Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, leaders. Troop 48, Mrs. M. A. Denoux, leader, has contributed a table which they had used in their meeting room and which will be useful in camp and at the office.

Training for staff and program aides has been held during the past two weeks, with cookouts, crafts, kapers and camp procedure, use of knife and axe, lashing. Unit sites, a total of ten, have been chosen, but the fun of setting them up is part of camp life for all the girls and the part that many of them consider the most fun.

While campers and staff plan their program according to the interests of the girls, we hear that the fly - ups are looking forward to the activities of the tree tower included. Units of older Intermediates have expressed an interest in other nature badges and it has been agreed that outdoor safety will be an appropriate badge for all the intermediates.

Girls who have not been to camp before, except perhaps for a day, have heard about the fun in store and are looking forward to riding the bus, singing as they go, to setting up a unit and choosing a name for it, going on a hike to the river, where the nicest echo answers the girls and they can hunt for shells in the sand

The things that city girls don't get to do in town are in store for the girls who were lucky enough to be included in camp plans. It all begins tomorrow.- You'll be hearing more.

Plan Your Wardrobe And Travel Light

Paln Your Wardrobe and travel light is the advice of veteran globetrotter Licia Albanese, Metropolitian Opera soprano. Whether she is planning a long trip or an overnight journey she combines everything.

"I pick only one or two colors and use them to compliment each other," said the singer. "Thus the shoes and accessories match several costumes."

"It will hold all I need," she continued. "Suppose I decide to wear a brown suit. Then I take two pairs of shoes — brown suede and a pair of brown silk for dress.

They match my brown and beige silk print for evening. I add my lingerie, my make-up and some jewelry. I take a small hat and carry a top coat, if necessary."

For a longer trip, she'll add a good sized pullman case — preferably one made of magnesium or some light weight metal — containing as many other clothes as she feels she will need. When, however, Miss Abanese travels to Europe by ship, her luggage expands considerably.

"On board ship I change every evening," she said. "But on arrival I leave many of my dresses at the first hotel to be picked up after my tour."

She conserves space and avoids wrinkles by lavish use of tissue paper and transparent plastic wrap — either to be used small hats. She also puts the wrap around shoes, gloves, flowers, jewelry and other small articles to keep them fresh. Lingerie is rolled and spaced in hollow spots around the sides of the luggage.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES F. GRISWOLD of Tallulah announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Frances Griswold, to Kent Albritton Russell, son of Mrs. Frank Valentine Russell and the late Mr. Russell of New Orleans. Miss Griswold was graduated from the Tallulah High School and is presently a senior at Louisiana State University. Mr. Russell was graduated from New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell and attended Washington and Lee University and Tulane University. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. The wedding will take place in August in Trinity Episcopal Church in Tallulah.

bags 1/3 off

On Dit'

by Denise

Summer is a time for comings and goings. All the chit-chat we have stirred up this week has to do with travelers to and from and visitors in town.

MRS. MILLARD BUSHONG, (the former Dean McKoin) of Berryville, Virginia, left Thursday for home after a two weeks visit with her parents, the B. M. M'KOINS. With Dean were her three daughters, BETTY, ANN, and LEE. The Bushongs are leaving next month for a year abroad. They will sail from New York on the S. S. United States for Plymouth, England, where Dr. Bushong will teach. He was one of one hundred teachers selected from throughout the country to serve abroad under the Fulbright international exchange teachers plan. The Bushongs plan to tour the continent as well as the United Kingdom during the year they will be gone.

Former Monroyans DR. and MRS. H. L. JOHNS and their daughter PERSIS BARBER of Pennsylvania are houseguests of the ROY JOHNS for the Fourth of July week end.

Arriving today for a week's visit with the PHILIP BERNHARDTS are their daughter, Joy (MRS. J. L. BATES, JR.), and her children, BEVERLY, RICKY, and BOBBY, from New Orleans. The grandchildren will be here all week, while Joy will go to Shreveport for a few days.

MARGARET MOORE spent several days in Tallulah the first of the week. She was the guest of SHERROD HAGAMON, daughter of ALICE and DINK HAGAMON, who formerly lived in Monroe.

Guest of LIL and FRED MARX for the past two weeks has been her sister, MURIEL LOCKHART of New Orleans. Several informal parties were given in Muriel's honor during her stay. MARIE COOKSTON was hostess at a small coffee on Tuesday. Flowers were orange day lilies in a pitcher of copper - washed pewter. Marie served the fifteen guests from the coffee table in the living room . . . Others who entertained Muriel were the ALBERT MARX'S, who were hosts at dinner on Wednesday night; CAROL MARX and WILMA MARX, luncheon on Thursday; and SADIE ANSELL and JEAN SUGAR, lunch on Friday.

CAROLYN and BENNIE GWIN and KATHERINE BOWLES flew to Biloxi early this week. They joined BILLY BOWLES, who was there on business, and spent several days at the beach.

Here for the Fourth of July week end are RHODA and DAVID NORMANN of New Orleans and their children, LOUISE, MIKE, and SUSAN. They are en route home from Waynesville, North Carolina, and stopped off for a visit with Rhoda's mother, LOUISE LEIGH.

The DEUTHRILL WARDS and their son DONNIE of Willard, Ohio, are leaving this week end after a visit with her sisters, MRS. LULA M. GRIMSLEY and MRS. BILLY WORSHAM.

Young Miss PAMELA TRUE CANNON daughter of the JACK CANNONS had her first plane ride at the age of six years this week. Mrs. Cannon and MRS. FRANK PETTIT drove Pamela to Shreveport, from where she flew to Kansas City to visit relatives. She is now with her Grandmother Cannon in Milen, Missouri.

The JACK TERZIAS and their three daughters are leaving today for Florida. They will spend a week at Eleanor Village.

RAY and TOMMY SMITH, elder sons of the RABURN SMITHS, are in Nassau. They left last week with their grandmother, MRS. DOYLE SMITH of Farmerville, and went to Miami Beach where they stayed until Friday. They will be back in another week.

Five couples are leaving separately tomorrow and Tuesday, headed for a week's fishing and houseparty at Port Aransas, Texas. Making the trip will be the JIM FRAZIERS, the D. V. LOFLINS, the BILL RILEYS, the FRED COTTONS, and the LAVELLE SALLEYS.

The TODD ROBINS of Birmingham, Alabama, are guests of the JIM ADCOCKS for the week end. The Adcocks honored their guests with a boat ride on Friday night. Yesterday the BILLY BOWLES were hosts at a Fourth-of-July - outdoor - barbecue type party at their camp on Lake Providence.

Another group headed for a vacation, this time to the mountains, are the JOHN HUNTS, the HAROLD WOODS, JR., the STAN BAGWELLS, and the ED SEYMOURS, JR. They are leaving Tuesday for a week at the Broadmoor in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

One of the loveliest parties of the season was that held last Saturday night at the FRED AMMAN home. Co-hosts with the Ammans were the CORBIN TURPINS and the BENTON WAKEFIELDS, and guests of honor were the SLADE BROWNS and the JOE POWELLS. Pink carnations were used with white phlox on the mantel and in the silver epergne which centered the dining table. Platters of turkey, ham and cheese were set out, and a chafing dish holding a hot clam dip. Raw vegetables were served with a curried sauce for dunking.

Japanese lanterns and luau torches lit the garden. Tiny hot barbecued steak sandwiches were served on the patio . . . A trio played for dancing in the den. We spied JANE BARHAM, down from Bastrop, looking very stylish in a beige linen sheath with lace trim . . . MARY FRANCES PERRY wore white organdy, and VIRGINIA CROW, blue the color of her eyes . . . LOUISE MORGAN'S black eyelet was lined with a rosy beige silk . . . white organdy sleeves accented BETTY MOORE's black sheath.

The Highland Park country club was the scene of the Revelers' summer dance last Saturday night. Magnolia foliage and chrysanthemums were used in large standing arrangements at the door and beside the bandstand. As the dancers entered the room, each was given a program, already filled with the names of partners. A portion of the evening was given over to the program dance. Hosts were the BILL DURRETTS, the LAVELLE SALLEYS, and the JIMMY MOORES.

On Wednesday night the FRED FUDICKARS, JR., and the BILL RILEYS were hosts at a dinner party. Guest of honor was DR. JAMES WHITE of Worthington, Iowa, whose marriage to POLLY RILEY is scheduled later this summer. Roast prime ribs with baked potatoes and sour cream and a green bean casserole were served to sixteen close friends.

The C. E. M'KENZIES, JR. are parents of a fourth child and second son, BERNARD FORD, born June 29. The new arrival is the twelfth grandchild for CARRIE M'KENZIE.

Young Miss AMYE JACKSON, another new arrival, was born on Monday, June 29, to JACK TOM JACKSONS. She is the fourth child and second daughter, and the tenth grandchild for MILDRED JACKSON.

When she entertained her bridge club and some extra guests on Monday, ANN HOLMES prepared a most interesting meal. 'Twas centered around a cold soup, gazpacho, served with chopped green peppers and cucumber and croutons. The congealed salad contained hearts of artichoke, and fresh raspberries with ice cream rounded out the menu.

I have fallen in love with American names,
The sharp names that never get fat,
The snakeskin-titles of mining claims,
The plumed war-bonnet of Medicine Hat,
Tucson and Deadwood and Lost Mule Flat.
Seine and Piave are silver spoons,
But the spoonbowl - metal is thin and worn,
There are English counties like hunting tunes
Played on the keys of a postboys' horn,
But I will remember where I was born.
I will remember Carquinez Straits,
Little French Lick and Lundy's Lane,
The Yankee ships and the Yankee dates
And the bullet-towns of Calamity Jane.
I will remember Skunktown Plain
I shall not rest quiet in Montparnasse.
I shall not lie easy at Winchelsea.
You may bury my body in Sussex grass,
You may bury my tongue at Champmedy.
I shall not be there. I shall rise and pass.
Bury my heart at Wounded Knee.

Open House Is Given For N.O. Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ryan Sartor and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. (Jack) Easterling entertained on Friday evening, June 27, with a cocktail party honoring the family and out of town guests of Mr. and Mrs. George M Snellings III.

This was held in the Easterling home on Stubbs Avenue. Summer flowers were used in numerous arrangements throughout the reception suite.

The out of town guests came up for the christening of Mr. and Mrs. Snellings' baby son, Wilcox, on Saturday evening.

Thirty guests were present. Among those were the Godmother, Miss Alta Bechtel of New Orleans, the Godfather, Louis de la Vergne of New Orleans and Mrs. Snellings' grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Benners of New Orleans.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE TODAY by Mr. and Mrs. Jessie L. Griffis of Bastrop of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Floy, to Mack H. Powell. He is the son of Claude Powell of Alexandria and Mrs. Harry Parker of Marion. An early August wedding is planned.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE W. RUNDELL of Oak Grove announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Florence, to James Ronald Posey. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leo Posey of Baton Rouge. The wedding will take place at four o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, August 19th. The Reverend H. Newton Griffith, rector of Saint Stevens Episcopal Church of Innis, and Reverend Paul Voney, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Lake Providence, will officiate at the ceremony to be held at Grace Church in Lake Providence.

NAME CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) —To end confusion Paddy Chayefsky has changed the name of his new drama from "The Dybbuk from Woodhaven" to "The Tenth Man." The show arrives on Broadway next fall.

A spokesman for the production explained that "dybbuk," a Hebrew word for wandering spirit, mystified some people, and that others didn' ktnow where Woodhaven is (it's part of the Borough of Queens in the City of New York).

BROADWAY GAINS

NEW YORK (AP) —Attendance at Broadway theaters during the 1958-59 season increased by nearly a million spectators over the previous year, according to Playbill.

The total for the year was 11,702,170, compared to 10,838,930 during 1957-58.

Mr.-Mrs. John Sherrouse Honored With A Dinner Party At Country Club

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse were honor guests on Saturday evening, June 27, for a dinner party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellogg.

Guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg on Park Avenue for cocktails first, then they motored to Bayou DeSiard Country Club where the private dining room was reserved for the dinner party.

A mixed arrangement of lovely summer flowers was used for the centerpiece. Guests with the honoree and the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Oakley, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods, Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Mrs. Marion Gray and Mrs. Edward J. Seymour.

Changes Seen Of Cleaning Methods Today

Changes in architecture bring about changes in cleaning methods and timing. Today's extensive use of stainproof, easy-to-clean glass window walls and ceramic tile floors enables the housewife to slip through her daily chores more quickly. A daily vacuuming of carpeting and quick wipe of ceramic tile surfaces is now on the daily routine plus frequent wall washing. But the cleaning is much faster and the results look better than when she spent long hours picking up, dusting and sweeping her old home.

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS E. ROBINSON of West Monroe announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Albert Paul Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Fleming also of West Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized at the First Methodist Church of West Monroe on Friday, August 14 at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The bride-elect is a graduate of Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky. Mr. Fleming attended Louisiana State University and Northeast Louisiana State College.

The Appetite Control Center Is In Brain

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) —Why is it that some lucky persons can go through life "eating like a horse" — and never get fat?

The answer to that question, when it comes, can do much to crack the mystery surrounding the fat of the land.

Science reasons that the persons who stay thin, though enormous of appetite, must have some kind of marvelous internal regulator in their brains. It automatically balances food intake and energy output.

In "fats" and "thins," the eating urge is in response to some kind of message flashing through the brain's switchboard.

Everybody gets the same message. But, it is interpreted differently. And some get it more frequently than others.

Research with laboratory mice has demonstrated that a tiny cluster of cells in the so-called "old brain" — hypothalamus — controls the urge to eat, maintaining a balance between intake of energy producing units, calories, and output, activity that burns calories.

When a certain part of the hynothalamus of one mouse was injured, the animal ate incessantly and grew enormously fat.

A different part of the "old brain" was injured in another mouse. The animal refused to eat — even when food was placed in its mouth.

During the experiments, it is believed the appetite-control center of the brain was manipulated. The center is called "the appestat" to emphasize its resemblance to a thermostat used to turn a furnace on and off.

But how does the appestat turn appetite on and off?

One theory holds that we eat for calories and then stop when enough energy has been taken in.

A thermostatic theory purposes that we eat to keep warm and feel satiated when food assimilation brings a rise in total body heat production.

The most widely accepted theory is the glucostatic theory of Dr. Jean Mayer and associates at Harvard University. It holds that appetite signals in the brain are turned on and off by fluctuating levels of sugar (glucose) in the blood.

Low blood sugar, according to this theory, brings hunger; high blood sugar, raised by food intake, brings satiation.

The nature of messages fed into the appestat may cause it to produce a wrong answer. Wrong messages are believed to be at the root of complusive eating.

Russian Women Pay Dearly In All Fields

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

If you were a working girl in the Soviet Union, you would pay more for a dress than for a month's rent.

The clothes you wear wouldn't pass muster at an American rummage sale, and your cosmetics would be primtiive, but expensive.

These are bits of incidental information gleaned from the Soviet Exhibition of Science, Technology and Culture at New York's Coliseum.

It seems everybody is curious about the Soviet, and so the six-week exhibition is likely to be a boxoffice success, with New Yorkers elbowing out-of-towners for a look at the Sputniks, the housing and the clothes proudly displayed by the Reds.

A live fashion show is a feature of the exhibition. Judging from samples displayed in advance, neither Paris nor New York need worry for some time about competition from either Soviet fashions or Soviet models.

There is an attempt at high fashion in some instances, such as a moss-green ribbed wool jersey two-piece dress and matching stole, with gold threads interwoven in the blouse. Other fashions tend to the strictly utilitarian, with heavy, stiff fabrics and bulky construction.

Feminine personnel at the various exhibits are somewhat defensive about both fashions and home furnishings. They point out that frivolous things may be expensive and hard to get in the Soviet Union but that the emphasis is on serious things such as science, culture and Sputnik — all pro[illegible] capital letters.

The most friendly of the Soviet women at the exhibition are professional gals, hard-working and serious, who are proud of their achievements and anxious to compare notes with American career women.

DEAR ABBY

Gather Your Courage Then Hear Him Out

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is too silly to answer. When my door bell rings and I see it is a salesman I don't answer the door because I know how persuasive they can be. When he's gone my conscience bothers me and I wished I had answered the door. Then when I think of how fast they can talk you into buying something, I am glad I didn't. Then later on I think maybe I should have. This stays on my mind all day. How can I get rid of my guilty conscience?

HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: First, be honest with yourself. You are dealing with more than a "guilty conscience." You are upset with yourself because you haven't the nerve to face a salesman for fear he might talk you into buying something you can't afford or don't need. Grow up. Gather your courage and answer the door. Hear him out and then make an adult decision.

DEAR ABBY: All my life I've been bothered because I was too beautiful. At 16 people would stop me on the street and ask me "what show I was playing in." My girl friends were afraid to introduce me to their boyfriends. I quit one job after another because all my bosses made passes at me. Now that I am married it's no different. My husband's friends give me the eye and their wives don't want me around because they can't stand the competition. I wish I were as homely as a mud fence. What's the answer, Abby?

"TOO BEAUTIFUL"

DEAR TOO: Don't kid yourself. Nobody makes passes at a statue no matter how good looking it is. Perhaps you aren't consciously inviting these advances but any woman who has to beat off every man she meets ought to take a long critical look at herself.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband and four wonderful children. I have a beautiful home and everything a wife could ask for. My husband is almost perfect but he has one bad habit. Every other word he says is a curse word. No matter who is present. Children, adults, his parents or mine. It must be a habit, but, Abby, how do you break a man of a habit like that? I would give anything if I could do it. The children are beginning to pick it up.

MRS. A. E. B.

DEAR MRS. A. E. B.: The longest march in the world starts with one step. Warn him that you are going to call his attention to every "curse word" he says as soon as he says it. And then do just that. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: Will you please print this in the paper as soon as possible? My daughter is 20 pounds overweight and she has resolved to lose every pound of it within three weeks for a special occasion. She is eating nothing but 3 pieces of fruit a day, two eggs and a pint of skim milk. She won't believe me when I tell her she is ruining her health. She is 17 and my only child.

VERY WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Take your daughter to a doctor and let him examine her and recommend the proper diet. Radical and unsupervised dieting is more dangerous than most people realize.

DEAR ABBY: When I returned from a 3-week visit to take care of my daughter's new baby, I found a cheap earring between the cushions of my sofa. I questioned my husband. He admitted that one night he got restless and couldn't sleep and went uptown to a bar for a few drinks. He said he invited a gang of strangers home with him (including this woman who lost the earring.) But he swears nothing happened. I said I'd forgive him, but I can't. I keep wondering if he told me the whole truth. I won't be satisfied till I know. How can I be sure?

MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Just keep harping on it and you'll drive him back to the bar in search of a nice sympathetic ear (to go with the earring.) Believe him, and forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young divorcee with a problem. When I go out with a young man should I tell him I am divorced the first time I go out with him or should I wait until I know him better? My mother says it's none of his business.

YOUNG DIVORCEE

DEAR YOUNG: Your mother is wrong. Wouldn't you want to know if a man had a divorce in his background? Give him the same break.

DEAR ABBY: We have two boys, 7 and 12. My husband is a fanatic about the boys getting hurt. The older boy has begged for a two-wheel bicycle for years so we finally got one last Christmas. His father won't let him ride it anywhere except in front of the house. He can't take it across any streets. His friends laugh at him. We live five blocks from school, but my husband drives the boys there in the morning and I pick them up. He is afraid they'll be hit by a car if they walk. I go along with his ideas to keep peace in the family. What else can I do?

MRS. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: In an effort to keep his sons "safe" physically, Dad is crippling them emotionally. Children need to be taught to care for themselves. Your husband should have a long talk with a professional counselor.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder why there are so many women who can't get along with their mothers-in-law? I have two sons in my house plus my own mother and we get along just wonderful. When my first husband died his mother was living with us. She was 73 and in a wheelchair from a stroke so I kept her with me. She's jolly and never complains. I was married again to a man who had a 77-year-old widowed mother with sugar diabetes and one leg gone. So there are two in wheelchairs. You never saw sweeter women. My own mother is 76 and partially blind and she's with me, too. I read them your column out loud every day, Abby, and when we hear other people's problems, we think we are real lucky. Love,

SALLY

DEAR SALLY: You are lucky, indeed, because you have a lot of love in your heart and know how to give it to others. Thank you for your beautiful letter and God bless you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LARDY": Who says "'everybody loves a fat man?" Try a little girth control.

"Why don't my parents trust me?" For What Every Teenager Wants To Know, send 25 cents and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MR. AND MRS. BASKIN PARKS OF WAVERLY announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Virginia Parks, to William Ray Adcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adcock of Rayville. The wedding will be an event of August 9 at 3:00 p.m. in Waverly First Baptist Church. The Reverend Bobby Brown will officiate. Miss Martha Parks will serve as her sister's maid of honor. Charlene Post of Tallulah and Carole Lewis of Waverly will serve as bridesmaids. H. M. Dartlone will serve as best man and the ushers will be Arnold and Ronnie Adcock, brothers of the groom elect.

Basic Ingredients For The New Bride's Home Listed

When, in the spring, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love his practical, prospective bride is apt to immediately turn her thoughts to picking out a trousseau. Among the most important items in it — because they are apt to outlast the towels and linens — are the basic ingredients she selects for setting her first table.

It is well to remember that such a starter service should be simple enough to blend prettily with more decorative accents which may be added in the future. For as La Grado Tackett, a well-known designer of dinnerware points out, a "set of dishes" is obsolete. In these days of limited storage spaces almost everything one adds to the home should serve a double purpose.

Some new dinnerware by Mr. Tackett is the kind that might get the table trousseau off to a good start. It is white ironstone redesigned for today. Sturdy enough to take the rigors of oven and stove, it is sleek enough to appear at a formal dinner. Shapes are simple enough so that the covered casserole for example, if deprived of its cover, could at another meal hold soups or cerals.

Mr. Tackett compares his designs to the basic black dress or classic gray flannel suit. They can, he points out, be accessorized to fit any sort of dining or serving occasion.

The dual purpose principle can apply to glassware selection, too, according to Glass Crafts of America, a trade association whose members make American handmade glass. Three of the basic shapes they recommend are a goblet for water, iced drinks or milk; a sherbet size for appetizer, dessert, or a very generous cocktail and a juice-sized glass which can also be used for fruit cocktails or wine.

In checking quality they suggest feeling edges for smoothness and regularity, looking for clarity and luster but, they warn, even the finest glassware is not entirely free from waves, specks and bubbles. Such defects are simply fewer in quality products.

Flatware is the third member of the table triumvirate. For the bride who would stear clear of sterling because the polishing problems bother her, the Sterling Silversmiths of America have a bit of advice: use it every day. Age and use, these experts claim, add to the lovely patina (that dulled satiny look silver gets after a while) and will make sterling more beautiful. Eliminate the old-fashioned "second set," they say, use your sterling all the time and you'll only have to polish now and then.

New Leather Colors Seen At Waldorf

Enough leather to put shoes on the entire population of a medium sized city was on view in New York's famed Waldorf-Astoria hotel recently for shoe manufacturers shopping for the leathers to put on your feet this spring and summer.

Occasion was the semi-annual Leather Show, which fills the entire ballroom floor of the Waldorf with leather in colors ranging from delicate floral printed leathers to traditional solid tones.

Tanners from all parts of the country display the beautiful new colors and textures developed during the preceding six months. Some of the fascinating new leathers you are going to find in the shops this spring includ:e

Smooth leathers with a soft sheen, in a complete range of pastels and brights, particularly lovely in shoes for dressy occasions.

Punched and patterned leathers in colors to match or blend with anything you wear — antiqued blues, greens, reds, soft pastels and beiges.

Fine-grained textures on all types of skins.

Gold and silver leathers for evening shoes tanned to a new pliability — soft and supple so it molds to the foot like a glove.

The classical leathers, which account for most shoes produced in the U. S., were also on view en masse: Gleaming, smooth calf, tough but supple cattlehide (called side leather in the trade), brushed leathers and soft kids. These are the basic leathers that go not only into shoes, but handbags, belts and other accessories.

PARTY SANDWICHES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rolled sandwiches have a party look. Combine one 3-ounce package of softened cream cheese with 1 2¼-ounce can of deviled ham and 1 tablespoon of chopped chives. Mix well and spread on 8 slices of whole wheat bread with the crusts removed. Cut a dill pickle into 8 sticks and roll each sandwich around a pickle stick in jelly roll style. Fasten with toothpicks if necessary.

ANN LANDERS
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I did not agree with your advice to the young girl who wanted to contact her father who was divorced from her mother. You told her NOT to write behind her mother's back. I think you made a bad mistake.

I've been divorced four years. Every month I've sent my ex-wife a check for alimony and support for the two children. It's been over three and a half years since I've seen the children. It's not because I don't WANT to see them, either. It's because my ex-wife is an impossible witch.

Once when I went to visit the children at home she had me arrested for disturbing the peace. Another time when I went to their school the same thing happened. At Christmas I sent the children lovely gifts and she threw them in the garbage can. The letters I write to them are returned to me unopened.

I wish to heaven my kids would write to me behind their mother's back because it's the only way I'll ever hear from them. You don't know EVERYTHING, Ann Landers. — LONESOME DAD

Dear Lonesome: True — I don't know everything — but I do know something. And I know for sure there's a large hole in your story.

Did the court give you visiting privileges? If not, there must have been a darned good reason, and you have no right to see the children.

If you WERE given visiting privileges, your wife cannot deny you the right given to you by law. If you are entitled to see them a lawyer can demand that the children be turned over to you at specific intervals.

Dear Ann: We plan to be married in July. Both my boy friend and I have been saving for three years. Our joint savings account is over $5,000. We don't owe any bills.

Two months ago my aunt passed away and left seven rooms of beat-up furniture. In her will she said the furniture belongs to me. I appreciate the thought but I don't want it.

My mother says it's "good enough for young people starting out." I hate heavy Victorian stuff and I have my heart set on contemporary modern.

My fiance is inclined to agree with my mother but he says the final decision is up to me. What shall I do?—ST. LOUIS LOU

Dear Lou: If you've been saving for three years, you've earned the right to have the kind of furniture you like.

If there are no other relatives who would like your aunt's furniture for sentimental reasons, accept it. Then sell it and buy contemporary furniture with the proceeds.

Dear Ann: A woman who has been married three times has been in hot pursuit. I've never been married, we're both in the middle 30's, and she's got me on a merry-go-round.

On the plus side: She's fascinating, wonderful company, a good cook, immaculate housekeeper, and tells me she wants nothing out of life but to be my wife.

On the minus side: Her three divorces have produced four children who live with her mother, but she never speaks of them and she goes for weeks without seeing them. She owes money all over town and has charged a few things on my account without permission. She's a bit of a liar and has a poor memory. She's hinted strongly to our friends that we've set a date, which is absolutely not true. How do I fight this?—DOC

Dear Doc: With your hat. Grab it — and run.

Dear Ann: Our only daughter married a spoiled, selfish mama's boy who won't work or accept any responsibility. She met him three weeks before they eloped. When she talked about marriage after the second date, we begged her to use her head. She refused to listen and accused us of trying to "lead her life."

Now she's pregnant and sick most of the time. We've had to pay their rent for three months and carry groceries over there. Her husband's divorced sister moved into their apartment with her baby boy and she smokes cigarettes all day and doesn't even take care of her own child.

Our daughter has to cook and clean up after all of them. The poor thing is miserable and keeps asking for advice. What shall I tell her? —Crushed Mom

She's asking for advice a little late. Suggest she see a marriage counselor or a clergyman and make every effort to keep the marriage together. This means educating her child-husband. In the meantime, keep her room intact. I suspect you're going to have company soon.

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 12 years old who is taking piano lessons and do not enjoy them in the least. My mother keeps saying "you'll thank me someday." I just hate for my father to spend all that money on lessons. He could sure put it to better use. I keep telling him but he says "Listen to your mother."

My older sister took piano lessons for five years and she can't even play one song. I can just see myself following in her footsteps. Why should I be forced to take lessons if I don't want to? I know for sure I'll never be a concert player no matter what. Please set me free.—Piano Slave

Dear Slave: Even though you'll never be a "concert player" piano lessons are STILL worthwhile. We must do many things in life we don't enjoy, but it's good discipline to do them anyway.

Time and energy expended at the piano is better spent THERE than other places teenagers find these days. Stick with the lessons. This may sound familiar, Chicken, but "You'll thank me someday."

Miss Larche Engaged To A. Moreton III

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flournoy Larche of Jackson, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bethany Rebecca, to Alfred Elliott Moreton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Elliott Moreton Jr. of Gulfport, Miss.

Teenagers Do Not Use The Beatnik Slang

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adults who try to talk the teen-agers' lingo can relax. The teens are leaving slang to the beatniks.

That's the word from eight teenaged girls visiting New York from across the United States.

"Slang is dying. Kids only talk that way in junior high school or movies," said Kathie Lee Mary, 16, of Oakland, Calif.

"The most we say is 'sharp.' We're trying to act more grown up and use bigger words," she added.

Slang is almost non-existent in Hawaii. "The nearest we come to it is Hawaiian, I guess," said Noelani Forsythe, 17, formerly of Honolulu, now of Chevy Chase, Md.

Anyone who wants to enrich his vocabulary still has a few slang expressions to draw from, however. For example:

"Grubby" — Everything bad.

"Potty" — Also bad.

"If I want your opinion, I'll rattle your cage."

"Swinger" — Anyone who is SOMEONE.

Six of the girls are winners in a fashion council competition sponsored by a national magazine. They are: Jill Jacobs, 15, of Chicago, top winner; Dianne Dicks of Indianapolis; Barbara Kid, 17, of El Paso, Tex.; Babs Schaefer, of Augusta, Ga.; Joan Lee Udelf, 17, of Cleveland; and Miss Mary.

Miss Forsythe and Sue Bartlett, 18, of Fairbanks, Alaska, the daughter of Sen. E. L. Bartlett, were chosen to represent the new states.

Despite the demise of slang, the teen-agers still cling to fads in clothing. Girls today wear white lipstick, white pleated skirts, trench coats in rain or shine, tennis shoes (dirty), or sneakers without socks. Hair is done in an "upside-down pony tail"—a pony-tail worn like a fan or pancake on top of the head.

MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Your Baby And Mine

It would be a very unusual child, indeed, who never had said, "No, I won't do it," to a parent. Beginning as early as the second year children go into the "no" stage and say this so often that it is almost without meaning. For 2-year-olds it may be just a word which they have heard often and so they repeat it.

But just as often the no has a real meaning. It indicates that the child is now old enough to recognize there are some things he doesn't like, doesn't want to do, or doesn't want to eat. The only way he has of telling you this is by saying no when you ask him.

Since this is all part of healthy, normal growth, it doesn't pay to become too agitated about it. It doesn't represent a child's emancipation from the parental rule; it just means that a child has the power, now, to make some decisions for himself and should be allowed to do so.

SHOULD KNOW THAT

If he is so young that a decision has to be made by the parent, or if it is a decision which she can't allow him to make for any number of reasons, then he should know that. "I'm sorry you can't go to Mary's today. Perhaps tomorrow." "This isn't the place to wear your best dress, your jeans will be better."

As children get older and reach the foot-stamping, "I won't do it," stage, it is again expedient for a parent to take stock of her own behavior. It may be that a child is just trying the parent out to see how far he can go in opposing her.

But it happens quite often, and especially with docile children, that parents do develop into tyrants. They want to dictate every move of a child's day and feel if the child says no that their power is toppling and they can't allow it.

TOO MANY DEMANDS

The chances are that there may be too many demands and too many requests and orders. It is human nature to keep on asking more and more of anyone who doesn't protest too much.

But the child who is well aware that he is an individual and has some rights and privileges as such won't stand for this domination. He is the one who becomes contrary when the parent presses her advantages too far.

The fact that a child is rebellious and contrary should make the parent more aware of whether or not her demands are legitimate and should be respected, and whether there are other demands she had better turn over to the child for a personal decision. Yes, this negativistic, contrary behavior has its advantages for both parents and children — if parents read the signs rightly.

Mrs. Schley Is Reported In Seclusion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mrs. Cora Russell Schley, caught in the backwash of Gov. Earl Long's vengence, said Saturday her adopted 11-month-old baby "is the most important thing in the world to me."

Mrs. Schley, Long's public relations advisor since 1952, catapulted into prominence last week when she revealed federal agents probing Long's income had opened her bank safe deposit box. They wanted to determine how much of Long's campaign money she was holding and she later said it was $7,000.

"Bonnie is the most important thing in the world to me," she said in a copyrighted telephone interview with The New Orleans Times-Picayune. "I don't want anything to happen to her."

JUST ONE OF 7 Big Bests Chevrolet OFFERS you over any other car in its field!

Take a tip from the experts . . . in their own words . . . and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes

Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR†-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style

Best Engine

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: ". . . surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy

No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In

Check in any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

MRS. JAMES WILLIAM PARKS

Houston Rites For Miss Baass James W. Parks

The wedding of Miss Janet Baass of Houston, Texas, to James William Parks of Bellaird, Texas, was solemnized in a double ring ceremony Sunday, June 21, at 3 o'clock in the evening at the St. Anne's Catholic church in Houston. Rev. L. J. Lacey officiated.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baass of Victoria, Texas. Mr. Parks is the son of Mrs. J. R. Emerson of Jonesville.

The decorations of the church consisted of white gladiola and stock.

Given in marriage by Ridge Radney of Houston, the bride was attired in a white silk organza princess dress with empire line with sweep train. The sabrina neckline was outlined in jewels and the bow in back fell into flowing panels appliqued with lace, the veil of French illusion falling to fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of white pahla enopsis orchids surrounded by stephanotis and green ivy.

Attending Miss Baass as maid of honor was Mrs. E. L. Spurlock of LaPorte, Texas. She was wearing a Carribean blue pure silk organza in the empire silhouette. Matching veiled bird hats accented at the crown by a soft bow completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of deep purple astors.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. M. M. Bauman of Falfurrias, Texas. and Mrs. Ruth Richardson of Houston, Texas. They were wearing frocks identical to that of the maid of honor.

The ring bearer was John Robert Slavinsky, cousin of the bride of Houston, Texas.

Best man was E. L. Spurlock of LaPorte, Texas and groomswere Otto Wilkinson, Jonesville, M. M. Bauman, Falfurrias, Texas and Clifton Couture and Edward Earp Jr., both of Houston.

Mrs. C. L. Fitgearld presented a program of nuptial music and she accompanied Miss Lee Whiddon and Howard Hartman in vocal selections. The songs were "Ave Maria" and "Just for Today."

For her sister's wedding Mrs. Edward Earp Jr. wore a light blue silk organza shirtwaist afternoon dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Emerson, was attired in a lovely blue lace afternoon dress with matching hat and shoes. They each wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Robert Wilkinson, grandmother of the groom, wore a blue chiffon afternoon dress with matching hat and shoes and her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

MRS. LOREN GLENN FLEMING

Miss Holcomb L. G. Fleming Recite Vows

The chapel of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe held altar arrangements of white stock and Esther Reeds on Sunday, June 28 for the wedding at 2:00 p.m. of Miss Jane Holcomb and Loren Glenn Fleming. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holcomb and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Fleming all of West Monroe.

The organist, Miss Margie Norris, played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Evelyn O'Conner, soloist, who sang 'Because, and 'Whither Thou Goest,.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding dress of white silk organza and chantilly lace with a sabrina neckline held a large bow in the back. It was reimbroidered in sequins. The full bouffant waltz length shirt with appliqued lace was fashioned into a bustle in back. Her veil of illusion was fingertip length, white satin pumps and buttoned lace mittens completed her ensemble. Her bridal bouquet of feathered white carnations and stephanotis was centered with a white orchid.

Maid of honor, Miss Bonnie McMillan, was dressed in a pink silk organza with tunic effect, a pink veil and matching slippers were worn. Orchid pom pom mums fashioned in a cascade formed her bouquet.

Mr. Fleming chose Joseph Nicholas Sutton as his best man. The ushers serving were Dale Gryder and Lawrence Holcomb, a brother of the bride. Mrs. Holcomb, the bride's mother, was wearing a mauve lace with matching accessories and an orchid at her shoulder. Mrs. Fleming, the groom's mother chose a two-piece suit with white accessories and she wore a white orchid.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the bride's home. Numerous floral arrangements were used throughout the reception rooms. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink satin. A crystal punch bowl was placed on one end and on the other was the wedding cake.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Addie Hill. Mrs. T. N Cobb, Miss Gerrie Dickerson, Mrs. Doyle Daniel and at the guest book Miss Frances Little asked guests to place their names.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and she attended Northwestern State College. Her sorority was Delta Kappa Pi. The groom attended Northeast Louisiana State College after graduating from West Monroe High School.

Out of town guests were Miss Molly Little, Miss Francis Little and Mrs. Ruby Little from Shreveport. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington and sons from Detroit, Michigan and Benoit Herron from Mer Rouge.

DANGER AT HAND — The correct way of disposing of plastic garment bags is to tie them in knots, and throw them in a covered garbage can. They should never be used in the nursery or be given to children to play with.

MRS. ROBERT HOWARD GALBRAITH

Miss Fuller R. H. Galbraith Pledge Vows

Amid the soft light of many candles in a background of greenery, white roses and white gladioli, Elder Wayne Simmons of San Antonio, Texas, performed the double ring ceremony on June 26 uniting in holy matrimony Miss Connie Colleen Fuller and Robert Howard Galbraith at 7:30 in the evening in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in West Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Connie C. Fuller of West Monroe. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Galbraith of San Antonio, Texas.

Nuptial music was played during the seating of the guests by Bob Oldenburg, who later accompanied Mrs. Bob Oldenburg as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Ushers were John Huntsman and Richard Soigneir. Rosette pew markers of white and green satin with net and streamers marked the family pews.

The candles were lighted by Miss Carol Ann Galbraith of San Antonio, Texas, a cousin of the groom and Miss Michelle Meyers of West Monroe. They wore identical waltz length frocks with scoop neckline, and bouffant skirts made of pink cotton satin. Completing the ensemble were matching satin slippers, white short gloves and headdresses of pink blossoms.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were the maid of honor, Miss Joyce Elliott of Modesto, California and the matron of honor, Mrs. Raymond Clark of West Monroe. They were dressed in identical magnolia pink satin waltz length frocks with bouffant overskirts of pink organza. A scoop neckline was featured with a bow in the back. Their headdresses of pink hand fashioned Juliet caps emphasized the theme of the wedding by using rose petals in the original design. Each wore a brief veil of nylon illusion. matching slippers and short white gloves. They each carried one large pink Cabbage Rose.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Priscilla of Boston Directoire Silhouette wedding gown of white silk organza with tiny self covered buttons down the back. The yoke was of D'Argentan lace of rose design above the empire waistline. The dome shaped skirt with an overskirt was bordered and appliqued with the same lace and pearls. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion, white satin slippers and short white gloves. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis. She carried a white lace handkerchief (sixty-five years old) belonging to the groom's grandmother.

For traveling the bride chose a two piece beige and pink floral ensemble with beige accessories. One single pink glamelia was pinned to her shoulder.

Following their wedding trip through the Ozarks the couple will be at home for one year in Ames, Iowa.

The bride graduated from West Monroe High School, and Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. The groom graduated from Brackenridge High School, San Antonio, Texas, Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa and will be a 1960 graduate from Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Out - of - town relatives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Galbraith, and daughters, Carol Ann, Louise, and Dianne. Mrs. Gigi Sneed, Miss Madalyn Galbraith, and Mr. Charles Eastham from San Antonio, Texas; Miss Joyce Elliott, Modesto, California; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Simmons, and sons, San Antonio, Texas.

'Right' Tools For Right Job

Professional and skilled workmen realize there's a right tool to use for every job. If homemakers would apply the same general idea to their daily work, homemakers would get a lot more wear out of their linens and other washables.

For example, they suggest that homemakers use inexpensive and easily disposable cheesecloth or cotton rags instead of terrycloth towels and washcloths for housecleaning. Grease and heavy dirt rubbed into terrycloth may be difficult to remove when it is sent to the laundry and a permanent stain may result. The same holds true for dishcloths. A scouring pad does a more effective job of cleaning heavy grease and saves dishcloths from possible carbon stains from the bottom of pans.

Potholders are constructed to absorb heat and do heavy duty, homemakers use napkins in place of a potholder. If a hot dish or pan is placed directly on a napkin or tablecloth, a scorch or a carbon mark may develop. Even the professional laundryman won't be able to perform a miracle and remove these marks.

And, when removing makeup, blotting lipstick or wiping up spills from nail polish or remover, deodorants or other beauty aids, use tissues or a disposable rag. Many beauty aids, perfumrs and liquid medicines as well, may leave permanent stains that may be impossible to remove in laundering and may even damage fabrics.

To the homemaker who uses the right "tools," the textile technicians of the national research center for the professional laundry industry offer this additional reminder: "A place for everything, and everything in its place." Don't put cleaning compounds where they might come in contact with fabrics and don't throw cloths that have been used for cleaning in the same bundle with the family wash. Cloths that contain certain bleaches, furniture polish or waxes, or highly concentrated cleaners may damage or stain the fabrics they come in contact with and may be difficult to remove when the ariticles are sent to the local laundry.

How to help "1 out of 10" and help yourself, too!

Today, doctors say that 1 out of every 10 Americans has a serious mental problem. You probably come in contact with at least one such person every day—a friend, someone you work with, perhaps even a member of your own family.

This person desperately needs something that you alone can give —your understanding. Here's how you can give it.

First, remember the facts. Serious mental problems are quite widespread today. They're not rare. And they're not hopeless! In most cases, they respond well to modern medical treatment. Second, show the person with such a problem that you understand, sympathize and want to help.

As you do this—as you give your understanding to those with serious problems—learn to understand yourself, too! Learn how to keep your own emotional tensions from making life unhappy for you—and for those around you.

For valuable advice on what you can do about your tensions, send for the free booklet, "How To Deal With Your Tensions". Write: Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

1,288 Books Added To Library In June

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Parish Librarian

During the month of June we added a total of 1,288 new books to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. During that same period 230 books had to be discarded because they had passed the stage of usefulness. This gives us the total book collection on July first of 57,058 books. This is a gain of 6,500 books since January first or better than 1,000 books per month. We still need many more books but we are building our collection as fast as we can. We have had many lovely and generous gifts in the past months which have made it possible for us to have so many new books for you.

Let's take a look at some of the new books added during the past week. Heading the list of fiction is "The Clouded Fountain" by Huston McCready. This author writes with a sure touch about the people of Philadelphia's Main Line and his characters are always believable. This is the story of Loring Shand and the decision which faced him and how he solved his problem. "The Lion" by Joseph Kessell is a modern French novel, translated by Peter Green and is well worth your reading time. "The Four Window Girl" by Shepherd Mead pokes fun at the world of big business and is concerned with the activities of a young woman, who outsmarted the men in her organization, or did she? Always charming are the books written by Gladys Taber. Her latest one is called "Spring Harvest." It has its setting on the campus of a small midwestern college and it is a story which makes one feel better after reading it.

Labeled as a novel of menace "Time Out of Joint" by Phillip K. Dick is one that makes spines tingle. The latest offering by Erle Stanley Gardner is "The Case of the Mythical Monkeys," which ran as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post. He has his loyal following who will welcome another Perry Mason story.

The field of non - fiction is unusually good this week. "Discover Your Inner Self" by Auren Uris will appeal to all of those who are looking for inner security. "Christ and the Christian" is a group of sermons by Father Robert W. Gleason and will appeal particularly to the members of the Catholic Church. "What We Must Know About Communism" by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet is a book which every thinking man and woman should read. "From Ape to Angel" by Hoffman R. Hays is a fascinating book of anthropology.

Every woman wants to be more beautiful and a new book which will help her achieve her aim is "The Harper's Bazaar Beauty Book." Are you planning to redecorate your home? You will want to read "Room by Room" by Kay Hardy, which is just off the press and most up-to-date. "Letters to Mother" is the title of a collection just released by Charles Van Doren. It is well worth reading. "Folksongs of Mississippi and Their Background" by Arthur Palmer Hudson will interest everyone who is interested in the folklore of this region.

"Tales of Ancient India" by J. A. P. Van Buitenen is a beautiful collection. Are you going travelling in the United States or Canada? You will want to see "Better Vacations for Your Money" by Michael Frome. "Israel's Odyssey" by Abraham Mayer Heller is a well written account of the history of the state of Israel. Stamp collectors will want to see "Confederate Stamps, Old Letters and History" by Raynor Hubbell. Aviation enthusiasts will enjoy "They Flew the Atlantic" by Robert de la Croix, which tells about the pioneers in trans-Atlantic flight. There has recently been a great upsurge of interest in war stories and a new one in this field is "The Saga of Pappy Gunn" written by General George C. Kenny. Another new autobiography is "Steps in Time" by Fred Astaire.

Children Study Russian At 'Saturday School'

By CHARLES E. ENGELKE

ABINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — The moppets of the Cedar Road School are trooping back to class on Saturdays, of all things, and even stranger, they are doing it voluntarily in order to learn a foreign language.

The Cedar Road School is pioneering an experiment in making courses in French, German, Spanish, Italian and Russian available to the students in grades two through six.

And nearly half of the 154 pupills in those grades have enrolled for the classes.

The program, purely voluntary and sparked by the Abington Township School District, got under way last February and proved so successful that plans already are being made to continue it when the fall term opens in September.

Marian Garrison, principal of Cedar Road School, said the program involves teaching the children languages by conversation. The parents themselves are participating in the instruction and report their children are making amazing progress in actually talking the foreign languages.

FEE

An enrollment fee of $2 is charged for each course, proceeds from which will buy foreign language books, take care of incidental expenses. . .and pay for a party planned for the end of the current term.

The classes are held "without any written material or homework or grammatical instruction," according to Paul J. LaMorgia, one of the group that planned the courses.

"The object is purely conversational," he said. "The purpose is to get children's ears acquainted with the sound of a foreign language in order to help adjust their oral ability for handling foreign sounds before professional teaching begins at the junior high school level."

The teachers, in addition to Miss Garrison and LaMorgia, include Mrs. A. A. Alexander, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, who was born in Kiev, Russia. She taught Russian for the Berlitz school in 1918 and speaks several Slavic languages plus French and Italian. Now she is concentrating on teaching Russian at the Cedar Road School.

"We can contribute to the good understanding of all countries and continents by teaching our children foreign languages early," Miss Garrison said. "We believe learning is the first step towards liking our foreign neighbors."

FLYING ROCK HAZARD

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (UPI) —Thomas J. DiFranco, director of parks and recreation, warned golfers to watch for falling stones from blasting on the Niagara Power project along the eastern boundary of Hyde Park course. He added that the new hazard did not warrant a change in par.

MRS. JOHN FREDRICK McELHINNEY

Violet Ranne Is Wed To John F. McElhinney

Miss Violet Ranne and John Fredrick McElhinney of Longview, Texas, were united in marriage on Saturday, June 20, at the Temple Baptist Church in Ruston. The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Orville D. Ranne of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Max McElhinney of Ames, Iowa.

The altar of the church was centered with a large sun burst arrangement of pale pink gladioli and pink chrysanthemums. In the choir loft, branched candelabra held tall lighted pink tapers. The Rev. G. Avery Lee read the vows as the couple stood before the altar. Baskets of pink gladioli and emerald palms on each side of the altar steps completed the setting for the exchange of vows. Pink flowers and fern were markers for the family pews.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by the organist, Miss Brenda Hayword of Longview, a cousin of the bride. She accompanied Miss Iva Ann Causey as she sang "Through the Years," and the "Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony

The bride's roommate, Miss Frances Cox, wore a deep rose pink organza over taffeta gown designed with Empire waistline. She wore a matching hat and shoes. Her cascade bouquet was of pink roses. Miss Becky Carlisle of Belton, Texas was the flower girl. Candlelighters were Mrs. Martha Johnston of Gladewater, Texas, and Miss Gracie Maranto of Marshall, Texas. They wore dresses similar to the maid of honor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Italian white lace and silk organza. The bodice was embellished with seed pearls, and the long lace sleeves ended in petal points over her hands. The full skirt of silk organza had a lace panel in the back which extended from the neckline and ended in a chapel train. It was accented with a large bustle bow at the waistline. A lace cap sprinkled with seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was fan shaped of orchids and stephanotis. For something old, she wore pearl earrings which were sent to her by her brother while he was in Japan.

Mr. McElhinney chose his brother, Thomas McElhinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, as his best man. Ushers were Neal Ranne, brother of the bride; and Jack Mackey of Dallas, Texas.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents were hosts for the reception in the church recreation room following the ceremony. Mrs. Ranne chose for the wedding a gown of blue lace and she wore a pink hat and gloves with a pink corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige silk organza dress with matching accessories and a pink corsage.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet edged with pink chiffon. The tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses and lilies of the valley was served by Mrs. L. E. Hayward, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Neal Ranne presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Bob Carlisle, another cousin of the bride, presided at the Bride's Register. Billy Hayward and Alan Carlisle distributed rice bags to the guests prior to the couple's departure.

The couple will be at home in Longview following a honeymoon to Biloxi. Mrs. McElhinney wore for her wedding trip a blue silk suit with white accessories and a white feather hat.

Mrs. McElhinney graduated from Louisiana Tech in Ruston. She was employed as a home economist in Longview. The groom graduated from Iowa State College in Ames.

Out - of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mackey and Mrs. Gay Simpson of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Floyd Bump, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. Philip Maranto and Miss Gracie Maranto of Marshall, Texas; Mrs. Martha Johnson, Gladewater, Tex., Miss Frances Cox, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hayward, Brenda and Billy of Longview; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Ranne, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Wilson, Miss Lucy Wilson, and Mrs. Billy Wilson, Longview. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Hicks, Mr. and Mr Bob Carlisle, Becky and Alan, Carlisle, Belton, Texas; Gordon Brown, Bossier City; and Miss Joyce Nicklas of Shreveport.

The Pines Restaurant was the scene for the rehearsal dinner on Saturday prior to the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McElhinney were the hosts.

Guests included members of the wedding party and Dr. Rel Gray, pastor of Temple Church, and Dr. G. Avery Lee.

Johnny Comes Marching Home From Camp

All over the country about now parents are getting happy surprises as Johnny and Mary come home from summer camp, better children than when they left.

The camp experience of group living under trained leadership is almost certain to improve a child's manners and general discipline, says Sidney N. Geal, standards director of the American Camping Assn., who adds:

"Don't be surprised if your returned camper displays better table manners, more responsible care of his belongings, less feuding with brothers and sisters and more attention to personal grooming — all on a voluntary basis.,

Here are some of the changes parents are likely to notice in their children, after a summer at camp:

1. More confidence. After having to solve some of their own problems at camp, children are more able to cope with those at home.

2. Cooperative attitude. Camp teaches a child to get along with a group.

3. Respect for others. Campers live closely with children of varying backgrounds and so learn to understand ways of life different from their own.

4. Less restlessness. The returned camper will have learned how to entertain himself and get fun out of hobbies.

Geal points out that a period away from parental control is constructive in a child's development, but adds:

"Mom and Dad are always the most important people in every child's life. Camp is an extension of parental concern, never a substitute for it."

Knit Fashions Top Favorites By Americans

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Knits of all varieties — cotton, silk, wool and synthetics — are rapidly becoming America's top fashion favorites.

Time was when a woman hesitated to buy a knit dress, fearing that it would sag or stretch, that it would be difficult to clean and perhaps even bulky to wear.

Today all that is changed. New techniques are turning out knits that keep their shape through repeated wearings and washings, that are impervious to moths, don't sag or stretch and are available in styles by top designers.

Cotton knit separates are increasingly popular for summer wear, now being turned out in gay colors and fresh designs, in shorts, tapered slacks, shirts, weskits, skirts, blouses and pullovers. Some women make cotton knits the backbone of a summer wardrobe, choosing all garments in coordinated colors that can be interchanged.

Some of the colors available in these free - and - easy outfits are sailing blue, patriot red, carrot, turquoise, aqua, black and white.

Equally versatile are new synthetic knits, such as zefran, which are great for travel wear, resist wrinkles, sagging, stretching or shrinking. They come in smooth or nubby textures, sometimes combined with natural fibers.

Woolknit travel coats do year-round duty, and silk - knit sweaters and blouses are winning new converts, sparked by recent handsome imports from Italy.

Knits have that easy, casual look so loved by American women — and in their new versions are easy to care for and flattering to wear.

Supersize Bedding Now In Stores

Texas (as if you didn't know it) is big. And the tall men and gals from the state like their beds big. One local manufacturer reports a special order for a mattress 78 by 84 inches!

Well, most states aren't as big as the Lone Star and most folks not as big as Texans. But bigger beds are certainly catching on everywhere. Maybe not as big as that custom-built job, but you can buy them 81½ inches long and up to 60 inches wide in most any furniture store.

This is the new supersize bedding with room to stretch out your legs, partner! It's supercomfortable, too.

There are about 500 different kinds of cheese in the world made from the milk of many animals, according to the Twentieth Century Fund, which notes that the Lapps and Eskimos use reindeer milk, the Arabs camel milk and some South Americans llama milk while Ceylon and India eat zebu cheese.

Fast Blooming Plants Named

By AUDREY DAWSON

Did you fail to put in some of the quick growing and quick blooming flowers earlier in the season? If so, you may plant some in well prepared rows or beds. Some seed that can be planted to give color in your garden are sweet alyssum, cosmos, marigold, annual phlox or portulaca. With good moisture in the soil, they will germinate in 5 to 10 days and bloom in 30-40 days.

Now is a good time to make azalea and camellia cuttings. Use current season's growth 3 to 6 iches long. Remove all leaves except two or three at tip end. Set in beds or rows in partial shade or even in fruit jars. Keep well watered but not soaking wet.

GARDENING HINTS

To keep flowers blooming, remove all blossoms as they begin to fade, give plenty of water (do not keep soil water soaked), give a good wetting when applied, and leave alone until ground becomes quite dry again.

Watch your crape myrtles. If leaves begin to curl, this is evidence of powdery mildew. To control, dust frequently with finely powdered sulphur.

Look for red spiders on azaleas and camellias. If the leaves become somewhat yellowish and sickly in color, this is a fairly good reason for suspecting this pest. Rub a leaf against your finger and notice if there is a rust coloring left on the finger, if so, you may be sure you have red spider. Dusting with sulphur or spray with Malathion to control.

STARCH ON IRON

Starched clothes are indirectly to blame for scars on many a hand iron. When starch sticks and scorches on the hot iron, there's a temptation to scratch if off with a knife or any other sharp utensil handy. The result is likely to be permanent scratches on the plate of the iron which will catch on fabrics and pull threads.

To clean the soleplate of your iron, wipe with a damp cloth and polish with a soft dry cloth while iron is slightly warm. If this does not remove the dirt or burned on starch, run the warm iron quickly over wax paper; then remove dirt by scouring with whiting or silver polish. If these are not effective, use fine scouring powder and finally steel wool. Finish by wiping off the scouring material with a soft damp cloth. Remove any excess wax by running warm iron over a blotter or a newspaper.

As a prevention against sticking starch, rub a little paraffin requentlly over the hot surfce of the iron.

FARM BUREAU QUEEN

Congratulations to Janette Holdeman selected as the Farm Bureau Queen for 1959. She will enter state competion July 20 when the Farm Bureau convention convenes here in our city. Janette is enrolled in Home economics at Northeast State College and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Holdeman of Lamkin. Janette was a former 4-H Club member and won national honors in the poultry project.

Lila Marie Fite took top honors in the talent contest. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lila Fite of Richmond Avenue, Monroe. Lila Marie is an active 4-H Club member of Ouachita Parish High School. She will be a busy young lady in July as she will represent the parish in the food preparation contest at state 4-H Short Course in Baton Rouge July 14 and back here for the Farm Bureau State Convention July 19th to enter state competion in the talent contest.

Orchids to Mrs. John Osterland, Chairman of Parish Women's Division of the Farm Bureau, and her committies for a superb job in arranging for the parish contest.

Tobacco Makes Fine Annual

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of the most satisfactory annuals is flowering tobacco. The treatment of these brilliant and fragrant annuals is exactly like that of petunias or of our cultivated tobacco. In fact, the blossoms blend beautifully with petunia flowers. The only difference between the flowers of the two plants is that petunias have large blossoms and shorter tubes while flowering tobacco has small flowers and long tubes.

Both tobacco and flowering tobacco were named for Jean Nicot, Consul from France to Portugal at the time when many new and curious plants were beginning to come from America. In Latin, the name of this whole group of plants is Nicotiana, pronounced by gardeners everywhere as if the T were SH: Nee-ko-shee-ana.

In seed catalogues, you will find Nicotiana affinis hybrids. These beautiful flowers run through all sorts of unimagineable colors and shades that most other annuals do not seem to have. The old white variety that we used to grow just to give us scent at night did not open in the daytime at all, and people would grow a plant or two and set them on their sitting terraces. A single blossom would give off enough scent to delight every one for yards around. Catalogues now offer the same scented white kind, but it stays open in the daytime now. Nighttime still brings out the scent most strongly because these flowers are pollinated by night flying insects.

Nicotiana can still be planted right now, as most annuals can. The plants come from very, very fine seeds like petunias. They like hot weather and grow very rapidly in it like smoking tobacco does. In fact, they are just another kind of tobacco. The fuzzy leaves and long flowers will remind you at once of the tobacco in the fields.

DRY BEDS

Nicotiana of the flowering kind comes through our Southern winters in flower beds that are not wet in winter. A few plants set out six or seven years ago have managed to keep themselves going from year to year in your columnist's garden in spite of several very severe winters. The roots are almost like tubers and seem to survive the cold where there is a light mulch of pine needles over them. Seedlings come up everywhere if you allow any plants to go to seed. It seems that flowering tobacco manages to come back and survive even better than its close relative, the petunia.

As cut flowers, nicotiana will supply you with cherry red and some other amazing colors. The airy branches of bright and dull flowers mix well with other material and last well in water.

Loans Tightening For Home Buyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Get ready for a tight third quarter" if you're going to be in the market for a home loan.

"You may well see less money readily available for mortgages than you have in three years."

This forecast for home buyers comes from House & Home Magazine's July report on the mortgage market. The report is based on June market soundings in 16 cities from coast to coast.

A government report confirms money has been tightening and experts agree that no let up is in sight.

But some observers feel that the magazine's analysis, while correct in direction, may be too pessimistic.

The long and short of the situation is that interest rates are moving up and lenders are getting choosier about who gets a loan.

According to one industry leader the reason is simply that demand for money is racing ahead of supply.

"The supply of savings is still being outstripped by an unprecedented demand for home loans," said Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the U. S. Savings & Loan League.

As a result, he told Minnesota Savings and Loan officials, money is getting gradually tighter.

Officials pointed out that when money gets tight, one way lenders ration it is to give shorter loans, turn away home buyers who want maximum repayment periods.

In addiditon to a big borrowing demand for home building, funds are being sopped up by business and consumers. Firms have expanded their planned spending for new factories and equipment, to be financed in part out of borrowed money. Consumer installment credit has expanded sharply and probably will continue to rise.

One expected effect of the credit squeeze will be a slowdown in housing starts later in the year. Still, industry officials believe they will come close to 1,300,000 housing starts for the year, compared to 1,209,400 in 1958.

The latest government report of tightening in the mortgage market came from the Federal Housing administration. It reported that secondary market discounts on FHA mortgages jumped by 40 cents per $100 in May to a June 1 national average of three points.

That meant that secondary buyers of mortgages were paying $97 for every $100 of outstanding loan value, compared to $97.40 on May 1. As FHA trading goes, this was a sizeable increase.

The national FHA average price was $97.50 on April 1, $97.40 on March 1 and $97.30 on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1.

Gardeners Are Gadget Lovers For Most Part

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Generalities are always dangerous, but I maintain that all amateur gardeners are gadget lovers and most of them are unfrustrated collectors of a wide range of implements, nostrums and gheewacks which are largely used to render the family garage uninhabitable by an automobile.

Every beginner's garden book devotes a page or two to describing: hose, rake, digging device, ing: Hose, rake, digging device, hoe, hand cultivator, spray or dust equipment and such.

Every gardener instantly acquires these aids — and then goes to acquiring as widely as his pocketbook permits. And pocketbooks permit quite a lot over the years. I find, for instance, that in the cultivator class alone I own some 25 different implements designed for weed control, ranging in size from a small hand tool called a crabjack through assorted hoes to a large thing called a wheel cultivator which I've never used but picked up for $5 at a church barn sale. In the grass-cutting class I have a power mower, a hand mower, a hand edger plus a sickle, a grass whip and long handled and short handled grass shears. There are long handled and short handled shovels, spades and a spading fork — plus a number of small digging tools.

I have grafting equipment, sticks of flats, a huge collection of (used) flower pots, including chipped and broken ones which are saved to smash and be used as potsherds for drainage at the bottom of perfect ones, stakes ranging in size from six footers to a few inches, assorted string and wire twists, plus a wide range of fertilizers and soil conditioners. And a large, large number of insecticides, herbicides, tree wound paint and the like.

Several years ago I estimated that, counting my investment of equipment, it cost me roughly $1.50 to grow a bunch of radishes in the backyard garden. I suspect that today the cost has increased considerably but I say also that I don't regret a penny of the cost.

A wide collection of spraying and dusting tools, for instance, is fairly expensive, but often pays off in terms of saving the gardener's strength, chemical materials and time. In the season- long battle against aphids and other sucking pests, for instance, I still find my trombone sprayer and a pail the handiest and least expensive method of attack. On the other hand, every time I spot a special pest — red spider on the golden glow, for example — I grab my malathion bomb and spray the infected area selectively. A spreader — for fertilizer, lime even grass seed — pays off quickly in terms of economy because you can adjust it to drop the proper amount and you can get through the job quicker.

Bombs are among the great boons to modern gardening. Just about everything liquid is now available in them. The other day I sprayed my rusty wheelbarrow with a rust-deterring primer coat, and followed later with a spray of paint — all without dirtying my hands and in a few minutes. Such short cuts are worth the extra money they cost.

Market Grows For Metal Grab Claws

By DALE NELSON

BOISE, Idaho (AP) —You know those mechanical claws that grope around for clocks and kewpy dolls in a sea of candy?

If you've ever gambled a nickel on one, you have an idea of one of the problems nuclear technicians face.

The problem: grabbing hold of radioactive material being tested in atomic "hot cells."

So robot arms do the hoisting.

The business of making the arms has attracted some of the biggest names in atomic energy. It also attracted a Boise insurance man and his engineer brother-in-law.

FOR ALL WEIGHTS

One device had been developed which would handle weights up to eight pounds. Another would carry weights from 40 to 100 pounds. But there was none for the 8-40 pound range.

Then Lee Associates came up with one.

"It's just like a new size of wrench," says James H. Hawley Jr. of Boise, vice president and treasurer. It costs $8,500.

The firm now has an order pending from the French government, and has received inquiries from firms in Austria and West Germany.

The company's office is here, but the devices are made in Seattle.

Lee F. Miller, a Seattle engineer who is Hawley's brother-in-law, had the idea. He said he would design the arm if Hawley would raise the money. Hawley was game, and they went ahead. This was in June, 1956.

ONLY YEAR OLD

By February, 1957, they had plans for a prototype ready. They showed the plans at a trade fair in Chicago. By March, 1958, they had developed a demonstration model and formed their corporation.

THE HOME SHIFT

Rather Warm For Working

By MILDRED SWIFT

As the weather gets warmer there's little urge to work in the garden. Wise is the gardener who has beds and plants well mulched. Only a little trimming about twice during the summer is all that is needed to keep a neat look. If there's lots of rain, a few large weeds may need pulling.

Of course, if you have small blooming plants, you'll have more weeding to do, but many gardeners feel that they are worth the effort. Certainly annuals add color to the garden as well as supplying cut flowers for the house.

ROAMING

Have you noticed the gorgeous beds of portulaca (moss rose) around the Twin Cities? I saw two or three yesterday but right now can't recall the address. This is a plant that will completly cover an area, and therefore; will require little weeding. It's very unusual for portulaca to bloom this early. You can still plant the seed.

As you roam around your own garden and observe others, you really see the advantage of the different shades of green as well as the variegated plants. About this time there's little in bloom, but if you've planned well you still have beauty and interest. What about that grayish pittosporum? Isn't it gorgeous with the darker greens?

Do you have any of the variegated Euonymus? There's a big family of these and more "versions" coming out all the time.

Be sure to see the gold dust Aucuba in the Otto Passman garden on Loop Road. There's also the green variety. The large bold leaves give coarse foliage and this is a shadeloving plant. In fact, it just doesn't thrive in full sun. The female of this species will produce berries when pollinated.

There's also a big family of the variegated and golden eleagnus, which is a very hardy plant. It's nice for screening.

The upright elephant's ear is a nice dark-green foliage to give interest. And—before too long, we'll have variegated variety.

If you want to see the gorgeous effect of Santolina, go by the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Oliver Road, Monroe. This gray ground cover grows well in full sun.

BEAUTY

There's been so much beauty created at Louisiana Training Institute, 4601 South Grand Street. Drive down that way and make a tour through the grounds. The daylilies have been in full bloom. The general lay-out of the grounds show good planning. The boys who have done the work and those in charge are to be congratulated. I wonder if the boys know how much valuable horticultural knowledge they are gaining. This experience can be of benefit to them all through their future years.

Seed you can plant now are cockscomb, portulaca, sweet alyssum, hollyhock (August), balsam, zinnia, marigold, four o'clock. This last in not a showy plant, but if you need a shrub where you don't have one, four o'clock will really do the job. It grows large an fills in space.

ITCHING SEASON

"Love," said the wit, "is an itchy feeling you can't scratch." At this time of year, if you're not careful, you'll really be "scratching." I'm talking about those scourges of summertime — poison oak, ivy and sumac.

According to scientists all three of the above contain an oily poison which, when it comes in contact with the skin, usually causes a painful reaction. Strangely, some people are more sensitive to this poison than others, and some are even immune to it. If you develop a rash, consult your physician. Without medical advice you may use a preparation that will irritate the infected area.

The best way to avoid trouble this summer is to stay away from the plants. The best way to do this is to know them. Poison ivy grows as a vine which clings to trees, fences and other supports. The leaves are made up of three leaflets, each about three inches long. The leaflet edges have small notches, although they may be almost smooth-edged.

Poison oak also grows as a vine, has three leaves and the leaf edges are heavily notched.

Poison sumac, the third villain, grows as a shrub or small tree. Its leaves are boat shaped and run in pairs instead of threes.

EXTRA

I read in a recent newspaper column that in New Orleans they grow a summer-blooming wisteria (wisteria megasperma). This blooms only in the summer and they say it is very beautiful. I was just wondering if this will grow in our area. Have any of you ever grown one? Give me a ring if you have any information.

Remember the song "I'm going to buy a paper dolly just to call my own." Well—in the mail, I've just received a paper raincoat that sells for one dollar. These will be in the market by fall. Soon they'll be putting out paper bathing suits.

The use of paper reflects our tendency to use a product once and throw it away. These paper products are water resistant. We in the cotton area are not at all happy over this new move. We'd like more products made of cotton, naturally.

Details Given On Complex Cricket Game

LONDON (UPI)—Just outside my front window ever Wednesday afternoon, what appear to be two dozen bald hospital interns in uniform mill around an open field as if seeking a lost thermometer.

Some years of watching these antics have convinced me it is time someone explained what cricket is all about.

To hear English sports writers tell it, the job is impossible. One called cricket "a ritualistic performance that no sane man can be expected to understand." Another gave up years ago and said the game "is the one thing about England you can never explain."

Yet an Australian once told me "all you need to know about cricket" in 30 seconds.

He did in in baseball terms, and it turns out the game is simplicity itself.

There is a pitcher and a batter. (Two of each, really, but ignore that for the moment.) Their two positions are the infield. The pitcher's mound doubles as first (and the only) base.

Behind the batter and on the pitcher's mound are three stakes pounded into the ground, with pegs balanced on their tips. If the pitcher throws a strike and knocks off these pegs, the batter is out. He can also fly out, be thrown out, or tagged off base.

When the batter whacks one of the pitcher's bounce-balls, he runs to the pitcher's mound and back again, if there's time. Each one-way trip equals one run.

All 11 men on a team bat consecutively until 10 are out. Two innings for each side, and the team with the most runs wins.

What could be more simple?

Of course, there are some slight complications.

There is the matter of two pitchers bowling in rotation toward both wickets, and the fact that two batters are up at once. Both must run, criss-crossing the pitch, and either can be put out.

There are the fielders to get straight. They loll around at positions named silly mid-off, silly mid-on, gully one and two. Short leg, square leg, fine leg, backward point, first, second, third and fourth slip, third man (but no first or second) and so on.

There is the problem of the spin bowler who, on the game's first over, got one for a duck, gave up three fours and a tremendous six, and then got the batter leg before wicket for 18 for 2.

Once you get expert enough to master all that, what have you got?

A game of utterly appalling monotony.

Nothing ever seems to happen. A game starts in the morning and lasts five days. Nothing resembling sport is present, not even competitive spirit: "Win or lose, hardly anyone cares," a recent commentator said.

They key to the problem is one of attitude. The batter's first duty is to avoid being put out, not to score runs.

Even after hitting a fair ball—and every ball is automatically fair — the batter doesn't have to run if he doesn't feel like it. If there is the slightest chance of being put out, he won't budge.

Some batters stay up for six hours at a stretch.

Yet Englishmen are insane over this game. A government service giving up-to-the- minute scores of test matches, a sort of international all-star series, handled roughly 10,000,000 calls for its first seven games.

Why? Check the sports writers again. They tend to get as lyrical as the Lake poets in giving the answer. Said one:

"All the arts are in this game, and for the onlooker, warm on his mound, sun-soaked, lulled by the rhythm and the beauty, happiness is there, and a belief in the essential nobility of life."

Does anyone you know say that about baseball?

Cotton Experts Of 12 Nations Confer Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the 12 leading cotton exporting nations will gather here Tuesday to consider measures that might lead to stabilizing the world market.

They will meet for two days under the chairmanship of the Mexican Agriculture Minister Julian Rodriguez Adame.

The nations are Brazil, El Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Mexico, Nicaragua, Pakistan, Peru, the Sudan, Turkey, the United Arab Republic and the United States.

They formed a permanent organization to study the world cotton problem, marked by an excess of production over demand, last June 3 in a meeting at the Mexican embassy.

Latin American representatives regarded U. S. agreement to participate in the talks as historic since the United States had previously declined to participate in such stabilization efforts.

At the June 3 meeting, the nations issued a statement in which they said they had met "to discuss the common problem of preventing unnecessary instability in the world cotton markets under the existing laws of the various nations."

The representatives are expected to engage in a tentative exploration of measures which might be taken to stabilize the market, and perhaps agree on a few technical organizational details.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Creative Urge In Arranging

By MARY JARDINE

"What is the flower
But the crystallization
Of a thought of God?"
Elizabeth Reeves Humphreys

For many centuries races of man in every part of the world have loved flowers and used them to decorate their dwellings. Some have used them as bloodless offerings in their temples. Many peoples have conceived flowers to be the gift to mankind of some particular spirit or deity who is most honored by offerings of beautiful flowers, becomingly arranged.

For example, we have Chloris, the ancient Greek Goddess of flowers, Flora, the Latin flower goddess, Hua Hsien, Taoist flower deity, Konohana Sakuyahine no Mikoto, the Japanese goddess of living flowers, her sister Konohana Chiruhime no Mikoto, goddess of cut flowers, Xochipilli and his consort Xochiquetzal, the Aztec deities of flowers, love and art. It follows naturally that the art of flower arranging for the American home is becoming one of the most widely practiced of the visual arts. Attendance at flower shows is on the increase, garden clubs and flower arranging classes are springing up everywhere. The arranging of flowers in a bowl satisfies both the creative urge inherent in all of us and makes artists of all of us. This talent, however nebulous in the beginning may, be developed in all to study nature, art and design.

EVERGREEN CLUB

Mrs. Ray McEachern selected a color harmony of yellow, brown and green for her triangular design. This was in keeping with the pottery bowl of earth tan shading into brown. The pattern was delineated with aspidistra leaves and brown dock for secondary placements. Bright yellow cut-and-come-again (helenium) graduating in size from small buds to large blooms were grouped within the linear pattern. Small tips of variegated euonymus were tucked behind the flowers for depth. The harmony of color and textures of plant materials selected was most excellent.

Mrs. H. W. Borsch and Mrs. J. B. Corder combined their talents in designing an arrangement in compelling colors. A soft green bowl, rectangular in shape was selected for the design. Background was composed of slightly furled aspidistra leaves, a perfect foil for the bright salmon red gerberas and groupings of flowers of the colorful shrimp plant. This would be most attractive against a gray or green background.

SUNSET COLORS

Mrs. Dick Young used sunset colors for her attractive arrangement. A low rectangular bowl of pale green held the vertical design. Sword-like foliage of the gladiolus formed the background for a line of pale yellow gladiolus shading into a deep salmon color. A second vertical line was introduced with creamy white zinnias, ranging in size from small buds at the top to large blooms at the base and covering the rim of the container.

Mrs. A. R. Robinson of West Monroe exhibited a lovely flowering pot plant not usually seen in this section. The Blood Lily (Haemanthus) On a single strong there is a large umbel of scarlet flowers with orange anthers. The shape of the entire bloom is rounded. At first glance they remind one of our fall blooming spider-lilies (lycoris radiata) but the bloom is much larger and more full. This plant is an amaryllid from South Africa and being tropical in origin is suitable only for pot culture here. They are easy to grow and may be ordered from Florida or California.

Mrs. E. A. Porter exhibited another flower not generally seen in this area. The purple-blue thistle like flowers of the Globe artichoke. Mrs. Porter has had wonderful success with growing this plant as a delectable item for the dinner table.

SMALL COST

Educational T.V. Teaches Many

By WILLIAM O. TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — For less than the cost of one network "spectacular," Alabama is instructing about 61,000 of its boys and girls through the medium of television.

The end of the 1958-59 school term marks the completion of two years of a full-schedule curriculum beamed into classrooms under authorization of the state board of education.

It is, supporters claim, the best answer at present to the critical shortage of teachers.

"One person teaching via television can instruct 5,000 classrooms," said Raymond D. Hurlburt, general manager of the Alabama Educational TV network, the only such statewide system in the nation.

Educational television in Alabama was launched little more than five years ago with a half-million-dollar grant from the state legislature. The first telecasts came a year and a half later.

Since the establishment of channel 7 as an educational TV outlet, two other channels, 2 and 10, have been added with the result that 70 per cent of the state receives TV school programs.

There are three studios: in Birmingham, at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa and at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn. The state has invested $1,500,000 in capital outlay, including eight towers and relays

The network has about seven cameras and transmits 65 hours of programming a week during the school year, 80 per cent of it "live."

Equipment valued at $200,000 was donated by Storer Broadcasting. In addition, Hurlburt said, "we receive about $100,000 a year from the Ford Foundation and another $80-85,000 each for programming out of Alabama and A. P. I. from the state. The ETV commission also receives $200,000 a year."

That adds up to about $460,000 annually — a cheap price, Hurlburt believes, for helping to alleviate the shortage of trained instructors. He would like to see the network expanded so that it serves the entire state.

Besides partly relieving the teacher shortage, Hurlburt said educational television helps to meet another critical shortcoming of Alabama's schools.

"Many of our schools are unaccredited. . .often this is due to the fact that such subjects as physics and chemistry are not being taught by adequately prepared teachers," he said. ETV overcomes that lack.

A sample of a day's schedule on ETV this spring included Spanish, physics, chemistry, civics, Latin and biology during the daytime and three college credit courses at night — advanced physics, French and psychology.

Other subjects offered for the home viewer included farm programs, sculpture, flower arranging, public speaking, a review of Russian literature and classical music. There was also an in-school science refresher course for junior high school teachers.

Hurlburt foresees a revolution in the method of school instruction by means of television.

"Almost universally, our formal education has been based on the theory that we must furnish a student's mind with a wide variety and a great number of facts. . .on the off-chance that he may need them in later life," he said.

"Educational television can enable the student to work independently. It can widen his educational opportunities by providing courses when he feels the need for them — whether the need be to increase his efficiency, understanding or just his enjoyment of life."

The TV instruction is the best available in the state. The faculty includes:

Dr. Robert Brown, dean of chemistry at the University of Alabama, and Prof. Charlotte Ward of A. P. I., who teaches 12,000 children weekly in upper elementary science.

The network has drawn favorable comment from educators throughout Alabama and has been described as a model for other states interested in adopting television as a means of teaching their booming school populations.

Cornell University's forestry school was the first of its kind in the U. S.

MR. AND MRS. DONNIE MANN

Afternoon Ceremony Held For Miss Wink-D. Mann

On June 20th at three o'clock in the afternoon in the Peniel Baptist Church of West Monroe, Miss Rita Gay Wink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wink became the bride of Donnie Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mann, all of this city.

The church altar was centered with an arch decorated with southern smilax, alternated with gardenia and greenery.

Miss Sharon Wilbanks, pianist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Harry Thompson of Doyling who sang "Because," and "Always."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length bouffant gown of traditional design of Chantilly lace over antique taffeta. The scooped neckline of the lace bodice was outlined with rosettes of lace. The bouffant skirt was accented by a scalloped hemline. Her shoulder length veil was outlined with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white gardenia bouquet centered upon a white Bible. Her only ornament was a single strand of cultured pearls.

Miss Merilyn Burson was the bride's only attendant. She wore a creation of yellow silk organza over taffeta. The bouffant dress was fashioned with a tucked bodice and close fitting waist trimmed with matching ribbon. White satin slippers and matching white gloves and hat completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Marvin Conrad served the groom as best man. Ushers were Douglas Wink and Austin Wink, brothers of the bride, Harvey Mann, brother of the groom, and Steve Carter.

Mrs. Wink, the bride's mother, chose a blush pink lace dress over taffeta, styled with a portrait neckline. She wore white accessories and a white feathered carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a toast lace dress over taffeta, with matching brown accessories She wore a corsage of yellow feathered carnations.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The gold damask cloth on the bride's table was accented by a centerpiece of white and yellow daylilies and marigolds. A crystal punchbowl stood at one end of the table, while on the other was the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The couple honeymooned throughout the state of Arkansas. They will make their home in Independence, Missouri, where the groom is in business.

White Kitchens Make Comeback

White in kitchens is making a "colorful" comeback!

While the trend in recent years has been away from the hospital-like atmosphere in kitchen design, white is still good to use in certain areas.

Since white is actually all of the colors of the spectrum, it immediately complements all colors. At the same time white gives the feeling of light, and on shiny surfaces it reflects and enhances natural light.

Major appliances and cupboards in your kitchen may be white, but you can easily avoid any "clinical" feeling through the skillful use of colors elsewhere.

While a large portion of the kitchen may be white, an orange ceiling, for example, gives a warm feeling to the whole room. Bright yellow also adds a note of warm color; perhaps on the splashbacks is a good place for stainproof yellow ceramic tile.

Work counters also provide an opportunity for adding a dash of color to your new kitchen. Countertops, as well as splashbacks, of colorful ceramic tile set in a distinctive pattern can enliven the tone of your kitchen decor.

Ceramic tile has the added advantage of being both waterproof to hot pots and pans. On floors it is ideal for durability and easy upkeep. Blue or gray floor tile goes well with nearby areas of white.

For homemakers who like variety, white provides complete flexibility. White lends itself to many different effects and permits you to change color schemes at will by a switch in accessories, such as curtains.

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE OTIS COOLEY

Cooley-Works Wedding Rites Spoken Sunday

St. John's Christian Church was the setting on June 28 at 2:00 p.m. for the wedding of Mrs. Mary Ellen Works of this city and Eugene Otis Cooley of Cookstown Road in Ruston. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Norsworthy and he is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joel Pink Cooley.

The Rev. C. R. Burcham performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of greenery with tall stands holding peonies with lighted candles along the chancel rail. Each chapel window held a single white candle entwined with greenery.

Mrs. W. C. Hopkins rendered the nuptial music and accompanied the soloists, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horn of Shreveport, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Billy Works. She wore a pastel blue imported French lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories. She carried a lavender throated orchid on a white lace covered Prayer Book. Miss Mary Nell Works, her daughter, served as maid of honor in a pink organza dress with matching accessories.

Otho Cooley served as best man and the ushers were Bill Hochstetler, Merle Edwards and John Woodburn.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

After their wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, the couple will be at home on Cookstown Road in Ruston.

Use Yellow Colors To Add Artificial Sunlight

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — My daughter's room is small and has only one window. Her walls have just been painted a very light green. The furniture is charcoal color streaked with white like a silver fox scarf. What color can we use for throw rug, bedspread, and either curtains or draperies?

A. — Sounds to me like the room could stand a touch of artificial sunlight. To achieve this, add yellow to your green and gray color scheme. Light yellow, fluffy cotton throw rugs which can go in the washer would be a good place to start. Use a yellow dust ruffle on the bed, then look for a gay print on a yellow ground and use this for bedspread and simple floor - to - ceiling draperies. For a final touch add a window shade made of the same print which she can pull down only when she wants privacy.

Q. — My living - dining room has medium gray carpeting and walls, ceilings and woodwork painted to match. Furniture is rose and gold. Unlined draperies at picture window and two small windows are pink. Must I have gray walls? I plan to recover two chairs but don't know what shade. Are the draperies correct?

A. — Keep the pink draperies at the window and paint the walls to match. At the other small windows use a different treatment: either shutters painted to match the wall, and use inside the room, or a pierced metal "screen," also painted to match walls. For the two chairs try to find a print or stripe that picks up the rose, gold and gray of your other furnishings. If you are unsuccessful — use the same gray as the carpet.

Q. — We are in the process of redoing our bedroom in a Colonial home. We have finished the walls in misty gray. Our furniture is maple but we plan to replace it with blond modern pieces soon. We would like to add indirect lighting on one wall and remove the old - fashioned fixture from the center of the ceiling. Would it be better to replace the center fixture with one of more modern design? The cove lighting we have in mind would contain a four foot long flourescent bulb. Also suggest a color scheme.

A. — Indirect lighting can be most effective but it is wise to be careful with the color of the bulb as well as the color scheme when you use it. I would put a hint of pink in the ceiling paint and use a tube which was slightly tinted pink. I would also use pink with the gray since flourescent light is naturally "cold." Try sheer gray curtains, a red and pink print for the bedspread and some tone of pink, red or rose for the floor.

Q — I am about to refurnish my living room. I plan to keep only a cinnamon brown sofa and chartreuse wing chair. Advise about colors for walls, carpeting, draperies, two small chairs.

A. — Paint walls pale yellow. Get cinnamon brown carpet to pick up tone of sofa. Get a print or stripe which contains yellow, brown and green. Use it at the windows, for the two chairs, and repeat again for pillows on the couch.

Musical Tent Theatre Idea Is Expanding

NEW YORK (UPI) — The musical arena tent theater idea is 10 years old, and there seems to be no end to its expansion.

The Musical Arena Tent Theaters Association counted 25 of the big tops around the country last summer, and this season there are four more.

St. John Terrell, a former actor who also lists fire-eating as among his accomplishments, thanks to some carnival experience in early life, started the movement in June, 1949, when he opened the first such theater in Lambertville, N. J. He is still in business there.

It took two or three years for the idea to catch on in a large way. Then it was realized that Terrell really had discovered a way to make big money with a summer countryside theater venture, and the rush was on.

It was estimated that last year's 25 tents did a total business of $10,000,000 gross, playing to more than 5,000,000 admissions. The 29 tents this year are expected to gross [illegible] 000,000 with 6,000,000 custome

There are singing actors and dancers who can make enough for year - round living now by spending a summer in the tents. They do not have to worry about whether they are going to get a regular - season job in one of Broadway's few new musicals.

U.S. OFFICIALS SAY

Veto Of Tobacco Bill To Up Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's recent veto of a tobacco price support bill may increase government farms spending by as much as 50 million dollars over the next three years and eventually boost cigarette prices, government officials said Saturday.

This was not the President's objective in turning down a grower-backed bill which would have stabilized price supports at the 1958 level and headed off increases scheduled under current law for 1959 and later years. But this could happen if Congress takes no further action, the officials said.

Eisenhower objected to the bill because he believed tobacco supports should be reduced, not merely frozen. He also protested strongly agains a provision reviving an old farm parity formula.

He called for passage of a measure that would help the growers secure more foreign markets through reduced prices. It also was hinted that he would settle for a temporary freeze if it did not include the old parity formula.

It Tobacco Belt congressmen refuse to back legislation acceptable to the White House, price supports will automatically go up one to two cents a pound this year for major tobacco types.

The President estimated in his veto message that the rejected bill would have cut government outlays for price supports by 14 million dollars in the fiscal year which began July 1. Over a three-year period, spending due to the rising price support rates allowed by the veto might thus come to as much as 50 million above the amounts that would have been spent.

The exact amount, experts said, would depend on how far the government squeezes down production by reducing marketing quotas.

Other specialists added that while it was hard to pinpoint the effect of the rising support rate on cigarette prices, "We can assume that as tobacco goes up, cigarettes will go up with it."

Higher retail prices could hurt growers two ways, an Agriculture Department official said. They might slow up the increase in domestic cigarette production, which amounted to 8 per cent last year. They might also encourage manufacturers to use longer filters and take other steps to continue the trend toward getting more cigarettes from each pound of tobacco.

FROM BALLAD SINGER

English Gets Taste Of Fourth Of July

STEEPLE BUMPSTEAD, ENGLAND (AP)—Ballad singer Burl Ives 270 pounds of rugged independence, turned an old - style English garden fete into a Fourth of July celebration Saturday with an impromptu concert of American folk songs.

"It was Independence Day," rumbled Burl, "and my patriotism got the best of my manners."

The party started out as a dignified village fete, sponsored by the Briths Legion—the English opposite number of the American Legion.

The scene was Moyns Park, the stately home of an Englishman with an American wife. They are John F.C. Bryce and his wife, the former Josephine Hartford, whose ancestors founded a nation-wide U.S. grocery chain.

All was typically English—polite games on the lawn and fortune telling—until a group of Americans spotted Ives. He was a week-end guest of the Bryces.

The Americans—about 200 from all parts of the United States with their wives and children — were from the nearby Air Force base at Wethersfield.

With that the GIs made for the rotund singer, who was standing on the steps downing a mint julip.

When Ives protested he had no guitar, Henson drove to the base and returned with one.

Burl began by yodeling "Goober Peas," a song Georgia soldiers sang during the War Between the States. After one chorus the 500 or more spectators left their games and flocked around him.

"Heavens," gasped Bryce, "stop him—he's taken all the paying customers away. We're trying to raise money for the British Legion."

But things had gone too far.

"Get a flag," he commanded.

"What sort of flag, sir?" asked a sergeant.

"What sort do you think—it's the Fourth of July, isn't it?" replied the colonel.

The sergeant hurried to the base and returned with the Stars and Stripes. It was planted on the lawn behind Ives, who by this time was singing the 12th verse of Abraham Loncoln's favorite song, "The Blue Tail Fly."

By this time word had gotten out in the countryside, and the crowd had swelled to over 1,000.

Republicans Hold Key On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee starts work on a civil rights bill next week with a handful of Republicans holding the key to the most controversial provision.

The committee will meet in closed session Thursday to begin considering a compromise drafted by a subcommittee last month.

Northern Democrats need at least five Republican votes to win committee approval of their controversial "title three" provision. It would give the attorney general power to start injunction suits to prevent denial of all civil rights, including those of Negro children in school desegregation cases.

The subcommittee bill was tailored to attract GOP support. It contains all of President Eisenhower's "moderate" civil rights proposals, plus the stronger "title three" provision.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) voiced belief the Republicans would vote for the provision. He also sai he understands that Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers "would not object" to it although the administration is not pressing the issue.

A similar provision was recommended by Eisenhower in 1957, but the position this year is that it might stiffen southern resistance to school desegregation orders.

Southerners, who hold one - third of the seats on the 32-man committee, vowed to fight the compromise "every step of the way." But they stood little chance of preventing some measures from going through.

Rep. E. L. Forrester (D-Ga.) said the southerners would be armed with "lots of amendments."

Five In Family Killed As Auto Goes Into River

ALBERTVILLE, France (AP)—Five members of one family were killed Saturday when their small French car plunged into a river.

The car started to pass a truck, skidded, struck a cyclist, careened into a wagon and then plunuged into the River isere.

At the wheel was industrial worker Marie-Emile Laissusu, 36, who died along with his wife, two children and his grandmother. The cyclist was injured, as were two passengers in the wagon. The horse was killed.

Dramatic Role

'Hercules' Is Held Over At Paramount

"Hercules" the new - adventure drama of the world's mightiest drama filmed in Eastman Color and DyaliScope and the exclusive Johansson - Patterson Championship Fight Films have been held over at the Paramount Theatre through Tuesday.

"Hercules" brings to the screen the fabulous exploits of the legendary hero, man to some, myth to others, and even a God whom some worshipped.

The title role of Hercules, mightiest of all legendary heroes, is portrayed by Steve Reeves, the virile, handsome young star who has won every international award for masculine beauty and physique, including the titles "Mr. America," "Mr. World" and "Mr. Universe." The role of the beautiful Iole is played by Italian star Sylva Koscina, who has been hailed by artists and sculptors as "the living embodiment of all the beautiful statues of ancient Greece."

Among the many fantastic incidents brought to life in "Hercules" are the hero's exploits in strangling the raging Nemean lion; the killing of the Cretan bull; and his fabulous voyage to the wild island of Colchis where a savage dragon guards the priceless Golden Fleece. All these have been thrillingly re-created, as have the famed Temple of Jolco which Hercules crumbles to dust, and the island of the Amazons where savage warrior women of surpassing beauty attempt to murder the hero and his companions.

"Hercules" is in wide-screen Dyaliscope and in Eastman Color by Pathe. A Joseph E. Levine presentation, it is being distributed by Warner Bros.

HUDSON HEADS CAST

'Earth Is Mine' Compelling Show

The Universal-International-Vintage production, directed with unerring and hard-hitting authenticity by Henry King, who created such other hits as "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," "The Bravados" and "Twelve o'Clock High," is the tense, brilliant and robust saga of a wine dynasty in the Napa Valley. Rarely has a film been so perfectly cast with Hudson playing the family rebel, Rains the venerable, stern grandfather, Dorothy McGuire the ruling hand and Jean Simmons the errant newcomer in a family of vintners whose history is steeped in the wealth, tragedy and glory which the grape and acquisition of land can bring.

Produced in CinemaScope and filmed in Technicolor, "This Earth is Mine" takes full advantage of the vast, rich vineyards where the original story, a novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart entitled "The Cup and the Sword," was conceived. Director King very wisely keeps background and story in true perspective, however, never permitting the former, despite its natural beauty, to overshadow the excitement generated within a fabulous, sometimes scandalous family, and the dramatice effects of the last years of Prohibition on its various members.

As the family rebel not above chasing any girl in his valley, or conspiring with gangsters in Chicago to replenish waning family fortunes, Rock Hudson turns in a performance unique for him. No smiling do-gooder, fearlessly rattling family skeletons, including the illegitimacy of his own birth, Hudson bears as much the brand of heel as hero, and plays the part of big, hard-headed John Rambeau with more conviction than any role he has attempted since "Giant."

Jean Simmons, as the cousin who is afraid to fall in love with Hudson, Dorothy McGuire, as the matriarchal major domo of the vast wine empire, Claude Rains as the vineyard founder and Kent Smith as the long-suffering husband of Miss McGuire, are not only outstanding in their portrayals, but make the Rambeau family of the story actually live and breathe.

A newcomer to watch is blonde and fetching Cindy Robbins, who plays the role of a grape grower's daughter, earthy, naive and always in trouble. She is star calibre in the glamor department.

As always, Henry King's magnificent direction is flawless and exciting. His production is given a rich, colorful mounting by Producers Casey Robinson and Claude Heilman and Robinson's script is full of human warmth and bitter conflict. Cameramen Winton Hoch and Russell Metty come in for full share of the credit in bringing ing the colorful drama of the vast, the colorful drama of the vast, changing Napa Valley vineyards alive on the screen.

Hugo Friedhofer's score is brilliant throughout, reflecting the careful "pointing" of dramatic highlights, characteristic of Friedhofer's reputation and abilities.

MISS HANSBERRY SIGNED

NEW YORK (AP) — Dore Schary has commissioned Lorraine Hansberry to write an original script for the first of a series of 90-minute spectaculars to be aired in 1961 by the NBC television network.

Miss Hansberry is author of the Broadway hit "A Raisin in the Sun" which won the Drama Critics citation as the season's best play.

Schary is staging five Civil War video programs between his activities as a Broadway writer, director and producer.

"WESTSIDE" IS BULKY

NEW YORK (AP) —Four baggage cars of scenery and costumes make "West Side Story" one of the heaviest shows to tour in recent years.

The show's musical complexities are also causing the sponsors to carry seven musicians on the tour instead of picking up the entire pit contingent at each city stop.

Israeli Stamp Commemorates Plane And Poet

Chaim Nachman Bialik, famous Hebrew poet, will be honored with a 25-pruta stamp marking the 25th anniversary of his death. A 500 - pruta adhesive will pay philatelic tribute to the 10th anniversary of civil aviation in Israel. Both stamps are scheduled for issuance on the same day, July 22.

The Bialik stamp, printed in green, brown and dark orange, will bear a likeness of the Hebrew poet. The aviation stamp in blue, grey, yellow and white will show a side view of an Israeli airliner.

Austria has issued a special stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the fight for the liberation of Tyrol. Depicted on this stamp is the Tyrolean eagle and the inscription "Tirol 1809-1959." The value is 1.50-schilling and color is red. This is one of the few Austrian commemoratives sold without surtax.

"Penny Black Centenary" is the title of the new handbook to be released soon by the American Topical Assn. The booklet will cover all issues honoring Rowland Hill and commemorating various anniversaries including the 100th anniversary of the world's first postage stamp—the Penny Black 1840 issue of Great Britain. This booklet will include only such stamps issued up to and including Jan. 1, 1941.

Brazil has issued a special 2.50-cruzieros blue stamp to honor the recent visit of President Sukarno of Indonesia. Depicted on the stamp is a portrait of Sukarno. Also issued by Brazil was a stamp honoring the world championship basketball contests.

Japan has issued a new 10-yen blue, white and black stamp to commemorate the adoption of the metric system. The design shows a rule, a balance and a measure. Also appearing are the initials of the words "metre, gramme and litre."

Japan also is issuing a 10-yen adhesive marking the centenary of the Red Cross and a 10-yen showing a view of Mt. Fuji from Lake Motusoko. The latter stamp is for National Park Day.

A five value set of stamps showing scenic view soon will be issued by Liechtenstein. The set will consist of the following: 10-rappen — flags in the court yard of the Castle of Vaduz and a view of the Rhine Valley; 20-r—Rhine embankment; 30-r—Castle of Gutenberg; 50-r — illumined Castle of Vaduz, 60-r—panorma of the Naaf-kopf-Falkinsrange.

GINSBREG CHANGES LINES

NEW YORK (AP) —Movie-maker Henry Ginsberg is shifting attention to the stage.

Ginsberg, whose most recent film venture was the production of "Giant", has "The Vanishing Evangelist" for his initial Broadway prospect.

The plot concerns a mysterious episode in the colorful career of Aimee Semple McPherson. In 1926 the noted evangelist disappeared from her home, and when found 36 days later told of having been kidnaped.

At Paramount

Starring in "Say One for Me," which opens July 14 at the Paramount Theatre, is Debbie Reynolds. Also starring in the movie are Bing Crosby and Robert Wagner. The film is in CinemaScope and color.

Oil, Gas Tax On Depletion Stays Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oil and gas industry's tax depletion allowance — which weathered another attack in Congress last week—has stood at a rate of 27½ per cent for 32 years.

That was the rate Congress agree upon in 1926 as generally approximating the value of capital assets—oil and gas—that are depleted with production of each barrel of oil and each cubic foot of natural gas. The allowance, which became effective in 1927, was designed also to encourage exploration for more supplies to replace those consumed.

Since then the tax benefit has survived a series of attempts to abolish or reduce it. Producers of other minerals enjoy similar allowances, but the oil and gas business gets the biggest. There is a 23 per cent depletion allowance for one type of sand and gravel. Miners of some ores get a 15 per cent rate. For other ores, including coal and tomstone marble, the allowance is 10 per cent.

The Senate last week virtually wiped out any chances in this session for revision of the oil and gas rate. It turned down, by a 54-21 vote, a proposal by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) and others to substitute a sliding scale, ranging from 15 cents on larger incomes to 27½ per cent on lower incomes, for the flat 27½ per cent rate.

But the subject is scheduled for study by the House Ways and Means Committee next fall in connection with a review of the whole tax structure. The committee has set Nov. 2 for starting its all-inclusive studies.

Rep. Frank Ikard (D-Tex), a member of the committee, said many experts, from colleges and universities, and research, business, labor, farm and other organizations, will be asked for "an objective appraisal of just how the various provisions of the tax code operate and how they affect the American people."

There has been a "rash of misleading and unfounded statements" recently about the depletion allowance for oil and gas production, Ikard said in a statement in the Congressional Record.

He declared the 27½ per cent rate "has done the job Congress expected of it. It is an integral and vital part of the economic structure of the petroleum industry.

8 LOCATIONS STAKED

Three Wells Completed In District Last Week

A trio of petroleum producers culminated mineral extraction activities in the 14-parish Monroe District last week, according to a report issued by Duncan Cook of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

New well sites last week totaled nine, Cook reported.

In Prichard Field of Catahoula parish A. J. Hodges Industries, Inc.'s Louisiana Central A-6 in Sec. 17-10-6E was completed to flow 99 barrels of gravity oil on perforations at 7976-82 feet. The gas ratio was 400:1 with a tubing pressure of 150 pounds.

Ben D. Marks' Baker No. 2 in Sec. 4-15-7E in Mangham Field of Richland parish was gauged at 41 barrels of gravity petroleum per day through 16-64 inch choked from perforations 3272-76 feet. Tubing pressure was 100 pounds and 150 pounds the casing pressure.

Last week's single gas producer was Olin Gas Transmission Corp.'s Fee Gas No. 430 in the Monroe Field of Union parish. This well in Sec. 34-21-3E was gauged flowing 431 million cubic feet before acid from 2142 feet. Rock pressure was 570 pounds.

Over the district 39 drilling rigs were reported active and one hole plugged and abandoned.

Business Briefs

Newcomer Tire Service, 401 Washington street, Monroe, has been designated Gates Tire distributor for the Monroe area, according to an announcement by Paul Newcomer, owner and manager of the Monroe Tire shop.

Frank H. Jones of Monroe has assumed duties as vice-president and general sales manager of the First Packaging Corporation at Yazoo City, Mississippi. Announcement of Jones' affiliation with the new company was made by J. F. Babbitt, Jr., of Jackson, Miss., president of the First Packaging Corporation.

Jones, who resides at 908 North Third street, is a former student of Northeast Junior College and was affiliated with Brown Paper Mill, later going with the Negley Bag and Paper Company of Monroe in the sales division. When Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation acquired both of these companies, Jones continued in sales, and during the past year was technical advisor to the sales manager.

First Packaging Corporation is a subsidiary of the First Mississippi Corporation.

Selection of Louisiana Petroleum Council officials for the Ouachita parish chapter was announced today by Tom Hyland, Central Oil and Supply Corp., Monroe, president of the local chapter.

Other officers for the parish are E. R. Huber, Gulf Oil Corp. Monroe, vice-president; R. D. Cannon, Esso Standard Oil, Monroe, secretary; and L. C. Whitfield, Kellogg Oil Co., West Monroe, API school chairman.

The Louisiana Petroleum Council was formed by the consolidation of the former Oil Information Committee and the Petroleum Industries Committee to handle public and governmental relations for all segments of the oil industry, which is observing its 100th anniversary during 1959. Oil Centennial Week in Louisiana will be August 23 through 29.

Joseph Richardson, district manager in Ruston for The Equitable Life Assurance Society, recently attended a company conference in New Orleans, held June 28 through 30. Mr. Richardson is a member of Equitable's Wilson agency in Shreveport.

Paul Johnson, of Monroe, Purina Chow salesman of this area, has received Purina's highest sales honor—membership on the General Salesmanager's Advisory Board. The announcement was made this week at the company's headquarters in St. Louis.

The J. R. Watkins Company won the top award for the most outstanding program of public relations for 1958-59 in the entire direct selling industry. The award was given at the 45th annual convention of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies.

Burton Ludwig, 905-A Cypress street, West Monroe, is the local distributor for the Watkins Products.

Central Louisiana Electric Co., Inc., is one of 15 southwest electric companies sponsoring research that has led to the first-phase construction of a small test - model plant to generate atomic power, F. Hugh Coughlin, president, has announced.

The experimental nuclear power plant is to be built by Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., of California. The 15 electric companies are sponsoring the atomic power research through membership in Southwest Atomic Energy Associates.

Objective of these experiments is construction of a 360,000 kilowatt atomic power plant somewhere in the area served by the companies that are members of SAEA, Coughlin explained.

GERALD ST.
EENY, MEENY, MINEY, YOU—here's something you can do. . .you can phone now to see this 3 bedroom home! It has among other things: screened side porch; kitchen with natural finish cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, pantry . . . shower over tub, oak floors, drapes, blinds, attic fan, floor furnaces, partially floored attic, large carport (family room could be added here easily), storage, a shady 70x150 lot. It's vacant and $400 and closing makes the move. See this without fail today!
FRANCIS PLACE
POPLAR ST.
HERE'S THE UNUSUAL . . . unusual because it's seldom you find such a desirable home PLUS a 10x15 storage in garage, and a separate 22x28 workshop with concrete floor, gas, electricity, and water. Excellent for home and business! And in the home you'll like the living room with fireplace, 2 bedrooms, and large (11x20) den with adjoining 11x12 study or nursery (could easily be made into one "extra large" den). Other features include colored bath fixtures, metal kitchen cabinets, screened front porch, oak floors, attic fan, blinds, garage, carport, and shady lot 65x150. $400 and closing makes the move—see it early!

HARRISON ST.
AS SCARCE AS HEN'S TEETH is a home like this! It's already financed and just $626 assumes the loan with payments of $59 including insurance, taxes! Among its features are: 2 bedrooms, dining room, . . .oak floors, new attic fan, blinds, floor furnace, and fenced back yard, just 2 blocks of school. Best you hurry to see this!
NORTH 3RD ST.
THE BEST WAY TO GET ON YOUR FEET is to own a place to sit down . . . and here's a good Northside home to own! There's 1362 sq. ft. arranged into: spacious (14x24) living room; dining room; kitchen with Youngstown metal cabinets, ventahood; 2 bedrooms, . . . garage, storage, and 70x100 ft. shady lot with fenced back yard. Care to look? We'll show anytime!
SOUTH 1ST STREET
TAKE A CENSUS of your own family—if your living quarters are crowded, then by all means see this 3 bedroom home located 5 blocks of school! WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Led Gen. Pershing To West Point

Famous World War I leader, General John J. Pershing, began his military career because of a Want Ad. A senator placed a newspaper notice of the West Point exams, and Pershing's family saw it. They coaxed and coached him to a high grade that won him an appointment to the military academy.

Holiday Traffic Death Toll Slightly Below Predictions

AT LAKE PROVIDENCE

Gov. Earl Long Receives Mixed Reaction In Area

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Gov Earl K. Long received cheers and boos from an estimated crowd of 4,000 persons at the Miss Louisiana beauty pageant held here last night.

Scheduled to arrive at 8 P. M. Long pulled up an hour late in a sleek sedan driven by J. M. "Pete" Menefee of Monroe.

'They had me dead, crazy, nutty," said Long. "I wanted you to see me for yourself.

Long was handed the mike during intermission and quickly said that he would appear later to make a political address. While the pageant continued the sick governor sat by Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, Ponchatula, and State Rep. W. Spencer Myrick, Oak Grove.

FOUR SPEECHES

He came here after making four July 4th speeches, kicking off his bid for a fourth term in office - - - addressing crowds at Ville Platte, Eunice, Cameron and Lake Arthur. Long embarked on his campaign against the advice of his six doctors who said that he needed rest.

Long flew from southwest Louisiana and landed in Monroe where he was met by Menefee and A. K. Kilpatrick, two of his staunch Monroe supporters.

Menefee, who quit the chairmanship of the racing commission and the wildlife directorship during Long's physical breakdown said the governor was "calm and all right."

Menefee added "He's awfully tired, exhausted."

In addition to Menefee and Kilpatrick Long was accompanied by Dr. Paul Pratt, his New Orleans psychiatrist, and Dick Davis, a colleague.

Long said, "I'm happy to be in Lake Providence to attend this pageant where there are the prettiest girls in any pageant that I have ever attended.

He watched the show calmly giving the girls a close lookover.

Demos Rate Gas Tax Hike Chances Even

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's motorists now stand about a 50-50 chance of being hit with an increase in the federal tax on gasoline this summer, key congressional Democrats said Saturday.

The revenue would be used to help finance the interstate highway program which faces a dificit.

Prospects for a tax increase seemed remote only a few weeks ago. But chances for its enactment have been growing as a result of the new strong-arm tactics President Eisenhower is using to prod Congress into action. The President is opposed to financing highways with treasury general funds as some lawmakers have proposed.

TALK OF HIKE

Democratic leaders agreed there still is no chance that Congress will grant in full the President's request for an increase of 1½ cents a gallon in the existing three cents a gallon federal tax.

However, a number of influential House Democrats believe the chances now are even-stephen that Congress will wind up approving some increase, probably no more than ½ cent a gallon, but possibly as much as ¾ cents.

Some of Speaker Sam Rayburn's top legislative lieutenants are now advising him to launch a congressional drive for enactment of such compromise legislation despite the strong opposition voiced by organized motorists, truckers and many state governments.

Rayburn does not relish the idea but the argument for it being advanced by some of his advisers may persuade him to change his mind.

These Democrats contend that

20-Year-Old Area Farmer Dies In Creek

WINNSBORO (Special) A 20-year-old farmer drowned while fishing in Big Creek at the Franklin-Richland parish line Saturday. His wife looked on helplessly from the bank.

Charles Bruce, Winnsboro, Rt. 2, was wading in the creek when he stepped into a hole and disappeared.

His bride of a year had remained on the bank. She summoned her father, John McMurray, who was fishing around the bend of the creek.

The Franklin parish sheriff's department was notified, and deputies Homer Hodges, I. J. Wiggins and Pete Waller rushed to the scene.

They arrived as Clayton Winter was bringing Bruce's body to shore. He had been under water for 30 minutes.

Artificial respiration was given but Dr. Sam Carrier pronounced him dead and listed the cause as accidental drowning.

Minutes before he drowned, Bruce mentioned that he hadn't been swimming for two years.

In addition to his widow, his survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bruce Sr., Route 2, Winnsboro and two brothers, J. E. Bruce Jr. Ferriday and Leo Bruce, Winnsboro, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Az Bruce, Winnsboro; maternal grandmoth-

Dog Pack Kills Second Child, 2

NOVINGER, Mo. (UPI) — A group of vicious dogs, believed pets of an elderly neighbor woman, chewed a youngster to death Saturday, the state's second child killing by dog packs within six weeks.

Killed was Kevin Shockey, 2, attacked by the dogs in a brush-grown alleyway in this partly-deserted mining town.

On May 23, a pack of wild dogs killed Mark D. Draper, also 2, in an area only 75 yards behind his home in suburbn St. Louis.

Kevin died in a Kirksville, Mo., hospital. Adair County Sheriff Olin E. Johnson said there were no witnesses to the attack but it was "evident he was badly torn by dogs."

Johnson said one of Kevin's legs was "badly chewed" and the youngster had been "bitten all over his body."

JES' Ramblin'

MARY MILLS HAWKINS

STATE TITLE

Beauty Laurels To Miss Hawkins

By RECA JONES
State Editor

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Miss Baton Rouge, Mary Mills Hawkins, was crowned Miss Louisiana of 1959 by Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, before a crowd of approximately 4,000 including Gov. Earl K. Long at Lake Providence last night.

First runner up was Queen Dixie Gem IX, Patricia Ann Kavanaugh of Ruston, while second runner up was Miss Louisiana Tech, Anita Sue Thomasson of Bossier City.

Miss Hawkins was also selected as "Miss Congeniality" while "Miss Cenla," Marilyn Louise Clark, was named "Most Talented."

SPONSORS

The Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the 10th Annual Pageant.

The statuesque winner is 22 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Hawkins of Lake Village, Ark. She graduated from LSU this year.

She played a piano selection from Chopin as her talent.

Miss Louisiana stands 5 foot 6 inches tall, weighs 117 and has an hour-glass figure of 36-23-36.

She was in the "Homecoming Court" at LSU during 1957 and was a member of the Delta Debutante Club, National Honor Society, and was among the top 5 graduating from LSU.

Miss Hawkins was the crowd's favorite.

The five finalists include: Miss

Blast Levels Union's Hall In Kentucky

ISOM, Ky. (AP) — A United Mine Workers Union hall was blown to splinters near here Saturday and moments later a bomb was tossed in the front yard of a union leaders's home.

None was hurt in either explosion, or in others which echoed throughout the predawn from the surrounding eastern Kentucky hills.

The blast which leveled the union hall at Red Star was believed the first which has destroyed UMW property among the numerous explosions which have marked the union's 17-week-old strike.

The one-room hall was the meeting place of UMW Local 9862.

BOMB TOSSED

Police said a bomb was tossed from a car in front of the home of the local's secretary, Sam Fields. It did little damage, police said. The blasts happened about 1 a.m.

Fields, 65, was the local's first president and accepted the first UMW charter in Letcher County in 1947.

He has been a leader in UMW efforts to sign about 700 truck mines to a 1959 union contract calling for a $2 a day pay rise to $24.25 and a clause prohibiting operators from handling nonunion coal.

Before a federal court order May 4 banned the UMW from picketing, Fields walked the picket line daily. He gave this reason: "I spent 47 years in the mines. I don't plan to throw it all away now. The only way we have to go without a contract is down. I'll

Salesman Held For Abduction

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Douglas Dedeaux, a husky auto salesman who allegedly abducted his former wife from her home early Thursday, was arrested Saturday after she got away from him and notified police.

Hinds County deputies said Dedeaux had held Mrs. Marian Dedeaux at the vacated home of a friend he knew was out of town for a two-week vacation. Mrs. Dedeaux said she slipped out of the house just north of here when Dedeaux fell asleep.

Chief Claims Delay Hikes Fire Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fire Chief Joseph H. Clements of Arlington County, Va., said Saturday his men could have confined the fire which damaged part of the Pentagon and wrecked computing equipment valued at six million dollars if they had been called earlier.

DELAY COSTLY

Clements said 34 minutes elapsed between the time an internal alarm was sounded at the Pentagon Thursday morning and the time fire officials of Arlington County were notified.

In the meantime, the Pentagon's own fire-fighting forces and other government equipment stationed a short distance away had been put into operation.

Clements said that if he had been notified more promptly, he would have "sent four companies in there and it would have been a minor fire." As it was, 71 pieces of equipment from Virginia, Maryland and Washington were called out before the stubborn blaze was subdued.

The Pentagon, headquarters of the Defense Department, is located in Arlington County, just across the river from Washington.

The major damage from the fire was to three electronic data processing machines which the Air Force rented from the International Business Machines Corp., for about $2,400,000 a year. Their cost was estimated at between

Help Offers Flood Father Of Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—Nath B. Miller Saturday considered an offer of a new life for his family. The only stipulation was that he keep his week-old triplet girls who the money-poor hired hand said he might offer for adoption.

Mrs. Miller and the girls, Glenda, Brenda and Linda, seemed oblivious to the furor caused since the 55-year-old Miller announced Thursday he might offer the babies for adoption, to gain for them a better life than he could offer on his $25-a-week pay.

At the Southport hospital where mother and babies were reported doing fine, officials said they were besieged by telegrams and phone calls from over the United States offering financial help to the Millers or to adopt the babies.

One official said there was a steady flow of people wanting to see the girls. "We just don't have the staff to keep a nurse on duty to show the triplets," he said.

The Millers have three other children, Peggy, 17; Frances, 15, and Jimmy, 12. In addition to his $25 weekly salary, the gaunt, deeply tanned Miller receives $15 monthly as a disability payment

Hospital Room For Long Here

Campaigning Gov. Earl K. Long was due in at the St. Francis hospital here early this morning, to "spend the night."

He flew here from Crowley aboard an Air Force C-47 at 8:10 p.m.

A. K. Kilpatrick and J. M. "Pete" Menefee welcomed him.

Kilpatrick then called St. Francis hospital from Selman Field and made arrangements to reserve "the biggest and the best" room at St. Francis hospital for the ailing governor. He also requested flowers.

"We want plenty of room," commented Kilpatrick.

Five minutes later, Long climbed into a large sedan, accompanied by Kilpatrick, Menefee and his doctor, Dr. Paul Pratt, New Orleans psychiatrist.

Two state police cars escorted his auto away from the airport, and he was given a continuous state police escort from here to Lake Providence.

His route went through Epps and Delhi.

Enroute To Fight Duel

Argentine Vice President Issac Rojas turns to talk with a friend while seated in car in Buenos Aires Saturday. Rojas was enroute to secret dueling grounds 25 miles from the Argentine capital where he and Parliament deputy Roberto Galeano exchanged shots. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Buenos Aires)

EXCHANGE SHOTS TWICE

Officials Stage Argentina Duel

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Former Vice President Issac Rojas and a deputy in the Argentine Parliament, Roberto Galeano, exchanged shots twice in a duel Saturday, but neither was hit.

The duelists fired their pistols off target to save honor. They staged an elaborate evasion of pursuing police who tried to prevent the illegal duel.

Rojas, a retired admiral known as the "Black Ant" in Argentine politics, had been accused by Galeano of being a "lackey" of former dictator Juan D. Peron and Peron's late wife, Eva. He challenged Galeano, a former member of the Argentine Olympic pistol team, to a duel.

PERON OFFICER

Galeano is an ardent member of President Arturo Frondizi's Radical party. Rojas was a high naval officer under Peron, but later joined those who overthrew the dictator. Rojas then became vice president.

Recently Rojas joined military officers seeking the overthrow of the Frondizi government. Rojas declared Frondizi should resign.

The former admiral, dressed in a black overcoat, and Galeono, wearing a black suit with a white handkerchief in the breast pocket, faced each other at 20 paces at an isolated country estate 25 miles outside Buenos Aires.

They fired one round harmlessly. Eleven minutes later the duel

Freakish Bolt Strikes Beach, Three Injured

INDIAN ROCK BEACH, Fla. UPI—A freak lightning bolt struck a holiday beach Saturday, scattering bathers and sending three teen-age boys to hospitals.

Treated for electrical shock were Robert Borcuki, 13, of nearby St. Petersburg; Clyde Kelly, 18, Indian Rock Beach; and Thomas Baughan III, 14, of Largo, All were reported in satisfactory condition.

Witnesses said the bolt ripped down from an overcast sky shortly before noon. Most bathers had left the waters earlier when a light rain began to fall and were sitting under beach umbrellas.

Electricity in the immediate area was knocked out by the lightning.

An elderly man in a raincoat sitting near the boys who were hospitalized said it was lucky all were not killed.

"The raincoat must have saved me," he said. "I didn't know what hit us."

New Chief Says Gambling To End

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana's new state superintendent of police, Col. E. P. Roy, has declared war on gambling.

Col. Roy, who succeeded fired Supt. John Nick Brown, announced Saturday gambling will be closed down tight throughout the state and that there will be no exceptions.

Gov. Long's Car In Crash, 3 Are Hurt

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — Gov Earl Long's limousine smashed into a skidding pickup truck near Jennings Saturday night. The governor was not in the car at the time, but attorney Joe Arthur Sims received a broken arm and commerce and industry department director Curt Siegelin an injured leg.

Long left Lake Arthur in a state police car with the limousine trailing him on the way to the Jennings airport to catch a Louisiana Air National Guard plane for Lake Providence. The governor was expected to make an appearance at the finals of the Miss Louisiana contest at Lake Providence.

State troopers said David Bell, the governor's cousin, and Joe Anselmo, the limousine's driver, were the other passengers in the limousine.

The driver of the pickup truck, identified as Ellrey Janice, about 40, from Welsh, La., was treated at the American Legion hospital in Jennings. Doctors said they did not believe his condition critical.

Long apparently was unaware of the accident. The state police car in which he was riding had passed the pickup truck only seconds before the crash.

Thundershowers Loom For Area

Monroe area residents may look for partly cloudy skies today through tonight and tomorrow with scattered, mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Yesterday's high was 93, low was 71, compared with Friday's temperature readings of 88 and 71. Today's temperatures may be expected to rise slightly over the past few days.

Arkansas readers may look for partly cloudy skies through tomorrow with no important temperature changes. Today's high should be in the 88-92 range.

Road Travel Is Heaviest In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll ran slightly below safety officials' estimates Saturday night, in the first 26 hours of the 52-hour July Fourth weekend. This was despite highway traffic which a National Safety Council spokesman said probably was the heaviest in the nation's history.

"The trend is encouraging," the spokesman said, "and is running under the toll at the comparable time on Memorial Day."

HOLIDAY DEATHS
Traffic	134
Drownings	92
Miscellaneous	28
Total	254

The council has estimated that 350 persons may be killed in motor vehicle accidents in the period that began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Sunday. Deaths numbered 310 on the recent Memorial Day weekend—a two-day observance.

A number of multiple death traffic accidents boosted the Independence Day toll.

A car and truck collided near Decatur, Ill. late Saturday killing four persons.

Two automobiles collided near Petersburg, Va., killing three persons.

A head-on crash of two cars near Lunenburg, Vt., cost three lives. Another collision, on a country road near Big Sandy, Mont., killed three youths.

A freight train killed three men on a railroad track near Danville, Va.

One of the worst accidents occurred on the water. A cabin cruiser collided with a car ferry and sank in Lake Michigan near Muskegon, Mich. Three persons

Business Places Demolished By $500,000 Fire

BEDFORD, Va. (AP)—A rampaging fire raced through a portion of the downtown business district of this south-central Virginia town Saturday, demolishing three stores and damaging a fourth.

Firemen from about 10 communities within a 60-mile radius of this town of 5,000 fought the blaze in 90-degree heat for about an hour and a half before bringing it under control. For a time the blaze threatened to spread to other buildings.

There were no injuries but six firemen were overcome by the heat and smoke. Three required the services of a rescue squad.

B. H. Milton, Bedford fire chief, estimated damages at $500,000. The amount covered by insurance was not determined. Early reports had said an entire block was involved in the fire.

The fire apparently began in a partition separating a clothing store and a feed store. From there it spread to a third adjoining firm, a farmers supply store which collapsed. It jumped one street and seared the roof and broke windows in a fourth store.

EXHIBITED OVER CENTURY

Museum Discovers Masterpiece Fake

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A painting that was supposed to be a Spanish masterpiece has been removed from the Vatican's famed museum as a fake. It had hung in the museum for more than 100 years.

The picture, "The Mystic Marriage of St. Catherine," was attributed by art experts over the years to the 17th century Spanish painter, Bartolome Esteban Murillo. It is listed in most books on 17th century art.

Prof. Deoclecio Redig de Campos, the Vatican's leading art expert, said Saturday the painting had been removed because "beyond any doubt it was a counterfeit."

The picture was presented to Pope Pus IX by Queen Christine of Spain in 1850. Until its removal last week it had hung almost continuously in a special section of the museum reserved for 17th century masterpieces. It left the Vatican only on a few occasions to be displayed in other parts of Italy and Europe.

The painting depicts the Virgin Mary holding the infant Jesus who is handing a gold ring to St. Catherine.

A similar but unfinished painting by Murillo is kept in the Capuchin church of Cadiz, Spain. Murillo fell from a scaffolding while painting it in Seville and suffered injuries from which he died two years later in 1682.

Prof. de Campos said he discovered that the painting in the Vatican was a fake while undertaking some restoration work. He

ON ENTERING CONTEST

Beauty To Ignore Church Objections

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—New Mexico's red-haired entry in the Miss Universe contest put in a quiet day at work Saturday as the storm over her decision to enter the contest continued.

She decided to enter the contest over the objections of her church. The New Mexico archdiocese of the Catholic Church said it would deny her the sacraments of confession and Communion if she entered the contest.

Miss Sue Ingersoll, 20-year-old beauty, worked along at her job as a beauty parlor operator at a downtown Albuquerque hotel.

"I decided several weeks ago to work today," she said. "there's no other reason why I worked today."

"But I wish the phone calls would stop. I'm not home today and the phone callers keep bothering my mother. She has no opinion either way and I wish they'd leave her along," she said.

"My family will not be affected since I am going into the contest against their wishes," she said. "I will be denied the sacraments of confession and Communion."

Her mother, Mrs. H. O. Ingersoll is a Catholic; her father is not.

"Most of the people who came in the shop today agreed with my decision to enter the contest. And I've had a few calls and most of them agreed with my decision," she said.

A decree issued by Archbishop Edwin V. Byrne of Santa Fe several years ago, and which still stands, forbids Catholic girls from referee ordered a second round. Rojas' pistol failed to go off. Galeano hesitated and did not fire.

The referee substituted pistols and again ordered a second round. This time both men shot, but neither was hit.

As the duelists were standing ready for a third round with pistols cocked, the referee suspended the duel. He said he had received word that police were approaching.

Under Argentina's dueling tradition, when a pistol fails to fire it is considered a round. The men were scheduled to fire four rounds. The duel therefore ended one short.

The friends of both men said, however, the duel was considered to have been completed with the honor of both saved. However, there was no reconciliation between them.

Before the duel actually was fought, false reports had circulated that Rojas and Galeano had been wounded. A naval source then denied this report and said the men were going to neighboring Uruguay to avoid police interference with their duel.

found another picture, showing a landscape, underneath.

"Through chemical tests," said De Campos, "we found that the Landscape had been painted near the end of the 17th century. But we could tell that the colors in the landscape used were exposed to the air for at least a hundred years. Therefore the painting attributed to Murillo could not have been made before the end of the 18th century. That was about a hundred years after his death."

De Campos said it was impossible to determine who the artist was. "But he must have been a very skilled painter. He did it so well no one noticed it was false until we decided to restore it."

De Campos did not say what had been done with the picture.

Birthdays

July 3 Dennis Tramel; James Hughes, July 6; Jerelene Hall, July 6; Darlene Tramel; July 9; Ivan Onellion, July 8; July 10, Stoney Williams; July 13, Harold Midyett; July 17 John Haddick and Martha Dyson; Joe Anne Awtry, July 18; July 21, Lawanna Dove, July 25, Linda Hall, July 21, Ronald Platt; July 26, Carolyn Sheppard; Sylvia Morse; July 29, Martha Shannon.

Respite

Northeast State college students and teaching staff are enjoying a three-day weekend, because of Independence day. They will have Sunday and Monday as well as last Saturday a short breathing spell from their lessons, according to President George T. Walker.

Recognition

Northeast Louisiana State College have special recognition to Walter Jordan, employee who retired on July 1 after serving nine years as night watchman.

Known affectionately by students and fellow employees as "Pop," Jordan, who had reached retirement age, was honored at an informal party given in the Student Center on the campus.

As a token of esteem in which they have held him, faculty and staff friends planned a surprise feature, a gift which was presented by Hurvie Moak, superintendent of buildings. The package contained a handsome bill fold which revealed another surprise in the form of several crisp bills to purchase " something that he had been wanting for a long time."

Moak paid generous tribute to Jordon for his splendid service and constant interest in the welfare of the college. Several years ago he was the only person on duty at night but "I never encountered serious trouble during my affiliation with Northeast," "Pop" said.

Both Moak and President George T. Walker commended Jordan for his conscientious attitude in carrying out his duty on the campus.

But "Pop" plans to be occupied even after retirement. "I'll take it easy for a while," he said, "then I'll get busy on some kind of job."

Jordan and his wife have a married daughter, Mrs. Louise Clark of Plain Dealing, a son, James Claude Jordan Jr. of Monroe, and eleven grandchildren.

At Home

Friends of Mrs. W. N. Clark will be glad to hear that she is home at 1600 N. 3rd St. after undergoing an operation. She welcomes visitors.

To Star

A former Northeast State graduate, Betty Hodge, has been selected by the Orleans Parish School board to star in a special TV series next September.

The special series will feature her in a 30-minute historical series. The series will be shown over channel eight in New Orleans and will be shown to junior high schools as a special feature.

Singing

The regular first Sunday Booster Singing will be held this afternoon beginning at 1:30 in the Booster Hall located in the 400 block of Ouachita Ave. in Monroe. A capacity attendance is anticipated and a number of leading Gospel singers will attend. There will be several well known quartets present and also a number of the leading song directors. Both the new class and convention books will be used in this singing. A number of parishes will be represented as well as South Arkansas.

Beauty Laurels To Miss Hawkins

B. White, Bogalusa, who represented Miss Washington parish.

Friday night, Miss Marlene Ann Mancuso, 19, was winner in group B swim suit competition. Miss Mary Mills Hawkins, 22, was winner in the Talent division.

Selected as Miss New Orleans, Miss Mancuso is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Britsch. She stands 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 122, and vital statistics are 36-23-36.

Her flashing black eyes and almost waist-length black hair contrast with her ivory complexion.

Miss Hawkins, named Miss Baton Rouge prior to her graduation from Louisiana State University this spring, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Hawkins of Lake Village, Ark.

She played a piano selection, "Fantasy Impromptu" by Chopin to garner first place in talent competition.

Thursday night's talent winner was "Miss Cenla", Marilyn Louise Clark, 23. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clark of Alexandria, she gave a performance of interpretive dancing.

SWIM SUIT

Swim suit winner in Group A Thursday was Miss Patricia Anne Cavanaugh, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. K. Cavanaugh of Ruston.

She is 5 foot 7 inches tall, weighs 125 and measures 35-23-35. Entering the pagenat as "Queen Dixie Gem "IX", she has hazel eyes, dark brown hair and medium complexion.

Each of the 26 contestants participated in a parade through Lake Providence Saturday. Miss American, Mary Ann Mobley and Miss Louisiana, Alberta Futch, led the cavalcade.

During the afternoon, 100 boats and 40 waterskiers put on a water regatta on the lake.

In addition to the title "Miss Louisiana" and the opportunity to compete in the Miss America contest, the pageant winner received a $1,000 scholarship, an elaborate wardrobe to be worn at the Miss America contest and a wrist watch.

She was presented with a certificate for a course in charm and modeling, a trophy from the Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce, tickets to Atlantic City, New Jersey and the Miss America contest for herself and a chaperone sent by the Lake Providence Jaycees, and a gift package.

Scholarships and trophies were awarded to the contest winners: First runner up, $500 scholarship; second runner up $400; most talented, $350; Miss Congeniality, selected by the contestants, $250 scholarship.

Each contestant was presented with the key to the city and a special "Miss Louisiana charm bracelet which included a "Miss Louisiana figurine."

Judges for the event were Bruce Bennett, Arkansas attorney general from Little Rock; Sidney Gray, president of the Louisiana Municipal Association and mayor of Lake Charles; Jess Odom, president of a Little Rock insurance company: Bob Carter, Baton Rouge, state president of the Jaycees; Mrs. Paul Hewitt of Monroe; Miss Peg O'Neill, official chaperone to go to the Miss America pageant with the winner; and Mrs. Lou Fleeman of Lake Providence.

Thursday night when the pageant got underway, attendance was 1200. It rose to 2500 Friday night.

stump tour in 98-degree heat. He opened a re-election campaign that doctors fear he may never complete.

It was an amazing exhibition of stamina by a stubborn 63-year-old man who just four days ago was flat on his back as a heart case, a man who left a mental hospital just eight days ago.

From here, Long flew diagonal ly across the state 240 miles to attend a Miss Louisiana beauty pagent at Lake Providence.

"I'm not as dead as they said I was," Long boasted to his audiences in four lively speeches in southwestern Louisiana. "If I'm nuts, then I've been nuts all my life.

"There's alot of good left in this old man. I'm 63, going on 64. I want you to pray for me and I'm your governor for the next four years."

Doctors had warned Long that the rigors of this Fourth of July campaign opening might prove too much for his ailing heart, hit only last Wednesday by what was described as a slight failure.

July 4 is the traditional opening date of Louisiana's gubernatorial campaign. The Democratic primary—tantamount to re-election—is Dec. 5.

Long was unwilling to waste as much as the first single day of this five-months campaign. He was intent on perpetuating a family political dynasty — perhaps unique in American history. He seemed equally determined to vindicate himself against those who tried to label him insane.

So he came to Ville Platte, tottering up the stairs of the speaking platform on the arms of state troopers, mopping the perspiration from his brow, ready to face five opponents who also opened their campaigns in opposition to Long in the same small village.

As Long looked over the crowd of about 2,000, he knew he was among friends. This was the swamp and bayou country of fishermen, trappers and farmers—Cajun descendants of exiled Acadian French. These people understand Earl Long. Earl Long understands them, and they form a hard core of voter support that has made him Louisiana's most successful politician since his brother Huey ruled the state in the 1930s.

"When you're looking at me, you're looking at a friend," Long reminded them. His breathing seemed labored, and his chest seemed to heave beneath his white open-collared shirt and blue suspenders.

At one point, Long's false teeth popped out. But he shoved them back in place and plunged on in the typical rasping Long voice, the chords roller-coasting from low to high volume.

Long castigated his opponents with seeming delight as "ordinary . . .a genuine faker. . .radicals. . . upstarts."

"I've forgot more about government than they'll ever know," he snorted.

In return, Long heard himself described as an "idiot," and a man who wrecked his health in the service of his state.

"The people can help him a lot by letting him retire," pleaded one of Long's opponents.

Insurance agency operator Gale Berry of Lake Charles, without mentioning the governor by name, said the state could not progress "as long as we elect this type of idiot to direct the state." State Comptroller William Dodd, Long's lieutenant governor in 1948, offered the belief that Long should retire.

Other gubernatorial candidtaes who spoke at the rally included New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans; state Sen. William Rainach, the state's segregation chief; and state Rep. J. Marshall Brown of New Orleans.

But Long was in his element. There are those among his friends who avow that if he must die, he insists on dying on a speaking platform. There was no stopping him Saturday. He interrupted other speakers ostensibly to bid the crowd give them respectful ear—then in the next breath lambasted one of them as "the biggest jelly bean that ever lived."

From Ville Platte, Long was driven 15 miles southwest to Eunice. There his aides got him to lie down briefly in a motel to conserve his strength. But soon Long was on his feet, his frizzled white hair glistening in the broiling sun, confiding to a new audience that had he been confined longer in a mental hospital "I would have gone crazy and died."

The governor rambled on philosophically about his estranged wife, Blanche. He blames her for his commitment that began May 30 and ended on June 26. He has sued her for separation and she has filed a countersuit.

"She's lily white and pure," Long told his audience, "but in some cases she's too good and in other cases she's too bad. Sometimes wives do strange things."

Then it was on by plane some 90 miles to Cameron, the little Gulf of Mexico hamlet so grievously devastated in a 1957 hurricane.

Here Long, between sips of ice water, grew expansive in the old-time tradition of ano pen-handed politician.

Operators insist the contract would bankrupt them.

Other sources said a bulldozer belonging to nonunion coal contractor Tommy Mounds was destroyed by dynamite about two hours before the union hall blast.

Police did not know of the dynamiting, and Mounds could not be reached.

Police said other explosions Saturday blew out the windows in a nearby residence and shattered the windshield of a pickup truck. They did not know the owners of either.

Explosion at nonunion operations have been practically commonplace since the strike began. Estimates of total damage range from $700,000 to a million dollars.

Demos Rate Gas Tax Hike Chances Even

President Eisenhower has made it amply clear in recent pronouncements that should Congress fail to provide additional gasoline tax revenue, he will order a slowdown in the construction of the 41,000-mile highway network — and blame the Democratic Congress for it.

"What worries me," one of Rayburn's closer advisers confides, "is that I'm sure that's what the President would do and I think he would click with the people in blaming Congress. I don't think the people would pay much attention to the arguments on the other side."

The pay-as-you-go highway program faces a financial crisis because a deficit is in prospect for the "trust fund" which finances it from highway-user taxes. Unless new legislation is enacted, the government will be unable this summer to apportion new allotments of federal grants to the states.

Some Democrats have been arguing that Congress — instead of raising taxes — should pass legislation directing that the new apportionment be made and that existing treasury revenues be used to offset the deficit when the bills begin falling due a year hence.

But Eisenhower, adopting an unusual get - tough policy with Congress, has recently indicated he would veto any such legislation.

Help Offers Flood Father Of Triplets

from the government for peacetime injuries he suffered in the Army.

The offer which attracted him the most came from Paul Jones, who has a large egg-supplying firm in Charlotte. Jones offered to send a truck for the family to bring them to Charlotte. Jones said his offer only is good if the Millers keep the triplets.

"I would be happy to give the Miller family work and a house," Jones said. "They needn't be experienced. Even if they can only pick up eggs they will be of service.

"It is terrible to think they may have to split up for want of help."

Miller said, "The offer sounds wonderful. My wife and I are delighted, but we can't make any definite decision right away."

Miller said he has a contract with Cornelius Thomas, owner of the Clarendon plantation near here where Miller works as a hired hand.

However, Thomas remarked, "I would be happy to release him from his contract. I want him to have all the help he can."

Miller said previously he and his wife would decide Monday on the future of the babies.

five and six million dollars. An IBM spokesman said all the machines were fully insured.

The Air Force said Saturday that special requirements and the constantly changing design of the machines is the reason for renting instead of owning such computer equipment.

Col. Marshall R. Gray, head of the Air Force's statistical services, said a number of other government agencies, including other military services and the Treasury, also lease data processing equipment.

In response to questions, Gray said purchase of such equipment would be advantageous if the type of work used on the machines was repetitive, doing the same kind of data processing without change. But constant new problems in Air Force design, operations and administration create changing requirements.

Gray also said computer equipment is changing so swiftly that outright government ownership would mean that obsolescent equipment would be used.

The rental cost also covers maintenance of the equipment, he said. This would be a substantial cost factor if the machines were owned by the Air Force.

The $2,400,000 rental figure covers the leasing of the three computer systems and their maintenance Friday, officials said rental costs for all IBM equipment in the statistical center is about 3½ million dollars. However, this includes equipment in addition to the computers.

Pentagon officials expect that by Monday work of the statistical center will be getting back toward normal.

In the Miss Universe contest, entrants are required to publicly parade in bathing suits. Officials of the Pageant at Long Beach, Calif., said they would not change the rules for any Catholic entry subject to the Church's stand.

The chancery office at Santa Fe refused Saturday to say any more on the situation.

The Rev. M. J. Rodriguez, Chancellor of the archdiocese said: "You can say that the chancery office in Santa Fe absolutely declines to comment any further on the situation. What is to be gained by restating our position?"

Father Rodriguez refused to answer a list of questions one by one saying he would have no more comment. The questions concerned how long the ban had been in effect, where it was in effect and if anyone other than Miss Ingersoll had been denied the sacraments for disobeying the mandate of the church.

drowned and three were missing. All had been aboard the 24-foot cruiser.

But no fireworks deaths were reported.

Firework once caused heavy slaughter. But there have been few such deaths since World War II. The largest number in recent years was five in 1947. There were four in 1954, and one or two each year thereafter.

The big killer is the motor vehicle.

The Associated Press made a survey of accidental deaths on a weekend of the same span as the Independence Day weekend. The test period began at 6 p.m. Friday June 19 and ended at midnight June 21. Deaths numbered 240 in traffic, 70 drownings and 47 in the miscellaneous class for a total of 357.

Traffic deaths numbered 310, drownings 101 and 47 died in a variety of other accidents for an over-all toll of 458 during this year's Memorial Day weekend.

The record high traffic total for a two-day July 4th holiday is 262, set in 1953.

Beaches For Public

Tourism is one of the big businesses in many states, including Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Florida, which border on the Gulf of Mexico. One of the dangers threatening this tourist trade is that private owners or private interests will grab such a large proportion of the beaches that not enough room will be left for the public.

Under federal law, private ownership of navigable streams is prohibited and all such streams are open to public use. This law does not apply to the shores of these streams, including the oceans, gulfs and bays, with the result that a large portion of land bordering on smaller streams is privately owned and a good portion of the beaches along the shores of the oceans, gulfs and bays is under private ownership or private lease. Control of the shores rests with the states and not with the federal government, except where that government may find it necessary to expropriate land for flood protection work or some other such purpose.

It has been customary in some state to give 99-year leases on property along the gulf or ocean beaches. Such a practice is questionable for the reason that if enough such grants were made the beaches and the water which they border would eventually be closed to public use. No one has a right to keep the public from such bodies of water, any more than one nation has the right to deny other nations the right to use the oceans.

In Texas, the house conservation and reclamation committee, apparently bowing to mounting opposition by private interests, has sent the open beach bill to the attorney general for an opinion as to its constitutionality.

This is the same bill which the House passed during the first called session of the Texas legislature but which died in the Senate.

All of a sudden, some property owners facing on the open gulf have become exercised over what is described as a need for control of beaches and safeguards for beach users. These private interests say they do not want to exclude the public from the beaches but their attitude indicates that they want to control the personnel and actions of the users.

Gov. Daniel has stated that a recent court decision in the Laguna Madre case does not apply to the beaches along the gulf but asserted that the legislature should make very clear the public's right of access to the beaches.

The governor stated that the people of Texas want done whatever needs to be done to assure the public the rights they have enjoyed for more than a century.

As the Houston Chronicle noted in an editorial, when the people of Texas voted a constitutional amendment permitting use of state funds to advertise Texas they did not contemplate that "tourists thus drawn to Texas would be denied the one big tourist attraction the state has to offer."

It is high time that other gulf coast states give like consideration to this vital matter.

As time goes on, the beaches will become more and more crowded. As our population increases, people are turning more and more to the recreational facilities offered them by the beaches and the big stretches of open water. Eventually, we are certain to need all of the desirable beach locations for our own people, for tourists and vacationers.

Either the states should enact legislation making it clear that a certain distance of frontage along the entire coast of any ocean, ocean gulf or ocean bay is public property and open to the public at all times or should adopt laws to place all this property in state ownership as soon as it is feasible. The states should allow private ownership adjoining the beaches but never of the beaches themselves in such a way as to exclude the public.

This is a matter to be looked into by the conservation and reclamation departments of the various states, particularly on the gulf coast, if the principal tourist attraction of these states is to be maintained. It is vital if our recreational facilities are to be kept open.

Lukewarmers Lose

Lukewarmness on the part of many Republican candidates was the principal cause of G. O. P. defeats in the 1958 elections, in the opinion of Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), one of the most dynamic of the conservatives in Congress.

Senator Goldwater said that too many candidates feel that they have to embrace at least a part of the New Deal philosophy in order to be elected. He pointed out, however, that Republican candidates who campaigned as outright conservatives fared better than did those who tried to appease both sides.

This is not at all surprising. Those Republicans who feel that they must espouse a part of the New Deal ideology are merely mimicking the Democratic New Dealers in a small way. Voters don't like the idea of casting their ballots for a mimic. They want a candidate who has views of his own and who stands strongly for the principles in which he believes, regardless of whether they are "liberal" or conservative. Lukewarm Republicans gained few conservative votes and practically none from the more radical elements.

Since the Democratic party generally has followed along socialistic lines, although some solid members have held it to a more middle course in enacting legislation, voters want a clear-cut choice when they go to the polls. They don't want to have to choose between a New Deal Democrat and a Republican imitator of a New Deal Democrat. They want a chance to vote for a man who is conservative, who believes in the fundamentals of individual freedom set up in the constitution and who is not afraid to make his position known.

Some significant remarks were made by Senator Goldwater in a speech and in interviews recently when he appeared for a Republican dinner in Houston.

The senator, who won re-election easily last year when most Republicans were going down to defeat, stressed one theme. He said that if the people don't like the high taxes they are having to pay as a result of excessive spending in Washington, they and they only can bring about the change. He said:

"Send men to Washington who are pledged to cut spending and eliminate deficit spending."

He pointed out that one factor in the Republican debacle last year was the fact that the administration deviated from the conservative G.O.P. platform of 1952. He stated many Americans were disgusted with the party.

Senator Goldwater expressed the belief that Vice - President Richard Nixon will be the Republican nominee for president next year, that he will campaign as a conservative and that he will be elected.

Millions of American voters in recent years have felt that they were choosing between two evils when casting their ballots.

The big question is whether the candidate of either party will have the courage to take such a stand as that taken by Senator Goldwater.

News Different Now

Usual May Be Even More Important Than Startling Events, Nations' Pace Slower

I was talking to an editor the other day about the news. What is news? Well, when we were young we were told that it is news when a man bites a dog. In a word, news is the exceptional, the startling, the surprising, the unusual. It used to be taught in the schools of journalism that news was when, where, why, who, what, in whatever order they could be arranged.

But news, like everything else, has really become something very different. The usual may be even more important than the startling. The pace of nations has grown slower because all peoples are in a process of marking time before an impending great change. In an historical transitional period such as the present one, words may count for as much as deeds. Many years ago, an editor complained to me that I mentioned Russia too often, that I had become repetitious on the subject, but today it is Russia to which we respond as a sensory nerve does to a stimulus. The President rushes to New York unexpectedly to open a Russian fair.

We are in a period similar to that which gripped the world from 44 B.C. to 325 A.D. during which the Roman Empire changed its character. Christianity appeared and paved the way for the world we live in today. We are in a period somewhat like the aftermath of the Congress of Vienna (1815) in some of its aspects.

Great empires have disappeared; new states have proliferated until there are perhaps as many as 100 of them; 82 are members of the United Nations. Russia and Red China, both of which were backward only a few decades ago, have emerged to primary status. Germany which was defeated in two major wars and which is even now divided into two is, in one aspect, West Germany, the most progressive nation on the continent of Europe, and the prime minister of Israel, David Ben-Gurion, threatens to resign if his nation is not permitted to sell West Germany munitions of war.

If all this sounds topsy-turvy, there is more that is even more confusing. For instance, the United States, which acted as caretaker for the Western world for a period of 15 years, providing billions of dollars of credit and goods to nations, finds itself in danger of losing its gold reserve and the primary position for its currency. London is again the money market of the world, with Zurich, Amsterdam, and Montevideo (mark that one) not far behind. Whereas gold is still rigidly controlled by the government of the United States, it is in a free market in most of Europe. Besides, Europe has organized into three economic unions—the Common Market, the Free Market, and the Soviet bloc —which together absorb the entire continent, some of Asia, and most of Africa, and make it increasingly difficult for the United States to engage in exports. Many American companies adjust to this change by exporting capital and manufacturing within those blocs that permit them to. But what becomes of American labor?

What is news today?

News has more to do with underlying forces than with events. Long ago, some of us called attention to the proletarian movements in Latin American countries. Those movements were then mostly words. They were the various conspiracies of Vicente Lombardo Toledano, operating out of Mexico City. These words sounded unimportant. In the regular news columns they were rarely reported. But now, these proletarian forces have begun to attempt to take over Latin American countries. In Cuba, they succeeded. In the Dominican Republic, they did not succeed. However, one would be foolhardy indeed who did not realize that American interests in Latin America, particularly in the strip closest to us, called Central America, are imperiled and that we dare not move to protect ourselves lest we bring on World War III.

What is news?

It consists of movements hidden in conspiratorial groups. It is words that move youth to hysteria. It is the breakdown of social institutions that have been fairly stable for 1,000 years or more. It is a new concept of social relations within the family. It is a revival of religion in many new forms which appear in many parts of the world.

This is the news of our era—and it is difficult to report, unless one has the reportorial genius of St. Mark.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Senate Sanctums

High-Ranking Upper Congressmen Provided With Hide-Aways

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower escapes to his Gettysburg farm, Mary Martin has a hideaway in Brazil, but high-ranking senators can get away from it all without leaving Capitol Hill.

With enough seniority and a little dickering, a senator can have assigned to him a room near the Senate chamber itself when he escapes the rigors of debate, the bustle of buttonholers, and even the throng of tourists.

Most visitors to the Capitol Building don't realize it, but tucked away out of sight of the tourist route is a honeycomb of rooms. A number of them on the Senate side of the building are used as private sanctums for the legislators.

Louisiana's two senators are among those with enough prestige to merit cubicles of their own in the Capitol. The exact location of each room is as well-guarded a secret as the Central Intelligence Agency's payroll.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender acquired his hideaway only recently, and last week it was jammed with the charts and diagrams of the foreign aid program, which the Senator was doing his best to trim down.

At other times, the room is strewn with maps and plans of dams, drainage ditches and other public works projects which Ellender, as chairman of the Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee, generally augments.

Unlike most of the high-ranking senators, Ellender keeps a hotplate installed in his room and often prepares dinner for his colleagues during late sessions.

Sen. Russell B. Long has a room not far away.

All the senatorial hideaways are technically known only to a few selected staff members and some of the other senators. If this small group grows too bothersome, however, there is an even more remote sanctuary— the Senate gymnasium. Not even staff members are allowed there.

FURTHER AWAY FROM IT ALL—With Washington parboiled by the weather, and Louisiana erupting from political brainstorms, Sen. Long has headed for the wide-open, cool spaces. He and his family are spending the Independence Day week-end in Wyoming, back at the ranch.

MURRAY VS. MORRISON. — Rep. Jimmy Morrison, normally one of the friendliest lawmakers on Capitol Hill, couldn't resist an opportunity for some timely sarcasm last week.

Morrison is second man on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. The Chairman, Tom Murray of Tennessee had introduced a bill giving Federal employees a third day off whenever a holiday falls on Saturday. When the bill finally reached the floor, however, Murray learned that the White House disapproved of the bill and he, too, came out against it.

Morrison was unswayed. "I was always impressed that the chairman of out great committee was enthusiastically for this bill since it bears his name," he told the House.

The bill passed overwhelmingly.

YEA OR NAY — Overton Brooks and Harold McSween have scored the best attendance records at roll call votes in the House so far this year. Each has voted on 95 per cent of the official votes taken since Congress convened.

Otto Passman follows close behind, with a 93 per cent voting record. Other scores, according to Congressional Quarterly, are: Hale Boggs, 88 per cent; F. Edward Hebert, 86 per cent; James H. Morrison, 40 per cent; T. A. Thompson, 58 per cent and Edwin Willis, 72 per cent.

U.S. Experts Doubt China Gain Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. experts are convinced that Communist China's "great forward leap" —if it hasn't fallen on its face altogether—can be measured in much smaller strides than Peiping claims. They say it includes some steps backward.

They regard as incredible Red boasts about the massive economic program which got under way last year. They suspect Peiping propagandists will play up China's flood losses as a face saver for shortcomings in the state-planned scheme.

How the Communist master plan does pan out is important to U.S. strategists. The uncommitted peoples of Asia, including neighboring India, are watching the outcome of the Chinese experiment.

The new surge of nationalism in underdeveloped countries carries a great impatience for economic advance. The Communist way, featuring promise of vast gains starting from scratch, beckons alluringly to Asians over the slower democratic method.

Some major flaws in the Red program are showing up in accounts put out by the Peiping regime.

Peiping's statisticians figured on doubling Red China's food production. Yet at the start of 1959, Peiping disclosed a serious food shortage, requiring rationing, that already squared with the claim of zooming food production.

Steel outuput was supposed to have climbed. But Red propaganda suddenly fell silent about what was supposed to have spearheaded the surge—pig iron furnaces in the backyards of the millions of Chinamen.

The backyard product, it turned out, carried so many impurities that it had to be refined again. Peiping had to keep on importing high grade steel from Europe. Peasants spent so much time on the furances that they neglected crops.

Free world observers can confirm that heavy rains swept the China mainland this year.

Bigness In Banks

Wave Of Mergers, Particularly Among Giants, Sweeps Nation

Until 1954 my bank in New York was the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Co., 20th largest bank in the nation.

Since 1954 my bank has been the Chemical Corn Exchange, for a while the seventh biggest and recently the fifth biggest bank in the United States.

As of this coming Wednesday, assuming the authorities in Washington and New York State don't flip their lids when the stockholders of my bank and another Manhattan giant agree to merge, my bank will become the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co., fourth biggest in the land.

The trend toward bigness in banks is quickening again, and a new wave of mergers, particularly among the banking giants, is sweeping across the land.

All over the country bankers are on the prowl for likely candidates for consolidation. As I an writing this dozens of top-secret meeting are being held for at least informal merger talks.

Some of the proudest names of banking are fading out. When J. P. Morgan and the Guaranty Trust Co. merged a couple of months ago to form the $4 billion Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, the famous initials "J.P." disappeared into history. The latest merger of my bank will eliminate the century-old name "Corn Exchange."

And nowhere in the land is the merger trend more dramatic than in New York City. Nowhere are bankers playing their game of musical chairs for more fabulous multi - billion dollar stakes than in our hometown.

For, while New York City is still the undisputed financial power of the nation, it's fighting for survival as this undisputed power—and the merger trend among the banking giants symbolizes the fight.

While New York is headquarters for the industrial empires of the country, it's battling to continue as the headquarters — and again, the merger trend symbolizes the battle.

What has been happening is that as industry has spread all over the United States since World War II big banks have followed the industry or sprung up in the new areas. California has the largest bank in the world, not New York. There are banking Goliaths in the southwest and west to challenge those of the old, established east.

What has been happening is that as industrial empires have become bigger and bigger they have been putting loan demands on banks which encourage the banks to get bigger and bigger too to meet the demands.

What is happening now, therefore, is that New York is fighting rivals from outside and spurring rivalries inside. Bigness is begetting bigness.

Of course, there are all sorts of reasons for mergers. Some banks merge to save on expenses, some merge to get branches in lush localities in a hurry, and to compete better; some merge because an old tired management needs new, young executives, some merge simply because they get an attractive offer; some merge because they lose a few big customers and consolidation is a good way out of a problem.

Regardless of the individual explanations, the trend toward giantism in banking is unmistakable, the challenge to our system of independent banking units is undeniable.

Just one comparison will underline the whole tale. In 1948 there were 24 banks in the elite New York Clearing House — through which more than a half-trillion dollars in checks flowed during last year alone.

In a few days there will be only half that number of banks in the Clearing House. This — in only 10 years.

More and more of the financial resources of our land are being concentrated in fewer and fewer financial powers.

And just because the reasons for mergers are so many and so diverse, there is little likelihood that the trend will stop unless the authorities act a lot more aggressively than they have so far to stop it. As New York's banking giants concentrate on their own battle to be the biggest among the big, they may provide the test for all bigness.

Red Air Routes

Russians To Step Up Campaign For United States Flights

WASHINGTON — Soviet Russia is almost certain to step up its campaign for a commercial air route to the United States.

The first hint of this came last week when the Russians flew its prop-jet TU-114 — biggest airliner in the world — 5,092 nonstop miles from Moscow to New York in just over 11 hours.

It's a well-known fact the Russians never show off a new civilian plane until they are sure it will leave a lasting impression on all who happen to see it.

Whether we like it or not the United States has nothing to compare with the TU-114 at this point. Propaganda - wise the Soviets scored heavily by using this amazing airplane to carry Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov to the United States.

The Russians clearly are out to capture a lion's share of the international air travel market and they have the equipment to do it. We inaugurated jet airline service in this country six months ago but the Russians have been flying jets for three years.

Not only does Aeroflot — as the Soviet state-owned airline is called — serve many points in Europe but is flying regularly to the Middle East and to Asia. It is now planning further extension of its jet routes to Africa and the Far East, particularly Japan.

The Russians, of course, would like nothing more than to add the United States to its far-flung operations. This has been on the discussion agenda at the State Department for some time and the Soviets likely will soon ask American officials to start talking about a bi-lateral air agreement between the two countries.

Since the United States has signed similar agreements with numerous other nations it is conceivable that one ultimately will be signed with Russia.

Last year some 5,000 American tourists visited Russia and practically everyone went by air. The Russians predict 10,000 Americans will journey to Russia this year.

By letting the United States see the TU-114 the Russians could convince even the most doubtful that here is a plane to match anything in the air today. It features elevators, a restaurant and even a movie theater. The TU-114 can carry 120 passengers on long flights and up to 220 on short hauls.

It should be pointed out, however, that the Russians have one major advantage over this country in the development of passenger aircraft. Because our airlines are privately owned the transition to larger and faster planes must be gradual. When the Soviet government wants a new civilian plane it simply orders it.

In the United States it took many years to move from two-engine to four-engine and finally to jet aircraft. Passenger volume has to be built up over many years before American airlines could start ordering $5 million jet planes.

This leads naturally to the premise that the Russians probably also will be first with supersonic airliners that can fly 1,500 to 2,000 miles an hour. If this is the case it's not difficult to see who will grab off the air travel market.

Not long ago Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev called for a six-fold increase in air transportation. Among other things he proposed an increase of almost one-third annually in the number of passengers carried and the number of ton-miles flown. Also, the addition of thousands of miles of new routes, a great portion of this expansion to come outside the Soviet Union.

At the same time Air Chief Marshal Pavel Zhigarev predicted that by 1964 the annual traffic increase would be as great as the total traffic in 1958. While this means an expansion of truly staggering proportions it must not be overlooked that the Russians are not given to idle boasting.

More and more the Soviets are anxious to show off their new passenger airliners, especially in countries which are waivering between East and West. What better symbol is there of technological progress than an airplane that outshines anything any other country is able to produce?

EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

Business Booms In Many Lines

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The booming first half that roared to a finish this week was one that stumped the experts. Hardly anyone thought it would be that good.

And despite uncertainties about taxes, inflation, the Berlin crisis and the steel wage dispute, the second half just getting under way looked even better.

This week signals the start of the usual summer letdown in manufacturing. But things are booming in many other lines.

Construction outlays set new records, both for June and the first six months. If the same rate holds through the next six months (some economists say it will be higher), construction spending for all of 1959 will total more than 55 billion dollars. That would be a gain of more than 12 per cent over 1958.

Consumers spent 102½ billion dollars at retail in the first six months and merchants are betting on a total of 210 billions for the full year—a gain of five per cent.

In most parts of the country, consumers who were timid and cautious a year ago are now going into hock with abandon via the installment plan.

What's more, they're paying off their old debts faster.

"The general increase in business activity is enabling more consumers to get caught up in their overdue obligations," reports the American Collectors Assn. whose member companies specialize in collecting bad debts.

"For the first time in a year," the association states, "overbuying has displaced unemployment as the chief reason for consumers' paying problems."

Another bright spot in the developing boom is vacation travel. Resort and motel owners are primed for their busiest summer yet. Transatlantic Airlines and steamship companies say business has never been better.

Auto sales are perking along nicely. There's been a slight slowdown in the past two weeks but the motor moguls of Detroit are revising their 1959 sales forecasts upward.

Electric power companies are in clover. Consumption of electricity last week was the highest on record. Air conditioning kept electric meters humming.

Stock sales totaled 12,057,220 shares in the latest week against 14,772,430 shares for the week before and 10,426,724 in the same week last year.

Bond sales had a par value of $23,409,000 in the latest week compared to $26,432,000 for the previous week and $19,154,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

There are pockets of unemployment here and there—notably in the eastern coal fields and in some northern industrial centers. Automation has eliminated some jobs.

Some consumer prices are heading higher. Chances are you'll pay more for shoes, hats and shirts this fall.

Money is tightening up. Interest rates are climbing. This week President Eisenhower signed a bill that will permit banks to charge up to 5¼ per cent interest on government-backed GI mortgages. Under the old 4¾ per cent ceiling, GI home loans found few takers.

Briefly over the business scene: U.S. factories turned out 558,015 cars last month, making it the motor industry's biggest June since 1955. Production was up 65 per cent over June last year. . . . Farm product prices declined about one per cent between mid-May and mid-June as meat animal prices backed off from their earlier highs. . . . President Eisenhower signed a bill continuing wartme corporate and excise tax rates for another year. . . . A Senate subcommittee voted to give the navy 380 million dollars for an atom-powered aircraft carrier.

AT MIDNIGHT SUNDAY

Saarland Returns To Germany Rule

BONN, Germany (AP) — The rich industrial Saarland will be returned to West Germany at midnight Sunday.

The final act of the reunion of the German-speaking territory with Germany will tip the scales of European economic power even more heavily in favor of the Germans.

The million Saarlanders have been citizens of West Germany since Jan. 1, 1957, when the 1,000 square miles of territory became the 10th state of Federal Germany.

But the French-German agreement provided for a transition period of a maximum of three years for the complicated switch from the French to the German economic system.

A joint announcement Saturday set the date for the turnover six months ahead of the deadline—reflecting the cordial relations of these two former enemies.

Twice the French have occupied the disputed border region after world wars and twice it has been returned to Germany.

After World War I it was placed under the League of Nations with the French in occupation, but the Saarlanders in a plebiscite voted heavily to return to Hitler's Reich in 1935.

After World War II the area became a French protectorate with its economy orientated toward France. French francs became the legal currency and a customs barrier cut off the Saar from Germany.

Then it was decided to make the Saarland a self-governing territory within the coal-steel pool under guardianship of the West European Union, embracing Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, and West Germany. But the Saarlanders would have none of this, either, rejecting the plan in a plebiscite. The French bowed to the inevitable, and after hard negotiations agreed to the Saar's reunion with Germany.

The coal fields will add about 17 million tons annually to West Germany's coal production. This will raise German output to 61 per cent of the coal-steel pool's total production. Germany now produces 54 per cent of the pool's total.

About three million tons of pig iron and nearly four million tons of steel from Saarland furnaces will boost West Germany's proportionate production in the pool from 29 and 28 per cent to 34 and 32 per cent respectively.

Sunday midnight the French customs posts on the Saar's east frontier closed down. They will reopen on the French side of the border.

Up to 40 billion francs turned in will be handed over to the Bank of France—a gift equivalent to about 93½ million dollars. This is provided for in the French-German agreement.

Workers face an adjustment to the less-generous German social security system. But Bonn claims they will be better off in the long run because of higher living standards in prosperous West Germany.

The Bonn government already has pumped 1½ billion marks—357 million dollars—in financial aid into the Saarland. Further assistance will follow.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has promised that no Saarlander would suffer any losses by returning to Germany.

Report Shows Vandalism Off In Crossett

CROSSETT (Special)—Crossett's first month of summer vacation was marked by a clean police blotter so far as juvenile vandalism or malicious mischief cases were concerned. Police Judge, Randolph Perritt, reported that during the month of June no such cases were brought to his weekly court hearings. In contrast, last year one or more cases were brought up each week of the month.

It is felt that the greatly expanded recreation program, and a record number of summer jobs available have contributed largely to the situation.

The recreation program has expanded this year with a new Youth Center for white children, baseball fields for grown boys, as well as the Babe Ruth and Little League teams, and the most active swimming and playground period in the history of the Recreation Department. Coach Harry Denson, in charge of the summer recreation programs, reports that 435 white children turned up for daily swimming lessons given free by six teen-aged instructors at the white pool.

Forty-five colored children have used their pool daily. Average attendance for afternoon and night swimming at the pool for whites has been around 200, with a record of 628 swimming on June 17th during the entire day. Around 35 colored children in senior and junior teams play baseball, with around 100 children involved in the total daily program.

There are 67 members of the Junior Riding Club, with most of them active and riding the truck trails around Crossett daily. Last weekend the young people participated in a ten mile ride with a trail breakfast at a deer camp east of town.

Police Jury In Catahoula Told Of Boating Laws

JONESVILLE, (Special)...The Catahoula parish police jury were told at their meeting during the week that the jury did not have the authority to pass laws regulating the boating traffic in the various bayous and lakes of this parish.

District Attorney D. W. Gibson cited Act. 367 of the 1958 Legislature covering the uniform pleasure boating act. Gibson said that the act specifically spelled out the regulations of all boats and established the penalties for violations.

Gibson pointed out that the enforcement of all the laws relating thereto was delegated by the act to all law enforcement officers including the Sheriff's department, game wardens, constables and town marshals.

J. C. Gilbert had requested a ruling on the matter of the district attorney at the meeting. The request of Gilbert was prompted by complaints of fishermen that they were being 'swamped, by fast and high powered motor boats.

In as much as there is an act of the regulation of boats it is left up to the law enforcement officers to curb violations it was pointed out.

ARMS EMBARGO ON

LONDON (UPI) —A foreign office spokesman said Friday that Britain has applied a virtual embargo on arms exports to the Dominican Republic because of the tension in the Caribbean area. The spokesman said there was little chance that arms exported to a third party might be diverted to the Dominican Republic.

Winds Drop, Help Control Forest Fire

SIERRAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Subsiding winds aided an army of nearly 1,500 men Saturday in winning 85 per cent control over a costly forest fire after it burned over more than 6,000 acres.

The blaze was started in Tahoe National Forest by a carelessly abandoned campfire.

Ranger John H. Bigley said flames should be completely contained "unless strong winds take it away from us again." They did Friday.

Five tanker airplanes sprayed a chemical mixture onto the flames, which have roared over the hill country for three days. An estimated 27 million board feet of timber was destroyed or damaged.

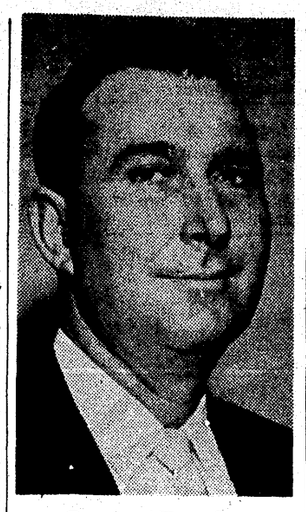
Two lead planes directed the spraying operations. A helicopter ferried men and materials to critical areas.

On the ground, rangers, volunteers and convicts used every weapon at hand, from bulldozers to wet blankets.

"It was a pretty expensive campfire," Bigley said. "We've spent $66,213 so far just trying to control it. The timber loss alone runs to about $270,000."

The fire advanced to within three miles of Loyalton. The population of 1,000 needed no alerting, Bigley said.

"The town lies in a green valley, and there is no big timber directly around it," he explained. "Wind and flying sparks are the biggest dangers."



Opens Realty

Charles B. Burpo, owner of a grading and excavating company here for many years, has announced the organization of Charles Burpo Realty Company. The firm will deal in all types of property. DISMISS DRUNK CHARGES

CHESTERFIELD, England (UPI) —Drunken driving charges against Joseph Hollis, 42, were dismissed here because a blood test showed that he had consumed twice the amount of alcohol needed to kill him. "According to this, my client is dead," Hollis' lawyer argued.

Counselor To Northeast Girls Named

Miss Alma L. Lufcy has been named counselor to women students at Northeast Louisiana State College, President George T. Walker announced yesterday. The appointement is effective July 6.

Miss Lufcy is replacing Mrs. Margaret Newman, who has accepted a teaching position in another state.

The new counselor has an extensive educational and professional background in guidance and personnel assignments. She comes to Northeast from C. E. Byrd High School in Shreveport.

Miss Lufcy is a graduate of Trout-Good Ping High School, Good Pine, La. She completed requirements at Northwestern State College in 1942 for a bachelor's degree in education and a Louisiana State University in 1954 for the master of education degree, with certification as a guidance counselor.

Subsequent to receiving the master's, she did summer study in 1957 in administration and supervision in the Northwestern State College Graduate School. During the following summer she attended the University of Colorado for additional work in the guidance area.

Miss Lufcy has been affiliated with Louisiana school systems as a teacher, counselor and administrator, and she has served in various capacities as a U. S. government employee.

She taught in Good Pine and Shreveport in both the Midway High School and C. E. Byrd High School, where she was later counselor to senior women and assistant principal for instruction.

As a government employee, Miss Lufcy served as a member of the Women's Army Corps with personnel assignments, psychrometrist in the Veterans Administration, New Orleans and Shreveport, and chief of the Veterans Administration Guidance Center, New Orleans and Shreveport.

Professional organizations in which she holds membership include American Personnel and Guidance Association, American School Counselor and various others. She is a member of the Methodist Church.

Posse Seeking Prison Escapee In Mississippi

TUNICA, Miss. (UPI)—A posse of officers with bloodhounds searched an area seven miles south of here Saturday for a Negro who escaped from Parchman state penitentiary and wounded two Negroes in his getaway.

Eddie Lee, 34, a half - trusty, hitched a ride with Ernest Malone near Tutwiler, which is just north of the sprawling penal farm, shortly after his escape Friday night.

Once in the car Lee pulled a .32 caliber pistol he had stolen from the home of prison employe, shot Malone and pistol - whipped another Negro man who was riding in the car. Then he took Malone's car, a 1955 Ford, and drove about 50 miles north to near Tunica where he was stopped by highway patrolmen and county officers.

Lee leaped from the car, Deputy Sheriff R. J. Henry said, and took to the woods, losing the gun as he went.

The search for him continued through the night. Shortly before noon officers said they had lost his trail but were sure he was still in the area.

Lee, as a half - trusty at Parchman, was allowed to go about the prison farm as he wished but was not authorized to carry a gun.

BY NATIONAL COUNCIL

Pharmacy School Fully Accredited

The School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College has received full accreditation by the National Council on Pharmaceutical Education, it is announced by President George T. Walker.

Full accreditation, the highest rating that can be awarded, gives the School of Pharmacy the same status as all other accredited schools of Pharmacy in the nation.

Action of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education enable Northeast graduates to meet a requirement of the Louisiana State Board of Pharmacy in qualifying for an examination to become registered pharmacists.

The School of Pharmacy was established in August 1956 by the State Board of Education and students registered in the new curriculum at the opening of the fall semester of that year.

INSTRUCTORS

Headed by Dean Ralph M. Wilson, the school began operating with a staff of four instructors. With the opening of the fall semester, the increase in the faculty will double the number of the original staff to answer the needs of a fast growing enrollment.

Registration of 67 students in 1956 increased to 228 by the fall of 1958. The rapid enrollment growth has been marked by a corresponding increase in parish representation. The current year's registration includes students from 46 parishes and four states, in addition to Louisiana.

A majority of the 1959 graduates will be employed in the retail field of pharmacy, Dean Wilson said. Some, however, may become pharmacists in hospitals and others will affiliate with pharmaceutical manufacturers as sales service representatives and in production. After continuing in advanced studies at graduate school, some will become manufacturers, research workers, or teachers, he said.

There are now 12 battleships in mothballs throughout the United States.

Autos Collide

Two autos were involved in an accident here that resulted in damage to both cars.

The two drivers, both Negros, were identified as Tom Duncan, 812 Ouachita, and Annie Mae Moore, Winnsboro. Police said both vehicles were heading west on Plum street when the Duncan auto collided with the rear of the Moore auto.

HELD FOR MURDER

Girl Confesses Fatal Shooting

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "When he said it was either me or him, I grabbed first.

"I picked up the gun and asked him how it worked. He showed me how to pull the trigger, and I fired."

That was how police said Louise May Hunsbarger, 18, confessed the fatal shooting Friday night of Ben E. Giberson, 41, a machinist with whom she had been posing as father and daughter for the last seven months.

Miss Hunsbarger, a shapely girl in shorts and wearing her hair in curlers, was bound over without bond to the Marion County grand jury on a charge of murder.

Sheriff's investigator Harold Goodman said the girl sobbed violently as she told how Giberson came home to find her with an unidentified male friend of his.

"He started slapping me around," Miss Hunsbarger said.

Then she said she told Giberson: "If you don't quit slapping me, I'll kill you."

Giberson laid a revolver on a cabinet, she related, and told her: "Either you shoot me, or I'll shoot you."

Then, Goodman said, she shot Giberson who fell halfway out a kitchen window, fatally wounded with one bullet in his chest and another in his back.

The girl ran from the apartment screaming: "Call a doctor, call a doctor—I shot Dad."

She was arrested by state police within half an hour, driving about 10 miles east of Indianapolis. She had picked up a hitchhiker, but he was not held.

Goodman said Miss Hunsbarger told him she had lived with Giberson and his wife for about two years before the couple was divorced last November, and then sh econtinued living with Giberson.

The girl said they had planned to be married next month.

The girl gave the address of her stepfather, Ernie Giberson, and Mother as Dayton, Ohio. Goodman said she told him she was on probation for juvenile offenses in Dayton.

Ernie Giberson was Ben Giberson's uncle. Police said Ernie Giberson was released from Indiana State Prison four years ago after serving a term for a bus company holdup here in 1932 in which a policeman was killed.

Roy J. Conti, 33 Fatally Stricken While At Work

Roy J. Conti, 33 - year - old plumber and father of four, was stricken with a fatal heart attack Saturday morning, July 4, while working at a home at 247 Grayling Lane.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday, at St. Joseph's church on Benton Street. The Rev. Dennis Curren will officiate at a Requiem Mass.

Burial will be in St. Matthews Cemetery under direction of Mulhearn's. A rosary service will be held at the Mulhearn chapel at 8 Sunday night.

Mr. Conti had lived in Monroe for the last 14 years, was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church and first president of the church's Holy Name society. His home was at 406 Pargoud Dr.

A native of Amite, he was a World War II veteran, and served overseas in the European theatre.

He was a member of the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, and Plumbers Local Union No. 659.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Frances Conti; four daughters, Veronica, Sara Jo, Rose Marie and Elizabeth Theresa Conti, all of Monroe; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Conti, Amite; seven brothers, Nick Conti, Pat Conti and Joe Conti, all of Monroe; Sam Conti, New Orleans, Paul Conti, Anthony Conti and Johnny Conti, all of Amite; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Conrad and Mrs. Anne Cazaboum, both of New Orleans and Mrs. Ida Trobona, Amite.

Knife-Wielding Negro Is Sought In Assault Case

The victim, whom parish coroner Dr. Walter Murrell said had "definitely been raped," told police the attack took place Friday night after she left a nightclub near Alexandria.

She said a man got in front of her car and when she slowed down he jumped in, placed a knife at her throat and forced her to drive to an undisclosed location.

Officers said the inside of the woman's car was spattered with blood. The woman suffered from lacerations resulting from a blow on the back of her head.

Ryder quoted the woman as saying she started to pass a parked car with a Negro standing beside it. He told the woman he wanted some information.

"What kind of information," she asked and said the Negro then jumped into the car. Ryder quoted the woman as saying the Negro forced her to drive about a mile, then dragged her into the back seat and raped her.

When she recovered from the blow on the head, she said, she drove to a service station and called for help.

Boy Recovering After Shooting While Playing

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Rici Bufkin, 4 - year - old Winona boy, was reported in "satisfactory condition" in Baptist Hospital Saturday after he was shot by a playmate.

The boy, son of Mrs. Edith Bufkin, was playing with a 9-year-old cousin at Winona Friday when the older boy accidentally fired a .22 caliber rifle he was handling, officers said.

The bullet went in Rici's chest and came out near his right shoulder without striking a vital organ, doctors said.

U.S.-Soviet Trade Gains To Be Small

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department says prospects for increased Soviet-American trade are small despite overtures from Soviet leaders.

In large part, the department says, this is because of Soviet lack of interest in purchasing our nonstrategic goods.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made public a document setting forth the department's views in response to questions he submitted last February.

The document was described by Fulbright Saturday as "one of the most comprehensive statements of the administration's position on U.S.-U.S.S.R. trade relations available."

He commented that "the administration's attitude appears to be that, while it does not oppose an increase in trade between the two countries, it is skeptical about the possibilities for any dramatic increase."

"Moreover," he added, "the executive branch tends to believe that in general most increases would be of greater benefit to the Soviet Union than to the United States, especially if such increases were financed by long-term American credits."

Fulbright said his questions were prompted by the interest in the subject aroused by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's letter to President Eisenhower on June 2, 1958, proposing an increase in Soviet-American trade, and the visit of Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to this country last January.

"The Soviet government has made it quite clear that it does not intend to buy any substantial quantity of consumer goods," the department said.

The administration has taken limited steps toward encouraging an expansion of trade with the Soviet union in nonstrategic goods. But it said such trade has not been encouraged to the same extent as it has with free world nations.

With respect to controls by this country and other Western nations on exports of strategic goods to the Communist bloc, the department said the program is serving its objective of reducing and delaying the development of Soviet military power.

Lapland, above Sweden, Finland and Russia, has two months each summer when there is no darkness and two months each winter when there is no daylight.

Honeymoon Cottage On Wheels

After their marriage Sunday, Poin Dexter Galloway and Miss Devona Hall will spend their honeymoon in Florida, using the trailer attached to the motorcycle as their cottage. Galloway, who built the trailer, figures it will save him money. Miss Hall figures it will save housework. (AP Wirephoto)

PEACE PROPOSALS REJECTED

Caribbean Heads Toward Possible Armed Conflict

Editor's Note—Harold K. Milks, Associated Press chief of Bureau for the Caribbean area, assessed the tense situation in the caribbean on the doorstep of the United States.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP)—The Caribbean cold war could be heading toward a hot conflict, now that Cuba and Venezuela have rejected any interference by the Organization of of American States.

Thus far, the bitter dispute among the Caribbean neighbors has been restricted to a war of words, except for token invasions.

But there are some indications the situation, if fanned by charges and countercharges, may reach an actual state of war with Cuba and Venezuela arrayed against the Dominican Republic.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo has accused Cuba and Venezuela before the OAS of supporting and plotting attacks on his Dominican Republic, which lies off Cuba's southeast tip.

In turn, the Cuban and Venezuelan press and officials denounce Trujillo as a dictator and accuse him of suppressing human rights. Both countries say they won't permit OAS investigating teams to operate in their territory.

In his latest TV appearance, Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba accused Trujillo of trying to trick Cuba into an attack so that Fidel's bearded forces could be branded as aggressors.

Much of the tension and many of the war-like reports stem from activities of various groups of exiles—the anti-Castro exiles in Florida and elsewhere and the anti-Trujillo refugees operating from Cuba, Venezuela and Puerto Rico.

"It is a typical campaign of the outs trying to get in," one Latin-American diplomat said. "But in this case, these outs seem to have active support of some governments."

The Dominican Republic last month repulsed armed invasions which seem to have originated in Cuba, despite Castro's statements to the contrary.

President Luis Somoza's regime in Nicaragua also has repulsed invasions.

A Cuban - mounted expedition against Panama was frustrated before it could get started. Its Cuban participants were returned to Cuba.

Dominican officials charge there is a Cuban-Venezuelan axis, with Castro and President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela determined to destroy Trujillo's regime.

Trujillo has said that any further attacks on his country will be answered by counterattacks.

Against this threat, Venezuela has put its navy and air force on a coastal alert. Castro's forces have been strenghthened in eastern Cuba, the area nearest the Dominican Republic.

Veteran observers here believe neither Cuba nor the Dominican Republic has the military strength to mount a successful expedition against the other.

"At best either could make hit-run air or sea raids against the other," one said. "But the possibility of major land invasions is remote."

Trujillo, in his tightly held nation, has a well - trained and equipped army of more than 20,000 men, plus 10,000 recruits. The navy and air force are small.

Castro has an army of about 20,000 men. The army is well-trained in guerrilla operations but lacks heavy equipment. Navy, rural police and national police add 5,000 to 10,000 men.

Venezuela has the strongest navy in the Caribbean, and an air force. But many here believe Betancourt would refrain from joining in any war because of the possible difficulties at home.

With the United States and Britain banning the sale of arms to Caribbean nations because of the tension, Trujillo is expected to to seek planes and other major weapons in Europe. He makes his own small arms.

Castro's right-hand man, Maj. Ernesto Guevara, on his current tour of the Middle East, may be looking into possible deals for modern arms.

Stocks Chalk Up Huge New Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The first half of 1959 brought further huge gains to a stock market which ended 1958 at historically high levels.

Business boomed. The fear of inflation continued. Earnings and dividends rose and the prospects were for even better earnings and dividends.

The overall market as represented by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended the half year at $228.10, somewhat below the record of $230.30 set on May 29. The first two trading days of July, however, gave a thumping confirmation of the traditional summer rally brokers were talking about.

The AP 60-stock average closed this week at a new record high of $231.10. The Dow Jones industrial average stood at an all-time peak of 654.76.

An estimated $23,419,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange during the first six months of the year plus the first two trading days of July, based on stock exchange figures for the first five months and the gain in the AP average for the balance of the time. This put the total value of stocks listed on the Big Board at roughly 300 billion dollars.

Stock trading in the first half of 1959 soared to 442,703,739 shares, the third highest in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. It compared with 297,846,276 for the first half of 1958.

Record turnover for the first half was 537,846,276 in 1929. The second highest was in 1930 when volume totaled 493,257,820 shares.

The virtually straight line stock market advance began in April 1958, carrie through January and encountered a sharp technical shakeout in February. In March there was a slight decline. Then the advance continued vigorousuly. Another pause and slight loss occurred in June but the market was rallying to its new top as the month ended.

Wild moves of some space age stocks and other fast-stepping issues brought warnings from the heads of the leading exchanges. The Securuities and Exchange Commission also issued a warning about manipulation in the stock market.

FROM GUAM TO MANHATTAN

U.S. Unfurls New Flag In Pageantry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The maiden 49-star flag of the United States was unfurled with colorful pageantry Saturday to wave o're the land from Guam to Manhattan.

At precisely 12:01 a. m., the spanking new banner with the star of the 49th state, Alaska, was hoisted to the top of a flagpole on the west front of the nation's Capitol overlooking the Washington Monument.

At the same moment Stars and Stripes unfurled in the dawn's early light at Ft. McHenry, Md., birthplace of the national Athem.

Fireworks simulating "bombs bursting in air" provided a glaring backdrop to the Ft. McHenry ceremony where Francis Scott Key 145 years ago started writing the "Star Spangled Banner" which did not officially become the national anthem until 1933.

The 809th Engineer Battalion on the island of Guam claimed the honor of raising the first 49-star banner, hoisting it at 6:15 a. m. Guam time, whit it was still Friday on the mainland.

Meanwhile, back on the Capitol roof, an eight-man building guard got in six hours and 20 minutes of flying time.

From midnight until their job was completed at 6:21 a. m., armweary policemen raised and lowered 1,072 new flags to be given away as souvenirs to congressmen's constituents who requested 49-star banners flown over the Capitol on the Fourth of July.

Four temporary flag poles were set up to complete the job. The flag raisers took about 30 seconds to clamp each flag to the halyard, haul it up and drop it bck down into its red-white-and-blue mailing box.

Lt. James A. Boyer, in charge of the detail, said that next year, when the whole thing will have to be repeated for the 50-star flag, for Hawaii, "I hope I'm on the day shift."

Colorful ceremonies preceded his historic "first" flag day for U. S. citizens, regardless of geography. Throughout the nation and overseas, wherever Americans found themselves, similar pageantry this July 4, 1959, was enacted.

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday arrested Lee Arthur Harris, 31-year-old Negro, on three charges: theft, resisting arrest, and disturbing the peace. His bond was set at $500.

Albert Vida, 39, was placed under a $437 bond on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influences of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving.

VOTE VICTORY UNLIKELY

Minority Seeking Own Swiss State

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A French-speaking Swiss minority, restless under their German-speaking neighbors since Napoleon's day, try to strike a blow for greater independence Sunday. The blow isn't expected to amount to much.

The French live in the Jura region of the Cantion of Bern on the French frontier. For years the French have been agitating for a break away. They want their own French-speaking state under the central Swiss government.

They finally have won a minor victory. The Canton votes Sunday on whether a plebiscite should be held later on the question of setting up a separate French-speaking state.

There are 260,000 eligible voters in the canton. The German-speaking voters outnumber the French electorate 7-1. It doesn't take a mathematical wizard to figure that the French minority won't get that plebiscite for a separate state.

When the empire that Napoleon carved out of the heart of Europe collapsed after Waterloo, this little corner of the Corsican's domain came under Swiss rule.

These French-speaking Swiss have nothing against Swiss rule as such. But they argue that they have been pushed around in their Jura region by the German-speaking state government.

The Jura area is largely agricultural, but it has one world famous industry—watch making.

The French-speaking Swiss say they can't get any of the important jobs in the watch-making factories, which employ abouut 10 per cent of the 120,000 persons in the Jura region.

The Jura people say their schools, roads, hospitals and other public services are not as good as those in German-speaking parts of the canton.

"Let us run our own affairs," the Jura people argue. "Let's get rid of Berne's domination."

Those against splitting the state maintain that the people of the Jura would not have the funds to run a government of their own. Each of the 25 Swiss cantons has a sovereign government with more power than American states.

"Let's keep things as they are. We've been doing fine for 150 years. Why change the setup?" the anti-separatists say.

Such arguments pull weight in a country anxious to conserve its traditions. There are some anti-separatists even among the French-speaking Swiss.

TO REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Swiss Employing Grim Reminders

By CHARLES LA ROCHE
United Press International

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI(— Zurich police have adopted a novel method of convincing drivers and pedestrians that traffic fatalities are more than mere paragraphs in the newsppers.

Every time a person dies in a traffic accident on a city street, police erect at the spot a flagpole 20 feet tall from which they fly a 10-foot-long black flag. They also put up a plaque which says: "A man died here: victim of a road accident."

The scheme has been in operation since August, 1957. The grisly reminder usually is left in position for about two weeks.

Police believe every adult member of Zurich's 450,000 population has seen a least one of these mourning flags.

"We shall have to wait a few years for sufficient statistical proof of what we have accomplished," said Dr. Albert Wiesendanger, chief of the city constabulary, "but there are some good signs."

Last year, 49 persons were killed in auto accidents within the city limits. This was four less than in 1957 despite a sharp increase in the number of automobiles on the roads.

Most of the deaths involved motor vehicles, but all traffic accidents are noted, Wiesendanger said.

"We put up flags for the victims of cycling accidents as well," he explained. "Exceptions are made only in cases where a flagpole would interfere with the flow of traffic."

Police pay for the warning signs. "We don't make the traffic offenders pay, because sometimes it would involve litigation, and sometimes nobody is really to blame," a police spokesman said. "But in any case, the road hogs pay indirectly — through their fines."

While it may be too early to speak of a definite decline in road accidents, there is no doubt that the mourning flags have caught the imagination of the Swiss.

Minutes after a pole has been erected, passersby lay flowers at its base. There are rarely fewer than a dozen bunches of flowers in tin cans, grouped at the foot of each pole.

The police department has six poles. At one time last year, five were in use simultaneously. At another, almost four weeks went by without the ned for a single mourning flag.

Weisendanger and his "flag squad" hope the day eventually will come when the residents of Zurich never have to see an "epitaph to an auto smash."

In the middle of the central business district of Spokane, Wash., are the Spokane Falls, 70 feet high.

DRINK WITH A KICK

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Frank Barto, concessionnaire at an amusement park, was working late and got thirsty.

He dropped a dime into the soft drink machine. Nothing happened so he banged it with his fist. A shotgun blast was the response, the pellets inflicting superficial wounds on Barto's head, shoulder and back.

John W. Stewart, the park owner, said he heard the noise and thought burglars were loating the machine.

Good cavair costs about $24 per pound to serve.

AND AWAY WE GO

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A woman who collects door-to-door usually stops at one house to throw a stick for a big dog which loves to retrieve thing.

On one trip she accidentally dropped her purse containing the collection money and the dog grapped it and raced away. The woman was in pursuit across lawns when she though to throw a stick.

The dog dropped the wallet and chased the stick.

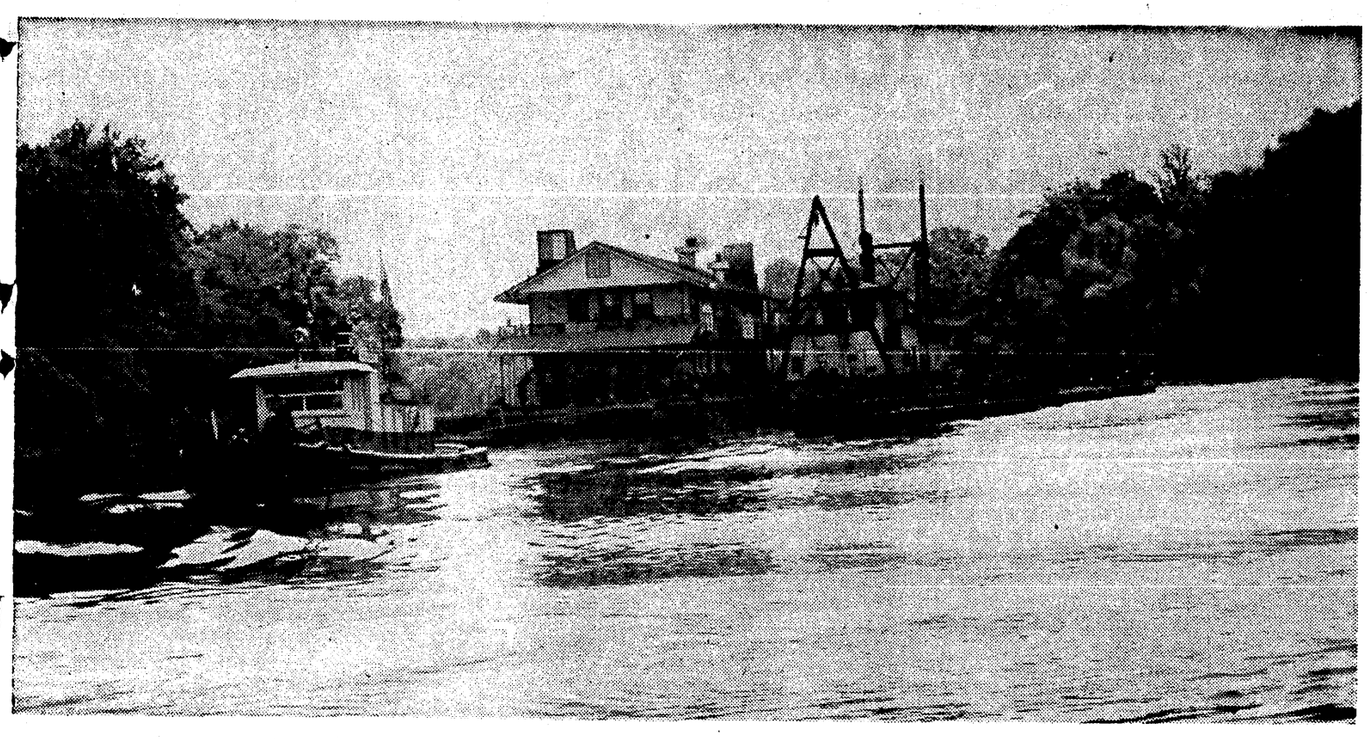
Crews Keep River Open For Commerce



Dredge-Boat Nelson Convoy Sails Down Ouachita River.

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

A steel drillshaft shatters the mirror-smooth surface of the Ouachita River, the sharp drill cuts through darkness beneath, contacts riverbottom, bores into gravel, sand and silt.

Thirty-five miles downstream from Monroe this morning, the dredge-boat Nelson, manned by a crew of 52, is midway in its first week of work this summer.

The Corps of Engineers' dredging crew maintains constant vigil over the river from July to late autumn. Their orders: keep a 6½ foot deep channel open in the Ouachita.

WATERWAY

From the swirling waters of the Mississippi to the head of navigation at Camden, Ark., the Ouachita serves as an interstate waterway for barge traffic.

The river must be kept deep enough for barges to chug through, without running aground.

The five-boat Nelson convoy, captained by dredge master Lennon A. Tatum, blue-eyed career riverman, set sail from its home port, Monroe, last Tuesday morning.

It will be in 24-hour operation from three to five months, putting in for "layup repairs" next autumn.

This "spoil", mixed up with water, is drawn through large pipes in the dredge by pressure from a vacuum pump.

DEPOSITED

Additional pipeline is hitched into the end of the dredge, and strung out to the opposite riverbank. The spoil is deposited there.

The entire dredge convoy is composed of dredge barge, large quarterboat, two dredge 'tenders' (the Buckridge and RW-8, small boats with powerful motors which haul the dredge.) a workboat and two "lines" of wide pontoons loaded with 850 feet of dredging pipe.

The quarterboat (Number 480, Vicksburg district, Corps of Engineers), resembles a small-scale Mississippi riverboat. The crew eat, sleep, store provisions and maintain power and water supplies on it.

For travel downstream, the dredge is coupled alongside the quarterboat. One line of pontoons flanks either side of the joined-boats.

Cost for one day's work by the dredge and quarterboat is $2200. Maintenance cost of the tenders runs $180 and $240 daily.

The men have one day off each week, work 56 hours, 16 of them overtime.

"They work from 12 midnight to 8 a.m., go off duty, have the next day off and go back to work at 4 p.m. on the third day," said Fred R. Schoonover, chief clerk.

All but two of the crew live in Monroe. Many are summer-help college students. They can make it home, back and have a day here the way the schedule is worked out.

DOWNSTREAM

First job this year is downstream from Monroe. Preliminary surveys indicated less work than normal will be required to maintain channel depth in the upper Ouachita during 1959.

"We dredge out approximately 7,500 cubic yards of dirt every 24 hours — you can understand exactly how much this is when you know that an ordinary truck can haul about 4 cubic yards of dirt," explained Tatum.

First step in the dredging operations is to secure the boats. Wire guide lines from the dredge are run out to each bank.

"Spuds" two huge upright steel shafts at the back of the dredge, are sunk into riverbottom.

"We dredge out about 300 feet of "spoil" each hour, and move the dredge boat and cutter shaft by shifting the wires and spuds." said chief engineer William A. Porter.

Crewmen compute the yardage dug out by the size of the hole cut in riverbottom. The dredge is moved every time 50 feet of dredging is done.

SOUND

Before any dredging starts, a survey party of six men "sound" the riverbed.

They check its depths in several places, then make a map of the riverbottom. They also measure size of the "cut" after dredging.

The two-speed steel cutter then goes to work. A 50 horse-power motor turns the drive shaft, and a 3 horse power motor works the hydraulic pump which pulls material through a suction line, sends it out through the discharge pipeline.

"Sometimes we have a dickens of a time finding a place to dump the spoil, what with farmland next to the river," commented Tatum.

"This river holds its own mighty good," he said, explaining that river bank pattern doesn't change too much.

"Back when locks and dams to maintain river level were built in the 1920's, we didn't have the type commerce we have now," mentioned John W. Anderson, Corps of Engineers' public relations man over from Vicksburg for the first day of dredge operations.

DEMAND

"Now, there is demand for a 9-foot channel, to allow large barges from the Mississippi to sail up the Ouachita," he added.

Tatum chuckled that the river isn't wide enough or deep enough now for all the barges which try to sail it.

"Every tree on the bite of each riverbend grows on a slant away from the river. . .because barges hit them trying to make the turn," he explained.

"If we go to a 9-foot channel," continued Anderson, "it will take a combination of factors."

"We'll have to rebuild the six locks on the river and raise their heights or put in additional higher locks," he noted.

"Corrective dredging and some river alignment to straighten out several sharp bends in the river would also be needed," mentioned the tall, pleasant-spoken man.

STANDARD

"Every standard barge on the Mississippi draws nine feet of water," he added.

"It's one of the easiest rivers in the world to transform into a navigable stream. There's adequate water and a stable channel without much velocity," mentioned Tatum.

"With a little channel straightening, it would be wonderful," continued the dredge master.

Tuesday, the river was flowing at almost 2 miles an hour, with a maximum depth of 25 feet. The water was warm — 86 degrees, two feet down, according to Howard Streetman of Monroe, working on a discharge field party to spot-check the river.

"What the dredge does is completely at the mercy of the river," Tatum said.

If the river continues at low level, or if it shoals (builds up sand deposits) more dredging is needed.

And if it rises for two or three weeks, dredging operations are termporarily called off.

Crewmen Tie Dredge To Quarterboat For Trip Downstream.

The Nelson has operated 288 work days without lost time from injury. It's previous record was 1100 days.

In 1954, the Nelson was transferred here from working the Mississippi River. All but 14 regular crew members are laid off each winter, when the ship "lays up" for repairs.

It tied up just off South Grand Street alongside the Corps of Engineers dock on the river Nov. 11, will return anytime between September and December.

Food supplies, newspapers, magazines are brought out to the quarterboat by the tenders. Barge and quarterboat carry a maximum of 60,000 gallons diesel fuel, the tenders carry up to 15,000 gallons.

Electricity, ice-cubes and filtered, chlorinated water are a few of the necessities provided aboard ship.

"We have an emergency plant for lights, in case of breakdown of our regular unit," commented Porter.

Another Porter also serves on board in an essential capacity.

"Every vehicle, car, piece of floating equipment maintains a two-way radio," commented Anderson.

All civilian civil service employees, the crew is well paid, has interesting work.

"The 14 regular men have an average of 27 years each in service," pointed out Schoonover.

"I got into this work because it's interesting," he continued. "I've worked dams, levees, all types of dredging in the southeastern United States."

"Besides that, we have the best retirement system in the world," he chuckled.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Does Monroe want improvement and expansion of its recreation facilities bad enough to ask a bond election to put it across? That's the question asked of the citizenry the past week in a mail ballot being conducted by recreation-minded individuals who hope there is enough support to warrant calling an election.

City officials have had the recreation issue before the people in the not too distant past, saw its defeat, and naturally decline to promote the venture again. But the city council will call an election if the reaction to the postcard ballot shows sufficient favorable strength.

There's no question about the need of expanding recreation facilities. The question is: Are the people willing to pay for it at an average cost of two or three dollars per year?

Postcards already stamped and addressed to the City Council were sent to the citizenry in a letter over the signatures of John B. Reitzell, Herman O. Gunn, Abe Dryer, L. B. Pettit, J. Floyd Stone Jr., and E. L. "Buddy" Harrison. They pointed out in their letter:

"We do not believe it is necessary . . . to call to your attention the fact that the Monroe Recreation Department is doing an outstanding job on a limited budget with very few facilities. This program is reaching only a small percent of our young people, while hundreds are being turned away because of the lack of facilities. . . .

"Does a recreational program have any bearing on juvenile delinquency? At the recent dedication of the Bendel Little League stadium one of the speakers called attention to the fact that of the thousands of boys who have taken part in only one program (baseball), that only three have become involved with authorities. This is most remarkable and points out very clearly the great benefits derived by those who are able to participate in the recreational program; however, the sad thing is that there are thousands more who cannot participate because of inadequate facilities.

"As interested citizens, we write you this letter, explaining how you, as a citizen, might do something about enlarging and improving the recreational facilities in the City of Monroe. The members of the Monroe Recreational Board and the city officials all recognize the desperate need for a well rounded and complete recreational program for all of our citizens. They are most anxious to assist in every way possible in securing these urgently needed improvements. However, elections are expensive and city officials are reluctant to call a bond election, not knowing whether a majority of our citizens and property owners would support such a program.

"In the past the Monroe Recreation Board and city officials have recommended a complete program which included a new swimming pool, youth centers, ball stadiums, tennis courts, and outdoor play areas which would provide playground equipment; but we citizens failed to lend them our support in getting this program into operation. Therefore, it is our desire as parents and citizens to let our city officials know that we do want a chance to vote the necessary monies for such a recreational program.

"We believe the easiest way to let our city officials know how we feel is for each family to mail a postcard addressed to the City Council, City Hall, Monroe, Louisiana, simply requesting that they . . . develop and present to the citizens of Monroe through a bond issue the facilities which we all know are needed at this time."

These letters were sent to 1,400 families with requests that each induce two other families to mail in cards. "Yes" or "No" answers on the cards are asked for these questions: 1—Are you a tax payer? 2—Are you a registered voter? 3—Would you be willing to vote a recreation bond issue? 4—Would you be willing to work for a bond issue?

PROMOTER NOW

Add a new face to the many worn by Loy Scarborough. He's a promoter now and has matched Clarence Cook, Bastrop policeman, against Tony Dupas of New Orleans for the main event on a card at B. and B. Arena here July 14. This first promotional venture by Scarborough could be the best thing that's happened to Cook since he fought Virgil Akins, provided of course he gets past Tony. Scarborugh, we understand, has a "gentlemen's agreement" with Whitey Esneault, manager of Tony and Ralph Dupas, to give Clarence a shot at the better known Ralph if he can beat Tony.

And, if Tony beats Clarence, then Scarborough has an invitation out for Indian Ortego to come here to meet Tony. "I'm only interested in 'name' fighters for main events," Scarborough said.

Scarborough has advanced through the ranks. He was amateur boxer back when the Illinois Central Booster Club and the Optimist Club were promoting the amateurs several years ago. Then for two seasons he was boxing coach on a Monroe Recreation Department program. From 1952 through '56 he was coach of the West Monroe American Legion Junior baseball club and his athletic career included semi-pro ball. For the past several years he has been in demand as a referee for boxing and wrestling. Some of his biggest officiating jobs were referee for the Fourth Army Boxing Tournament in 1956, and referee for the Golden Gloves Tournament at Greenville, Miss., the same year. He's an ex-deputy sheriff now in business for himself.

Scarborough says advanced ticket sales for the Cook-Dupas fight are good and he expects the biggest fight crowd here in at least two years.

LADIES OF GOLF

Newest addition to north Louisiana golf circles is the Lake Providence Ladies Golf Association organized recently. Officers are Mrs. Lonnie E. Townsend Jr., president; Mrs. Harvey H. Howington, vice-president; Mrs. Paul Marcus, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. King Trieschmann, reporter. They'll conduct a ladies' day tournament each month on their home course, the second Wednesday of each month. They'll elect officers annually.

Unser Scales Pikes Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A hail storm failed to slow racing and stock cars which roared up 14,110-foot Pikes Peak in record time Saturday.

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N. M., defending race car champion, maneuvered his Pontiac - powered auto over the twisting 12.4-mile mountain course in 13 minutes 36.5 seconds. That nipped his 1958 mark by 11.4 seconds.

A record time of 15 minutes 45.2 seconds was set by Nick Sanborn Jr. of Cascade, Colo., in the stock car division. He drove a Chevrolet. Sanborn won last year in the record time of 15:49.7.

Two other drivers broke last year's race car standard. Loren Robets of Denver finished in 13:13.4, and Charles Lowderman of Colorado Springs had a time of 13:45.7. Fourth place went to Bob Finney of Colorado Springs in 14:06.9.

Unser also won in 1956 in 14:27. He was third in 1957 with a time of 14:19.2.

His cousin, Louis J. Unser of Lakewood, Calif., was second in the stock car race this year, driving a Pontiac in 15:53.6.

Sports Cop Undisputed Lead With 4-3 Victory Over W. Monroe Vols

Just That Far Away From A No-Hitter

New York Yankee right-hander Bob Turley holds up one finger to show how far away he was from a no-hitter in second game of doubleheader with the Washington Senators in Yankee Stadium today. Turley's bid was spoiled by Julio Becquer's pinch hit single in the ninth inning. Turley made a total of 105 pitches in the game. Yankees won second game, 7-0, after dropping first game 10-6. Monroe Scores Two In Seventh

By BOB ANDERSON

Monroe's Sports rallied with two out in the bottom of the seventh to score two runs, the last one coming in when first baseman Kelton Bacon bobbled George Bryan's grounder, to wreck a fine pitching performance by Jack Norman, beat the West Monroe Vols, 4-3, and take undisputed possession of first place in the La-Ark League.

Center fielder Mickey Yerger almost ruined Norman personally, getting all of Monroe's three hits and driving in three runs.

Lefthander Norman, who fanned nine in going the distance for his first loss against two wins, almost had the game tucked away in the ninth as leadoff batter Ike McMullen and Francis Genusa both flied out to center. However, he walked Larry Reeves and Buddy O'Conner.

Yerger then scored Reeves from second with his third straight hit, a single, and O'Conner went to third. Bryan then topped a pitch toward Bacon, who played catcher throughout his high school career at West Monroe High, off first.

Bacon bobbled the ball, picked it up and fired off balance to Norman covering first. The throw was good but late and O'Conner sped home with the winning run.

The victory, highlighted by frequent wrangles between the managers and umpires Jim Mahoney and J. P. Kelly, was Monroe's 12th against one loss and gave them a one-game lead over West Monroe in the La-Ark race.

A near brawl livened up the evening. Monroe's Buddy O'Connor, a former high school grid star, plowed into Vol catcher Tuffy Antley in the fifth trying to score on a single by Yerger. Antley as tough as his name, held O'Connor. Both benches erupted on the field, surrounding the combatant and almost enlarging the affair into a small war.

Yerger wrecked a bit of strategy by Vol Manager Dave McKenzie in the third when the Sports tallied their other runs. McMullen was hit by a pitched ball to lead off the frame and stole second. Norman fanned Genusa and coaxed Reeves into a grounder to short.

With right hand hitting O'Conner at the plate, McKenzie ordered the catcher walked in order for Norman to pitch to left handed Yerger.

McMullen meanwhile had stolen second and moved to third on Reeves' grounder.

Norman slipped two strikes past Yerger while O'Conner swiped second. Yerger then smashed a long double to right that plated both runs and gave the Sports a 2-1 lead.

The Vols tallied in the first with the aid of two errors by pitcher Carroll George. Shelby Aulds led off the game with a single before George erred on a blow by Robert Perkins and threw wild on Bacon's grounder as Aulds scored.

George, former Northeast right-hander who blanked the Vols, 5-0, in the first meeting between the two clubs, walked in a run in the fourth. George Smitth clouted a tremendous triple to right center with one out. George walked Harold Davis, then fanned Ralph McNabb, but issued another free pass to Norman to load the bases. He gave Aulds first with four straight balls to knot the score at 2-2.

West Monroe went ahead in the fifth. Ronnie McNabb, the nights fielding star, walked with two gone and stole second. Smith, a Northwestern student, got his second consecutive hit, a single to center. Yerger bobbled the ball long enough for Smith to steam around third and score to put the Vols ahead, 3-2. Besides his throw-in the fifth, McNabb made a great diving catch of Genusa's sinker in the seventh.

The lead seemed safe with Norman, except for the trouble in the fifth, seemingly getting stronger all the time. After Bryan reached first on an error in the sixth, Norman fanned Kincaid and Eddie McGowen before second baseman Harold Davis, who made the error on Byran's blow, threw out George at first on a great play.

The trouble in the fifth started when O'Conner walked with two out. He stole second before Yerger singled to center. McNabb handled the ball cleanly and uncorked a perfect throw to the plate. O'Conner was out by eight feet but bowed up and rammed into Antley, starting the little war.

Yerger, of course, was the batting hero for Monroe with 3-4. Smith got 2-3 to lead the Volunteers.

Jerry Rouse, who came in to pitch the seventh after George was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth, was credited with the win, his third straight. Rouse retired the side in order in the top of the seventh.

Club Hurt By Suspension Of Key Players

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"It's going to hurt us, Manager Red Marion said Saturday of Chattanooga's loss of two players suspended for alleged failure to report in attempted bribe.

First baseman Jess Levan, the club's all-time home run leader with 83, Marion said, "swung a mighty big bat." Shortstop Waldo Gonzalez, Marion added, "was a sparkplug in the infield."

In the first such action in the 74-year history of the Southern Assn., President Charles Hurth suspended Levan and Gonzalez indefinitely pending final disposition of the case by George M. Trautman, minor league president.

Marion said a decision was expected from Trautman by the middle of next week. Testimony from Friday's hearing was sent to Trautman.

"If they're guilty they shouldn't be in baseball," he said. "If they're not, I hope they're back very soon."

The incident, Marion said, "came as a surprise to most of the team—especially the young kids.

"But it hasn't hurt their morale. They looked all right beating Nashville (9-3) last night, and they'll keep right on trying."

Levan and Gonzalez left for Chattanooga without talking to newsmen after being suspended.

YANKS, SOLONS SPLIT

Becquer's Safety Ruins No-Hit Bid

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Turley pitched a one-hitter — a wrong-field blooping single to left by pinch-hitter Julio Becquer leading off the ninth—as the New York Yankees stopped Washington 7-0 after the Senators won the opener of a doubleheader Saturday 10-6.

Becquer was batting .221 when he sliced a 1-1 pitch that dropped in front of left fielder Norm Siebern, who did not dive for the ball.

Turley, who permitted only two other base runners, quickly ended the game by getting Ken Aspromonte on a fly deep to Siebern and forcing Bob Allison to hit into a doubleplay.

It was the third one-hitter of Turley's career. He has never pitched a no-hitter.

Until the ninth, the Senators had come close to a hit only once—with two out in the eighth when another pinch-hitter, Hal Naragon, smashed a grounder between first and second.

Bill Skowron, the Yanks first baseman, made a lunging backhanded stop and tossed to Turley for the putout at first base.

Turley, last year's Cy Young Award winner as baseball's outstanding pitcher when he won 21 games and starred in the World Series, retired 18 batters in succession after he walked Billy Consolo, first up in the third.

Consolo was forced at second on an attempted sacrifice by loser Hal Griggs and Griggs got to second on a wild pitch—the only runner to get past first. The other base runner was Faye Throneberry who was hit by a pitched ball with two out in the second.

Becquer's looper landed about a stride in front of left fielder Siebern, the fielding flop of last year's World Series. Mangaer Casey Stengel earlier had pulled Mickey Mantle, suffering from a sore ankle, out of the game to strengthen the defense. He switched right fielder Tony Kubek from right to center and inserted speedy Jim Pisoni in right. But he left Siebern in left.

The one-hitter was the fourth in the AL this season. Early Wynn and Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore pitched the others, the latter against the Yanks.

Turley previously had one-hitters against Chicago April 26, 1955 and against Baltimore April 26, 1958.

Only three balls were hit to the outfield off the 28-year-old Troy, Ill., native, who now makes his home in Baltimore. None was a difficult play. Harmon Killebrew, who slammed his 27th home run in the opener to lead a 13-hit Senator attack, lined sharply to shortstop Gil McDougald in the fourth, but the ball was hit directly at him and McDougald made a routine play.

"I said to myself I'm gonna let her go and give it everything I got," Turley said later as he talked about his thoughts as he went out to pitch the ninth.

The first pitch was a ball, a low curve. The second a curve for a strike. "The third," Turley said, "was exactly where I wanted it." He said it was a fast ball that broke away from the hitter.

Turley threw 101 pitches and was very seldom behind the batters. He struck out nine as he won his seventh game against eight losses.

Kubek was the hitting leader in both games, going 8-for-10 with four hits in each game. He had a run of six straight hits, including his last two at-bats Friday night, before Chuck Stobbs stopped him in the ninth inning of the opener.

Skowron and Yogi Berra each had two RBI as the Yanks pounded Griggs and three successors for 13 hits.

AT WIMBLEDON

Bueno Cracks U.S. Domination

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Maria Bueno, a shy, slender teenager from Brazil, broke America's 22 - year - old domination of the Wimbledon women's singles championships Saturday by rifling the fastest service in women's tennis at Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., for a 6-4, 6-3 victory.

The center court, packed to its 15,000 capacity, rose and shouted as Brazil won its first Wimbledon singles title — after 15 consecutive U.S. victories — and made this tournament somewhat of a Latin-American festival since the men's crown fell Friday to Alex Olmedo of Peru.

Maria, who is 19, wasn't even born when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody started the long streak of American wins in 1938—one of the longest supremacys on the record books. But she changed all that Saturday with a service that included three acres and 10 unreturnables. Her admiring victim described it after the match as equal to the serving of Althea Gibson and Louise Brough.

Twenty-three - year-old Darlene, one-time waitress and now a premedical student, had trouble with her own service, committing five double faults—one of them giving Maria the fatal set point in the first set. On the next volley Darlene was wide on a sideline placement and it was Maria's set.

Maria's victory was the more remarkable because Darlene has beaten her every one of the six times they have met before.

The match took 43 minutes.

Perfect weather brought out a total crowd of 17,000 Saturday making the aggregate attendance for the tournament 275,000—nearly 30,000 more than last year. Wimbledon never announces the box office take but it is estimated at $490,000.

There was a possibly historic match going on before a handful of spectators on court one while the big titles were being decided on center court. Tomas Lejus, a 16½ - year - old blonde Estonian gave Russia its first Wimbledon crown by winning the boys junior championship from Brazllian Davis Cupper Ronald Barnes, 6-2, 6-4.

Darlene got some consolation for her singles defeat, however, when she helped bring the United States its only outright title of the tournament in the women's doubles and then won a share of the mixed doubles crown.

She teamed with Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., to win the outright title for the U.S., defeating the Anglo-American pair of Christine Truman and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles, Miss Hard and Rod Laver of Australia defeated Miss Bueno and Neale Fraser of Australia, 6-4, 6-3.

The Australian top - seeded team of Roy Emerson and Fraser won the men's doubles title, turning back their fellow countrymen, Laver and Bob Mark, 8-6, 6-3, 14-16, 9-7.

Bueno Points To Nationals At Forest Hills

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Maria Bueno, the new Wimbledon women's champion, said Saturday she plans to return to her home in Sao Paulo, Brazil, next week and then get ready for the U. S. Nationals at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Miss Bueno broke a 21-year U. S. monopoly on the title by beating Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., in the final 6-4, 6-3.

Maria is a school teacher who speaks four languages—English, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese—and who is coy about her romantic life.

Asked about boy friends, she said:

"I've nothing to say about that."

Maria said her match with Miss Hard was "the best I have ever played in my life."

"I started playing better four weeks ago and somehow my confidence came back to me."

AT NEW ORLEANS

Forum Slated On Hunting Seasons

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special)—A two-day open forum where sportsmen, or any citizens of Louisiana, may have the opportunity to express their views towards setting the 1959-60 hunting seasons will be conducted July 7 and 8 at the Wild Life and Fisheries Building, 400 Royal Street, in New Orleans, according to an announcement made today by Rudolph P. Easterly, director.

The morning sessions, which shall open at 10 a.m., and continue until noon each day will be concerned with small game only. These sessions will concern the rabbit, squirrel and quail seasons. The legislative framework in which these seasons may be set are November 1 through February 28 for rabbit and quail and October 1 through February 10 for squirrel.

Afternoon sessions, which will be confined to deer only, will begin each day at 2 p.m. The legislative framework within which the deer seasons may be set is October 1 through January 10, Easterly said.

The sessions will be conducted by E. R. McDonald, Sr., chairman of the commission, and according to an agenda which shall be supplied all those in attendance along with a registration sheet which is to be filled out by the participant designating the specific species of game upon which the attendant wishes to express his views. Those not wishing to be heard will also signify their intentions. Time permitting, those present and signifying their intentions on the registration sheet will be allowed to express their opinions on seasons for other game at the morning sessions, Easterly said.

All sesslons will be conducted in the commission's meeting chamber on the fourth floor of the Wild Life and Fisheries building.

Major League Attendance Up For Holiday

By The Associated Press

Attendance at major league baseball games on the Fourth of July showed a decided increase over 1958 as a total of 176,567 fans turned out for four doubleheaders and four single games, one of them at night.

A year ago there were seven doubleheaders with a total attendance of 139,065.

The American League, with three of the doublebills, topped the National 95,587 to 80,990. July 4, 1958, the American League's attendance for four doubleheaders was 76,645 and the National's 62,420 for three.

The twinbill between the Cleveland Indians and the Tigers at Detroit brought out the largest crowd of 35,799. The largest National League crowd of 29,446 saw Los Angeles and Chicago split.

Only playing manager in the Eastern League this season is ex-Yankee catcher Charlie Silvera with Binghamton, N. Y.

Dodgers Divide Pair With Bruins

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Drysdale pitched the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday after the Cubs captured the opening game 2-1.

It was Drysale's first victory in Wrigley Field after three straight losses here in four seasons. Drysdale scattered five hits to bag his ninth win. He fanned 11 and walked only one.

In the opener, Cub pitcher Bob Anderson yielded six hits in winning over rookie Larry Sherry who was making his first major league start. The 23 - year - old Sherry, pitching the first seven innings, surrendered four hits. He fanned seven and walked one.

Chicago's two runs in the fourth of the first game were unearned. Dale Long singled with two out then Lee Walls survived on Jim Gilliam's fumble. Catcher Sammy Taylor followed with a triple that fell between Wally Moon and Ron Fairly to score Long and Walls.

Anderson, getting his fifth win in 12 decisions, watched Duke Snider smash his 11th homer with one out in the ninth.

Speedway To Open Racing Season Today

The Twin City Speedway kicks off its 1959 season this afternoon at 1 o'clock with a full slate of stock car races.

The half - mile oval on the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe is expected to be in top condition, according to owner O. O. Cloyd.

"We watered and rolled out the track today (Saturday) and we expect it to be in top running condition Sunday," Cloyd said. "All the drivers are enthusiastic and we're expecting a large number of cars."

Time trials will open the program at 1 p.m. with heat races, the trophy dash and the feature event to follow.

Competition will be in two classes, one restricted to cars with no modifications and the other to "souped-up" automobiles.

Disputed Play Gives Pirates Win Over Reds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A disputed play in which the umpire reversed his decision gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the run they needed Saturday to edge the Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

The play came in the fifth inning when the Pirates scored two runs to break a 2-2 tie.

Joe Nuxhall, the Cincinnati starting pitcher, walked Bill Virdon to open the inning. Dick Groat blasted a ball deep to center field, scoring Virdon. Groat tried to score himself, and was called out by plate Umpire Vic Delmore.

Groat went wild and the Pirate bench poured onto the field, claiming catcher Ed Bailey had dropped Johnny Temple's relay throw. After a conference with his fellow umpires, Delmore reversed his decision and allowed the run to score. Groat was credited with a triple and Bailey with an error.

Nuxhall, who was charged with his eighth defeat against three victories, was lifted in favor of Tom Acker after giving up a single to Smoky Burgess. Acker shut out the Pirates the rest of the way.

Groat was the hero as he got three hits in four attempts. In the first inning he tripled home Bill Virdon who had walked. The Pirates got their second run in the second inning on a double by Bill Mazeroski, a single by Don Hoak and a sacrifice fly.

Bob Friend, the 22-game winner of last year, pitched all the way for the Pirates to record his fourth win. He has lost 10. He gave up 10 hits, three of them in the third inning when the Reds got two runs.

ROBERTS FIRES 8-HITTER

Phillies Knock Braves Out Of First Place With 2-1 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robin Roberts scattered eight hits and helped bring across one of two Philadelphia runs Saturday night as the last-place Phils defeated Milwaukee 2-1 and knocked the National League champions out of first place.

San Francisco, whiih defeated St. Louis 10-3 this afternoon, now leads the Braves by half a game.

After the Braves scored their lone run in the second inning, Ed Bouchee evened the score with his seventh home run of the year in the fourth.

The Phils wrapped it up in the fifth when Sparky Anderson singled and went to third on another single by Carl Sawatski. Roberts then grounded into a doubleplay with Anderson scoring.

The Braves threatened to pull the game out for Lou Burdette in the eighth but some wierd base-running ended that threat.

Frank Torre got a pinch single for Budette and Casey Wise came in to run for him. Bill Bruton singled and Wise was caught between second and third base. He headed back to second as Bruton came in to the base. Gene Freese tagged both men out.

The Braves' run cmae on singles by Joe Adcock and Del Crandall and Johnny O'Brien's double.

Roberts, in evening his record at 7-7, got stronger after the second, and, aside from the eighth, was in no trouble.

The Braves' made one last gasp in the ninth when Ed Mathews opened with a single. Hank Aaron then forced Matthews and Wes Covington struck out. Adcock ended it by flying out.

Burdette now is 11-8.

SAAU Meet Set For July 10-11

The Southern AAU junior swimming and diving championships, with approximately 400 entries expected, will be held at the Highland Park Country Club July 10-11, meet director Jeff Hennessey announced yesterday.

According to Hennessey, who is a swimming and gymnastics coach at Northwestern and a native West Monroyan, this will mark the first time that a meet of this nature has been held in this area. Similar meets have been held in Shreveport, Minden and Baton Rouge.

The junior division is open to anyone except champions in the junior and senior brackets. Minden is expecting to send a strong girl's team while Shreveport will probably provide the stiffest competition among boys.

Twin Cities entrants have faired well in past AAU meets. Charles Stewart of West Monroe, who went to the national trampoline championships, is scheduled to dive in the one-meter event. Charles Prophit of Monroe was runner-up to Bosty McClanahan of Monroe in 1955 in the three-meter dive.

Teams from Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Jackson, Miss., and Hattisburg, Miss. are also expected to participate in the meet.

The preliminaries are scheduled to begin Friday afternoon and continue through Saturday afternoon with the finals slated for Friday and Saturday night.

The meet will open to the general public and no admission will be charged said Hennessey. He added, "We'll see some of the best diving in the South."

Schedule of events:

Friday at 2 p.m.—one-meter diving, 50-meter free style, 100-meter back stroke, 100-meter breast stroke, 200-meter free style (preliminaries). Finals at 6 p.m. Friday.

Saturday at 2 p.m.—three-meter diving, 100-meter free style, 100-meter butterfly, 400 - meter free style, 200-meter free style relay (preliminaries). Finals at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Ruston Tops Monroe, 5-4, For 11th Win

Ruston's unbeaten American Legion squad pushed over a pair of unearned runs in final inning after two were out to upend Monroe, 5-4, Friday night.

The victory boosted Ruston's fifth district lead to two full games over Monroe who dropped its second game in 11 outings. Ruston is 11-0.

Two glaring errors in the last inning after two were out set the stage for the Ruston rally. With Max Lewis on first with a walk, Stuart Toms was safe when shortstop muffed a routing grounder. McGinn booted a ball hit by John Bailey, allowing Lewis to score, and Bo Dick Smith's single brought in Toms with the winning run.

Neal Gunn hurled the first five innings for Monroe before giving way to Bob Saterfield in the sixth. Ronnie Marrus went the distance for Ruston.

Smith with 3-4 and Jerry Hood with 2-3 were the top hitters for Ruston. Harry Crowe has 2-3 for Monroe.

BEAT JURGES' BOSOX, 11-5

Baltimore Spoils Manager's Debut

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles spoiled Billy Jurges' debut as manager of the Red Sox Saturday, clouting four home runs and 13 hits for an 11-5 victory.

Jurges, replacing Mike Higgins, used four pitchers in an attempt to halt the Oriole barrage led by Walt Dropo. The big first baseman hit two homers and a single driving in four runs.

The other Baltimore homers were hit by Jim Finigan, his first of the year, and Gus Triandos, his 19th.

Young Milt Pappas went the distance to record his eighth victory in 12 decisions. However, Pappas was in trouble frequently, yielding nine hits, three walks and tossing two wild pitches.

The loser was Boston starter Ted Wills who gave up nine hits and nine runs before he was removed in the fifth. He was succeeded by Mike Fornieles, Leo Kiely and Murray Wall.

The Orioles got off to a 2-0 lead in the second when Dropo hit his first homer after Gus Triandos had reached base when Ted Williams muffed a routine fly ball.

Both team added single runs in the third and fourth before Baltimore exploded for five in the fifth. Triandos' homer with one aboard and Chico Carrasquel's two-run double were the big hits of the rally.

The Red Sox came back with three in the sixth on Marty Keough's single, a walk to Vic Wertz, successive singles by Jackie Jensen and Williams and a wild pitch.

Although Jurges stuck primarily to the same players, there was one noticeable change in Boston's starting line-up. Williams, hitting 100 percentage points below his usual clip, was dropped from third to sixth in the batting order.

Ramos Puts On Show For Fans

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-hander Pete Ramos of the Washington Senators had a 7-0 lead over the New York Yankees when he came to bat in the third inning of Saturday's opener at Yankee Stadium.

So he gave the big holiday crowd something of a show.

Ramos batted left - handed against reliever Jim Bronstad's first pitch. He swung and missed.

He batted right-handed against the second pitch and again swung and missed.

On Bronstad's third pitch, Ramos dumped a bunt down the third base line and beat it out for a single.

Jerry Dahlke and Bill Dufour, who have been up with the Chicago White Sox, are in the Memphis pitchnig staff in the Southern Assn.

Garris Named To Supporting Card

DeWayne Garris, local heavyweight who scored a three-round knockout over Billy DeSoto in Shreveport Thursday night, will meet Andy Fritcher of New Orleans in a four-round semifinal bout supporting the Clarence Cook-Tony Dupas main attraction here July 14.

Matchmaker Loy Scarbrough made the announcement after conferring with Whitey Esneault in New Orleans. Esneault, who handles Fritcher as well as Tony and Ralph Dupas, labeled Fritcher as a rough, tough customer who is willing to slug toe to toe.

Garris unveiled a powerful right hand in stopping DeSoto, 23 pounds heavier, in last week's bout. A veteran of 41 fights, Garris started out four years ago as a 150-pounder and has won all but eight of his bouts.

Scarbrough also has lined up a six-round tussel featuring a pair of colored belters, Kid Henry Burton of Monroe and Columbus Marshall of Shreveport. Marshall beat Burton in a Texas match but Burton evened the score with a victory in the local ring.

Scarbrough plans to schedule at least three more four-rounders for the card but is going slow in order to find good fighters.

Esneault, who brought up such fighters as Willie Pastrano into the national spotlight, hopes to use the Cook fight as a stepping stone for Tony Dupas toward national recognition. He feels Cook, who has beaten several name fighters, should provide the answer to whether or not Dupas is ready for the big time.

Tickets for the July 14 attraction are on sale in Monroe at Fink's Men's Store and Adler's Garage and in West Monroe at Chandler's Shoe Store. In Bastrop, tickets may be obtained at C & A Club, in Oak Grove at Pippen's Cafe and in Winnsboro at Jack Carpenter's Grocery.

Scholz Beats

Scholz weighed 159¼, his opponent 158¼.

All-Stars Play Tuesday With Ted, Stan On Bench

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Time marches on and the 26th All-Star Baseball Game will be played Tuesday afternoon at Pittsburgh with Stan Musial and Ted Williams sitting on the bench, waiting for pinch-hitting duty.

The two potential Hall of Fame members actually were selected by the respective managers after failing to finish 1-2 in the vote of the players who select the starters.

The American League, winner of the last two, holds a comfortable 15-10 edge over the National League in this series that dates back to 1933 at Comiskey Park in Chicago. It hasn't been played in Pittsburgh since 1944, when Billy Southworth's Nationals scored a 7-3 victory over Joe McCarthy's Americans in a wartime game at night.

This is to be the first of two All-Star Games this year with the proceeds ticketed for the generous player pension fund. The second will be played Aug. 3 at Los Angeles. In 1942, before there was such a thing as a player pension, they also played two games but only the first counted in the standings. This time they both count. So does the money.

A sellout crowd of about 35,000 will jam picturesque Forbes Field for this annual test, scheduled for noon, EST. As part of the regular All-Star-World Series 3¼-million-dollar deal, the game will be beamed across the nation on radio and television by NBC.

Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves, who have been making a practice of meeting in October and July, again will match master minds. Stengel holds a 2-1 edge over Haney, including last fall's dramatic World Series comeback. Old Case has had his troubles in the All-Star business, losing five out of six until he started to click in 1957. Now he's on a two-game winning streak.

If you had to guess on a starting pitcher, it might be sound to select Early Wynn of Chicago or Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore for the American. Take your choice between Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles for the National.

Each starting line-up is loaded with right-handed batters. That would seem to call almost automatically for a right-handed pitcher. The American has four — Wynn, Wilhelm, Jim Bunning of Detroit and relief man Ryne Duren of New York. Stengel also has three southpaws in his own Whitey Ford, Chicago's Billy Pierce and Kansas City's Bud Daley.

The National right-handers, in addition to Burdette and Drysdale, are Roy Face, the relief man from Pittsburgh, and Gene Ctley, the Phillies' giant whose comeback is not calculated to stir great joy in the heart of Haney and the Braves. The National left-handers are Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, making the team for the 11th time, Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco and Wilmer Mizell of St. Louis.

BEAT CARDS, 10-3

Giants Squeeze Into First Place

ST. LOUIS (AP)—San Francisco took over first place in the National League Saturday, trampling the St. Louis Cardinals 10-3 with a flurry of base hits including a pair of home runs by Daryl Spencer.

The victory, coupled with Milwaukee's night game loss to Philadelphia, edged the Giants ½ game and .004 percentage points in front of the defending National League champion Braves.

Spencer, who will be 30 on July 13, celebrated early by driving in half of the Giants' runs with his sixth and seventh home runs and a single.

One of Spencer's homers was a three-run affair in the Giant's big fifth inning. The Giants batted around in the fifth, scoring five runs and routing Cardinal starter Larry Jackson.

The winning pitcher was Mike McCormick. He was replaced in the eighth by Stu Miller after yielding the three runs on nine hits. The victory left McCormick with an 8-6 record.

The loser was Jackson, now 7-7.

A sudden shower delayed the game for 45 minutes in the fourth inning just after San Francisco assumed a 3-2 lead with a run on successive singles by Jackie Brandt and Hobie Landrith, who had four hits in the game, and Ed Bressoud.

Gino Cimoli doubled in two runs in the third for St. Louis, tying the score, after McCormick had retired the first seven Cardinals he faced. McCormick struck out five before departing.

Willie Mays scored a first inning run for the Giants on a single by Spencer after reaching base on a force play. Mays scored again in the third on a single by Willie Kirkland after receiving a walk and stealing second.

Each club picked up a run in the seventh.

A crowd of 18,211 watched the game.

George Strickland of the Cleveland Indians was safe in this third base slide yesterday as Detroit Tigers third baseman Eddie Yost dropped the ball. Strickland walked and moved to third on a single by Vic Power. Yost's error saved the day for Strickland. Cleveland won the first game of a twin bill, 6-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Indians Sweep Twin Bill To Stretch League Lead

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—The Cleveland Indians swept a holiday doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers Saturday to strengthen their hold on first place in the close American League race.

Cal McLish put together a neat five-hitter to take the opener 6-1 and the Indians outlasted the Tigers 12-9 in an 11-inning nightcap punctuated by 33 base hits.

The Tigers could do little with McLish in the opener, but they made a fight of it all the way in the nightcap.

When Cleveland scored five runs in the top of the eighth inning of the finale—three on relief pitcher Mudcap Grant's first major league homer—they had a 9-4 lead but Detroit bounced back with five runs in their half of the inning to knot it again.

Charlie Maxwell, who had hit nine of his 18 homers on Sundays, came through a day early with a three-run blast in that eighth inning.

The Indians tucked things away in the 11th as Tito Francona, a former Tiger, led off with his ninth home run of the season. Jim Baxes came through with his fifth homer a few minutes later.

Gary Bell one of Cleveland's top ranked starting pitchers, made his second appearance of the season as a reliefer to pick up the victory in the nightcap. Bob Smith, the fourth Tiger pitcher, took the loss, his first decision of the season.

Cleveland's long ball hitting for the day included Rocky Colavito's 24th home run with Minnie Minoso picking up No. 13. Niel Chrisley picked up his third for the Tigers and has yet to get a single for the Tigers. He had been used only sparingly and has a double in addition to his three home runs for the season.

PIERCE BELTED

Chisox, Athletics Split Two Games

By FRANK CRAWFORD

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Chicago White Sox fell a step further behind in the American League pennant race as the Kansas City Athletics exploded against Billy Pierce in Fourth of July fashion to win the second game of a doubleheader 8-3.

The Sox had put on some heavy blasting of their own to win the opener, 7-4, largely on the home run hitting of John Romano, Sherm Lollar and Bubba Phillips.

The split put the Sox two games behind the Cleveland Indians who won a doubleheader from Detroit.

There were a total of 47 hits in the two games.

The Athletics walloped 13 hits in the nightcap and bombed Pierce from the mound as they scored five runs in the first five innings. Jerry Lumpe, Dick Williams and Roger Maris all hit homers.

Rip Coleman started for the Athletics and shut out the Sox until he was driven from the mound in the fifth.

Johnny Kucks took over and shut out Chicago the rest of the way on four hits to gain credit for his second triumph against four losses.

Bob Cerv, who collected three hits, singled home a run for the A's in the first. The lead became 3-0 in the second when Lumpe hit a two-run homer. The A's rapped Pierce for four hits in the third as they hiked their lead to 5-0.

Then the Athletics scored three times against Rodolfo Arias in the last of the fifth. Williams homered with Kucks aboard to send home the first two runs and Maris slammed his first homer since returning to the line-up following an appendicitis operation. It was his 11th of the season.

The Sox slammed 17 hits in the opening game. Jim Landis went 5-for-5 and Jim McAnany had two doubles and two singles in five trips.

The Athletics socked nine hits, eight of them against Dick Donovan, the White Sox starter. Donovan was driven from the mound in the fourth inning when the A's took a 4-2 lead on a two - run homer by Hal Smith. Bob Shaw replaced him and checked the Athletics on one hit the rest of the way.

Consecutive home runs in the sixth by Romano and Phillips tied the score and headed Bud Daley, the Kansas City starter, for the exit. Sherm Lollar sent home the winning runs with a two - run homer against Bob Grim in the seventh.

The Leader Blasts From Trap

Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, South Carolina, blasts from a deep trap up on to the eighth green in the third round of the Ladies PGA National championships. She shot a 5 under par 69 to lead the field of women golfers by 4 strokes after 54 holes of play. Her total for the 54 holes is 213.

Rawls Grabs Four-Stroke Lead In PGA

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., continued her brilliant play Saturday, forging a four-stroke lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship with a 5-under-par 69.

Added to Friday's 68 and Thursday's 76, it gave her a 213 total. The final 18 holes will be played Sunday over the rugged Sheraton Country Club course.

Miss Rawls broke the course record for women Friday and equaled the old mark Saturday.

TO MEET ZYBYSKO

Wrestling Bear At B&B Monday

"Little". "The Beast" is a genuine bear, evidently brown, who goes by the name of "Brown Bomber."

This refugee from the deep woods is also billed as the "world's most talented animal,"

THE BROWN BOMBER

Lassie and Trigge nothwithstanding.

Zybysko may also be classed as talented, if not an animal, but he will be giving away a few pounds to his hairy opponent and is liable a few nasty bites unless the "Bomber" has been defanged.

This match is a special event on a three-bout card. The special exhibition will have no time limit with one fall to win. Should Zybysko beat his woodsy foe, he"ll pocket $100 guaranteed to any human wrestler who defeats the wrestling bear in addition to his regular wages.

Heading the card is a double main event. One bout will show Carlos Mendoza and Frankie Kovac in a return match. The two boys staged a nasty little brawl last week which ended with the disqualification of Mendoza Carlos was using some brass knuckles on his gringo opponent.

The other half of the double main event has newcomer Mickey Sharp of New York City going against West Monroe's crowd-pleaser Bill Barney. Promoter August Baumgartner says he doesn't know much about Sharp but believes he will give Barney enough trouble to occupy his mind while waiting for another shot at the Louisiana heavyweight championship.

The two regular bouts will have a 60-minute limit with two falls to win. Al Massey will be the referee.

Oct. 22: Miami at Auburn.

Oct. 29: Florida at Gainesville.

Nov. 5: Mississippi State at Auburn (homecoming).

Nov. 12: Georgia at Auburn.

Nov. 19: Florida State at Auburn.

Nov. 26: Alabama at Birmingham.

Elston Replaces Mizell On NL All-Star Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Elston, Chicago Cubs' right-handed relief pitcher, will replace Vinegar Bend Mizell on the National League's All-Star Game squad in Pittsburgh Tuesday, the office of Warren Giles, league president announced Saturday.

Mizell recently has been troubled with his back, a spokesman said and requested his withdrawal from the roster. Giles contacted Fred Haney, Milwaukee Braves' manager who will direct the National League team strategy. He in turn indicated his preference for Elston, the announcement said.

Elston has a 5-1 record and has appeared in 32 games.

Former Notre Dame varsity football coach Hugh Devore coaches the Irish freshman team.

Wall, Finsterwald Share Leadership In Flint Open

By DAVE DILES

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Art Wall Jr., and Dow Finsterwald, two of golf's foremost reigning champions, shared the lead Saturday after three rounds of the $52,000 Flint Open Golf Tournament. They had 54-hole totals of 210, six under par.

Wall, Masters champion and the game's leading money winner, and Finsterwald, defending PGA titlist, had four-stroke leads over Ken Venturi, winner of last week's Chicago Open, and pudgy Lionel Hebert in the race for the $9,000 first prize money.

There was a difference of only one stroke in the third - round cards of the co-leaders, Finsterwald's 1 - under - par 71 enabling him to deadlock Wall, who led him by one stroke at the halfway mark.

Both he and Wall missed opportunities to capture a solo lead. Finsterwald, despite a sizzling 34 coming home on the par 36-36—72 course, missed putts of 1½ and 4 feet and took bogies. Wall left a birdie putt 2 inches below the hole on the 18th green.

Defending champion Bill Casper, had a 75 and tied with four others at 215, five strokes behind the leaders. Tied with Casper are Julius Boros, Jay Hebert, Pete Cooper and Arnold Palmer, who tied for the day's low round with a 69 at the sprawling Warwick Hills layout in nearby Grand Blanc.

Only three others had par-equalling scores going into Sunday's final round. Jack Nicklaus, 19-year-old Walker Cupper from Columbus, Ohio, was low amateur in the event at 216 after a sparkling 70. Tied with him were Jerry Barber and Ted Kroll.

The field was trimmed to low 60 professionals and the 5 low amateurs for the final day of the 72-hole meet. For that showdown, the players must challenge Warwick Hills at its full 7,280 yards.

Tournament officials announced that in the event of a tie during regulation play, an 18-hole playoff will be staged Monday.

OAK GROVE AT MONROE

Only Two Games On La-Ark Slate

The La-Ark League offers an abbreviated slate of two games this afternoon with Oak Grove playing at Monroe and Dubach at Crossett.

The West Monroe - Bastrop contest scheduled for Bastrop has been postponed, according to Lark president Carl Livingston. Several of the Bastrop players would have been unable to play because of work. The game has not been rescheduled so far.

In Friday night games, Monroe and West Monroe picked up victories No. 11 to go into last night's makeup game as co-leaders. The Sports whipped Crossett, 5-2, while West Monroe downed Dubach, 4-2.

Bastrop pulled to within 1½ games of third - place Dubach by mauling winless Oak Grove, 26-12. The loss was Oak Grove's 11th in a row. Roddy Harper and Jerry Moore hit homers to pace the Bastrop attack with Joe Roan notching the pitching victory in relief of newcomer Tommy Rogers.

Wayne Hendricks struck out 12 batters, got two hits and drove in a run to pace West Monroe over Dubach. Charles Fuller, who allowed five hits to four given up by Hendricks, took the loss. First sacker Kelton Bacon got a double and triple for the Vols while Bob Colvin drove in one of Dubach's runs with a double.

Larry Reeves and Jerry Rouse teamed up to pitch Monroe past Crossett. Reeves hurt his arm and departed in the sixth with Rouse taking over. Together, they allowed the Millers six hits while the Sports rapped out 10. Mickey Yerger was the batting leader with two safeties, one a triple. Frank Vickers absorbed the loss, going all the way.

Left fielder John Burgwyn led the University of North Carolina batters with a .324 mark this spring.

The schedule of Solunar Periods as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables, Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

REV. W. R. DOWDEN

Peniel Baptist Church Calls Rev. Dowden

Recently called to take the post as pastor of the Peniel Baptist Church in West Monroe was Rev. William Roy Dowden.

A native of Vernon Parish, Rev. Dowden was formerly pastor of the Athens Baptist Church in Athens, Louisiana. He is the son of the late Thomas Ivy Dowden and Fannie Curtis Dowden, now of Leesville.

After serving six years in the Army during World War II, Rev. Dowden resumed studies in Agriculture at Northwestern State College. He received his degree in this same field at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

For his theological degrees, Rev. Dowden attended Stephen F. Austin College where he received his M. E. D. and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary where he received his B. D.

Rev. Dowden is married to the former Polly Polk and is the father of two daughters.

Church Group Gains Ground In Islands

MANILA (AP)—A comparatively new religious sect has gained a firm foothold in the predominantly Roman Catholic Philippines.

Founded by a Filipino in 1914, the "Iglesia ni Cristo" (literally Church of Christ) has grown from a mere handful to the most aggressive and close-knit of Philippine religious minorities.

There are no up-to-date official records but Director Leon Maria Gonzales of the Bureau of Census and Statistics says the Iglesia's claim of a million members is "close to being correct."

Other religious sects in the Philippines include Protestants, Moslems, Buddhists and Jews but 84 per cent of the 23 million Filipinos are Roman Catholics.

The top man of the Iglesia is Felix Manalo, 73-year-old former Protestant preacher who is looked upon by his followers as the source of salvation of their souls.

Manalo was a Seventh Day Adventist until he broke with the Adventist Central Office over doctrine and administrative policies. Then, it is claimed, he got a "message" from God.

It is told that after fasting for three days and nights to reassess his beliefs Manalo decided to go out among the people and tell them of his message.

Basically, the Iglesia is a faith of the poor and middle class. It has neither priests nor saints. Even Manalo is titled merely "executive minister.

Its tenets are based on Revelations 7:1-3:

"And after these things, I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds, that the winds should not blow on the earth, nor on any sea nor on any tree.

"And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God; and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea.

"Saying, hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of God in their foreheads."

The Iglesia believes that the Big Four of World War I (Woodrow Wilson, Lloyd George, Georges Clemenceau and Vittorio Oralndo) might have plunged the world into a "more disastrous war" were it not for the timely appearance of Manalo, the prophesied angel from the east.

The Iglesia holds services on Thursday and Sunday. Its rituals are simple. Service usually consists of hymns, a prayer, the sermon and more prayers. The Iglesia does not believe in communions or confessions.

Symbols of the rise of this aggressive new faith are its chapels, some 3,000 in various parts of the country. They are given to fanciful towers and flashy facades.

Members of the sects are bound not merely by the tenacity of their belief in the Biblical basis of their faith but also by the fellowship and mutual-help devices the church propagates.

Iglesia members in a neighborhood invariably are well acquainted with one another and the church maintains a social security system which helps sick and needy members from contributions.

As executive minister, Manalo holds sole authority to ordain ministers, to promote them and to fix their salaries. The question of a successor is not often discussed in Iglesia circles.

Old Churches Come To Life In New Move

Over a period of several years, as the population has shifted from rural to urban and suburban areas, several denominations have had to close many small churches and chapels in rural sections of the United States. Some of these once were thriving churches, but as members moved away, the congregations dwindled to a handful and the buildings finally were abandoned.

Within the last four or five years, however, churches in various sections of the country have reversed this trend, reports that church's Board of Missions. As suburbs creep farther out into what once was farm land and as new communities spring up in the open country, an abandoned church building may be surrounded by new homes with young families. With new people to be served, some of the abandoned churches have been re-opened.

From Tennessee and Maryland come stories of two such abandoned churches that have been reactivated and now are serving growing congregations with a lively program.

Woods Chapel Methodist Church naer Oakdale, in eastern tennessee, had only eight members left in the early 1940s. Members had gradually moved to other places, and during World War II the doors of the chuurch were opened only occasionally. A meeting was held to determine whether the church should be sold. The small congregation voted not to sell and to attend and support the church. Things began to look up, and at another meeting in May, 1955, plans were laid by the 43 members present to hold a vacation Bible school. A few weeks later, 41 children received their Bible school certificates, despite the fact that borrowed materials had to be used and the building had no plumbing facilities or water.

The coming of winter presented new problems, with no heat in the church. Somehow a furnace was located, and different families took turns as custodians. Attendance at Sunday school and church rose gradually, finally reaching 125. A Wesleyan Service Guild was organized. Then came the decision to build a new and more adequate plant. The old church was torn down and construction was started in August, 1958. Now completed, the small but neat frame building of colonial style has a sanctuary seating 200. And it is expected that the day will come when that much space will be needed. From the low point of eight members and a partially-abandoned building, Woods Chapel has grown in membership of 75.

In 1943 the Concord Methodist Church in Maryland, near Washington, D.C., was closed. It remained closed until 1955. In the intervening 12 years, the postwar growth of suburban Washington pushed the settled areas ever outward. Around the once isolated little church, new homes began to rise. There are now 5,000 new homes within the radius of one mile of Concord church, and more are going up. Concord church was reopened in 1955 and has grown from a membership of none to 159 in three years. The church school has an enrollment of 112 and an average attendance of 65. The Woman's Society of Christian Service has 29 members and the Official Board, 25.

The major need for the growing congregation now is for an addition to the original frame chapel. Additional land has been purchased, and a dwelling on the lot is being used as the church school plant. The congregation has pledged $31,710 over 150 weeks for a new building. The Board of Missions of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church is supporting the re-activated congregation in its building program and sees this once abandoned church as "one of the potentially great Methodist churches of the future."

Local Methodist Church To Hold Homecoming

Next Sunday, July 12, will mark the seventh annual homecoming of the Southside Methodist Church, according to the Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor.

Rev. Joyner has served the church since its organization. During this time the church has grown to 680 members with a property evaluation of $135,000.

In addition to its regular program, the church sponsors five missions in the Monroe area: North Grand, South Grand, Gibson Chapel, St. Andrew's Chapel, and a service each Sunday at Green Oaks Home.

Last year the church received 140 new members. It is also looking forward to erecting a new building for children and youth in the near future.

Guest speaker for the homecoming will be Rev. George S. Harbuck, superintendent of the Monroe District of the Methodist Church.

The pastor issued an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend the homecoming service at the morning worship period and the dinner on the grounds afterwards.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Recently my aged mother died, and instead of a conventional burial I had her cremated. I would have respected her wishes but she never indicated any preference. Recently someone told me that it was contrary to the teaching of the Bible, because it destroyed the body which God would raise up at the last day. Was I un-Christian in doing this thing? F. E.

ANSWER: It is true that cremation is of pagan tradition, but that does not necessarily make it a sinful act. As an alternative to burial, it has been generally accepted by many people, both Christian and non - Christian. I am confident that it has nothing whatever to do with the resurrection of the body. Many Christians have been accidentally burned, and this certainly will not limit God in the resurrection.

The Bible teaches that we will have a new body in the resurrection. The Bible says, "But God giveth it a body even as it pleased Him, and to each seed a body of its own." (I Cor. 15: 38).

It appears that the actual mode of disposing of the dead is not the crucial ,issue and it need cause you no remorse. If your mother had her personal faith in Christ, she then met the only condition for sharing in the glorious resurrection of the just. That is why the Christian can assuredly say that the grave is not the end.

Fears State Religion May Come Back

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — A Christian leader has expressed fear that state Shintoism is rallying for a comeback, and that if this happens civil and religious liberties in Japan will be curtailed.

The anxiety was voiced by J. Newland Pfaff, president of the Japan Bible Christian Council in the English-language edition of the nation-wide newspaper Yomiuri.

"How disappointing to see in Japan the deliberate efforts of certain ultra-reactionary religious and political leaders who seek to further advance their already well-developed efforts towards the restoration of state Shinto and emperor worship as the center of Japanese official national life," Pfaff wrote.

Shinto officials deny this is the case.

Pfaff's fears stem largely from moves by some members of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party to restore official recognition to the Ise Grand Shrine, mecca for Shintoists, in central Japan.

Ise — seat of state Shintoism which the militarists used so effectively to build the cult of emperor-worship and ultra-nationalism—enshrines the spirit of the mythical sun goddess Amaterasu. Japan's emperors were formerly said to be directly descended from Amaterasu, supreme diety of the Japanese nation.

The Ise shrine lost official backing when occupation authorities abolished state Shintoism after the war.

But Pfaff warned that an analysis of recent developments "lead us to believe a gradual but definite curtailment of civil and religious liberties will be the result, as well as a return to the old emperor system, which was outlawed by Japan's postwar constitution."

Prof. Tomonobu Yanagita of St. Paul University said "the impelling force of the Shinto-nationalists within the Liberal - Democratic party committee on religion was formed last January."

One issue raised by committee officials is whether official recognition of Ise might not clash with the postwar constitution whose article 20 says "no religious organization shall receive any privileges from the state, nor exercise any political authority."

Official figures place the number of Shinto believers at 79 million, Buddhists at 44 million and Christians at 601,000.

This exceeds Japan's 90 million population, but officials explain that almost everyone who has visited a shrine is automatically considered a Shintoist, and that it is quite in order for a Japanese to be both a Shintoist and Buddhist at the same time.

HELPFUL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Philanthropical contributions increased 5.97 per cent and assets of gift-supported institutions increased more than $2 billion in 1958, according to the American Association of Fund Raising Counsel Inc. The Association also noted that the rise in contributions exceeded the gain in personal income for the first time in recent years.

PLAY ABOUT MISS KELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Miracle Worker," a drama about the childhood of Helen Keller, is slated to open on Broadway Oct. 19.

Anne Bancroft, who made sensational debut in "Two for the Seesaw," enacts Annie Sullivan, the blind child's tutor. Patricia Neal is cast as Miss Keller's mother.

Express Concern Over Argentine Church Ruling

The Monroe congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses learned this week that Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina have been denied their rights of free assembly and worship in that country. A vote of protest was taken and plans discussed to petition the Argentine Republic to correct the restrictions laid on the Christian group's activities.

Henry C. Trull, the local congregation's presiding minister, said that in spite of many liberal advancements made by the present Argentine government which ousted the dictorial Peron regime, a few religious groups that were declared illegal by Peron have yet to be recognized by Argentina's constitutional president, Arturo Frondizi.

According to Mr. Trull, two different applications for recognition were denied by the "Ministry of Worship," a department of the government formed by Peron. Furthermore, two futile appeals have been made to the present government to rescind the order denying Jehovah's Witnesses the right to register.

Mr. Trull said the more than 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina began circulation of a petition addressed to the president of the Argentine Republic requesting recognition under the new, liberal provision of his government.

82nd Airborne Division Against Summit Meeting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The 82nd Airborne Division Assn. went on record at its convention here opposing a summit meeting for any other meetings of high U.S. governments with the Communists.

A resolution passed Friday by the 13th annual convention urged also that this country "declare itself opposed to any form of appeasement," and urged "that we defend Berlin, Quemoy or any free nation from Communist aggression."

The association, composed of veterans and active members of the 82nd Airborne, passed another resolution calling for higher pay for parachutists, declaring that "present incentive pay for enlisted men is not an inducement for these troopers to remain on indefinite parachute status."

PALACE NOT SAFE

OSLO, Norway (UPI)—Communist Russia has decided that a king's palace is not a fit place for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to live. Foreign ministry sources said Russian security officials have turned thumbs down on King Olav's offer to let Khrushchev use his summer palace when the Premier visits here next month.

Arabs Stage Hot Campaign For Election

CAIRO (AP)—Candidates promising everything from more streetcar stops to the right to choose a husband are waging a hot campaign in the United Arab Republic's first nationwide elections Wednesday.

In both the Syrian and the Egyptian regions more than 120,000 candidates are entered in the race for 39,364 seats on local councils of the U.A.R. National Union, the only political group allowed to function. There is no question of voting for or against President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime.

But the election is producing some lively races. The candidates represent almost all levels of society.

When elected to the local councils they will choose provincial councils which in turn will elect a general Congress of the National Union from which Nasser will pick a provisional Parliament.

The candidates are battling over local issues and questions which directly affect the everyday lives of the constituents. The usual big issue of Arab politics—Palestine, Algeria, Aden—are scarcely mentioned.

One woman candidate is promising legislation permitting women to choose their own husbands instead of having to accept the choice of their families.

Another has a plan for beds for peasants.

One platform calls for a new cemetery, while another demands more streetcar stops in workers' districts.

More than 200 women are in the race although this is only the second time Egyptian women have been allowed to run for office.

One candidate carves his name on watermelons being sold on the street. Another prints his name on matchboxes distributed free. Others employ singers.

Both the common touch and snob appeal are used. In the poorer districts politicians make much of their humble origins. In one fashionable residential section a candidate has put up his photo with the single caption "graduate of Cambridge University."

The huge number of candidates creates a problem. In one district the voters must choose 38 out of 600 candidates.

Candidates Fire Blasts At Rally

VILLE PLATTE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl Long hogged the spotlight at a political rally Saturday, but other candidates for the governor's office had something to say.

Insurance agency operator Gale Berry of Lake Charles got the ball rolling. He was the first speaker on the program that included Long, State Comptroller William Dodd, state Sen. W. M. Rainach, New Orleans Mayor de Lesseps Morrison and state Rep. J. Marshall Brown.

Berry took a verbal blast at Long—although he did not mention the governor by name—with the admonition that the state could not expand "as long as we continued to elect this type of idiot to direct our state."

One of the candidates in the governor's race, he said without naming him, "is even being financed and sponsored by a group of rich Texas oil people. We have agreed the state is in bad shape but we don't need help from a group of Texas racketeers."

Berry blasted Morrison as a "conceited ex-general who struts around like a proud, bald-headed peacock." And former Gov. Jimmie Davis came in for criticism with Berry contending the decisions made by Davis during his 1942-46 term came when labor leader James Hoffa "pressed the control button."

Dodd spoke before Long came to the platform and praised Long as a great governor who wrecked his health serving the people of Louisiana.

"The worst thing you can do to him is to put the burden of state government on his shoulders again," he said. "The people can help him a lot by letting him retire."

"A lot of old people and little children would not be as well off if it weren't for Earl Long," Dodd said, and he referred to the old age pension program and hot school lunches.

Brown spoke only briefly and proposed establishment of a central purchasing agency as a money-saving device.

"Don't come to the state capital with any deals when I'm elected governor," Brown said. "We've had too many deals in Louisiana already."

Rainach followed Long to the microphone. He drew praise from Long as "an honorable man," but the governor said, "We're going to reduce him to a good, ordinary, kind and intelligent citizen."

Rainach laughed and shot back at the governor:

"We are going to see who reduces who to what."

Rainach said he did not get into the governor's race to liquidate public schools. Instead, he said; he would fight for the rights of the states against Washington and the Supreme Court.

He would not allow Washington or the court, he said, to run the government in Louisiana.

"To win in the next four years," Rainach said, "we must have the executive power standby if the federal government cannot keep peace between the races. We can pass laws but the governor must enforce them. Who's going to interpose the power of Louisiana when the federal government throws its power against us?"

With the power of the governor's office, he said, "the state can be taken off the defensive and put into an offensive position."

Newlyweds Injured In Wreck Here

Tragedy lurked here Friday for a newlywed couple rushing away from marriage ceremonies.

Their car careened out of control, smashed into a roadside ditch, rolled over and caught fire, pinning the young bride beneath and rendering the husband helpless at the intersection of Standifer and Buck Jones Road South of Monroe.

Motorists passing by the scene rescued the two and quenched the auto fire, and the newlyweds ended up in the hospital with serious injuries, not later than ten minutes after their marriage.

RECUPERATING

Both were recuperating in good condition, hospital authorities said yesterday.

Hospital officals placed the couple in opposite ends of the hall.

"We're certainly off to a bad start," the bride sighed yesterday. "But maybe we'll have a happy ending, like the old saying."

And the husband's comments? He's going to buy a new vehicle —a horse and buggy. "I couldn't stand another deal like this," he said.

Spectators estimated the wrecked automobile at a complete loss.

Motorists helping at the accident scene were praised for their quick work in rescuing the injured couple. Reports indicated they threw dirt on the flames in the burning auto before the fire reached the gas tank, then pushed it to one side and pulled the injured bride free.

There are 4.114 telephone companies in the U.S., but one of them — American Telephone and Telegraph — accounts for nearly 55 million of the nation's nearly 65 million telephones.

Man, 33, Shot Fatally During Family Dispute

HOUSTON, Miss. (AP)—A 33-year-old Houston man was shot to death during a family argument Friday over the return of his estranged wife and his father-in-law was jailed on a charge of manslaughter.

Chickasaw County Sheriff Jim Alexander said Saturday preliminary hearing for J. J. Lard, a service station operator, was scheduled for Monday.

The sheriff identified the dead man as Grady Griffin, a native of Houston who had been working in Helena, Ark., about a year.

Preliminary investigation told this story:

Mrs. Griffin had left her husband about two weeks ago and returned to her father's home. Friday, Griffin drove to the Lard home to talk his wife into returning to him.

An argument ensued, growing more heated. Finally, Lard asked Griffin to leave and escorted him to his car. As they walked down the driveway, Griffin and Lard argued.

When the two men reached the car, Griffin said he had a gun and reached under the car seat. Lard pulled his own pistol and shot Griffin five times as he straightened up.

Police Stumped In Search For Missing Girl, 5

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Blonde Charlene Zahm, 5, has been missing for five days. Officers said Saturday they have absolutely no idea what happened to the Boise girl.

"We've gone over this thing a thousand times," said Acting Police Chief Gus Urresti. "Each time we end up right where we started—with nothing."

Up to 50 Boy Scouts and other volunteers have aided law enforcement authorities in a search of areas where they think the child might have strayed. They've checked sheds, outbuildings, garages.

They've hunted, foot-by-foot, in the foothill and mountain areas and in the brushy sections which border Boise River through this city of 50,000.

The father, Bernard Zahm, 38, a sergeant and small arms repairman for the Idaho National Guard, said he fears the child was picked up by someone.

Police gave Zahm, his 34-year-old wife, and three other Zahm children—all older than the missing girl—lie detector testes because, "everybody is a suspect no matter who they are."

Urresti said the tests showed "the whole family is in the clear."

The child disappeared Tuesday morning, in the 20-minute lapse between the time Mrs. Zahm left the house to take her husband to work and the time she returned.

The three older children said they heard Charlene walk downstairs but thought she had merely gone out to play. When she was not found police were notified.

PRAVDA ADVISES JAPAN

MOSCOW (UPI) —Pravda advised Japan Friday not to "risk a bad end" by renewing its defense ties with the United States. The Communist party newspaper charged that Japanese prime minister Nobusuke Kishi was "heatedly advocating further arming of the country" in a campaign to block to switch to a neutral policy.

MRS. JAMES PREWETT GUERRIERO

A garden wedding was held on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock at "Dalkeith, the plantation home of the bride, Miss Flora Margaret Webb, who was united in marriage with Dr. James Prewett Guerriero of Monroe and Vicksburg. Their parents are Mrs. George Washington Webb and the late Mr. Webb of Tallulah and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Michael Guerriero of Monroe.

The ceremony took place before an improvised white altar centered with a fan shaped bouquet of white stock and pompon chrysanthemums flanked by brass candelabra holding gleaming white candles. Officiating at the impressive double ring marriage service was the Right Reverand Charles Greco assisted by the Reverend W. M. Hopp.

An aisle bordered by hurricane lamps on pedestals led from the front steps to the altar in the side yard. Each pedestal entwined with sprays of ivy, was tied with a bow of white ribbon and tulle and the lamps were connected with festoons of white ribbon. Garden shrumb, day lilies and daisies and other blooms formed a beautiful background for the marriage scene.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. J. C. Sherwin rendered appropriate organ music including "O Perfect Love" and "Panis Angelicus" and during the exchange of vows, "Ave Maria" by Schubert and Gounod. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Immediately prior to the ceremony mothers of the bride and groom were escorted to their seats by the ushers. Mrs. Webb chose a cotillios blue Paris lace over taffeta dress, made on simple lines with the V shaped neckline edged in tiny pleated chiffon worn with a jewelled pin. Over the bodice was worn a fitted lace jacket with bracelet sleeves. Her headdress was of matching blue veiling entwined with an artificial rose. Pinned to her shoulder was a purple orchid.

To the strains of the wedding march the brides' attendants advanced down the aisle. They were Miss Dianne and Miss Peggy Webb, nieces of the bride, Mrs. Warren White of Mer Rouge, Mrs. William J. Emrich of Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Carl M. Bartling of Jackson, Miss., Miss Mary Jane Jackson of Vicksburg and matron of honor, Mrs. George M. Webb, sister-in-law of the bride. They wore identical intermission length dresses of starched organdy embroidered in blue flowers in intricate design, made with scoop necklines, short cap sleeves and draped cummerbunds of silk in ming blue. Their crowns of hairbraid, sprinkled with jewels were worn with short ciruclar veils of ming blue and their shoes were the same shade. They carried magnolia blooms with English ivy and streamers. The flowergirl, little Patricia Webb, niece of the bride was dressed in white organdy trimmed with val lace, with a white cummerbund, a white lace hat and carried a white basket of rose petals.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dr. George M. Webb, was lovely in her original wedding gown fashioned of delicate Chantilly lace and gossamer tulle. The basque bodice had a scalloped portrait neckline, long sleeves ending in lily points over the hands and buttoned at the wrist. Tiny buttons also trimmed the back of the bodice. The lace skirt, made over a southern belle ruffled skirt, was in panel effect, lace panels alternating with tulle panels trimmed with lace medallions and sweeping to the back in a long lace panel that formed a regal train. She wore a lace mantilla matching her dress and carried a bridal bouquet of tube-roses and lilies of the valley.

Dr. Guerriero had as his best man, his father, and the groomsmen were Julius Cahn, John Daniel, Dr. Charles Wilds and James Ussery all of Monroe, Dr. Lucien Ferris and Dr. Tom B. Dominick of Vicksburg and Dr. James Bogel of Chicago, Ill.

A reception followed at the Tallulah Country Club which was decorated throughout with myriad white garden flowers, magnolias and Cathedral candles. Receiving in the lounge against a background of tiers of candles were the bride and groom, their parents and the feminine members of the wedding party.

At either end of the long hall was a serving table covered with an Italian cut work cloth and centered with a branched candelabram and punch bowl. Presiding at one table were Mrs. William Ferris and Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and at the other, Miss Dorothy Anne Woodyear and Mrs Harold Hagaman. Floating hostesses serving dainty sandwiches and confections were Mrs. James Garrett, Mrs. W. E. Regenold, Miss Alma Maxwell, Miss Cornelia Kell, Mrs. Edward Yerger and Mrs. R. L. Bailey. Mrs. King Trieschmann had charge of serving the handsome tiered wedding cake and Miss Judy Kell invited the guests to register in the bride's book.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High School and Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Louisiana State University where she received a Bachelor of Science degree. Her sorority is Delta Delta Delta. She served her internship in Dietetics at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kansas.

Dr. Guerriero is a graduate of St. Matthews High School in Monroe. He received his Bachelor of Science degree at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and his pre-medical training at Loyola University in New Orleans.

During World War II he served as a Lt. (j.g.) in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He then attended and received his Doctor of Medicine degree at the University of Lausanne in Lausanne, Switzerland. He did graduate work at the University of Edinburgh in Edinburgh, Scotland, Rotunda Hospital in Dublin, Ireland and Grenoble, France. He then interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans and served one year of residency at Surburban Hospital at Bethesda, Maryland and one year at Mercy Hospital-Street Memorial, Vicksburg, Miss. He is now associated with the Street Clinic in Vicksburg.

A large number of relatives and friends from north Louisiana, Mississippi and elsewhere were in attendance at the wedding.

Miss Chambless Gerald Kelly Pledge Vows

Miss Glenda Chambless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chambless and Gerald Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kelly of Newellton were married on Thursday evening June 25 at eight o'clock at the Willow Bayou Baptist church with the Rev. Jon F. Meek officiating at the double ring ceremony. Mass arrangements of palmettos, magnolia foliage and blooms, floor candelabra holding gleaming white candles, and a basket of white gladioli decorated the alter.

The nuptial music was rendered by Miss Vivian Cox and soloist Miss Jane Caldwell who sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Because". The tradition wedding marches were used.

The bridesmaids, Miss Leona Chambless, sister of the bride and Mrs. Maureen Parker, sister of the groom were attired in pink frocks with fitted bodices and full skirts. They carried bouquets of pink carnations. The matron of honor, Mrs. Ann McCarty wore blue lace over taffeta and carried blue carnations. Little Larry Cox served as ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin brocade fashioned with round neckline trimmed with seed pearls, long sleeves buttoned at the wrist, fitted bodice and full skirt ending in a train. Her pearl trimmed veil was attached to a cap and she carried a bouquet of carnations and gladioli centered with an orchid.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Chambless chose a blue cotton dress and the groom's mother, a beige linen suit. Their flowers were white carnations.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thornton which was adorned with summer flowers. The bride's table, centered with an arrangement of pink and white gladioli and greenery flanked by white candles was presided over by Mrs. Tressie Creed at the punch service and Mrs. J. F. Meek who served the wedding cake.

For traveling the bride wore a white embroidered polished cotton and white accessories complemented with an orchid corsage.

MISS CHARLOTTE GAYLE ROCKETT

Plaquemine Wedding Of Interest Here

Rev. and Mrs. Dewey H. Rockett of Plaquemine announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Gayle, to Lt. Jack Donald Christian, son of Mrs. Ocie Christian of Houston, Texas. The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, August 15 at 4:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Plaquemine.

The bride-elect was graduated from Plaquemine High School where she was a member of The Cadmian Society and The Little Theater. She has also attended graduate school of L.S.U. She is now employed by the Calcasieu Parish School Board as a teacher of LaGrange Senior High School in Lake Charles.

The groom-elect was graduated from Lewis and Clark High School in Spokane, Washington and from the University of Kentucky where he was a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is presently with the United States Air Force at Chennault Air Force Base in Lake Charles.

Maternal grandparents of the bride are the late Mr. and Mrs. Jasper N. Elkins of Lillie and the late Mr. and Mrs. Floud H. Rockett of West Monroe.

New Ironing Table Shape Eases Work

The first fundamentally new shape of ironing tables in history has been introduced by an industries co. of Columbus Ind., to ease the housewife's work load.

Features of the new board are its arc shape, plastic top, combination pad and cover that will not slip when in use, and four wheels so the housewife never has to lift or carry it.

The working side of the table is straight from one end to the other. The opposite side curves out gently from the tip and then sweeps sharply back at the other end. Purpose of the arc is to allow the housewife to use a natural swinging motion of her arm when she irons instead of having to keep her elbow in an uncomfortable position up and over the iron to guide it in a straight line as is necessary on present boards.

WIDER IRONING SURFACE

This shape also provides a wider ironing surface at the center of the board where it is needed for such items as tablecloths, shirts, skirts, and linens.

The top is a foam-rubber-like plastic called polyurethene which forms a solid ironing surface but is resilient enough to allow the housewife to iron over buttons and zippers without causing damage. This is the first time a material other than wood or metal has been used for an ironing table top.

The combination pad and cover is of laminated construction with the pad made of polyurethene. When it and the table top come in contact, thousands of little 'fingers, on their surfaces 'grab, each other and prevent the pad from slipping. There is a layer of fiber glass between the pad and the silicone cover which acts as an insulator and allows the housewife to use the iron at a lower temperature than otherwise would be possible.

TWO SETS OF WHEELS

There are two sets of wheels on the rear foot of the board. One set, at the ends of the foot, allow the housewife to move the board back and forth lengthwise while ironing instead of having to shift her own position when using different parts of the board. The other set, inset into the bottom of the foot are used to roll the board to and from its storage space when folded and on end.

The board is adjustable to any height from 24 to 36 inches above the floor.

"Principal aim of the new board is to reduce the housewife's work load, officials assert. Every new feature incorporated, from the shape to the wheels, helps us achieve that goal.

Evening Ceremony Unites Miss Hale, Kent E. Ewing

White tapers in myriad arrangements lighted the altar of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe Saturday afternoon, June 27, for the wedding of Miss Barbara Faye Hale and Kent Edward Ewing. Bouquets of white gladioli stood out from a background of greenery which was partly sprayed with blue and silver.

This formed a lovely setting for the exchange of vows. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurmon Hale and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ewing, all of West Monroe.

Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated at the ceremony, which took place at 7:30 o'clock. Music was provided by Bob Oldenburg at the organ and he accompanied Mrs. Bob Oldenburg, soloist, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Through The Years".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sequin trimmed chantilly lace over taffeta. Her tulle veil was held in place by a pearl studded tiara. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white feather chrysanthemums and stephanotis centered with a corsage of white orchids.

Her attendants were Mrs. Billie Gaston, matron of honor, who wore a pale blue embroidered silk organza over pale blue taffeta, she wore a matching taffeta bow in her hair and matching slippers; bridesmaids, Miss Millie Hislop, Miss Polly Riser, Miss Carolyn Woodward and junior bridesmaids, Shelia Ann Hale, were all dressed identically to the matron of honor. They each carried unusual bouquets, a ring shape of white daisies accented with silver and blue leather leaves. Lorrie Roberts, the flower girl dressed all in white, identical to the bridesmaids.

RECEPTION

The Highland Park Country Club was the setting for the reception where the wedding guests assembled to greet the newly-married couple.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over blue satin. The central decor was of white killian daisies, blue tinted chrysanthemums with blue coral sprays.

Serving were Mrs. Ed Hislop, Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Mrs. Thomas Woodward, Mrs. Fred Riser and Mrs. T. C. Roberts. Tea girls were Misses Pamela Roberts, Frances Roberts, Gail Kemp and Kathy Kemp.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Northeast State College. The groom was graduated from West Monroe High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodward of Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Roberts and family of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fordham of Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kemp and family of Monteray.

Some Crust

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rolled oats crust is especially good with chiffon pie filling. Pour 1 cup rolled oats into a shallow pan and toast in 375 degree oven for 5 to 8 minutes. Mix oats well in ½ cup of brown sugar, 1-3 cup of melted butter and ½ cup of flaked or shredded coconut. Pack firmly into bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie tin. Chill until firm. Add filling and chill until it sets.

Inside-Outside Party For Mr, Mrs. L. Slade Brown Mr, Mrs. Joe M. Powell

Mr. and Mrs. Benton M. Wakefield Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Corbin J. Turpin and Dr. and Mrs. Fred C. Amman were hosts in the Island Drive home of the Ammans on Saturday evening complimenting Mr. and Mrs. L. Slade Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Powell.

It was an inside-outside party. The patio was lighted with numerous colorful Japanese lanterns where many guests were always gathered to enjoy the hot barbecue sandwiches off the pit. A trio played for dancing in the den. Pink carnations and phlox were used in the arrangements in the living room and a silver epergne held an arrangement of the same on the dining room table.

More than 100 guests were present.

Girl Scout News

Tomorrow is the big day, the opening of Pine Wood day camp. Four buses, driven by our friends of many years, will start their rounds, stopping at Mitchell and Highland Schools at 7:50, at Plum Street, and Lakeshore at 8:00 o'clock, at Sherrouse and Georgia Tucker at 8:10. Buses will travel north on Fifth and out Forsythe, picking up campers along the route. From Sherrouse School a bus will come westward on DeSiard, turn at College Avenue and go to Webster Street, thence out Sterlington Road.

Campers will be glad to learn that the cable on the flagpole now works, thanks to Jerry Huckabee, who climbed the tall pole and put the cable in place, quite a contribution to camp life, we'd say. Another contribution is a child's wagon, made possible by gifts from Troops 24 and 51. Mrs. Edmund Middleton and Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, leaders. Troop 48, Mrs. M. A. Denoux, leader, has contributed a table which they had used in their meeting room and which will be useful in camp and at the office.

Training for staff and program aides has been held during the past two weeks, with cookouts, crafts, kapers and camp procedure, use of knife and axe, lashing. Unit sites, a total of ten, have been chosen, but the fun of setting them up is part of camp life for all the girls and the part that many of them consider the most fun.

While campers and staff plan their program according to the interests of the girls, we hear that the fly - ups are looking forward to the activities of the tree tower included. Units of older Intermediates have expressed an interest in other nature badges and it has been agreed that outdoor safety will be an appropriate badge for all the intermediates.

Girls who have not been to camp before, except perhaps for a day, have heard about the fun in store and are looking forward to riding the bus, singing as they go, to setting up a unit and choosing a name for it, going on a hike to the river, where the nicest echo answers the girls and they can hunt for shells in the sand

The things that city girls don't get to do in town are in store for the girls who were lucky enough to be included in camp plans. It all begins tomorrow. You'll be hearing more.

Plan Your Wardrobe And Travel Light

Paln Your Wardrobe and travel light is the advice of veteran globetrotter Licia Albanese, Metropolitian Opera soprano. Whether she is planning a long trip or an overnight journey she combines everything.

"I pick only one or two colors and use them to compliment each other," said the singer. "Thus the shoes and accessories match several costumes."

"It will hold all I need," she continued. "Suppose I decide to wear a brown suit. Then I take two pairs of shoes — brown suede and a pair of brown silk for dress.

They match my brown and beige silk print for evening. I add my lingerie, my make-up and some jewelry. I take a small hat and carry a top coat, if necessary."

For a longer trip, she'll add a good sized pullman case — preferably one made of magnesium or some light weight metal — containing as many other clothes as she feels she will need. When, however, Miss Abanese travels to Europe by ship, her luggage expands considerably.

"On board ship I change every evening," she said. "But on arrival I leave many of my dresses at the first hotel to be picked up after my tour."

She conserves space and avoids wrinkles by lavish use of tissue paper and transparent plastic wrap — either to be used small hats. She also puts the wrap around shoes, gloves, flowers, jewelry and other small articles to keep them fresh. Lingerie is rolled and spaced in hollow spots around the sides of the luggage.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES F. GRISWOLD of Tallulah announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Frances Griswold, to Kent Albritton Russell, son of Mrs. Frank Valentine Russell and the late Mr. Russell of New Orleans. Miss Griswold was graduated from the Tallulah High School and is presently a senior at Louisiana State University. Mr. Russell was graduated from New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell and attended Washington and Lee University and Tulane University. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. The wedding will take place in August in Trinity Episcopal Church in Tallulah.

5 BILLION GREETING CARDS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last year's sales of greeting cards with sentiments ranging from anniversary good wishes to hangover condolences totaled nearly 5 billion. The retail value of this mountain of sentiment was approximately $550 million.

Mrs. Hill Hosts The Twilight Garden Club

The June meeting of the Twilight Garden Club, held in the home of Mrs. Carl Hill, 1400 So. 9th St., proved to be most interesting. Mrs. Margie Porter led in the opening prayer. The roll was answered with the name and color of a rose. Guest speaker for the meeting was Mrs. E. M. Baker, who gave an interesting talk on flower arrangements. Afterwoods a period of actual flower arranging with members participating was presented by Mrs. Baker. Mrs. John Tolar and Mrs. M. L. Johnson of College Heights Garden Club were talented guests. After the business meeting was held, hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Hill and Mrs. A. T. Lowry. Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Dorothy Dye, Mrs. Glen Hammett, Mrs. H. L. Adams, Mrs. G. C. Porter, Mrs. E. C. Statham, Mrs. C. H. Dean, Mrs. Dan Sawyer, Mrs. M. L. Harper, Mrs. D. C. Hunter, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Tolar, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. R. E. Alexander, Mrs. H. O. Evans, and Mrs. J. H. Spears. The gift for the evening was won by Mrs. Dorothy Dye. The next meeting will be held in the nome of Mrs. Porter at 314 Thomas Ave.

by Denise

Summer is a time for comings and goings. All the chit-chat we have stirred up this week has to do with travelers to and from and visitors in town.

MRS. MILLARD BUSHONG, (the former Dean McKoin) of Berryville, Virginia, left Thursday for home after a two weeks visit with her parents, the B. M. M'KOINS. With Dean were her three daughters, BETTY, ANN, and LEE. The Bushongs are leaving next month for a year abroad. They will sail from New York on the S. S. United States for Plymouth, England, where Dr. Bushong will teach. He was one of one hundred teachers selected from throughout the country to serve abroad under the Fulbright international exchange teachers plan. The Bushongs plan to tour the continent as well as the United Kingdom during the year they will be gone.

Former Monroyans DR. and MRS. H. L. JOHNS and their daughter PERSIS BARBER of Pennsylvania are house-guests of the ROY JOHNS for the Fourth of July week end.

Arriving today for a week's visit with the PHILIP BERNHARDTS are their daughter, Joy (MRS. J. L. BATES, JR.), and her children, BEVERLY, RICKY, and BOBBY, from New Orleans. The grandchildren will be here all week, while Joy will go to Shreveport for a few days.

MARGARET MOORE spent several days in Tallulah the first of the week. She was the guest of SHERROD HAGAMON, daughter of ALICE and DINK HAGAMON, who formerly lived in Monroe.

Guest of LIL and FRED MARX for the past two weeks has been her sister, MURIEL LOCKHART of New Orleans. Several informal parties were given in Muriel's honor during her stay. MARIE COOKSTON was hostess at a small coffee on Tuesday. Flowers were orange day lilies in a pitcher of copper - washed pewter. Marie served the fifteen guests from the coffee table in the living room . . . Others who entertained Muriel were the ALBERT MARX'S, who were hosts at dinner on Wednesday night; CAROL MARX and WILMA MARX, luncheon on Thursday; and SADIE ANSELL and JEAN SUGAR, lunch on Friday.

CAROLYN and BENNIE GWIN and KATHERINE BOWLES flew to Biloxi early this week. They joined BILLY BOWLES, who was there on business, and spent several days at the beach.

Here for the Fourth of July week end are RHODA and DAVID NORMANN of New Orleans and their children, LOUISE, MIKE, and SUSAN. They are en route home from Waynesville, North Carolina, and stopped off for a visit with Rhoda's mother, LOUISE LEIGH.

The DEUTHRILL WARDS and their son DONNIE of Willard, Ohio, are leaving this week end after a visit with her sisters, MRS. LULA M. GRIMSLEY and MRS. BILLY WORSHAM.

Young Miss PAMELA TRUE CANNON daughter of the JACK CANNONS had her first plane ride at the age of six years this week. Mrs. Cannon and MRS. FRANK PETTIT drove Pamela to Shreveport, from where she flew to Kansas City to visit relatives. She is now with her Grandmother Cannon in Milen, Missouri.

The JACK TERZIAS and their three daughters are leaving today for Florida. They will spend a week at Eleanor Village.

RAY and TOMMY SMITH, elder sons of the RABURN SMITHS, are in Nassau. They left last week with their grandmother, MRS. DOYLE SMITH of Farmerville, and went to Miami Beach where they stayed until Friday. They will be back in another week.

Five couples are leaving separately tomorrow and Tuesday, headed for a week's fishing and houseparty at Port Aransas, Texas. Making the trip will be the JIM FRAZIERS, the D. V. LOFLINS, the BILL RILEYS, the FRED COTTONS, and the LAVELLE SALLEYS.

The TODD ROBINS of Birmingham, Alabama, are guests of the JIM ADCOCKS for the week end. The Adcocks honored their guests with a boat ride on Friday night. Yesterday the BILLY BOWLES were hosts at a Fourth-of-July - outdoor - barbecue type party at their camp on Lake Providence.

Another group headed for a vacation, this time to the mountains, are the JOHN HUNTS, the HAROLD WOODS, JR., the STAN BAGWELLS, and the ED SEYMOURS, JR. They are leaving Tuesday for a week at the Broadmoor in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

One of the loveliest parties of the season was that held last Saturday night at the FRED AMMAN home. Co-hosts with the Ammans were the CORBIN TURPINS and the BENTON WAKEFIELDS, and guests of honor were the SLADE BROWNS and the JOE POWELLS. Pink carnations were used with white phlox on the mantel and in the silver epergne which centered the dining table. Platters of turkey, ham and cheese were set out, and a chafing dish holding a hot clam dip. Raw vegetables were served with a curried sauce for dunking.

Japanese lanterns and luau torches lit the garden. Tiny hot barbecued steak sandwiches were served on the patio . . . A trio played for dancing in the den. We spied JANE BARHAM, down from Bastrop, looking very stylish in a beige linen sheath with lace trim . . . MARY FRANCES PERRY wore white organdy, and VIRGINIA CROW, blue the color of her eyes . . . LOUISE MORGAN'S black eyelet was lined with a rosy beige silk . . . white organdy sleeves accented BETTY MOORE'S black sheath.

The Highland Park country club was the scene of the Revelers' summer dance last Saturday night. Magnolia foliage and chrysanthemums were used in large standing arrangements at the door and beside the bandstand. As the dancers entered the room, each was given a program, already filled with the names of partners. A portion of the evening was given over to the program dance. Hosts were the BILL DURRETTS, the LAVELLE SALLEYS, and the JIMMY MOORES.

On Wednesday night the FRED FUDICKARS, JR., and the BILL RILEYS were hosts at a dinner party. Guest of honor was DR. JAMES WHITE of Worthington, Iowa, whose marriage to POLLY RILEY is scheduled later this summer. Roast prime ribs with baked potatoes and sour cream and a green bean casserole were served to sixteen close friends.

The C. E. M'KENZIES, JR. are parents of a fourth child and second son, BERNARD FORD, born June 29. The new arrival is the twelfth grandchild for CARRIE M'KENZIE.

Young Miss AMYE JACKSON, another new arrival, was born on Monday, June 29, to JACK TOM JACKSONS. She is the fourth child and second daughter, and the tenth grandchild for MILDRED JACKSON.

When she entertained her bridge club and some extra guests on Monday, ANN HOLMES prepared a most interesting meal. 'Twas centered around a cold soup, gazpacho, served with chopped green peppers and cucumber and croutons. The congealed salad contained hearts of artichoke, and fresh raspberries with ice cream rounded out the menu.

I have fallen in love with American names,
The sharp names that never get fat,
The snakeskin-titles of mining claims,
The plumed war-bonnet of Medicine Hat,
Tucson and Deadwood and Lost Mule Flat.
Seine and Piave are silver spoons,
But the spoonbowl - metal is thin and worn,
There are English counties like hunting tunes
Played on the keys of a postboys' horn,
But I will remember where I was born.
I will remember Carquinez Straits,
Little French Lick and Lundy's Lane,
The Yankee ships and the Yankee dates
And the bullet-towns of Calamity Jane.
I will remember Skunktown Plain
I shall not rest quiet in Montparnasse.
I shall not lie easy at Winchelsea.
You may bury my body in Sussex grass,
You may bury my tongue at Champmedy.
I shall not be there. I shall rise and pass.
Bury my heart at Wounded Knee.

Open House Is Given For N.O. Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ryan Sartor and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. (Jack) Easterling entertained on Friday evening, June 27, with a cocktail party honoring the family and out of town guests of Mr. and Mrs. George M Snellings III.

This was held in the Easterling home on Stubbs Avenue. Summer flowers were used in numerous arrangements throughout the reception suite.

The out of town guests came up for the christening of Mr. and Mrs. Snellings' baby son, Wilcox, on Saturday evening.

Thirty guests were present. Among those were the Godmother, Miss Alta Bechtel of New Orleans, the Godfather, Louis de la Vergne of New Orleans and Mrs. Snellings' grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Benners of New Orleans.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE TODAY by Mr. and Mrs. Jessie L. Griffis of Bastrop of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Floy, to Mack H. Powell. He is the son of Claude Powell of Alexandria and Mrs. Harry Parker of Marion. An early August wedding is planned.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE W. RUNDELL of Oak Grove announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Florence, to James Ronald Posey. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leo Posey of Baton Rouge. The wedding will take place at four o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, August 19th. The Reverend H. Newton Griffith, rector of Saint Stevens Episcopal Church of Innis, and Reverend Paul Voney, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Lake Providence, will officiate at the ceremony to be held at Grace Church in Lake Providence.

NAME CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) —To end confusion Paddy Chayefsky has changed the name of his new drama from "The Dybbuk from Woodhaven" to "The Tenth Man." The show arrives on Broadway next fall.

A spokesman for the production explained that "dybbuk," a Hebrew word for wandering spirit, mystified some people, and that others didn' know where Woodhaven is (it's part of the Borough of Queens in the City of New York).

BROADWAY GAINS

NEW YORK (AP) —Attendance at Broadway theaters during the 1958-59 season increased by nearly a million spectators over the previous year, according to Playbill.

The total for the year was 11,702,170, compared to 10,838,930 during 1957-58.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse were honor guests on Saturday evening, June 27, for a dinner party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellogg.

Guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg on Park Avenue for cocktails first, then they motored to Bayou DeSiard Country Club where the private dining room was reserved for the dinner party.

A mixed arrangement of lovely summer flowers was used for the centerpiece. Guests with the honoree and the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Oakley, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods, Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Mrs. Marion Gray and Mrs. Edward J. Seymour.

Changes Seen Of Cleaning Methods Today

Changes in architecture bring about changes in cleaning methods and timing. Today's extensive use of stainproof, easy-to-clean glass window walls and ceramic tile floors enables the housewife to slip through her daily chores more quickly. A daily vacuuming of carpeting and quick wipe of ceramic tile surfaces is now on the daily routine plus frequent wall washing. But the cleaning is much faster and the results look better than when she spent long hours picking up, dusting and sweeping her old home.

FAMOUS FABRIC MONROE SHOP BASTROP

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS E. ROBINSON of West Monroe announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Albert Paul Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Fleming also of West Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized at the First Methodist Church of West Monroe on Friday, August 14 at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The bride-elect is a graduate of Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky. Mr. Fleming attended Louisiana State University and Northeast Louisiana State College.

The Appetite Control Center Is In Brain

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) —Why is it that some lucky persons can go through life "eating like a horse" — and never get fat?

The answer to that question, when it comes, can do much to crack the mystery surrounding the fat of the land.

Science reasons that the persons who stay thin, though enormous of appetite, must have some kind of marvelous internal regulator in their brains. It automatically balances food intake and energy output.

In "fats" and "thins," the eating urge is in response to some kind of message flashing through the brain's switchboard.

Everybody gets the same message. But, it is interpreted differently. And some get it more frequently than others.

Research with laboratory mice has demonstrated that a tiny cluster of cells in the so-called "old brain" — hypothalamus — controls the urge to eat, maintaining a balance between intake of energy producing units, calories, and output, activity that burns calories.

When a certain part of the hypothalamus of one mouse was injured, the animal ate incessantly and grew enormously fat.

A different part of the "old brain" was injured in another mouse. The animal refused to eat — even when food was placed in its mouth.

During the experiments, it is believed the appetite-control center of the brain was manipulated. The center is called "the appestat" to emphasize its resemblance to a thermostat used to turn a furnace on and off.

But how does the appestat turn appetite on and off?

One theory holds that we eat for calories and then stop when enough energy has been taken in.

A thermostatic theory purposes that we eat to keep warm and feel satiated when food assimilation brings a rise in total body heat production.

The most widely accepted theory is the glucostatic theory of Dr. Jean Mayer and associates at Harvard University. It holds that appetite signals in the brain are turned on and off by fluctuating levels of sugar (glucose) in the blood.

Low blood sugar, according to this theory, brings hunger; high blood sugar, raised by food intake, brings satiation.

The nature of messages fed into the appestat may cause it to produce a wrong answer. Wrong messages are believed to be at the root of complusive eating.

Russian Women Pay Dearly In All Fields

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

If you were a working girl in the Soviet Union, you would pay more for a dress than for a month's rent.

The clothes you wear wouldn't pass muster at an American rummage sale, and your cosmetics would be primtiive, but expensive.

These are bits of incidental information gleaned from the Soviet Exhibition of Science, Technology and Culture at New York's Coliseum.

It seems everybody is curious about the Soviet, and so the six-week exhibition is likely to be a boxoffice success, with New Yorkers elbowing out-of-towners for a look at the Sputniks, the housing and the clothes proudly displayed by the Reds.

A live fashion show is a feature of the exhibition. Judging from samples displayed in advance, neither Paris nor New York need worry for some time about competition from either Soviet fashions or Soviet models.

There is an attempt at high fashion in some instances, such as a moss-green ribbed wool jersey two-piece dress and matching stole, with gold threads interwoven in the blouse. Other fashions tend to the strictly utilitarian, with heavy, stiff fabrics and bulky construction.

Feminine personnel at the various exhibits are somewhat defensive about both fashions and home furnishings. They point out that frivolous things may be expensive and hard to get in the Soviet Union but that the emphasis is on serious things such as science, culture and Sputnik — all pro- [illegible] in capital letters.

Besides, they say, look how much caviar costs in America.

The most friendly of the Soviet women at the exhibition are professional gals, hard-working and serious, who are proud of their achievements and anxious to compare notes with American career women.

DEAR ABBY

Gather Your Courage Then Hear Him Out

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is too silly to answer. When my door bell rings and I see it is a salesman I don't answer the door because I know how persuasive they can be. When he's gone my conscience bothers me and I wished I had answered the door. Then when I think of how fast they can talk you into buying something, I am glad I didn't. Then later on I think maybe I should have. This stays on my mind all day. How can I get rid of my guilty conscience?

HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: First, be honest with yourself. You are dealing with more than a "guilty conscience." You are upset with yourself because you haven't the nerve to face a salesman for fear he might talk you into buying something you can't afford or don't need. Grow up. Gather your courage and answer the door. Hear him out and then make an adult decision.

DEAR ABBY: All my life I've been bothered because I was too beautiful. At 16 people would stop me on the street and ask me "what show I was playing in." My girl friends were afraid to introduce me to their boyfriends. I quit one job after another because all my bosses made passes at me. Now that I am married it's no different. My husband's friends give me the eye and their wives don't want me around because they can't stand the competition. I wish I were as homely as a mud fence. What's the answer, Abby?

"TOO BEAUTIFUL"

DEAR TOO: Don't kid yourself. Nobody makes passes at a statue no matter how good looking it is. Perhaps you aren't consciously inviting these advances but any woman who has to beat off every man she meets ought to take a long critical look at herself.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband and four wonderful children. I have a beautiful home and everything a wife could ask for. My husband is almost perfect but he has one bad habit. Every other word he says is a curse word. No matter who is present. Children, adults, his parents or mine. It must be a habit, but, Abby, how do you break a man of a habit like that? I would give anything if I could do it. The children are beginning to pick it up.

MRS. A. E. B.

DEAR MRS. A. E. B.: The longest march in the world starts with one step. Warn him that you are going to call his attention to every "curse word" he says as soon as he says it. And then do just that. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: Will you please print this in the paper as soon as possible? My daughter is 20 pounds overweight and she has resolved to lose every pound of it within three weeks for a special occasion. She is eating nothing but 3 pieces of fruit a day, two eggs and a pint of skim milk. She won't believe me when I tell her she is ruining her health. She is 17 and my only child.

VERY WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Take your daughter to a doctor and let him examine her and recommend the proper diet. Radical and unsupervised dieting is more dangerous than most people realize.

DEAR ABBY: When I returned from a 3-week visit to take care of my daughter's new baby, I found a cheap earring between the cushions of my sofa. I questioned my husband. He admitted that one night he got restless and couldn't sleep and went uptown to a bar for a few drinks. He said he invited a gang of strangers home with him (including this woman who lost the earring.) But he swears nothing happened. I said I'd forgive him, but I can't. I keep wondering if he told me the whole truth. I won't be satisfied till I know. How can I be sure? MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Just keep harping on it and you'll drive him back to the bar in search of a nice sympathetic ear (to go with the earring.) Believe him, and forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young divorcee with a problem. When I go out with a young man should I tell him I am divorced the first time I go out with him or should I wait until I know him better? My mother says it's none of his business.

YOUNG DIVORCEE

DEAR YOUNG: Your mother is wrong. Wouldn't you want to know if a man had a divorce in his background? Give him the same break.

DEAR ABBY: We have two boys, 7 and 12. My husband is a fanatic about the boys getting hurt. The older boy has begged for a two-wheel bicycle for years so we finally got one last Christmas. His father won't let him ride it anywhere except in front of the house. He can't take it across any streets. His friends laugh at him. We live five blocks from school, but my husband drives the boys there in the morning and I pick them up. He is afraid they'll be hit by a car if they walk. I go along with his ideas to keep peace in the family. What else can I do?

MRS. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: In an effort to keep his sons "safe" physically, Dad is crippling them emotionally. Children need to be taught to care for themselves. Your husband should have a long talk with a professional counselor.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder why there are so many women who can't get along with their mothers-in-law? I have two sons in my house plus my own mother and we get along just wonderful. When my first husband died his mother was living with us. She was 73 and in a wheelchair from a stroke so I kept her with me. She's jolly and never complains. I was married again to a man who had a 77-year-old widowed mother with sugar diabetes and one leg gone. So there are two in wheelchairs. You never saw sweeter women. My own mother is 76 and partially blind and she's with me, too. I read them your column out loud every day, Abby, and when we hear other people's problems, we think we are real lucky. Love,

SALLY

DEAR SALLY: You are lucky, indeed, because you have a lot of love in your heart and know how to give it to others. Thank you for your beautiful letter and God bless you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LARDY": Who says "everybody loves a fat man?" Try a little girth control.

"Why don't my parents trust me?" For What Every Teenager Wants To Know, send 25 cents and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MR. AND MRS. BASKIN PARKS OF WAVERLY announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Virginia Parks, to William Ray Adcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adcock of Rayville. The wedding will be an event of August 9 at 3:00 p.m. in Waverly First Baptist Church. The Reverend Bobby Brown will officiate. Miss Martha Parks will serve as her sister's maid of honor. Charlene Post of Tallulah and Carole Lewis of Waverly will serve as bridesmaids. H. M. Dartlone will serve as best man and the ushers will be Arnold and Ronnie Adcock, brothers of the groom elect.

When, in the spring, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love his practical, prospective bride is apt to immediately turn her thoughts to picking out a trousseau. Among the most important items in it — because they are apt to outlast the towels and linens — are the basic ingredients she selects for setting her first table.

It is well to remember that such a starter service should be simple enough to blend prettily with more decorative accents which may be added in the future. For as La Grado Tackett, a well-known designer of dinnerware points out, a "set of dishes" is obsolete. In these days of limited storage spaces almost everything one adds to the home should serve a double purpose.

Some new dinnerware by Mr. Tackett is the kind that might get the table trousseau off to a good start. It is white ironstone redesigned for today. Sturdy enough to take the rigors of oven and stove, it is sleek enough to appear at a formal dinner. Shapes are simple enough so that the covered casserole for example, if deprived of its cover, could at another meal hold soups or cerals.

Mr. Tackett compares his designs to the basic black dress or classic gray flannel suit. They can, he points out, be accessorized to fit any sort of dining or serving occasion.

The dual purpose principle can apply to glassware selection, too, according to Glass Crafts of America, a trade association whose members make American handmade glass. Three of the basic shapes they recommend are a goblet for water, iced drinks or milk; a sherbet size for appetizer, dessert, or a very generous cocktail and a juice-sized glass which can also be used for fruit cocktails or wine.

In checking quality they suggest feeling edges for smoothness and regularity, looking for clarity and luster but, they warn, even the finest glassware is not entirely free from waves, specks and bubbles. Such defects are simply fewer in quality products.

Flatware is the third member of the table triumvirate. For the bride who would stear clear of sterling because the polishing problems bother her, the Sterling Silversmiths of America have a bit of advice: use it every day. Age and use, these experts claim, add to the lovely patina (that dulled satiny look silver gets after a while) and will make sterling more beautiful. Eliminate the old-fashioned "second set," they say, use your sterling all the time and you'll only have to polish now and then.

New Leather Colors Seen At Waldorf

Enough leather to put shoes on the entire population of a medium sized city was on view in New York's famed Waldorf-Astoria hotel recently for shoe manufacturers shopping for the leathers to put on your feet this spring and summer.

Occasion was the semi-annual Leather Show, which fills the entire ballroom floor of the Waldorf with leather in colors ranging from delicate floral printed leathers to traditional solid tones.

Tanners from all parts of the country display the beautiful new colors and textures developed during the preceding six months. Some of the fascinating new leathers you are going to find in the shops this spring includ:e

New aniline dyed leathers — which allow the beautiful natural grain to show through the transparent finishes — are seen in rich new colors.

Smooth leathers with a soft sheen, in a complete range of pastels and brights, particularly lovely in shoes for dressy occasions.

Punched and patterned leathers in colors to match or blend with anything you wear — antiqued blues, greens, reds, soft pastels and beiges.

Fine-grained textures on all types of skins.

Gold and silver leathers for evening shoes tanned to a new pliability — soft and supple so it molds to the foot like a glove.

Silky two-way napped suede leathers in a whole new range of color.

The classical leathers, which account for most shoes produced in the U. S., were also on view en masse: Gleaming, smooth calf, tough but supple cattlehide (called side leather in the trade), brushed leathers and soft kids. These are the basic leathers that go not only into shoes, but handbags, belts and other accessories.

PARTY SANDWICHES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rolled sandwiches have a party look. Combine one 3-ounce package of softened cream cheese with 1 2¼-ounce can of deviled ham and 1 tablespoon of chopped chives. Mix well and spread on 8 slices of whole wheat bread with the crusts removed. Cut a dill pickle into 8 sticks and roll each sandwich around a pickle stick in jelly roll style. Fasten with toothpicks if necessary.

ANN LANDERS
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I did not agree with your advice to the young girl who wanted to contact her father who was divorced from her mother. You told her NOT to write behind her mother's back. I think you made a bad mistake.

I've been divorced four years. Every month I've sent my ex-wife a check for alimony and support for the two children. It's been over three and a half years since I've seen the children. It's not because I don't WANT to see them, either. It's because my ex-wife is an impossible witch.

Once when I went to visit the children at home she had me arrested for disturbing the peace. Another time when I went to their school the same thing happened. At Christmas I sent the children lovely gifts and she threw them in the garbage can. The letters I write to them are returned to me unopened.

I wish to heaven my kids would write to me behind their mother's back because it's the only way I'll ever hear from them. You don't know EVERYTHING, Ann Landers. — LONESOME DAD

Dear Lonesome: True — I don't know everything — but I do know something. And I know for sure there's a large hole in your story.

Did the court give you visiting privileges? If not, there must have been a darned good reason, and you have no right to see the children.

If you WERE given visiting privileges, your wife cannot deny you the right given to you by law. If you are entitled to see them a lawyer can demand that the children be turned over to you at specific intervals.

Dear Ann: We plan to be married in July. Both my boy friend and I have been saving for three years. Our joint savings account is over $5,000. We don't owe any bills.

Two months ago my aunt passed away and left seven rooms of beat-up furniture. In her will she said the furniture belongs to me. I appreciate the thought but I don't want it.

My mother says it's "good enough for young people starting out." I hate heavy Victorian stuff and I have my heart set on contemporary modern.

My fiance is inclined to agree with my mother but he says the final decision is up to me. What shall I do?—ST. LOUIS LOU

Dear Lou: If you've been saving for three years, you've earned the right to have the kind of furniture you like.

If there are no other relatives who would like your aunt's furniture for sentimental reasons, accept it. Then sell it and buy contemporary furniture with the proceeds.

Dear Ann: A woman who has been married three times has been in hot pursuit. I've never been married, we're both in the middle 30's, and she's got me on a merry-go-round.

On the plus side: She's fascinating, wonderful company, a good cook, immaculate housekeeper, and tells me she wants nothing out of life but to be my wife.

On the minus side: Her three divorces have produced four children who live with her mother, but she never speaks of them and she goes for weeks without seeing them. She owes money all over town and has charged a few things on my account without permission. She's a bit of a liar and has a poor memory. She's hinted strongly to our friends that we've set a date, which is absolutely not true. How do I fight this?—DOC

Dear Doc: With your hat. Grab it — and run.

Dear Ann: Our only daughter married a spoiled, selfish mama's boy who won't work or accept any responsibility. She met him three weeks before they eloped. When she talked about marriage after the second date, we begged her to use her head. She refused to listen and accused us of trying to "lead her life."

Now she's pregnant and sick most of the time. We've had to pay their rent for three months and carry groceries over there. Her husband's divorced sister moved into their apartment with her baby boy and she smokes cigarettes all day and doesn't even take care of her own child.

Our daughter has to cook and clean up after all of them. The poor thing is miserable and keeps asking for advice. What shall I tell her? —Crushed Mom

She's asking for advice a little late. Suggest she see a marriage counselor or a clergyman and make every effort to keep the marriage together. This means educating her child-husband. In the meantime, keep her room intact. I suspect you're going to have company soon.

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 12 years old who is taking piano lessons and do not enjoy them in the least. My mother keeps saying "you'll thank me someday." I just hate for my father to spend all that money on lessons. He could sure put it to better use. I keep telling him but he says "Listen to your mother."

My older sister took piano lessons for five years and she can't even play one song. I can just see myself following in her footsteps. Why should I be forced to take lessons if I don't want to? I know for sure I'll never be a concert player no matter what. Please set me free.—Piano Slave

Dear Slave: Even though you'll never be a "concert player" piano lessons are STILL worthwhile. We must do many things in life we don't enjoy, but it's good discipline to do them anyway.

Time and energy expended at the piano is better spent THERE than other places teenagers find these days. Stick with the lessons. This may sound familiar, Chicken, but "You'll thank me someday."

Miss Larche Engaged To A. Moreton III

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flournoy Larche of Jackson, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bethany Rebecca, to Alfred Elliott Moreton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Elliott Moreton Jr. of Gulfport, Miss.

Miss Larche is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Curtis Wilcox of Jackson, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche of Monroe.

The bride - elect was a 1955 graduate of Central High School. She attended Millsaps college, where she appeared on the Dean's List and was a member of Beta Sigma Omicorn sorority. She was awarded membership in Chi Delta, women's creative writing honorary, Pi Delta Phi, national French language honorary, and the Majorette Club.

The bride - elect received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of Mississippi in English and French. She was a member of Claiborne, honorary historical society. During the past year Miss Larche has been engaged in graduate study as a University Fellow in the Department of English and will receive her master's degree in January of 1960.

Mr. Moreton is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Mullins of Pensacola, Fla., and Alfred Elliott Moreton of McCall Creek, and the late Mrs. Moreton.

A 1952 graduate of Vigor High school in Mobile, Mr. Moreton served with the United States Navy as quartermaster for four years. He attended Millsaps college, where he was a member of the debating team and appeared on the Dean's List.

He transferred to the University of Mississippi and received his bachelor of arts degree in political science. He was a member of Pi Sigma Alpha, honorary political science fraternity.

Mr. Moreton is at present attending the University of Mississippi Law school. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi.

The wedding will be solemnized Sept. 5 at Calloway Memorial Methodist church in Jackson.

Teenagers Do Not Use The Beatnik Slang

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adults who try to talk the teen-agers' lingo can relax. The teens are leaving slang to the beatniks.

That's the word from eight teen-aged girls visiting New York from across the United States.

"Slang is dying. Kids only talk that way in junior high school or movies," said Kathie Lee Mary, 16, of Oakland, Calif.

"The most we say is 'sharp.' We're trying to act more grown up and use bigger words," she added.

Slang is almost non-existent in Hawaii. "The nearest we come to it is Hawaiian, I guess," said Noelani Forsythe, 17, formerly of Honolulu, now of Chevy Chase, Md.

Anyone who wants to enrich his vocabulary still has a few slang expressions to draw from, however. For example:

"Grubby" — Everything bad.

"Potty" — Also bad.

"If I want your opinion, I'll rattle your cage."

"Swinger" — Anyone who is SOMEONE.

Six of the girls are winners in a fashion council competition sponsored by a national magazine. They are: Jill Jacobs, 15, of Chicago, top winner; Dianne Dicks of Indianapolis; Barbara Kid, 17, of El Paso, Tex.; Babs Schaefer, of Augusta, Ga.; Joan Lee Udelf, 17, of Cleveland; and Miss Mary.

Miss Forsythe and Sue Bartlett, 18, of Fairbanks, Alaska, the daughter of Sen. E. L. Bartlett, were chosen to represent the new states.

Despite the demise of slang, the teen-agers still cling to fads in clothing. Girls today wear white lipstick, white pleated skirts, trench coats in rain or shine, tennis shoes (dirty), or sneakers without socks. Hair is done in an "upside-down pony tail"—a pony-tail worn like a fan or pancake on top of the head.

MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Your Baby And Mine

It would be a very unusual child, indeed, who never had said, "No, I won't do it," to a parent. Beginning as early as the second year children go into the "no" stage and say this so often that it is almost without meaning. For 2-year-olds it may be just a word which they have heard often and so they repeat it.

But just as often the no has a real meaning. It indicates that the child is now old enough to recognize there are some things he doesn't like, doesn't want to do, or doesn't want to eat. The only way he has of telling you this is by saying no when you ask him.

Since this is all part of healthy, normal growth, it doesn't pay to become too agitated about it. It doesn't represent a child's emancipation from the parental rule; it just means that a child has the power, now, to make some decisions for himself and should be allowed to do so.

SHOULD KNOW THAT

If he is so young that a decision has to be made by the parent, or if it is a decision which she can't allow him to make for any number of reasons, then he should know that. "I'm sorry you can't go to Mary's today. Perhaps tomorrow." ""This isn't the place to wear your best dress, your jeans will be better."

As children get older and reach the foot-stamping, "I won't do it," stage, it is again expedient for a parent to take stock of her own behavior. It may be that a child is just trying the parent out to see how far he can go in opposing her.

But it happens quite often, and especially with docile children, that parents do develop into tyrants. They want to dictate every move of a child's day and feel if the child says no that their power is toppling and they can't allow it.

TOO MANY DEMANDS

The chances are that there may be too many demands and too many requests and orders. It is human nature to keep on asking more and more of anyone who doesn't protest too much.

But the child who is well aware that he is an individual and has some rights and privileges as such won't stand for this domination. He is the one who becomes contrary when the parent presses her advantages too far.

The fact that a child is rebellious and contrary should make the parent more aware of whether or not her demands are legitimate and should be respected, and whether there are other demands she had better turn over to the child for a personal decision. Yes, this negativistic, contrary behavior has its advantages for both parents and children — if parents read the signs rightly.

Mrs. Schley Is Reported In Seclusion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mrs. Cora Russell Schley, caught in the backwash of Gov. Earl Long's vengence, said Saturday her adopted 11-month-old baby "is the most important thing in the world to me."

Mrs. Schley, Long's public relations advisor since 1952, catapulted into prominence last week when she revealed federal agents probing Long's income had opened her bank safe deposit box. They wanted to determine how much of Long's campaign money she was holding and she later said it was $7.000.

"Bonnie is the most important thing in the world to me," she said in a copyrighted telephone interview with The New Orleans Times-Picayune. "I don't want anything to happen to her."

Best Room!

JUST ONE OF 7 Big Bests Chevrolet OFFERS you over any other car in its field!

Take a tip from the experts . . . in their own words . . . and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes
Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR†-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Best Engine
Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: ". . . surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride
MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy
No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In
Check in any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

MRS. JAMES WILLIAM PARKS

Houston Rites For Miss Baass James W. Parks

The wedding of Miss Janet Baass of Houston, Texas, to James William Parks of Bellaird, Texas, was solemnized in a double ring ceremony Sunday, June 21, at 3 o'clock in the evening at the St. Anne's Catholic church in Houston. Rev. L. J. Lacey officiated.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baass of Victoria, Texas. Mr. Parks is the son of Mrs. J. R. Emerson of Jonesville.

The decorations of the church consisted of white gladiola and stock.

Given in marriage by Ridge Radney of Houston, the bride was attired in a white silk organza princess dress with empire line with sweep train. The sabrina neckline was outlined in jewels and the bow in back fell into flowing panels appliqued with lace, the veil of French illusion falling to fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of white pahla enopsis orchids surrounded by stephanotis and green ivy.

Attending Miss Baass as maid of honor was Mrs. E. L. Spurlock of LaPorte, Texas. She was wearing a Carribean blue pure silk organza in the empire silhouette. Matching veiled bird hats accented at the crown by a soft bow completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of deep purple astors.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. M. M. Bauman of Falfurrias, Texas, and Mrs. Ruth Richardson of Houston, Texas. They were wearing frocks identical to that of the maid of honor.

The ring bearer was John Robert Slavinsky, cousin of the bride of Houston, Texas.

Best man was E. L. Spurlock of LaPorte, Texas and groomswere Otto Wilkinson, Jonesville, M. M. Bauman, Falfurrias, Texas and Clifton Couture and Edward Earp Jr., both of Houston.

Mrs. C. L. Fitgearld presented a program of nuptial music and she accompanied Miss Lee Whiddon and Howard Hartman in vocal selections. The songs were "Ave Maria" and "Just for Today."

For her sister's wedding Mrs. Edward Earp Jr. wore a light blue silk organza shirtwaist afternoon dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Emerson, was attired in a lovely blue lace afternoon dress with matching hat and shoes. They each wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Robert Wilkinson, grandmother of the groom, wore a blue chiffon afternoon dress with matching hat and shoes and her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

MRS. LOREN GLENN FLEMING

Miss Holcomb L. G. Fleming Recite Vows

The chapel of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe held altar arrangements of white stock and Esther Reeds on Sunday, June 28 for the wedding at 2:00 p.m. of Miss Jane Holcomb and Loren Glenn Fleming. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holcomb and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Fleming all of West Monroe.

The Rev. Mr. Emmerich performed the double ring ceremony.

The organist, Miss Margie Norris, played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Evelyn O'Conner, soloist, who sang 'Because, and 'Whither Thou Goest,.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding dress of white silk organza and chantilly lace with a sabrina neckline held a large bow in the back. It was reimbroidered in sequins. The full bouffant waltz length shirt with appliqued lace was fashioned into a bustle in back. Her veil of illusion was fingertip length, white satin pumps and buttoned lace mittens completed her ensemble. Her bridal bouquet of feathered white carnations and stephanotis was centered with a white orchid.

Maid of honor, Miss Bonnie McMillan, was dressed in a pink silk organza with tunic effect, a pink veil and matching slippers were worn. Orchid pom pom mums fashioned in a cascade formed her bouquet.

Mr. Fleming chose Joseph Nicholas Sutton as his best man. The ushers serving were Dale Gryder and Lawrence Holcomb, a brother of the bride. Mrs. Holcomb, the bride's mother, was wearing a mauve lace with matching accessories and an orchid at her shoulder. Mrs. Fleming, the groom's mother chose a two-piece suit with white accessories and she wore a white orchid.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the bride's home. Numerous floral arrangements were used throughout the reception rooms. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink satin. A crystal punch bowl was placed on one end and on the other was the wedding cake.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Addie Hill. Mrs. T. N Cobb, Miss Gerrie Dickerson, Mrs. Doyle Daniel and at the guest book Miss Frances Little asked guests to place their names.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and she attended Northwestern State College. Her sorority was Delta Kappa Pi. The groom attended Northeast Louisiana State College after graduating from West Monroe High School.

Out of town guests were Miss Molly Little, Miss Francis Little and Mrs. Ruby Little from Shreveport. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington and sons from Detroit, Michigan and Benoit Herron from Mer Rouge.

DANGER AT HAND — The correct way of disposing of plastic garment bags is to tie them in knots, and throw them in a covered garbage can. They should never be used in the nursery or be given to children to play with.

MRS. ROBERT HOWARD GALBRAITH

Miss Fuller R. H. Galbraith Pledge Vows

Amid the soft light of many candles in a background of greenery, white roses and white gladioli, Elder Wayne Simmons of San Antonio, Texas, performed the double ring ceremony on June 26 uniting in holy matrimony Miss Connie Colleen Fuller and Robert Howard Galbraith at 7:30 in the evening in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in West Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Connie C. Fuller of West Monroe. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Galbraith of San Antonio, Texas.

Nuptial music was played during the seating of the guests by Bob Oldenburg, who later accompanied Mrs. Bob Oldenburg as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Ushers were John Huntsman and Richard Soigneir. Rosette pew markers of white and green satin with net and streamers marked the family pews.

The candles were lighted by Miss Carol Ann Galbraith of San Antonio, Texas, a cousin of the groom and Miss Michelle Meyers of West Monroe. They wore identical waltz length frocks with scoop neckline, and bouffant skirts made of pink cotton satin. Completing the ensemble were matching satin slippers, white short gloves and headdresses of pink blossoms.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were the maid of honor, Miss Joyce Elliott of Modesto, California and the matron of honor, Mrs. Raymond Clark of West Monroe. They were dressed in identical magnolia pink satin waltz length frocks with bouffant overskirts of pink organza. A scoop neckline was featured with a bow in the back. Their headdresses of pink hand fashioned Juliet caps emphasized the theme of the wedding by using rose petals in the original design. Each wore a brief veil of nylon illusion, matching slippers and short white gloves. They each carried one large pink Cabbage Rose.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Priscilla of Boston Directoire Silhouette wedding gown of white silk organza with tiny self covered buttons down the back. The yoke was of D'Argentan lace of rose design above the empire waistline. The dome shaped skirt with an overskirt was bordered and appliqued with the same lace and pearls. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion, white satin slippers and short white gloves. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis. She carried a white lace handkerchief (sixty-five years old) belonging to the groom's grandmother.

For traveling the bride chose a two piece beige and pink floral ensemble with beige accessories. One single pink glamelia was pinned to her shoulder.

Following their wedding trip through the Ozarks the couple will be at home for one year in Ames, Iowa.

The bride graduated from West Monroe High School, and Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. The groom graduated from Brackenridge High School, San Antonio, Texas, Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa and will be a 1960 graduate from Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Out - of - town relatives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Galbraith, Mr. Gary Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Galbraith, and daughters, Carol Ann, Louise, and Dianne. Mrs. Gigi Sneed, Miss Madalyn Galbraith, and Mr. Charles Eastham from San Antonio, Texas; Miss Joyce Elliott, Modesto, California; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Simmons, and sons, San Antonio, Texas.

'Right' Tools For Right Job

Professional and skilled workmen realize there's a right tool to use for every job. If homemakers would apply the same general idea to their daily work, homemakers would get a lot more wear out of their linens and other washables.

For example, they suggest that homemakers use inexpensive and easily disposable cheesecloth or cotton rags instead of terrycloth towels and washcloths for housecleaning. Grease and heavy dirt rubbed into terrycloth may be difficult to remove when it is sent to the laundry and a permanent stain may result. The same holds true for dishcloths. A scouring pad does a more effective job of cleaning heavy grease and saves dishcloths from possible carbon stains from the bottom of pans.

Potholders are constructed to absorb heat and do heavy duty, homemakers use napkins in place of a potholder. If a hot dish or pan is placed directly on a napkin or tablecloth, a scorch or a carbon mark may develop. Even the professional laundryman won't be able to perform a miracle and remove these marks.

And, when removing makeup, blotting lipstick or wiping up spills from nail polish or remover, deodorants or other beauty aids, use tissues or a disposable rag. Many beauty aids, perfumrs and liquid medicines as well, may leave permanent stains that may be impossible to remove in laundering and may even damage fabrics.

To the homemaker who uses the right "tools," the textile technicians of the national research center for the professional laundry industry offer this additional reminder: "A place for everything, and everything in its place." Don't put cleaning compounds where they might come in contact with fabrics and don't throw cloths that have been used for cleaning in the same bundle with the family wash. Cloths that contain certain bleaches, furniture polish or waxes, or highly concentrated cleaners may damage or stain the fabrics they come in contact with and may be difficult to remove when the ariticles are sent to the local laundry.

How to help "1 out of 10" and help yourself, too!

Today, doctors say that 1 out of every 10 Americans has a serious mental problem. You probably come in contact with at least one such person every day—a friend, someone you work with, perhaps even a member of your own family.

This person desperately needs something that you alone can give —your understanding. Here's how you can give it.

First, remember the facts. Serious mental problems are quite widespread today. They're not rare. And they're not hopeless! In most cases, they respond well to modern medical treatment. Second, show the person with such a problem that you understand, sympathize and want to help.

As you do this—as you give your understanding to those with serious problems—learn to understand yourself, too! Learn how to keep your own emotional tensions from making life unhappy for you—and for those around you.

For valuable advice on what you can do about your tensions, send for the free booklet, "How To Deal With Your Tensions". Write: Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

1,288 Books Added To Library In June

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Parish Librarian

During the month of June we added a total of 1,288 new books to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. During that same period 230 books had to be discarded because they had passed the stage of usefulness. This gives us the total book collection on July first of 57,058 books. This is a gain of 6,300 books since January first or better than 1,000 books per month. We still need many more books but we are building our collection as fast as we can. We have had many lovely and generous gifts in the past months which have made it possible for us to have so many new books for you.

Let's take a look at some of the new books added during the past week. Heading the list of fiction is "The Clouded Fountain" by Huston McCready. This author writes with a sure touch about the people of Philadelphia's Main Line and his characters are always believable. This is the story of Loring Shand and the decision which faced him and how he solved his problem. "The Lion" by Joseph Kessell is a modern French novel, translated by Peter Green and is well worth your reading time. "The Four Window Girl" by Shepherd Mead pokes fun at the world of big business and is concerned with the activities of a young woman, who outsmarted the men in her organization, or did she? Always charming are the books written by Gladys Taber. Her latest one is called "Spring Harvest." It has its setting on the campus of a small midwestern college and it is a story which makes one feel better after reading it.

Labeled as a novel of menace "Time Out of Joint" by Phillip K. Dick is one that makes spines tingle. The latest offering by Erle Stanley Gardner is 'The Case of the Mythical Monkeys," which ran as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post. He has his loyal following who will welcome another Perry Mason story.

The field of non - fiction is unusually good this week. "Discover Your Inner Self" by Auren Uris will appeal to all of those who are looking for inner security. "Christ and the Christian" is a group of sermons by Father Robert W. Gleason and will appeal particularly to the members of the Catholic Church. "What We Must Know About Communism" by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet is a book which every thinking man and woman should read. "From Ape to Angel" by Hoffman R. Hays is a fascinating book of anthropology.

Every woman wants to be more beautiful and a new book which will help her achieve her aim is "The Harper's Bazaar Beauty Book." Are you planning to redecorate your home? You will want to read "Room by Room" by Kay Hardy, which is just off the press and most up-to-date. "Letters to Mother" is the title of a collection just released by Charles Van Doren. It is well worth reading. "Folksongs of Mississippi and Their Background" by Arthur Palmer Hudson will interest everyone who is interested in the folklore of this region.

"Tales of Ancient India" by J. A. P. Van Buitenen is a beautiful collection. Are you going travelling in the United States or Canada? You will want to see "Better Vacations for Your Money" by Michael Frome. "Israel's Odyssey" by Abraham Mayer Heller is a well written account of the history of the state of Israel. Stamp collectors will want to see "Confederate Stamps, Old Letters and History" by Raynor Hubbell. Aviation enthusiasts will enjoy "They Flew the Atlantic" by Robert de la Croix. which tells about the pioneers in trans-Atlantic flight. There has recently been a great upsurge of interest in war stories and a new one in this field is "The Saga of Pappy Gunn" written by General George C. Kenny. Another new autobiography is "Steps in Time" by Fred Astaire.

Children Study Russian At 'Saturday School'

By CHARLES E. ENGELKE

ABINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — The moppets of the Cedar Road School are trooping back to class on Saturdays, of all things, and even stranger, they are doing it voluntarily in order to learn a foreign language.

The Cedar Road School is pioneering an experiment in making courses in French, German, Spanish, Italian and Russian available to the students in grades two through six.

And nearly half of the 154 pupills in those grades have enrolled for the classes.

The program, purely voluntary and sparked by the Abington Township School District, got under way last February and proved so successful that plans already are being made to continue it when the fall term opens in September.

Marian Garrison, principal of Cedar Road School, said the program involves teaching the children languages by conversation. The parents themselves are participating in the instruction and report their children are making amazing progress in actually talking the foreign languages.

FEE

An enrollment fee of $2 is charged for each course, proceeds from which will buy foreign language books, take care of incidental expenses. . .and pay for a party planned for the end of the current term.

The classes are held "without any written material or homework or grammatical instruction," according to Paul J. LaMorgia, one of the group that planned the courses.

"The object is purely conversational," he said. "The purpose is to get children's ears acquainted with the sound of a foreign language in order to help adjust their oral ability for handling foreign sounds before professional teaching begins at the junior high school level."

The teachers, in addition to Miss Garrison and LaMorgia, include Mrs. A. A. Alexander, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, who was born in Kiev, Russia. She taught Russian for the Berlitz school in 1918 and speaks several Slavic languages plus French and Italian. Now she is concentrating on teaching Russian at the Cedar Road School.

"We can contribute to the good understanding of all countries and continents by teaching our children foreign languages early," Miss Garrison said. "We believe learning is the first step towards liking our foreign neighbors."

FLYING ROCK HAZARD

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (UPI) —Thomas J. DiFranco, director of parks and recreation, warned golfers to watch for falling stones from blasting on the Niagara Power project along the eastern boundary of Hyde Park course. He added that the new hazard did not warrant a change in par.

S-TREE-T NAMES

FORT DEVENS, Mass. (UPI) —At the request of residents, the names of three streets on this old Army post have been changed.

Detroitsbriand Street is now Walnut. Fredericksburg Street is now Pine, and Chancellorsville Street is now Elm.

MRS. JOHN FREDRICK McELHINNEY

Violet Ranne Is Wed To John F. McElhinney

Miss Violet Ranne and John Fredrick McElhinney of Longview, Texas, were united in marriage on Saturday, June 20, at the Temple Baptist Church in Ruston. The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Orville D. Ranne of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Max McElhinney of Ames, Iowa.

The altar of the church was centered with a large sun burst arrangement of pale pink gladioli and pink chrysanthemums. In the choir loft, branched candelabra held tall lighted pink tapers. The Rev. G. Avery Lee read the vows as the couple stood before the altar. Baskets of pink gladioli and emerald palms on each side of the altar steps completed the setting for the exchange of vows. Pink flowers and fern were markers for the family pews.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by the organist, Miss Brenda Hayword of Longview, a cousin of the bride. She accompanied Miss Iva Ann Causey as she sang "Through the Years," and the "Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony

The bride's roommate, Miss Frances Cox, wore a deep rose pink organza over taffeta gown designed with Empire waistline. She wore a matching hat and shoes. Her cascade bouquet was of pink roses. Miss Becky Carlisle of Belton, Texas was the flower girl. Candlelighters were Mrs. Martha Johnston of Gladewater, Texas, and Miss Gracie Maranto of Marshall, Texas. They wore dresses similar to the maid of honor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Italian white lace and silk organza. The bodice was embellished with seed pearls, and the long lace sleeves ended in petal points over her hands. The full skirt of silk organza had a lace panel in the back which extended from the neckline and ended in a chapel train. It was accented with a large bustle bow at the waistline. A lace cap sprinkled with seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was fan shaped of orchids and stephanotis. For something old, she wore pearl earrings which were sent to her by her brother while he was in Japan.

Mr. McElhinney chose his brother, Thomas McElhinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, as his best man. Ushers were Neal Ranne, brother of the bride; and Jack Mackey of Dallas, Texas.

The couple knelt on a white kneeling bench for the benediction.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents were hosts for the reception in the church recreation room following the ceremony. Mrs. Ranne chose for the wedding a gown of blue lace and she wore a pink hat and gloves with a pink corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige silk organza dress with matching accessories and a pink corsage.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet edged with pink chiffon. The tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses and lilies of the valley was served by Mrs. L. E. Hayward, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Neal Ranne presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Bob Carlisle, another cousin of the bride, presided at the Bride's Register. Billy Hayward and Alan Carlisle distributed rice bags to the guests prior to the couple's departure.

The couple will be at home in Longview following a honeymoon to Biloxi. Mrs. McElhinney wore for her wedding trip a blue silk suit with white accessories and a white feather hat.

Mrs. McElhinney graduated from Louisiana Tech in Ruston. She was employed as a home economist in Longview. The groom graduated from Iowa State College in Ames.

Out - of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mackey and Mrs. Gay Simpson of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Floyd Bump, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. Philip Maranto and Miss Gracie Maranto of Marshall, Texas; Mrs. Martha Johnson, Gladewater, Tex.. Miss Frances Cox, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hayward, Brenda and Billy of Longview; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Ranne, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Wilson, Miss Lucy Wilson, and Mrs. Billy Wilson, Longview. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Hicks, Mr. and Mr Bob Carlisle, Becky and Alan, Carlisle, Belton, Texas; Gordon Brown, Bossier City; and Miss Joyce Nicklas of Shreveport.

The Pines Restaurant was the scene for the rehearsal dinner on Saturday prior to the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McElhinney were the hosts.

Guests included members of the wedding party and Dr. Rel Gray, pastor of Temple Church, and Dr. G. Avery Lee.

Johnny Comes Marching Home From Camp

All over the country about now parents are getting happy surprises as Johnny and Mary come home from summer camp, better children than when they left.

The camp experience of group living under trained leadership is almost certain to improve a child's manners and general discipline, says Sidney N. Geal, standards director of the American Camping Assn., who adds:

"Don't be surprised if your returned camper displays better table manners, more responsible care of his belongings, less feuding with brothers and sisters and more attention to personal grooming — all on a voluntary basis.,

Here are some of the changes parents are likely to notice in their children, after a summer at camp:

1. More confidence. After having to solve some of their own problems at camp, children are more able to cope with those at home.

2. Cooperative attitude. Camp teaches a child to get along with a group.

3. Respect for others. Campers live closely with children of varying backgrounds and so learn to understand ways of life different from their own.

4. Less restlessness. The returned camper will have learned how to entertain himself and get fun out of hobbies.

Geal points out that a period away from parental control is constructive in a child's development, but adds:

"Mom and Dad are always the most important people in every child's life. Camp is an extension of parental concern, never a substitute for it."

Knit Fashions Top Favorites By Americans

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Knits of all varieties — cotton, silk, wool and synthetics — are rapidly becoming America's top fashion favorites.

Time was when a woman hesitated to buy a knit dress, fearing that it would sag or stretch, that it would be difficult to clean and perhaps even bulky to wear.

Today all that is changed. New techniques are turning out knits that keep their shape through repeated wearings and washings, that are impervious to moths, don't sag or stretch and are available in styles by top designers.

Cotton knit separates are increasingly popular for summer wear, now being turned out in gay colors and fresh designs, in shorts, tapered slacks, shirts, weskits, skirts, blouses and pullovers. Some women make cotton knits the backbone of a summer wardrobe, choosing all garments in coordinated colors that can be interchanged.

Some of the colors available in these free - and - easy outfits are sailing blue, patriot red, carrot, turquoise, aqua, black and white.

Equally versatile are new synthetic knits, such as zefran, which are great for travel wear, resist wrinkles, sagging, stretching or shrinking. They come in smooth or nubby textures, sometimes combined with natural fibers.

A favorite of summer travelers is the blonde knit dress - and-jacket outfit, always fresh and cool looking — perfect for wear in airplane, train or automobile.

Woolknit travel coats do year-round duty, and silk - knit sweaters and blouses are winning new converts, sparked by recent handsome imports from Italy.

Knits have that easy, casual look so loved by American women — and in their new versions are easy to care for and flattering to wear.

Supersize Bedding Now In Stores

Texas (as if you didn't know it) is big. And the tall men and gals from the state like their beds big. One local manufacturer reports a special order for a mattress 78 by 84 inches!

Well, most states aren't as big as the Lone Star and most folks not as big as Texans. But bigger beds are certainly catching on everywnere. Maybe not as big as that custom-built job, but you can buy them 81½ inches long and up to 60 inches wide in most any furniture store.

This is the new supersize bedding with room to stretch out your legs, partner! It's supercomfortable, too.

There are about 500 different kinds of cheese in the world made from the milk of many animals, according to the Twentieth Century Fund, which notes that the Lapps and Eskimos use reindeer milk, the Arabs camel milk and some South Americans llama milk while Ceylon and India eat zebu cheese.

Fast Blooming Plants Named

By AUDREY DAWSON

Did you fail to put in some of the quick growing and quick blooming flowers earlier in the season? If so, you may plant some in well prepared rows or beds. Some seed that can be planted to give color in your garden are sweet alyssum, cosmos, marigold, annual phlox or portulaca. With good moisture in the soil, they will germinate in 5 to 10 days and bloom in 30-40 days.

Now is a good time to make azalea and camellia cuttings. Use current season's growth 3 to 6 iches long. Remove all leaves except two or three at tip end. Set in beds or rows in partial shade or even in fruit jars. Keep well watered but not soaking wet.

GARDENING HINTS

To keep flowers blooming, remove all blossoms as they begin to fade, give plenty of water (do not keep soil water soaked), give a good wetting when applied, and leave alone until ground becomes quite dry again.

Watch your crape myrtles. If leaves begin to curl, this is evidence of powdery mildew. To control, dust frequently with finely powdered sulphur.

Look for red spiders on azaleas and camellias. If the leaves become somewhat yellowish and sickly in color, this is a fairly good reason for suspecting this pest. Rub a leaf against your finger and notice if there is a rust coloring left on the finger, if so, you may be sure you have red spider. Dusting with sulphur or spray with Malathion to control.

STARCH ON IRON

Starched clothes are indirectly to blame for scars on many a hand iron. When starch sticks and scorches on the hot iron, there's a temptation to scratch if off with a knife or any other sharp utensil handy. The result is likely to be permanent scratches on the plate of the iron which will catch on fabrics and pull threads.

To clean the soleplate of your iron, wipe with a damp cloth and polish with a soft dry cloth while iron is slightly warm. If this does not remove the dirt or burned on starch, run the warm iron quickly over wax paper; then remove dirt by scouring with whiting or silver polish. If these are not effective, use fine scouring powder and finally steel wool. Finish by wiping off the scouring material with a soft damp cloth. Remove any excess wax by running warm iron over a blotter or a newspaper.

As a prevention against sticking starch, rub a little paraffin requentlly over the hot surfce of the iron.

FARM BUREAU QUEEN

Congratulations to Janette Holdeman selected as the Farm Bureau Queen for 1959. She will enter state competion July 20 when the Farm Bureau convention convenes here in our city. Gardeners Are Gadget Lovers For Most Part

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Generalities are always dangerous, but I maintain that all amateur gardeners are gadget lovers and most of them are unfrustrated collectors of a wide range of implements, nostrums and gheewacks which are largely used to render the family garage uninhabitable by an automobile.

Every beginner's garden book devotes a page or two to describing: hose, rake, digging device, ing: Hose, rake, digging device, hoe, hand cultivator, spray or dust equipment and such.

Every gardener instantly acquires these aids — and then goes to acquiring as widely as his pocketbook permits. And pocketbooks permit quite a lot over the years. I find, for instance, that in the cultivator class alone I own some 25 different implements designed for weed control, ranging in size from a small hand tool called a crabjack through assorted hoes to a large thing called a wheel cultivator which I've never used but picked up for $5 at a church barn sale. In the grass-cutting class I have a power mower, a hand mower, a hand edger plus a sickle, a grass whip and long handled and short handled grass shears. There are long handled and short handled shovels, spades and a spading fork — plus a number of small digging tools.

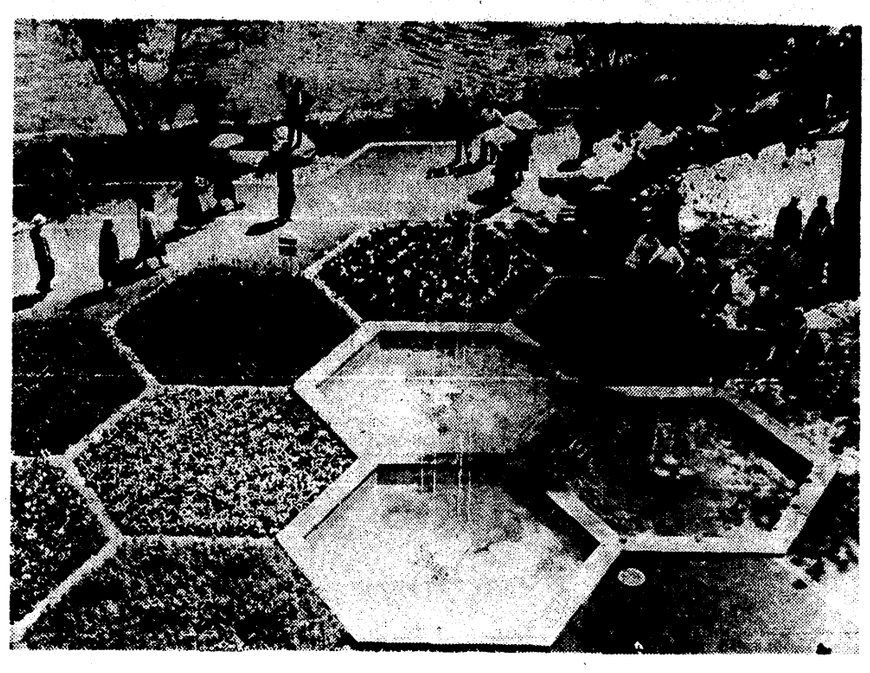
I have grafting equipment, sticks of flats, a huge collection of (used) flower pots, including chipped and broken ones which are saved to smash and be used as potsherds for drainage at the bottom of perfect ones, stakes ranging in size from six footers to a few inches, assorted string and wire twists, plus a wide range of fertilizers and soil conditioners. And a large, large number of insecticides, herbicides, tree wound paint and the like.

Several years ago I estimated that, counting my investment of equipment, it cost me roughly $1.50 to grow a bunch of radishes in the backyard garden. I suspect that today the cost has increased considerably but I say also that I don't regret a penny of the cost.

A wide collection of spraying and dusting tools, for instance, is fairly expensive, but often pays off in terms of saving the gardener's strength, chemical materials and time. In the season- long battle against aphids and other sucking pests, for instance, I still find my trombone sprayer and a pail the handiest and least expensive method of attack. On the other hand, every time I spot a special pest — red spider on the golden glow, for example — I grab my malathion bomb and spray the infected area selectively. A spreader — for fertilizer, lime even grass seed — pays off quickly in terms of economy because you can adjust it to drop the proper amount and you can get through the job quicker.

Bombs are among the great boons to modern gardening. Just about everything liquid is now available in them. The other day I sprayed my rusty wheelbarrow with a rust-deterring primer coat, and followed later with a spray of paint — all without dirtying my hands and in a few minutes. Such short cuts are worth the extra money they cost.

Gardens And Homes



Flowers And Fountains

Floral arrangements growing in unique patterns and fountains are among the features of the Swiss Horticultural Exhibit open from now until the middle of October in Zurich.

THE HOME SHIFT

Rather Warm For Working

By MILDRED SWIFT

As the weather gets warmer there's little urge to work in the garden. Wise is the gardener who has beds and plants well mulched. Only a little trimming about twice during the summer is all that is needed to keep a neat look. If there's lots of rain, a few large weeds may need pulling.

Of course, if you have small blooming plants, you'll have more weeding to do, but many gardeners feel that they are worth the effort. Certainly annuals add color to the garden as well as supplying cut flowers for the house.

ROAMING

Have you noticed the gorgeous beds of portulaca (moss rose) around the Twin Cities? I saw two or three yesterday but right now can't recall the address. This is a plant that will completely cover an area, and therefore; will require little weeding. It's very unusual for portulaca to bloom this early. You can still plant the seed.

As you roam around your own garden and observe others, you really see the advantage of the different shades of green as well as the variegated plants. About this time there's little in bloom, but if you've planned well you still have beauty and interest. What about that grayish pittosporum? Isn't it gorgeous with the darker greens?

Do you have any of the variegated Euonymus? There's a big family of these and more "versions" coming out all the time.

Be sure to see the gold dust Aucuba in the Otto Passman garden on Loop Road. There's also the green variety. The large bold leaves give coarse foliage and this is a shadeloving plant. In fact, it just doesn't thrive in full sun. The female of this species will produce berries when pollinated.

There's also a big family of the variegated and golden eleagnus, which is a very hardy plant. It's nice for screening.

The upright elephant's ear is a nice dark-green foliage to give interest. And—before too long, we'll have variegated variety.

If you want to see the gorgeous effect of Santolina, go by the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Oliver Road, Monroe. This gray ground cover grows well in full sun.

BEAUTY

There's been so much beauty created at Louisiana Training Institute, 4601 South Grand Street. Drive down that way and make a tour through the grounds. The daylilies have been in full bloom. The general lay-out of the grounds show good planning. The boys who have done the work and those in charge are to be congratulated. I wonder if the boys know how much valuable horticultural knowledge they are gaining. This experience can be of benefit to them all through their future years.

Seed you can plant now are cockscomb, portulaca, sweet alyssum, hollyhock (August), balsam, zinnia, marigold, four o'clock. This last in not a showy plant, but if you need a shrub where you don't have one, four o'clock will really do the job. It grows large an fills in space.

ITCHING SEASON

"Love," said the wit, "is an itchy feeling you can't scratch." At this time of year, if you're not careful, you'll really be "scratching." I'm talking about those scourges of summertime — poison oak, ivy and sumac.

According to scientists all three of the above contain an oily poison which, when it comes in contact with the skin, usually causes a painful reaction. Strangely, some people are more sensitive to this poison than others, and some are even immune to it. If you develop a rash, consult your physician. Without medical advice you may use a preparation that will irritate the infected area.

The best way to avoid trouble this summer is to stay away from the plants. The best way to do this is to know them. Poison ivy grows as a vine which clings to trees, fences and other supports. The leaves are made up of three leaflets, each about three inches long. The leaflet edges have small notches, although they may be almost smooth-edged.

Poison oak also grows as a vine, has three leaves and the leat edges are heavily notched.

Poison sumac, the third villain, grows as a shrub or small tree. Its leaves are boat shaped and run in pairs instead of threes.

EXTRA

I read in a recent newspaper column that in New Orleans they grow a summer-blooming wisteria (wisteria megasperma). This blooms only in the summer and they say it is very beautiful. I was just wondering if this will grow in our area. Have any of you ever grown one? Give me a ring if you have any information.

Remember the song "I'm going to buy a paper dolly just to call my own." Well—in the mail, I've just received a paper raincoat that sells for one dollar. These will be in the market by fall. Soon they'll be putting out paper bathing suits.

The use of paper reflects our tendency to use a product once and throw it away. These paper products are water resistant. We in the cotton area are not at all happy over this new move. We'd like more products made of cotton, naturally.

GIRLS! GIRLS!

"Be Your Most Attractive Self"—that's the title of a bulletin we have in our office that is yours for the asking. One column in the bulletin is given over to poise and graciousness. There are wonderful illustrations that you'll like.

There's an entire page on good posture, another on weight control.

You'll love the sections on food for the hair and its care; face shapes for different hair styles. The bulletin goes on to tell you how to care for pour feet, nails and teeth. Yes— there are fifteen pages of fine information for girls and their mothers. Call FA 3-2251 for your copy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Mrs. Bonnie Gaddis will give us "Family Hobbies"; Tuesday, Betty Jane Hodgkins will make an ottoman; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday, Marketing with Mildred. See you next Sunday.

Details Given On Complex Cricket Game

LONDON (UPI)—Just outside my front window ever Wednesday afternoon, what appear to be two dozen bald hospital interns in uniform mill around an open field as if seeking a lost thermometer.

They are playing Britain's mystic national game, a "complicated, celestial, capricious game" called cricket.

Some years of watching these antics have convinced me it is time someone explained what cricket is all about.

To hear English sports writers tell it, the job is impossible. One called cricket "a ritualistic performance that no sane man can be expected to understand." Another gave up years ago and said the game "is the one thing about England you can never explain."

Yet an Australian once told me "all you need to know about cricket" in 30 seconds.

He did in in baseball terms, and it turns out the game is simplicity itself.

There is a pitcher and a batter. (Two of each, really, but ignore that for the moment.) Their two positions are the infield. The pitcher's mound doubles as first (and the only) base.

Behind the batter and on the pitcher's mound are three stakes pounded into the ground, with negs balanced on their tips. If the pitcher throws a strike and knocks off these pegs, the batter is out. He can also fly out, be thrown out, or tagged off base.

When the batter whacks one of the pitcher's bounce-balls, he runs to the pitcher's mound and back again, if there's time. Each one-way trip equals one run.

All 11 men on a team bat consecutively until 10 are out. Two innings for each side, and the team with the most runs wins.

What could be more simple?

Of course, there are some slight complications.

There is the matter of two pitchers bowling in rotation toward both wickets, and the fact that two batters are up at once. Both must run, criss-crossing the pitch, and either can be put out.

There are the fielders to get straight. They loll around at positions named silly mid-off, silly mid-on, gully one and two. Short leg, square leg, fine leg, backward point, first, second, third and fourth slip, third man (but no first or second) and so on.

There is the problem of the spin bowler who, on the game's first over, got one for a duck, gave up three fours and a tremendous six, and then got the batter leg before wicket for 18 for 2.

Once you get expert enough to master all that, what have you got?

A game of utterly appalling monotony.

Nothing ever seems to happen. A game starts in the morning and lasts five days. Nothing resembling sport is present, not even competitive spirit: "Win or lose, hardly anyone cares," a recent commentator said.

They key to the problem is one of attitude. The batter's first duty is to avoid being put out, not to score runs.

Even after hitting a fair ball—and every ball is automatically fair — the batter doesn't have to run if he doesn't feel like it. If there is the slightest chance of being put out, he won't budge.

Some batters stay up for six hours at a stretch.

Yet Englishmen are insane over this game. A government service giving up-to-the- minute scores of test matches, a sort of international all-star series, handled roughly 10,000,000 calls for its first seven games.

Why? Check the sports writers again. They tend to get as lyrical as the Lake poets in giving the answer. Said one:

"All the arts are in this game, and for the onlooker, warm on his mound, sun-soaked, lulled by the rhythm and the beauty, happiness is there, and a belief in the essential nobility of life."

Does anyone you know say that about baseball?

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Creative Urge In Arranging

By MARY JARDINE

"What is the flower
But the crystallization
Of a thought of God?"
Elizabeth Reeves Humphreys

For many centuries races of man in every part of the world have loved flowers and used them to decorate their dwellings. Some have used them as bloodless offerings in their temples. Many peoples have conceived flowers to be the gift to mankind of some particular spirit or deity who is most honored by offerings of beautiful flowers, becomingly arranged.

For example, we have Chloris, the ancient Greek Goddess of flowers, Flora, the Latin flower goddess, Hua Hsien, Taoist flower deity, Konohana Sakuyahine no Mikoto, the Japanese goddess of living flowers, her sister Konohana Chiruhime no Mikoto, goddess of cut flowers, Xochipilli and his consort Xochiquetzal, the Aztec deities of flowers, love and art. It follows naturally that the art of flower arranging for the American home is becoming one of the most widely practiced of the visual arts. Attendance at flower shows is on the increase, garden clubs and flower arranging classes are springing up everywhere. The arranging of flowers in a bowl satisfies both the creative urge inherent in all of us and makes artists of all of us. This talent, however nebulous in the beginning may, be developed in all to study nature, art and design.

EVERGREEN CLUB

Mrs. Ray McEachern selected a color harmony of yellow, brown and green for her triangular design. This was in keeping with the pottery bowl of earth tan shading into brown. The pattern was delineated with aspidistra leaves and brown dock for secondary placements. Bright yellow cut-and-come-again (helenium) graduating in size from small buds to large blooms were grouped within the linear pattern. Small tips of variegated euonymus were tucked behind the flowers for depth. The harmony of color and textures of plant materials selected was most excellent.

Mrs. H. W. Borsch and Mrs. J. B. Corder combined their talents in designing an arrangement in compelling colors. A soft green bowl, rectangular in shape was selected for the design. Background was composed of slightly furled aspidistra leaves, a perfect foil for the bright salmon red gerberas and groupings of flowers of the colorful shrimp plant. This would be most attractive against a gray or green background.

SUNSET COLORS

Mrs. Dick Young used sunset colors for her attractive arrangement. A low rectangular bowl of pale green held the vertical design. Sword-like foliage of the gladiolus formed the background for a line of pale yellow gladiolus shading into a deep salmon color. A second vertical line was introduced with creamy white zinnias, ranging in size from small buds at the top to large blooms at the base and covering the rim of the container.

Mrs. A. R. Robinson of West Monroe exhibited a lovely flowering pot plant not usually seen in this section. The Blood Lily (Haemanthus) On a single strong there is a large umbel of scarlet flowers with orange anthers. The shape of the entire bloom is rounded. At first glance they remind one of our fall blooming spider-lilies (lycoris radiata) but the bloom is much larger and more full. This plant is an amaryllid from South Africa and being tropical in origin is suitable only for pot culture here. They are easy to grow and may be ordered from Florida or California.

Mrs. E. A. Porter exhibited another flower not generally seen in this area. The purple-blue thistle like flowers of the Globe artichoke. Mrs. Porter has had wonderful success with growing this plant as a delectable item for the dinner table.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Tobacco Makes Fine Annual

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of the most satisfactory annuals is flowering tobacco. The treatment of these brilliant and fragrant annuals is exactly like that of petunias or of our cultivated tobacco. In fact, the blossoms blend beautifully with petunia flowers. The only difference between the flowers of the two plants is that petunias have large blossoms and shorter tubes while flowering tobacco has small flowers and long tubes.

Both tobacco and flowering tobacco were named for Jean Nicot, Consul from France to Portugal at the time when many new and curious plants were beginning to come from America. In Latin, the name of this whole group of plants is Nicotiana, pronounced by gardeners everywhere as if the T were SH: Nee-ko-shee-ana.

In seed catalogues, you will find Nicotiana affinis hybrids. These beautiful flowers run through all sorts of unimaginable colors and shades that most other annuals do not seem to have. The old white variety that we used to grow just to give us scent at night did not open in the daytime at all, and people would grow a plant or two and set them on their sitting terraces. A single blossom would give off enough scent to delight every one for yards around. Catalogues now offer the same scented white kind, but it stays open in the daytime now. Nighttime still brings out the scent most strongly because these flowers are pollinated by night flying insects.

Nicotiana can still be planted right now, as most annuals can. The plants come from very, very fine seeds like petunias. They like hot weather and grow very rapidly in it like smoking tobacco does. In fact, they are just another kind of tobacco. The fuzzy leaves and long flowers will remind you at once of the tobacco in the fields.

DRY BEDS

Nicotiana of the flowering kind comes through our Southern winters in flower beds that are not wet in winter. A few plants set out six or seven years ago have managed to keep themselves going from year to year in your columnist's garden in spite of several very severe winters. The roots are almost like tubers and seem to survive the cold where there is a light mulch of pine needles over them. Seedlings come up everywhere if you allow any plants to go to seed. It seems that flowering tobacco manages to come back and survive even better than its close relative, the petunia.

As cut flowers, nicotiana will supply you with cherry red and some other amazing colors. The airy branches of bright and dull flowers mix well with other material and last well in water.

Market Grows For Metal Grab Claws

By DALE NELSON

BOISE, Idaho (AP) —You know those mechanical claws that grope around for clocks and kewpy dolls in a sea of candy?

If you've ever gambled a nickel on one, you have an idea of one of the problems nuclear technicians face.

The problem: grabbing hold of radioactive material being tested in atomic "hot cells."

A man can't climb inside and hoist the stuff around for the simple reason that it would kill him.

So robot arms do the hoisting.

The business of making the arms has attracted some of the biggest names in atomic energy. It also attracted a Boise insurance man and his engineer brother-in-law.

FOR ALL WEIGHTS

One device had been developed which would handle weights up to eight pounds. Another would carry weights from 40 to 100 pounds. But there was none for the 8-40 pound range.

Then Lee Associates came up with one.

"It's just like a new size of wrench," says James H. Hawley Jr. of Boise, vice president and treasurer. It costs $8,500.

The firm now has an order pending from the French government, and has received inquiries from firms in Austria and West Germany.

The company's office is here, but the devices are made in Seattle.

Lee F. Miller, a Seattle engineer who is Hawley's brother-in-law, had the idea. He said he would design the arm if Hawley would raise the money. Hawley was game, and they went ahead. This was in June, 1956.

ONLY YEAR OLD

By February, 1957, they had plans for a prototype ready. They showed the plans at a trade fair in Chicago. By March, 1958, they had developed a demonstration model and formed their corporation.

SMALL COST

Educational T.V. Teaches Many

By WILLIAM O. TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — For less than the cost of one network "spectacular," Alabama is instructing about 61,000 of its boys and girls through the medium of television.

The end of the 1958-59 school term marks the completion of two years of a full-schedule curriculum beamed into classrooms under authorization of the state board of education.

It is, supporters claim, the best answer at present to the critical shortage of teachers.

"One person teaching via television can instruct 5,000 classrooms," said Raymond D. Hurlburt, general manager of the Alabama Educational TV network, the only such statewide system in the nation.

Educational television in Alabama was launched little more than five years ago with a half-million-dollar grant from the state legislature. The first telecasts came a year and a half later.

Since the establishment of channel 7 as an educational TV outlet, two other channels, 2 and 10, have been added with the result that 70 per cent of the state receives TV school programs.

There are three studios: in Birmingham, at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa and at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn. The state has invested $1,500,000 in capital outlay, including eight towers and relays

The network has about seven cameras and transmits 65 hours of programming a week during the school year, 80 per cent of it "live."

Equipment valued at $200,000 was donated by Storer Broadcasting. In addition, Hurlburt said, "we receive about $100,000 a year from the Ford Foundation and another $80-85,000 each for programming out of Alabama and A. P. I. from the state. The ETV commission also receives $200,000 a year."

That adds up to about $460,000 annually — a cheap price, Hurlburt believes, for helping to alleviate the shortage of trained instructors. He would like to see the network expanded so that it serves the entire state.

Besides partly relieving the teacher shortage, Hurlburt said educational television helps to meet another critical shortcoming of Alabama's schools.

"Many of our schools are unaccredited. . .often this is due to the fact that such subjects as physics and chemistry are not being taught by adequately prepared teachers," he said. ETV overcomes that lack.

A sample of a day's schedule on ETV this spring included Spanish, physics, chemistry, civics, Latin and biology during the daytime and three college credit courses at night — advanced physics, French and psychology.

Other subjects offered for the home viewer included farm programs, sculpture, flower arranging, public speaking, a review of Russian literature and classical music. There was also an in-school science refresher course for junior high school teachers.

Hurlburt foresees a revolution in the method of school instruction by means of television.

"Almost universally, our formal education has been based on the theory that we must furnish a student's mind with a wide variety and a great number of facts. . .on the off-chance that he may need them in later life," he said.

"Educational television can enable the student to work independently. It can widen his educational opportunities by providing courses when he feels the need for them — whether the need be to increase his efficiency, understanding or just his enjoyment of life."

The TV instruction is the best available in the state. The faculty includes:

Dr. Robert Brown, dean of chemistry at the University of Alabama, and Prof. Charlotte Ward of A. P. I., who teaches 12,000 children weekly in upper elementary science.

The network has drawn favorable comment from educators throughout Alabama and has been described as a model for other states interested in adopting television as a means of teaching their booming school populations.

Cornell University's forestry school was the first of its kind in the U. S.

SURVEY DISCLOSES

Loans Tightening For Home Buyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Get ready for a tight third quarter" if you're going to be in the market for a home loan.

"You may well see less money readily available for mortgages than you have in three years."

This forecast for home buyers comes from House & Home Magazine's July report on the mortgage market. The report is based on June market soundings in 16 cities from coast to coast.

A government report confirms money has been tightening and experts agree that no let up is in sight.

But some observers feel that the magazine's analysis, while correct in direction, may be too pessimistic.

The long and short of the situation is that interest rates are moving up and lenders are getting choosier about who gets a loan.

According to one industry leader the reason is simply that demand for money is racing ahead of supply.

"The supply of savings is still being outstripped by an unprecedented demand for home loans," said Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the U. S. Savings & Loan League.

As a result, he told Minnesota Savings and Loan officials, money is getting gradually tighter.

Officials pointed out that when money gets tight, one way lenders ration it is to give shorter loans, turn away home buyers who want maximum repayment periods.

In addiditon to a big borrowing demand for home building, funds are being sopped up by business and consumers. Firms have expanded their planned spending for new factories and equipment, to be financed in part out of borrowed money. Consumer installment credit has expanded sharply and probably will continue to rise.

One expected effect of the credit squeeze will be a slowdown in housing starts later in the year. Still, industry officials believe they will come close to 1,300,000 housing starts for the year, compared to 1,209,400 in 1958.

The latest government report of tightening in the mortgage market came from the Federal Housing administration. It reported that secondary market discounts on FHA mortgages jumped by 40 cents per $100 in May to a June 1 national average of three points.

That meant that secondary buyers of mortgages were paying $97 for every $100 of outstanding loan value, compared to $97.40 on May 1. As FHA trading goes, this was a sizeable increase.

The national FHA average price was $97.50 on April 1, $97.40 on March 1 and $97.30 on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1.

Cotton Experts Of 12 Nations Confer Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the 12 leading cotton exporting nations will gather here Tuesday to consider measures that might lead to stabilizing the world market.

They will meet for two days under the chairmanship of the Mexican Agriculture Minister Julian Rodriguez Adame.

The nations are Brazil, El Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Mexico, Nicaragua, Pakistan, Peru, the Sudan, Turkey, the United Arab Republic and the United States.

They formed a permanent organization to study the world cotton problem, marked by an excess of production over demand, last June 3 in a meeting at the Mexican embassy.

Latin American representatives regarded U. S. agreement to participate in the talks as historic since the United States had previously declined to participate in such stabilization efforts.

At the June 3 meeting, the nations issued a statement in which they said they had met "to discuss the common problem of preventing unnecessary instability in the world cotton markets under the existing laws of the various nations."

The representatives are expected to engage in a tentative exploration of measures which might be taken to stabilize the market, and perhaps agree on a few technical organizational details.

MR. AND MRS. DONNIE MANN

Afternoon Ceremony Held For Miss Wink-D. Mann

On June 20th at three o'clock in the afternoon in the Peniel Baptist Church of West Monroe, Miss Rita Gay Wink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wink became the bride of Donnie Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mann, all of this city.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. New, District Baptist Missionary.

The church altar was centered with an arch decorated with southern smilax, alternated with gardenia and greenery.

Miss Sharon Wilbanks, pianist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Harry Thompson of Doyling who sang "Because," and "Always."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length bouffant gown of traditional design of Chantilly lace over antique taffeta. The scooped neckline of the lace bodice was outlined with rosettes of lace. The bouffant skirt was accented by a scalloped hemline. Her shoulder length veil was outlined with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white gardenia bouquet centered upon a white Bible. Her only ornament was a single strand of cultured pearls.

Miss Merilyn Burson was the bride's only attendant. She wore a creation of yellow silk organza over taffeta. The bouffant dress was fashioned with a tucked bodice and close fitting waist trimmed with matching ribbon. White satin slippers and matching white gloves and hat completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Marvin Conrad served the groom as best man. Ushers were Douglas Wink and Austin Wink, brothers of the bride, Harvey Mann, brother of the groom, and Steve Carter.

Mrs. Wink, the bride's mother, chose a blush pink lace dress over taffeta, styled with a portrait neckline. She wore white accessories and a white feathered carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a toast lace dress over taffeta, with matching brown accessories She wore a corsage of yellow feathered carnations.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The gold damask cloth on the bride's table was accented by a centerpiece of white and yellow daylilies and marigolds. A crystal punchbowl stood at one end of the table, while on the other was the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Presiding at the punchbowl was Mrs. Austin Wink, assisted by Miss Kay Wink, sisters of the bride. Mrs. Joanne Whitlock, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sue Bennett, sister of the groom, served the cake. Miss Glenda King had charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a mint green cotton-satin sheath with green and white accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

The couple honeymooned throughout the state of Arkansas. They will make their home in Independence, Missouri, where the groom is in business.

White Kitchens Make Comeback

White in kitchens is making a "colorful" comeback!

While the trend in recent years has been away from the hospital-like atmosphere in kitchen design, white is still good to use in certain areas.

Since white is actually all of the colors of the spectrum, it immediately complements all colors. At the same time white gives the feeling of light, and on shiny surfaces it reflects and enhances natural light.

Major appliances and cupboards in your kitchen may be white, but you can easily avoid any "clinical" feeling through the skillful use of colors elsewhere.

While a large portion of the kitchen may be white, an orange ceiling, for example, gives a warm feeling to the whole room. Bright yellow also adds a note of warm color; perhaps on the splashbacks is a good place for stainproof yellow ceramic tile.

Work counters also provide an opportunity for adding a dash of color to your new kitchen. Countertops, as well as splashbacks, of colorful ceramic tile set in a distinctive pattern can enliven the tone of your kitchen decor.

Ceramic tile has the added advantage of being both waterproof to hot pots and pans. On floors it is ideal for durability and easy upkeep. Blue or gray floor tile goes well with nearby areas of white.

For homemakers who like variety, white provides complete flexibility. White lends itself to many different effects and permits you to change color schemes at will by a switch in accessories, such as curtains.

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE OTIS COOLEY

Cooley-Works Wedding Rites Spoken Sunday

St. John's Christian Church was the setting on June 28 at 2:00 p.m. for the wedding of Mrs. Mary Ellen Works of this city and Eugene Otis Cooley of Cookstown Road in Ruston. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Norsworthy and he is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joel Pink Cooley.

The Rev. C. R. Burcham performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of greenery with tall stands holding peonies with lighted candles along the chancel rail. Each chapel window held a single white candle entwined with greenery.

Mrs. W. C. Hopkins rendered the nuptial music and accompanied the soloists, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horn of Shreveport, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Billy Works. She wore a pastel blue imported French lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories. She carried a lavender throated orchid on a white lace covered Prayer Book. Miss Mary Nell Works, her daughter, served as maid of honor in a pink organza dress with matching accessories.

Otho Cooley served as best man and the ushers were Bill Hochstetler, Merle Edwards and John Woodburn.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

After their wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, the couple will be at home on Cookstown Road in Ruston.

Use Yellow Colors To Add Artificial Sunlight

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — My daughter's room is small and has only one window. Her walls have just been painted a very light green. The furniture is charcoal color streaked with white like a silver fox scarf. What color can we use for throw rug, bedspread, and either curtains or draperies?

A. — Sounds to me like the room could stand a touch of artificial sunlight. To achieve this, add yellow to your green and gray color scheme. Light yellow, fluffy cotton throw rugs which can go in the washer would be a good place to start. Use a yellow dust ruffle on the bed, then look for a gay print on a yellow ground and use this for bedspread and simple floor - to - ceiling draperies. For a final touch add a window shade made of the same print which she can pull down only when she wants privacy.

Q. — My living - dining room has medium gray carpeting and walls, ceilings and woodwork painted to match. Furniture is rose and gold. Unlined draperies at picture window and two small windows are pink. Must I have gray walls? I plan to recover two chairs but don't know what shade. Are the draperies correct?

A. — Keep the pink draperies at the window and paint the walls to match. At the other small windows use a different treatment: either shutters painted to match the wall, and use inside the room, or a pierced metal "screen," also painted to match walls. For the two chairs try to find a print or stripe that picks up the rose, gold and gray of your other furnishings. If you are unsuccessful — use the same gray as the carpet.

Q. — We are in the process of redoing our bedroom in a Colonial home. We have finished the walls in misty gray. Our furniture is maple but we plan to replace it with blond modern pieces soon. We would like to add indirect lighting on one wall and remove the old - fashioned fixture from the center of the ceiling. Would it be better to replace the center fixture with one of more modern design? The cove lighting we have in mind would contain a four foot long flourescent bulb. Also suggest a color scheme.

A. — Indirect lighting can be most effective but it is wise to be careful with the color of the bulb as well as the color scheme when you use it. I would put a hint of pink in the ceiling paint and use a tube which was slightly tinted pink. I would also use pink with the gray since flourescent light is naturally "cold." Try sheer gray curtains, a red and pink print for the bedspread and some tone of pink, red or rose for the floor.

Q .— I am about to refurnish my living room. I plan to keep only a cinnamon brown sofa and chartreuse wing chair. Advise about colors for walls, carpeting, draperies, two small chairs.

A. — Paint walls pale yellow. Get cinnamon brown carpet to pick up tone of sofa. Get a print or stripe which contains yellow, brown and green. Use it at the windows, for the two chairs, and repeat again for pillows on the couch.

Musical Tent Theatre Idea Is Expanding

NEW YORK (UPI) — The musical arena tent theater idea is 10 years old, and there seems to be no end to its expansion.

The Musical Arena Tent Theaters Association counted 25 of the big tops around the country last summer, and this season there are four more.

St. John Terrell, a former actor who also lists fire-eating as among his accomplishments, thanks to some carnival experience in early life, started the movement in June, 1949, when he opened the first such theater in Lambertville, N. J. He is still in business there.

It took two or three years for the idea to catch on in a large way. Then it was realized that Terrell really had discovered a way to make big money with a summer countryside theater venture, and the rush was on.

It was estimated that last year's 25 tents did a total business of $10,000,000 gross, playing to more than 5,000,000 admissions. The 29 tents this year are expected to gross [illegible],000,000 with 6,000,000 custome

There are singing actors and dancers who can make enough for year - round living now by spending a summer in the tents. They do not have to worry about whether they are going to get a regular - season job in one of Broadway's few new musicals.

Cruiser Anchors Off Chicago

The cruiser Macon rides anchor off Chicago's downtown area Saturday morning after completing the historic voyage from the Atlantic Ocean through the St. Lawerence Seaway. The vessels are here to celebrate completion of the seaway which will be climaxed by a visit by Queen Elizabeth on Monday. In right rear is the destroyer, Willis' A. Lee, which will also be parked on Lake Michigan. Downtown area can be seen in background. (AP Wirephoto)

U.S. OFFICIALS SAY

Veto Of Tobacco Bill To Up Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's recent veto of a tobacco price support bill may increase government farms spending by as much as 50 million dollars over the next three years and eventually boost cigarette prices, government officials said Saturday.

This was not the President's objective in turning down a grower-backed bill which would have stabilized price supports at the 1958 level and headed off increases scheduled under current law for 1959 and later years. But this could happen if Congress takes no further action, the officials said.

Eisenhower objected to the bill because he believed tobacco supports should be reduced, not merely frozen. He also protested strongly agains a provision reviving an old farm parity formula.

He called for passage of a measure that would help the growers secure more foreign markets through reduced prices. It also was hinted that he would settle for a temporary freeze if it did not include the old parity formula.

It Tobacco Belt congressmen refuse to back legislation acceptable to the White House, price supports will automatically go up one to two cents a pound this year for major tobacco types.

The President estimated in his veto message that the rejected bill would have cut government outlays for price supports by 14 million dollars in the fiscal year which began July 1. Over a three-year period, spending due to the rising price support rates allowed by the veto might thus come to as much as 50 million above the amounts that would have been spent.

The exact amount, experts said, would depend on how far the government squeezes down production by reducing marketing quotas.

Other specialists added that while it was hard to pinpoint the effect of the rising support rate on cigarette prices, "We can assume that as tobacco goes up, cigarettes will go up with it."

Higher retail prices could hurt growers two ways, an Agriculture Department official said. They might slow up the increase in domestic cigarette production, which amounted to 8 per cent last year. They might also encourage manufacturers to use longer filters and take other steps to continue the trend toward getting more cigarettes from each pound of tobacco.

FROM BALLAD SINGER

English Gets Taste Of Fourth Of July

STEEPLE BUMPSTEAD, ENGLAND (AP)—Ballad singer Burl Ives 270 pounds of rugged independence, turned an old - style English garden fete into a Fourth of July celebration Saturday with an impromptu concert of American folk songs.

"It was Independence Dav," rumbled Burl, "and my patriotism got the best of my manners."

The party started out as a dignified village fete, sponsored by the Briths Legion—the English opposite number of the American Legion.

The scene was Moyns Park, the stately home of an Englishman with an American wife. They are John F.C. Bryce and his wife, the former Josephine Hartford, whose ancestors founded a nationwide U.S. grocery chain.

All was typically English—polite games on the lawn and fortune telling—until a group of Americans spotted Ives. He was a weekend guest of the Bryces.

The Americans—about 200 from all parts of the United States with their wives and children — were from the nearby Air Force base at Wethersfield.

"There's Burl Ives," said Airman 1.C.L Roger L. Henson, of Morrilton, Ark.

With that the GIs made for the rotund singer, who was standing on the steps downing a mint julip.

When Ives protested he had no guitar, Henson drove to the base and returned with one.

Burl began by yodeling "Goober Peas," a song Georgia soldiers sang during the War Between the States. After one chorus the 500 or more spectators left their games and flocked around him.

"Heavens." gasped Bryce, "stop him—he's taken all the paying customers away. We're trying to raise money for the British Legion."

But things had gone too far.

Col. Dan Sharp of Lewiston, Mont., looked at the scene and shook his head.

"Get a flag," he commanded.

"What sort of flag, sir?" asked a sergeant.

"What sort do you think—it's the Fourth of July, isn't it?" replied the colonel.

The sergeant hurried to the base and returned with the Stars and Stripes. It was planted on the lawn behind Ives, who by this time was singing the 12th verse of Abraham Loncoln's favorite song, "The Blue Tail Fly."

By this time word had gotten out in the countryside, and the crowd had swelled to over 1,000.

Republicans Hold Key On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee starts work on a civil rights bill next week with a handful of Republicans holding the key to the most controversial provision.

The committee will meet in closed session Thursday to begin considering a compromise drafted by a subcommittee last month.

Northern Democrats need at least five Republican votes to win committee approval of their controversial "title three" provision. It would give the attorney general power to start injunction suits to prevent denial of all civil rights, including those of Negro children in school desegregation cases.

The subcommittee bill was tailored to attract GOP support. It contains all of President Eisenhower's "moderate" civil rights proposals, plus the stronger "title three" provision.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) voiced belief the Republicans would vote for the provision. He also sai he understands that Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers "would not object" to it although the administration is not pressing the issue.

A similar provision was recommended by Eisenhower in 1957, but the position this year is that it might stiffen southern resistance to school desegregation orders.

Southerners, who hold one - third of the seats on the 32-man committee, vowed to fight the compromise "every step of the way." But they stood little chance of preventing some measures from going through.

Rep. E. L. Forrester (D-Ga.) said the southerners would be armed with "lots of amendments."

Five In Family Killed As Auto Goes Into River

ALBERTVILLE, France (AP)—Five members of one family were killed Saturday when their small French car plunged into a river.

The car started to pass a truck, skidded, struck a cyclist, careened into a wagon and then plunuged into the River isere.

At the wheel was industrial worker Marie-Emile Laissusu, 36, who died along with his wife, two children and his grandmother. The cyclist was injured, as were two passengers in the wagon. The horse was killed.

Dramatic Role

Susan Hayward and little Dennis Holmes are shown in a tender scene from the movie, "Woman Obsessed" which is coming soon to the Paramount Theatre. Also starring in the show are Stephen Boyd and Barbara Nichols.

'Hercules' Is Held Over At Paramount

"Hercules" the new - adventure drama of the world's mightiest drama filmed in Eastman Color and DyaliScope and the exclusive Johansson - Patterson Championship Fight Films have been held over at the Paramount Theatre through Tuesday.

"Hercules" brings to the screen the fabulous exploits of the legendary hero, man to some, myth to others, and even a God whom some worshipped.

The title role of Hercules, mightiest of all legendary heroes, is portrayed by Steve Reeves, the virile, handsome young star who has won every international award for masculine beauty and physique, including the titles "Mr. America," "Mr. World" and "Mr. Universe." The role of the beautiful Iole is played by Italian star Sylva Koscina, who has been hailed by artists and sculptors as "the living embodiment of all the beautiful statues of ancient Greece."

Among the many fantastic incidents brought to life in "Hercules" are the hero's exploits in strangling the raging Nemean lion; the killing of the Cretan bull; and his fabulous voyage to the wild island of Colchis where a savage dragon guards the priceless Golden Fleece. All these have been thrillingly re-created, as have the famed Temple of Jolco which Hercules crumbles to dust, and the island of the Amazons where savage warrior women of surpassing beauty attempt to murder the hero and his companions.

"Hercules" is in wide-screen Dyaliscope and in Eastman Color by Pathe. A Joseph E. Levine presentation, it is being distributed by Warner Bros.

On the same program are the exclusive Ingemar ("Mystery Right" Johansson - Floyd Patterson world's heavyweight championship fight films.

HUDSON HEADS CAST

'Earth Is Mine' Compelling Show

The Universal-International-Vintage production, directed with unerring and hard-hitting authenticity by Henry King, who created such other hits as "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," "The Bravados" and "Twelve o'Clock High," is the tense, brilliant and robust saga of a wine dynasty in the Napa Valley. Rarely has a film been so perfectly cast with Hudson playing the family rebel, Rains the venerable, stern grandfather, Dorothy McGuire the ruling hand and Jean Simmons the errant newcomer in a family of vintners whose history is steeped in the wealth, tragedy and glory which the grape and acquisition of land can bring.

Produced in CinemaScope and filmed in Technicolor, "This Earth is Mine" takes full advantage of the vast, rich vineyards where the original story, a novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart entitled "The Cup and the Sword," was conceived. Director King very wisely keeps background and story in true perspective, however, never permitting the former, despite its natural beauty, to overshadow the excitement generated within a fabulous, sometimes scandalous family, and the dramatice effects of the last years of Prohibition on its various members.

As the family rebel not above chasing any girl in his valley, or conspiring with gangsters in Chicago to replenish waning family fortunes, Rock Hudson turns in a performance unique for him. No smiling do-gooder, fearlessly rattling family skeletons, including the illegitimacy of his own birth, Hudson bears as much the brand of heel as hero, and plays the part of big, hard-headed John Rambeau with more conviction than any role he has attempted since "Giant."

Jean Simmons, as the cousin who is afraid to fall in love with Hudson, Dorothy McGuire, as the matriarchal major domo of the vast wine empire, Claude Rains as the vineyard founder and Kent Smith as the long-suffering husband of Miss McGuire, are not only outstanding in their portrayals, but make the Rambeau family of the story actually live and breathe.

A newcomer to watch is blonde and fetching Cindy Robbins, who plays the role of a grape grower's daughter, earthy, naive and always in trouble. She is star caliber in the glamor department.

As always, Henry King's magnificent direction is flawless and exciting. His production is given a rich, colorful mounting by Producers Casey Robinson and Claude Heilman and Robinson's script is full of human warmth and bitter conflict. Cameramen Winton Hoch and Russell Metty come in for full share of the credit in bringing ing the colorful drama of the vast, the colorful drama of the vast, changing Napa Valley vineyards alive on the screen.

Hugo Friedhofer's score is brilliant throughout, reflecting the careful "pointing" of dramatic highlights, characteristic of Friedhofer's reputation and abilities.

The title song for the picture is sung over the lush pictorial backgrounds by Don Cornell, and was penned by Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Huesen.

MISS HANSBERRY SIGNED

NEW YORK (AP) — Dore Schary has commissioned Lorraine Hansberry to write an originalscript for the first of a series of 90-minute spectaculars to be aired in 1961 by the NBC television network.

Miss Hansberry is author of the Broadway hit "A Raisin in the Sun" which won the Drama Critics citation as the season's best play.

Schary is staging five Civil War video programs between his activities as a Broadway writer, director and producer.

"WESTSIDE" IS BULKY

NEW YORK (AP) —Four baggage cars of scenery and costumes make "West Side Story" one of the heaviest shows to tour in recent years.

The show's musical complexities are also causing the sponsors to carry seven musicians on the tour instead of picking up the entire pit contingent at each city stop.

Israeli Stamp Commemorates Plane And Poet

A poet and a plane are the subjects of two new Israeli commemorative stamps.

Chaim Nachman Bialik, famous Hebrew poet, will be honored with a 25-pruta stamp marking the 25th anniversary of his death. A 500 - pruta adhesive will pay philatelic tribute to the 10th anniversary of civil aviation in Israel. Both stamps are scheduled for issuance on the same day, July 22.

The Bialik stamp, printed in green, brown and dark orange, will bear a likeness of the Hebrew poet. The aviation stamp in blue, grey, yellow and white will show a side view of an Israeli airliner.

Austria has issued a special stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the fight for the liberation of Tyrol. Depicted on this stamp is the Tyrolean eagle and the inscription "Tirol 1809-1959." The value is 1.50-schilling and color is red. This is one of the few Austrian commemoratives sold without surtax.

"Penny Black Centenary" is the title of the new handbook to be released soon by the American Topical Assn. The booklet will cover all issues honoring Rowland Hill and commemorating various anniversaries including the 100th anniversary of the world's first postage stamp—the Penny Black 1840 issue of Great Britain. This booklet will include only such stamps issued up to and including Jan. 1, 1941.

Brazil has issued a special 2.50-cruzieros blue stamp to honor the recent visit of President Sukarno of Indonesia. Depicted on the stamp is a portrait of Sukarno. Also issued by Brazil was a stamp honoring the world championship basketball contests.

Japan has issued a new 10-yen blue, white and black stamp to commemorate the adoption of the metric system. The design shows a rule, a balance and a measure. Also appearing are the initials of the words "metre, gramme and litre."

Japan also is issuing a 10-yen adhesive marking the centenary of the Red Cross and a 10-yen showing a view of Mt. Fuji from Lake Motusoko. The latter stamp is for National Park Day.

A five value set of stamps showing scenic view soon will be issued by Liechtenstein. The set will consist of the following: 10-rappen — flags in the court yard of the Castle of Vaduz and a view of the Rhine Valley; 20-r—Rhine embankment; 30-r—Castle of Gutenberg; 50-r — illumined Castle of Vaduz, 60-r—panorma of the Naaf-kopf-Faikinsrange.

GINSBREG CHANGES LINES

NEW YORK (AP) —Movie-maker Henry Ginsberg is shifting attention to the stage.

Ginsberg, whose most recent film venture was the production of "Giant", has "The Vanishing Evangelist" for his initial Broadway prospect.

The plot concerns a mysterious episode in the colorful career of Aimee Semple McPherson. In 1926 the noted evangelist disappeared from her home, and when found 36 days later told of having been kidnaped.

At Paramount

Starring in "Say One for Me," which opens July 14 at the Paramount Theatre, is Debbie Reynolds. Also starring in the movie are Bing Crosby and Robert Wagner. The film is in CinemaScope and color.

Oil, Gas Tax On Depletion Stays Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oil and gas industry's tax depletion allowance — which weathered another attack in Congress last week—has stood at a rate of 27½ per cent for 32 years.

That was the rate Congress agree upon in 1926 as generally approximating the value of capital assets—oil and gas—that are depleted with production of each barrel of oil and each cubic foot of natural gas. The allowance, which became effective in 1927, was designed also to encourage exploration for more supplies to replace those consumed.

Since then the tax benefit has survived a series of attempts to abolish or reduce it. Producers of other minerals enjoy similar allowances, but the oil and gas business gets the biggest. There is a 23 per cent depletion allowance for one type of sand and gravel. Miners of some ores get a 15 per cent rate. For other ores, including coal and tomstone marble, the allowance is 10 per cent.

The Senate last week virtually wiped out any chances in this session for revision of the oil and gas rate. It turned down, by a 54-21 vote, a proposal by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) and others to substitute a sliding scale, ranging from 15 cents on larger incomes to 27½ per cent on lower incomes, for the flat 27½ per cent rate.

But the subject is scheduled for study by the House Ways and Means Committee next fall in connection with a review of the whole tax structure. The committee has set Nov. 2 for starting its all-inclusive studies.

Rep. Frank Ikard (D-Tex), a member of the committee, said many experts, from colleges and universities, and research, business, labor, farm and other organizations, will be asked for "an objective appraisal of just how the various provisions of the tax code operate and how they affect the American people."

There has been a "crash of misleading and unfounded statements" recently about the depletion allowance for oil and gas production, Ikard said in a statement in the Congressional Record.

He declared the 27½ per cent rate "has done the job Congress expected of it. It is an integral and vital part of the economic structure of the petroleum industry.

8 LOCATIONS STAKED

Three Wells Completed In District Last Week

A trio of petroleum producers culminated mineral extraction activities in the 14-parish District last week, according to a report issued by Duncan Cook of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

New well sites last week totaled nine, Cook reported.

In Prichard Field of Catahoula Parish A. J. Hodges Industries, Inc.'s Louisiana Central A-6 in Sec. 17-10-6E was completed to flow 99 barrels of gravity petroleum per day from perforations at 7976-82 feet. The gas oil ratio was 400:1 with a tubing pressure of 150 pounds.

Monroe Field of Union parish. This well in Sec. 34-21-3E was gauged flowing 431 million cubic feet before acid from 2142 feet. Rock pressure was 570 pounds.

Ben D. Marks' Baker No. 2 in Sec. 4-15-7E in Mangham Field of Richland parish was gauged at 41 barrels of gravity flowing through 16-64 choked from perforations 3272-76 feet. Tubing pressure was 100 pounds and 150 pounds the casing pressure.

Last week's single gas producer was Olin Gas Transmission Corp.'s Fee Gas No. 430 in the Field of Union parish. The gas well in Sec. 34-21-3E was gauged flowing 431 million cubic feet before acid from 2142 feet. Rock pressure was 570 pounds.

Over the district 39 drilling rigs were reported active and one hole plugged and abandoned.

Business Briefs

Newcomer Tire Service, 401 Washington street, Monroe, has been designated Gates Tire distributor for the Monroe area, according to an announcement by Paul Newcomer, owner and manager of the Monroe Tire shop.

Frank H. Jones of Monroe has assumed duties as vice-president and general sales manager of the First Packaging Corporation at Yazoo City, Mississippi. Announcement of Jones' affiliation with the new company was made by J. F. Babbitt, Jr., of Jackson, Miss., president of the First Packaging Corporation.

Jones, who resides at 908 North Third street, is a former student of Northeast Junior College and was affiliated with Brown Paper Mill, later going with the Negley Bag and Paper Company of Monroe in the sales division. When Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation acquired both of these companies, Jones continued in sales, and during the past year was technical advisor to the sales manager.

First Packaging Corporation is a subsidiary of the First Mississippi Corporation.

Selection of Louisiana Petroleum Council officials for the Ouachita parish chapter was announced today by Tom Hyland, Central Oil and Supply Corp., Monroe, president of the local chapter.

Other officers for the parish are E. R. Huber, Gulf Oil Corp. Monroe, vice-president; R. D. Cannon, Esso Standard Oil, Monroe, secretary; and L. C. Whitfield, Kellogg Oil Co., West Monroe, API school chairman.

The Louisiana Petroleum Council was formed by the consolidation of the former Oil Information Committee and the Petroleum Industries Committee to handle public and governmental relations for all segments of the oil industry, which is observing its 100th anniversary during 1959. Oil Centennial Week in Louisiana will be August 23 through 29.

Joseph Richardson, district manager in Ruston for The Equitable Life Assurance Society, recently attended a company conference in New Orleans, held June 28 through 30. Mr. Richardson is a member of Equitable's Wilson agency in Shreveport.

Paul Johnson, of Monroe, Purina Chow salesman of this area, has received Purina's highest sales honor—membership on the General Salesmanager's Advisory Board. The announcement was made this week at the company's headquarters in St. Louis.

The J. R. Watkins Company won the top award for the most outstanding program of public relations for 1958-59 in the entire direct selling industry. The award was given at the 45th annual convention of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies.

Burton Ludwig, 905-A Cypress street, West Monroe, is the local distributor for the Watkins Products.

Central Louisiana Electric Co., Inc., is one of 15 southwest electric companies sponsoring research that has led to the first-phase construction of a small test - model plant to generate atomic power, F. Hugh Coughlin, president, has announced.

The experimental nuclear power plant is to be built by Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., of California. The 15 electric companies are sponsoring the atomic power research through membership in Southwest Atomic Energy Associates.

Objective of these experiments is construction of a 360,000 kilowatt atomic power plant somewhere in the area served by the companies that are members of SAEA, Coughlin explained.

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—One hundred new permanent employees have been added to the payroll at Crossett Lumber Company during the past two months as that division of The Crossett Company has stepped up its rate of production by over 26 per cent.

The new employees represent an increase of well over $20,000 per month to the local industrial payroll, a company official said.

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—The Crossett Company has announced the employment of five new men to fill key responsibilities.

Jesse B. Galbraith has gone to work at Crossett Paper Mills as a mechanical engineer. He is a native of Calion, Arkansas, and a recent graduate of the University of Arkansas.

Another mechanical engineer employed at Crossett Paper Mills is Howard O. Reeves, a recent graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and a native of Bogalusa, Louisiana.

Charles W. Lamb has joined the Research Division of The Crossett Company as a chemical engineer. He is a graduate of the University of Arkansas and a native of Leola, Arkansas.

MONROE

GERALD ST.
EENY, MEENY, MINEY, YOU—here's something you can do. . .you can phone now to see this 3 bedroom home! It has among other things: screened side porch; kitchen with natural finish cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, pantry . . . shower over tub, oak floors, drapes, blinds, attic fan, floor furnaces, partially floored attic, large carport (family room could be added here easily), storage, a shady 70x150 lot. It's vacant and $400 and closing makes the move. See this without fail today!

FRANCIS PLACE
YOU'LL THINK YOU JUST RUBBED ALADDIN'S LAMP when you see this thoughtfully planned brick home in one of the Northside's best neighborhoods. The transferring owners hate to leave all this: gracious living room (12x21)-dining area (10x9); eye-catching kitchen with soft pink metal G.E. cabinets, ventahood, Formica counter tops, and intercom-radio system. There's 3 bedrooms (master bedroom has walk-in closet PLUS double sliding door closet), and 2 ceramic tile baths — one has shower, other shower over tub. And much more including: drapes thruout, 3½ tons air conditioning, blinds, central heating, double carport, storage, and St. Augustine 84x150 lawn with fenced back yard and even a child's play house. Put this on your "to see right now" list for today!

POPLAR ST.
HERE'S THE UNUSUAL . . . unusual because it's seldom you find such a desirable home PLUS a 10x15 storage in garage, and a separate 22x28 workshop with concrete floor, gas, electricity, and water. Excellent for home and business! And in the home you'll like the living room with fireplace, 2 bedrooms, and large (11x20) den with adjoining 11x12 study or nursery (could easily be made into one "extra large" den). Other features include colored bath fixtures, metal kitchen cabinets, screened front porch, oak floors, attic fan, blinds, garage, carport, and shady lot 65x150. $400 and closing makes the move—see it early!

HARRISON ST.
AS SCARCE AS HEN'S TEETH is a home like this! It's already financed and just $626 assumes the loan with payments of $59 including insurance, taxes! Among its features are: 2 bedrooms, dining room. . .oak floors, new attic fan, blinds, floor furnace, and fenced back yard, just 2 blocks of school. Best you hurry to see this!
NORTH 3RD ST.
THE BEST WAY TO GET ON YOUR FEET is to own a place to sit down . . . and here's a good Northside home to own! There's 1362 sq. ft. arranged into: spacious (14x24) living room: dining room; kitchen with Youngstown metal cabinets, ventahood; 2 bedrooms . . . garage, storage, and 70x100 ft. shady lot with fenced back yard. Care to look? We'll show anytime!
SOUTH 1ST STREET
TAKE A CENSUS of your own family—if your living quarters are crowded, then by all means see this 3 bedroom home located 5 blocks of school! There's much to like here including: beautiful oak floors, blinds, attic fan, floor furnace, ventahood, shower over tub, and back porch. How much $300 and closing moves you in. Let's take a look now!
RACINE DRIVE
SHAKE THE LANDLORD'S HAND and tell him goodby forever . . for here's a Northside home that can be yours for only $150 "cash". The living room-dining area's large (14x24): kitchen has Formica topped birch cabinets; 2 bedrooms (2 have double sliding door closets); and ceramic tile bath with shower over tub. There's also: oak block floors, blinds, central heating, attic fan, carport, storage, and 75x120 ft. lot. It's vacant—and we'll show anytime!
PARK AVENUE
EVERY $ WILL BUY a full $'s worth here — for only $400 "cash" (that's all) makes the move into this spacious (1560 sq. ft.) home! The living room's spacious (14x20); dining room; kitchen has paneled cabinets, disposal; 3 newly carpeted bedrooms; and 2 baths (one has shower). Other features include: oak floors, blinds, attic fan, wall furnace. . .it's vacant. . .let's take a look!

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Led Gen. Pershing To West Point

Famous World War I leader, General John J. Pershing, began his military career because of a Want Ad. A senator placed a newspaper notice of the West Point exams, and Pershing's family saw it. They coaxed and coached him to a high grade that won him an appointment to the military academy.

MICKEY MOUSE

by WALT DISNEY

Little Orphan Annie

"TRUTH, CRUSHED TO EARTH, BURROWS OUT OF SIGHT." J. MISTLETOE. BUT NOT SO FAR OUT OF SIGHT, OR SOUND, THAT THE RIGHT MAN CAN'T FIND IT.

IF THE DUCHESS WAITS ANOTHER WEEK TO OPEN THE SEA GATE, WE'LL HAVE A HOLE BIG ENOUGH FOR TINK TO SQUEEZE THROUGH!

THEN, IF HE'S STILL STRONG ENOUGH, HE CAN BRING US SOME TOOLS!

BY THEN I'LL BE SKINNY ENOUGH TO GO THROUGH A MOUSE HOLE!

YOU NEVER KNEW MY MOTHER! WHY ARE YOU SO SURE SHE DIDN'T RUN OFF WITH SOME SAILOR?

SHE WAS TOO GOOD AND KIND AND SHE LOVED YOU TOO MUCH EVER TO HAVE LEFT YOU LIKE THAT!

SEAWEED SUE, OLD FROG, THE OTHERS! THEY ALL KNOW THAT! BUT THEY FEAR THE DUCHESS, MY MOTHER!

YOU KNOW, MY LITTLE COUSIN, I DO LOVE YOU!

B-BUT YOU MUSTN'T LOVE ME! WE'RE COUSINS!

OH!

WHAT'S THE HARM IN A COUSINLY KISS OR TWO?

WELL! WHAT'S HAPPENED TO YOU? YOU'RE RED AS A BEET AND ALL OUT OF BREATH!

ER--- I THOUGHT YOU CALLED, SO I RAN UP THE STAIRS FROM THE LAUNDRY ROOM!

EH? WHAT YOU DOING, SKULKING THERE? YOU DON'T LOOK LIKE A SKULKER! WHAT'S SCARED YOU, OLD BOY? YOU CAN TRUST ME!

FOLLOW YOU? WHY NOT? LEAD ON, MY FRIEND! DOWN, DOWN, DOWN WE GO, EH? HM-M! TO THE OLD WINE CELLAR? HARK! HOLD IT, BOY!

CHIP! CHIP! CHIP! HOW WELL I RECALL THAT SOUND, IN A DUNGEON'S ETERNAL DARKNESS! SO SOMEONE'S TRAPPED DOWN THERE, EH?

COME AWAY QUIETLY, FRIEND! 'TIS SOMETIMES BEST TO APPROACH THE UNKNOWN FROM THE REAR!

7-5-39

I DIDN'T SPEND FOURTEEN YEARS OF MY RESTLESS YOUTH IN THIS OLD ROCK PILE WITHOUT KNOWING JUST ABOUT ALL OF IT'S SECRETS! HA! JUST AS I REMEMBERED!

SEE, MY HAIRY COLLEAGUE? A STONE SLAB ON STONE HINGES, WHICH NEVER RUST! AND SO, INTO A REMOTE CAVE INSIDE THE WINE CELLAR. SILENTLY, NOW, TILL WE SEE WHAT WE SHALL SEE, EH?

HAROLD GRAY

They'll Do It Every Time

by JIMMY HATLO

NOTHING LIKE A SAIL TO CLEAR YOUR HEAD, EH, BOSS?

HATLO'S HISTORY
THE STORY BEHIND THE TROJAN HORSE INCIDENT...

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE..

NAW! IT'S JUST THEM ATHENS COLLEGE BOYS! IT'S A NEW DIZZY FAD SEEING HOW MANY CAN JAM INTO ANY GIVEN SPACE....

THEY'VE BEEN PILING IN SINCE DUSK, SERGEANT--DO YOU THINK WE SHOULD TELL THE COMMANDER?

MAYBE WE CAN HOOK THAT WOODEN HORSE WHEN THEY AIN'T LOOKIN'-- IT'D MAKE A SWELL STATUE IN FRONT OF OUR RIDING ACADEMY...

OH, HELLO, MR. SHYLER--YOU CAN COME IN NOW--HOW'S THE ULCER? DID YOU HAVE YOUR TEETH OUT YET? LET'S SEE--YOU'RE TAKING VITAMIN X, AREN'T YOU?

THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN DOC AND PATIENT IS SUPPOSED TO BE, OH, SO CONFIDENTIAL...

MOTHER HAS BEEN GIVING BABY HIS 2 A.M. BOTTLE FOR SIX MONTHS...

YOW!

Z Z Z

BUT THAT'S NOT THE WAY THE OLD GENT TELLS IT....

THE BABY! FINE! WE PUT HIM TO BED AT SEVEN AND HE SLEEPS RIGHT THRU TO EIGHT A.M....
